LOCKED IN ROOM

Young Married Woman Had a Rough Experience

Went to Man's Room for Clothing and He Locked Her in—Judge Hadley Dealt Severely With Her Assailant—Boarding House Keeper Said Woman Choked Him

Joseph J. Grooms was arraigned in police court today and pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging him with assault and battery on Georgiana Rivers, a young married woman. Mrs. Rivers wore a badly discolored eye and her story to the court was substantially as follows:

"He came to our house about noon time and he bought some beer and some whiskey. I drank three glasses of beer. He asked my mother if she would mend his clothing and I went with him to the Moody house to get them. As soon as I entered the room he locked the door and refused to let me out. I screeched and hollered "Murder" but he held me there. He insulted me and assaulted me. I have known him for a good many years and I did not know that he was a bad man. I was in the room for one hour and I continued to holler all the time that I was there. No one came to my assistance. I did not drink any whiskey while I was in his room."

Grooms said that the woman did not tell the truth. He said that she did not go to his room to get his clothing. He alleged that he had made an appointment with her. He admitted, however, that he struck her in the eye but said it was an accident. Grooms' story was a miserable one. Judge Hadley was disgusted with the man and branded the story as the vilest ever told in the local police court. Grooms was sentenced to the house of correction for a term of six months. He appealed and was ordered in $300 for the superior court.

KNOCKED HIM DOWN.

Kivork Babbigan, who conducts a boarding and lodging house in John street, complained to the police a few days ago that he had been assaulted by Eli Gagnon and Marie Lessard. He said that he called at the woman's room to quell a disturbance and that the woman assaulted him. "She choked my throat," he said, "and knocked me down. Then the man hit me in the face and head with his fist."

Marie Louise said she wasn't strong enough to choke anybody. She said that the complainant was mad at her because she refused to kiss him when she roomed at the house before. She showed a cut on her hand that she said was made by a knife in the hands of the complainant's son. The defendants in the case were fined $10 each.

ARRESTED WRONG MAN.

Things were a bit embarrassing for Special Officer Allen who sees to it that everything is peaceful at the Collinsville mills. He had a warrant for one Earls Tainr, and the man he produced was not the man mentioned in the warrant. In order to give the special officer time to straighten matters out the case was continued for one week.

THE DRUNKEN OFFENDERS.

Thomas F. Gagnon said he was not drunk when arrested. "I'll tell you the whole thing," he said to the court, "and then it will be up to you." He said he had taken a few drinks during the afternoon and that when the officer called at his house at 11.20 last evening he was reading. "I was quiet as a lamb," he said. The officer, however, told a different story. He said that Thomas had the house in an uproar and that his family had tired of his abuse. He was sentenced to the tore and appealed. Four first offenders were fined $2 each.

FIRE IN A STORE

Corner of Cross and Willie Streets

INCIPIENT BLAZE AT FRANKLIN SCHOOL

False Alarm By Telephone Fooled Chief Hosmer

An alarm from box 39 at 3.40 o'clock this morning summoned a portion of the fire department to a lively blaze in a grocery store conducted by Arthur Cayer at the corner of Cross and Willie streets.

The fire started in some unaccountable manner under the counter as the owner can give no reason how it started. The only thing which was under the counter where the fire started was a bag of flour, some clothes pins, and a few small grocery articles, the matches being located quite a distance away from where the fire started.

Mr. Cayer informed Chief Hosmer that when he closed the store at 8.30 o'clock last night he smelled smoke, but an investigation failed to show that there was any fire. He also denied that he threw a match under the counter, stating that he always threw the burned ones in the stove.

A pet cat which was sleeping in the store was suffocated by the smoke.

The stock and fixtures were insured through the agency of F. M. Brogan. T. C. Lee & Co. had the insurance on the building.

INCIPIENT BLAZE

AT FRANKLIN SCHOOL EXTINGUISHED WITHOUT AN ALARM.

Yesterday while the Franklin school in Branch street was in session a slight fire broke out in the boiler room. The janitor had left a piece of oily waste on a motor in the basement, and the motor generating sufficient heat to set it afire started the blaze.

One of the teachers detected the odor of smoke and while she sent one of the pupils out to the Branch street engine house nearby to notify the firemen, the other teachers in the building were notified and the pupils were put through the fire drill, the entire school being vacated in a few minutes.

The fire was of a trivial nature and was put out by a few dashes from the extinguisher.

FALSE ALARM GIVEN.

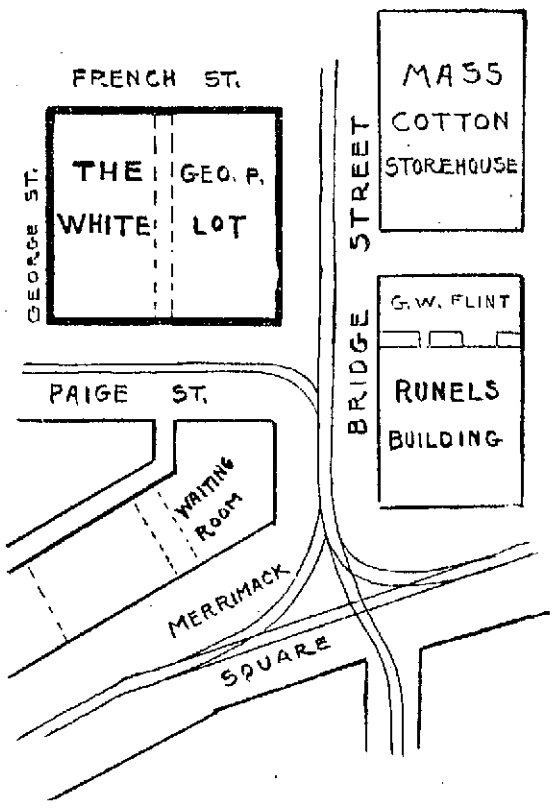

A false alarm was sent into the central station at 8.48 last night, evidently by a person who thought he was funny, but as Chief Hosmer has a clue to the identity of the individual, the latter unless he can explain his action may find himself in a serious difficulty.

The person telephoned word to Chief Hosmer that there was a fire at the corner of Paige and John streets and the chief in turn sent several pieces of apparatus from the central fire station to the scene of the supposed fire.

When the apparatus arrived there was no sign of a fire and no one seemed to know anything about an alarm having been sent in.

HUNTINGTON HALL

And a New Public Market Combined

Plan Showing the Geo. P. White Lot in Merrimack Square the proposed site for a new Huntington Hall and Public Market.

Both Could be Erected on the White Lot in Merrimack Sq.—Location is Convenient and Ideal Every Way—Building Can be Erected Free of Expense to the City — Housekeepers Would Benefit by Getting Provisions at First Cost

The citizens of Lowell need a hall in which to hold public meetings to replace Huntington hall. They want it to be of modern construction, safe and easy of access. They also need what they have needed for many years—a public market. This should also be of modern design and easy of access. They have now a rare opportunity of getting both the public hall and public market under favorable conditions if they will take advantage of the situation and go at the matter in earnest.

THE SITE.

The most desirable site in the city from every point of view is the White lot on Bridge street, near Merrimack square, to which The Sun has made previous reference. The above diagram shows the location of the lot, and no reasonable person will deny that it fulfills every requirement for a hall or combination of halls and a public market. The lot is practically 150 feet square, fronting on four thoroughfares. It is at the junction of all the street railway lines in the city and these approaching the city from suburban districts. The lot is covered with old buildings and can be obtained at a more reasonable price today than if the citizens were to wait until it is covered with modern structures.

A hall on this lot could be made practically fireproof as it would not be endangered by any adjoining risks or exposures to fire. The building need not be more than two stories high and exits could be provided on all sides, so that in case of fire the people could reach any or all of the four surrounding streets in a few minutes. People might go to this new Huntington hall with the full assurance that if a fire should start, which on account of its isolation is quite unlikely, they would still be sure of getting out safely on account of the open areas provided by the public highways on all sides. As this building would not be located over a canal, it would be possible to have a good basement in which a proper heating plant could be installed, and the heating could be done much more economically than it has been done at Huntington hall.

THE MARKET.

With reference to the proposal to utilize the lot for a public market it may be safely said that thoughtful people have recognized the need of such an institution in this city for many years. Experience has proven that the best way to get provisions to the consumer in good condition and at the lowest prices is by means of a public market. Farmers would bring their produce in daily, dispose of it to the occupants of the various stalls at the ruling price, and the dealers would no doubt be glad to be in the same building to dispose of their wares to the numerous purchasers who would come as they do to every public market to buy all their foodstuffs in one place and at the lowest market price. In a public market the goods are turned over so rapidly that they are always in the best condition while the dealers, enjoying the advantage of quick sales are content with smaller profits. No city that enjoys the advantages of a public market would think of parting with it under any consideration. Besides, the occupants of the various market stalls consider them a valuable asset, and in many cities they are handed down from father to son as a rich legacy. The system is profitable to the dealer, economical and advantageous for the purchaser. It is needless to state that the best place for a public market is at the end of the converging street railway lines where people can come and go without the necessity of changing cars.

THE DESIGN.

The design for a market and public halls combined would permit of very wide scope for competing architects, and a beautiful, safe and comfortable structure could be designed for this lot in a way that would insure its erection at a moderate cost. A series of arcades running from Paige street through to French street would provide for all the requirements for a market that would be light and airy in all seasons. The first story need not be more than 13 or 18 feet high. This would permit of easy access to the halls above. The entrance to the halls suggests a wide and majestic approach from Bridge street with rear entrances from George street and emergency exits on all four streets.

THE COST.

The matter of cost to the city of Lowell need not alarm the most econ-

LATEST FOOTBALL GAMES

Harvard and Yale in Great Struggle Today

A number of Lowell people are taking in some one of the big football games today. In Boston, Dartmouth and Brown engaged in their annual struggle on the American league grounds. The local members of the Dartmouth alumni turned out in large numbers to cheer for their favorites. Dartmouth men felt certain that their eleven would give Brown a good beating though none expected anything like the score of last year, 62 to 0.

The big game of the day was played at New Haven where Yale and Harvard lined up on the Yale field. Here too, Lowell was well represented. The betting was 4 to 1 on Yale before the game started. The seating accommodations had been increased 5000 and so there was room for all. The scalpers got hold of tickets but failed to get the fancy prices usually demanded at Harvard-Yale contest.

CROWDS FROM BOSTON.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Between 8 and 9 o'clock today three special trains left Boston for New Haven, heavily loaded with passengers going to the Harvard-Yale football game. A large number had left on the regular night trains, but the usual crowd had waited for the day specials.

The tide of suburbanites flowing out of the big entrance during the early morning met a counter current of heavily clad, eager-faced individuals, and at 8 o'clock passage ways to the trains began to be choked with the throng. The first train left at 8.15. Fifteen minutes later the second train started, and a third pulled out at 8.45.

DARTMOUTH-BROWN GAME.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Anxiety to offset the memory of last year's defeat of 62 to 0, produced a dogged determination on the part of the Brown football eleven to defeat Dartmouth in the annual contest between the rival colleges on the Huntington avenue baseball grounds in this city this afternoon.

The Dartmouth men on the other hand were prepared to do their hardest work of the season to crush their opponents by a decisive score. While the teams appeared very evenly matched, Dartmouth's record this fall has surpassed that of the Providence eleven. Dartmouth has not been defeated and her goal line has not been crossed, the only scores against her having been on goals from the field by Amherst and Holy Cross. Brown has been defeated by Amherst, Pennsylvania and Yale. Dartmouth also succeeded in playing Harvard to a standstill. Both teams were in excellent condition today and a close game was expected. Glaze, Dartmouth's right end, was hurt in the Amherst game and it was anticipated that Church would take his place in the Brown game. The weather today was excellent, the sky being clear and the atmosphere frosty.

The game was scheduled to begin at 2 o'clock and the lineup as announced before the game was as follows:

IN SHANTY FIRE

Tools and Clothing Completely Destroyed

WATCHMAN SAVED THE EXPLOSIVES

Street and Sewer Departments Will Work Sunday

Upon learning of the fire that destroyed the tool shed of the sewer department at the Stromquist avenue job Supt. Farnham immediately sent a requisition to Purchasing Agent Donnelly for sufficient lumber to construct a new shanty and the work was begun at once as a shanty is necessary for the storage of tools, etc., as well as for a place where the employes may eat their dinner.

The sewer department lost quite a lot of valuable tools in the fire, which raged so furiously that nothing could be saved. Much clothing was also lost, including a new $20 overcoat owned by a watchman employed by the railroad.

Since the work of putting the sewer under the tracks was undertaken the railroad has had two watchmen at the place to warn trains and make them proceed with caution over the spot. Signaling at night is done by means of rockets and the night watchman had a quantity of these rockets in a tin box in the tool house. As soon as the watchman discovered the flames he rushed into the burning shanty and removed the box of rockets but the heat was so intense that he was forced to leave before he could get his new overcoat.

DEPARTMENTS WORK SUNDAY.

Both street and sewer departments will work 10 hours per day, seven days a week until the Aiken street bridge and Stromquist avenue sewers are finished. Speaking of those two jobs Supt. Farnham said to a reporter of The Sun today: "We are having great luck on both of these jobs for the Lord is certainly with us as regards weather.

"We will almost finish the Stromquist ave. job before the cold weather sets in and in order to do it we will work while there is daylight, Sundays and all. Tomorrow we will flnish the work of laying the sewer pipe under the railroad track, a difficult and dangerous operation. The Aiken street bridge job is moving right along to completion and all except the lumpers will work on it all day tomorrow. We will give the public not only practically a new bridge but one of the best and strongest bridges in New England for the work we are doing will last for 20 years."

GETTING NERVOUS

JUDGE PICKMAN INQUIRES ABOUT MOTH APPROPRIATION.

On October 25th Mayor Howe sent a communication to the city council enclosing a letter from the park commission relative to the extermination of the brown tail moth, his honor recommending an appropriation of $500 to be used by the commission. The matter being reported in The Sun at that time. The matter came up in the board of aldermen in due time and was referred to the appropriations committee and sent down to the common council for concurrent action. But the council has never taken the matter up, and it now lies forgotten among the papers of the common council. Yesterday Judge Pickman telephoned to the mayor's office to learn what had become of the communication. He was somewhat reassured upon learning that the matter was not dead but sleeping.

DEATHS

LYNCH—George Lynch died yesterday at state hospital, Tewksbury. The remains were taken to the funeral chapel of J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

The many supporters of Thomas E. Smith are confident that he will be one of the three lucky ones in ward two council fight on caucus night. "Tom Ed" is a hustler and is putting up a lively canvass.

POLITICAL FIELD

Lively Contests on Both Sides for Nomination

Mayor Howe opened headquarters last evening in the store at 60 Central street, with entrances on Central and Prescott streets.

The gathering was a most enthusiastic one, the speakers being Representative William E. Westall, L. P. Turcotte, E. W. Lachance, E. A. Wilson, Dr. Downs. Representative Rolfe Bradbury, Charles Copeland, William Hardy, George Spence, E. S. Houle, James Bridwell, Fred Horne, Loren Foss, Ed. Salmon and Charles Gale.

Mr. Walter Coburn presided, and, after appealing to the voters present to do their utmost for the candidate between now and Tuesday, the mayor himself thanked those present for their friendship and loyalty, and the meeting adjourned after giving three rousing cheers and an enthusiastic tiger for the Hon. Charles E. Howe.

The registration for last night was fairly good, and was given out by wards as follows: Ward one, five; ward two, six; ward three, four; ward four, four; ward five, five; ward six, four; ward seven, three; ward eight four, and ward nine, three; total 38.

The supporters of James B. Casey held a rousing rally in the Lyon street school basement last evening, several hundred attending. Prior to the rally the Fifth Regiment drum corps paraded the principal streets and marched to the hall.

The rally was presided over by Patrick B. McHugh, who made a graceful 10-minute speech in favor of Mr. Casey, after which remarks were made by John H. Meehan, Dennis Healy and John B. Shea. Mr. Casey spoke at length.

Hector Lavallee of L'Etoile has been employed by the republican city committee to look up candidates for naturalization and registration in precinct 1 of ward 7. Hector nightly makes a house to house canvass in Little Canada.

Aguele Constantineau has broken into the political game again and is hustling for the republican city committee in ward seven.

Jeremiah Daly, the popular member of the Knights of Columbus and other organizations, is a ward two candidate for the common council who is looked upon as one of the strongest.

BILLY LADUE WON

Threw Little in Less Than 10 Minutes

William F. Ladue, the wrestler regained some of his lost laurels, last evening by throwing J. Little of Brockton in 3 minutes, 40 seconds, in a very pretty and interesting exhibition that was on the level. The bout took place at the Brockton theatre and Little was to stay 15 minutes. He appeared as clever as Ladue but was out of shape while Ladue was in the pink of condition. Joe Raynes was referee and Charlie Jackson of Brockton, James Prokos, Nelson Desmarais, Luke Walsh and a number of other wrestlers were in the whigs and after the bout they were entertained with a lively war of words between Ladue and Jackson during which Ladue pushed his fist into Jackson's face and threatened to lick him. But it was only talk.

Manager Tibbetts has taken Ladue in charge and wants to match him against Jackson.

DANGEROUSLY ILL

GERMAN CONSUL GENERAL HAD APPENDICITIS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Charl Buenz, the German consul general at this port, is dangerously ill.

Five weeks ago he was operated on for a appendicitis. Following this came an attack of pneumonia. He rallied but another relapse has occurred and the consul general is now reported to be in a serious condition.

FUNERALS

CONSTERDINE—The funeral of the late Odra A. Consterdine took place this afternoon from her home, 135 West street, Centralville. Services were held at two o'clock, Rev. Mr. Pickles officiating. The bearers were Messrs. James and Wilson Harding, Robert Hollingworth and Amos A. Cudworth. The interment was in the Edson cemetery and was under the direction of Funeral Director Charles H. Molloy.

THOMPSON—The remains of the late Thomas Thompson, who was killed at Kitson's machine shop yesterday morning, have been removed to his home, 7 Tilt street, by Undertaker Charles H. Molloy.

KENNEDY—The funeral of the late Maria Kennedy took place this morning at 8.30 o'clock from her late home, 712 Gorham street, and was largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased. The funeral cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church where a high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock by Rev. Fr. McDermott. The choir was in attendance and sang the Gregorian mass and during the services appropriate selections were rendered by the members of the choir.

The bearers were Messrs. John Cunningham, Edward O'Hare, Michael Curran, John Lyons, John Judge and Michael Monahan. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. McDermott. The funeral was under the direction of Funeral Directors J. J. O'Connell & Co.

VIOLENT DEATHS

Husband and Wife Were Murdered

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 19.—The dead bodies of John Hanly, a fisherman, and his wife have been found in their cabin at Horn Lake Pass, a desolate region 20 miles south of Memphis. Gunshot and other wounds on their bodies and two bloody axes near by testified to the violence of their deaths.

A young baby was discovered barely alive, though unhurt, under a pile of bed clothing. The cabin had been ransacked for valuables, which Hanly was reputed to have stored away.

ONLY ONE POINT

IN DISPUTE BETWEEN RUSSIA AND GREAT BRITAIN.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 19.—The negotiations on the subject of the Anglo-Tasso convention are practically concluded. Only one small, minor point remains to be settled and that is of such slight importance that foreign minister Lamsdorff and Ambassador Hardinge this afternoon will discuss the question as to how and where the signatures are to be changed. In substance, the change in the language regarding the determination of responsibility by the international commission will make the convention provide for the location of any blame which is found to exist upon any person of Russian, British or foreign nationality.

MANY MEN PERISHED

Twenty Two Gas Tanks Exploded in Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—Twenty-two gas tanks in the big railroad gas charging station at 73rd street and South Chicago avenue, exploded today. This afternoon eight dead bodies of employes had been removed from the ruins and it was said that about ten more employes were missing.

The tanks were of the style attached to railroad cars for lighting purposes. Eleven of the tanks exploded in rapid succession and were followed at short intervals by the other tanks. The fire spread among the property of the People's Gaslight and Coke company and threatened to reach the large storage tanks of that company. Policemen were sent about for a mile radius, warning persons to move from their homes.

To prevent the explosion of the gas in the mammoth tanks, Superintendent Ralph Wells ordered the waste pipes opened. These pipes ran outside of the plant and in a short time the big tanks were discharging the gas into the air. This was a dangerous undertaking but it was chanced and proving successful, prevented a larger destruction of property.

Across South Chicago avenue, directly opposite the gas storage buildings, was a large coal shed stored with coal used in the manufacture of gas. The huge coal pile was ignited and in a few minutes the blaze there was beyond control.

When the danger of the larger tanks exploding had been reduced to a minimum, Chief Engineer Eustace with several assistants, entered the ground and shut off the supply pipes from the ruined buildings to the large tanks. He said it was almost miraculous that the fire had not entered the larger tanks.

One of the workmen, after the disaster, expressed a belief that at least forty of his companions lost their lives.

The explosions were so forceful that for a radius of half a mile windows were broken and walls of buildings thrown out of plumb.

For fear that the explosions might continue and cause the explosion of the two big tanks which hold millions of feet of gas, no one would venture near the ruins of the plant. Calls were sent for patrol wagons and ambulances to every station on the south side and a general alarm of fire was sent in. At the first explosions many of the men employed in the plant fled into the street. These escaped with slight injuries. Persons living in the vicinity deserted their homes, and storekeepers left their stores, all fleeing with what valuables they could seize.

Fire lines were thrown about the property of the gas company to keep the crowds back. For a time the firemen threw water on the fire from a distance of a block, fearing other tanks would explode. Flames were shooting hundreds of feet into the air, accompanied by clouds of black smoke from the burning gas. Masses of brick and iron from the bursting tanks were thrown into the air by explosions. Buildings within a block of the place were so severely shaken that many will no longer be fit for occupancy. A two-story building at 73rd street and Greenwood avenue was totally wrecked.

One of the victims was blown through a wall and one hundred feet away from the building in which he was at work. He was fearfully crushed but may live. He said:

"I was working about one of the gas tanks when the first explosion occurred. I believe one of the tanks in the row east of us blew up. The ground trembled and seemed to heave upward when suddenly there was a rip and a roar and I don't remember what occurred after that until I came to in the street 100 feet away. I know there were 40 men in the place and I don't believe many of them escaped."

The explosion may have been caused by a search for leaks in supply tanks made by one of the employes.

"All I can say," said Supt. Ralph Wells, "is that one of the men went into the storage rooms where the gas tanks were charged and stored, and that the man carried a lighted torch. Of course a leak in one tank would cause an explosion."

The cause of the rapid explosions numbering up to twenty, was the presence of twenty-two small tanks in the storage building. These tanks were charged with gas under a pressure of 2,200 pounds to the cubic inch. The tanks are used to place beneath sleeping cars and other railway cars.

MELDRUM GUILTY

FIRST CONVICTION IN LAND FRAUD CASES.

$8,000 DAMAGE

DONE BY FIRE SMOKE AND WATER.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Nov. 18.—Fire, smoke and water caused damage amounting to about $8000 in the Davis block on Main street today. The blaze started from a spark from the furnace in the basement and ate its way into the first floor, which was practically burned out. Colling, Wood & Sons, furniture dealers, and Smith's news stand, suffered most severely. The losses are covered by insurance.

WAGON CAPSIZED

Daniel O'Keefe Was a Bit Obstreperous

Daniel F. O'Keefe made things a bit lively for "Tom" Flynn on the way from the city farm to the police station this forenoon. Daniel was pulled in for drunkenness a few days ago and was sent to the city farm because it was deemed advisable that he should undergo the wormwood treatment. His nerves were twitchy and he was very peevish.

Daniel is not the most robust man that ever rescued a schooner from the bar and when "Tom" Flynn who drives the city farm wagon was advised to handcuff Daniel, he laughed and be it said that if "Tom" could have looked ahead into the transpirations of the coming hour he would have placed the irons on Daniel's wrists.

Daniel did not offer any objection to the transfer from the city farm to the jail until he was well on the road and then he said he guessed he would go to the hospital. "Tom" Flynn allowed that Daniel had a right to guess and he couldn't see any harm in it.

Daniel threatened to tip the wagon over on "Tom" who was once the terror of them all in old ward one when an application of knuckles was called for, allowed himself to be annoyed by Daniel's threats. While he was recalling, in his mind, the scenes of his boyhood days, Daniel grabbed the reins, yanked the horse around right smart and over went the wagon. "Tom" and "Dan" rolled into the street and Tom's servant "Joe Friday" put back for the farm for all he was worth.

"Tom" had four things to attend to—himself, Daniel, the horse and the wagon. His first thought was for the wagon and he managed to put it back where it belonged. Then he turned his attention to Daniel who was resting quietly on a horse blanket in the middle of the street. "Tom" allowed that the best thing for him to do would be to telephone the police station and ask for assistance.

He telephoned and Officers Clement and Holland were sent to his relief. Dan O'Keefe was all in when the officers arrived on the scene and "Tom" didn't have any wind to spare. "Dan" didn't make any charges in the presence of "Tom" but on the way to the police station he said that he didn't touch the reins. He said that "Tom" Flynn did the trick himself.

SINGULAR COINCIDENCE

Mayor Howe this morning picked up an old picture of the mayor and board of alderman taken during the administration of the late Mayor Courtney when Mayor Howe was a member of the board of aldermen. Three members of the group are sitting and the others are standing behind him. The three sitting are Mayor Courtney in the centre with his hand resting on the head of Mayor Howe's dog "Jack," ex-Mayor Crowley on the mayor's right and ex-Alderman Tryder, who died yesterday, on his left. By a strange coincidence, the three men sitting in the picture and the dog are dead, while the others are all alive and well.

If I knew the boy was going to have that job I would have had him carry a banner with the inscription on it, 'Do all you can for father.'"

PLASTRIDGE—The funeral of Mrs. Esther W. Plastridge was held yesterday afternoon from her home, 671 Mammoth road. The services at the house were conducted by Rev. George E. Martin. Burial was in Dunstable. Dr. A. W. Burnham had charge of the arrangements and J. W. Brooks was the undertaker.

WHITTET—The funeral of Mrs. Clara A. Whittet was held yesterday afternoon from her residence, 128 Sixth street, and was largely attended. Rev. C. W. Huntington was the officiating clergyman and appropriate hymns were sung by the Temple quartette. The bearers were William C. Wallace, John L. Robertson, Edward E. Sargent and Frank M. Dowling. The floral offerings were profuse. Burial was in the Lowell cemetery. Undertaker J. A. Weinbeck had charge.

DEATHS

HAHN—Maria W. Hahn, wife of Otto S. Hahn, died at her home, 75 Marginal street, last evening, aged 46 years, 1 month and 11 days. Besides a husband she leaves one son and three daughters.

FAULKNER—Mary F. Faulkner, widow of the late Edward F. Faulkner, died at her home, 22 Sargent street, last evening after a short illness. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. John Leary and Miss Annie Faulkner, and one son, Frank F. Faulkner. She was an old resident of Lowell and was a member of St. Patrick's parish.

McCABE—Mrs. Mary McCabe, aged [illegible] years, died this morning at St. John's hospital. The remains were taken to the funeral parlors of C. H. Molloy in Market street and afterwards to her home, 85 Agawam street. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, Bernard, three daughters, Mrs. Thomas Farrell and Misses Mary and Margaret McCabe and one son, George.

JEALOUS LOVER

Fired Five Bullets at Girl

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 18.—Frantic because Miss Jessie Mountain, aged 19 years, did not reciprocate his affections and turned a deaf ear to his pleadings, William Meyers, aged 25 years, fired five shots at the girl in front of her home last night at 6 o'clock, exclaiming:

"You have been making a fool of me, now I'm going to kill you."

The girl ran shrieking across the street as the second bullet passed through her hair ribbon. Meyers was arrested, charged with assault with intent to kill. The girl said she had known the man some time, and told the following story:

"A few days ago I was going to New York to see some friends and as William had friends there, he went down too. He was very nice while we were away, and I didn't notice anything out of the way in his talk or his actions. Coming up on the train yesterday afternoon he got to talking foolish, saying how much he cared for me and all that. I laughed at him, but he persisted in saying how much he cared for me.

"We got out at Union station, William tried to get me to go where we could get a drink. I told him that I wasn't that kind of a girl and that he ought to know better than to ask me. He seemed provoked and said: 'Well, then come and wait for me while I pawn my ring'.

"Then he wanted me to go to a drug store after soda but I told him I was in a hurry to go home. I had been complaining that my shoes hurt me and he took me to a shoe store and bought me a pair. I tried to break away and say good-bye, and as I was doing so, he turned on me as if he was going to eat me. 'You've been making a fool of me,' he shouted, 'and now I'm going to kill you'. I thought he was fooling, for he had made the same threat coming up on the train, but he had no sooner gotten the words out of his mouth than he drew a revolver from his pocket and fired right at me."

FAMILY INDICTED

CHARGED WITH BURGLARY AND ARSON.

LEBANON, N. H., Nov. 18.—Twenty-five indictments have been reported by the grand jury at the superior court.

Among the prominent ones is the Wilkins case, in which Henry Wilkins of Wentworth is charged with killing his wife on the morning of Sept. 20. This case will come up for trial early next week. Wilkins has been under the care of Superintendent Bancroft of the state hospital at Concord for three weeks, and it is expected that a plea of insanity will be the defence.

Batchellor and Mitchell of Littleton have been assigned by the court as counsel for the defence. County Solicitor M. D. Cobleigh and Attorney General Eastman will appear for the state.

The other important indictments are those of the Adams family of Newfound Lake, in Bristol, five in all. They are charged with robbing and firing the summer cottage of Alfred Carr of Boston in the early spring of 1902. The family implicated are Alexander Adams, Sr., who is indicted as accessory after the fact of receiving and retaining stolen goods; Rosanna, his wife, and Mrs. Alexander E. Adams, Jr., breaking and entering and larceny; Alexander F. Adams Jr., breaking and entering, larceny and accessory before and after the fact of arson; William Adams, breaking and entering, larceny and arson.

Edward G. Leach of Franklin Falls has been secured as counsel for Mr. and Mrs. Alexander F. Adams, Jr., and Lewis W. Fling of Boston for the remaining members of the family.

Wilson Adams is said to have confessed to setting fire to the buildings, claiming that he was hired by Alexander Adams, Jr., his brother. The case will come up for trial next week.

GENERAL HUERTAS

RESIGNS AS WAR MINISTER OF PANAMA.

PANAMA, Nov. 18—General Huertas, the war minister, resigned this morning and President Amador by a decree accepted his resignation, leaving Huertas the rank of general unattached but with a salary, which is equivalent to a pension. The army will not be disbanded just now. General Yrundia, secretary of the war office and an old veteran has been appointed to the supreme command of the troops. Everything is quiet now. The censorship on telegraphic messages has just been suspended.

JUDGE DIED SUDDENLY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Judge Thos. A. Moran of Chicago died suddenly today, at the Waldorf-Astoria in this city. He was 61 years of age.

Judge Moran resigned from the bench in 1892, having first served on the circuit court Cook county and in the appellate court 12 years. He was born at Bridgeport, Conn., in 1839.

BURNED AT SEA

Crew of the Steamer Mohawk Rescued

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—While bound down through Long Island Sound on one of her regular trips between this city and New London Connecticut, the freight steamer Mohawk of the Central Vermont railroad's fleet took fire off Horton's Point, on the Long Island shore and was burned to the water's edge early today. Her crew, with the exception of the watchman, was rescued by a passing steamship and taken to Fall River, Mass. It is believed that the Mohawk will be a total loss and that little if any of her cargo will be saved.

The Mohawk left New York last evening with a full cargo of general merchandise. She had 28 persons on board including two women. As the steamer passed Horton's Point, the lighthouse-keeper saw flames breaking from the boat and a few minutes later she was afire from stem to stern.

Assistance was at hand in the Fall River line steamer Boston, which had closely followed the Mohawk down the sound and all on board except the watchman were soon taken off. The flames were beyond control, however, and the Mohawk was abandoned. A few moments after the Boston had resumed her voyage there came the sound of a heavy explosion and a mass of burning timbers accompanied by a fresh burst of flames shot up from the centre of the abandoned freighter.

When dawn came the steamer was lying fast on the bar and only a portion of her upper works showed above the surface.

This gradually disappeared as the fire ate its way into the hull of the boat. The lighthouse-keeper was unable to make out the name of the abandoned steamer, and it was not until the rescued crew had reached Fall River that the name of the unfortunate craft was made known. At the same time, it was learned that one life was lost by the burning of the steamer. A watchman who was on duty when the flames were discovered failed to reach the Boston when she stood by to give assistance and it is supposed that he lost his life. Attempts to send assistance from here to the burning steamer were unsuccessful. The Rocky Point Life Saving crew put out in a boat but were driven back by the intense hot flames. Later a volunteer crew from Peconic started out and stood by the burning hulk waiting for the fire to burn itself out.

The fire continued to smoulder during the forenoon and frequent explosions scattered burning embers and clouds of ashes over the water.

The Mohawk was a comparatively new steamer, having been built at Chester, Pa., in 1896.

She was of 2,150 net tons 285 feet in length, 43 feet beam and 16.8 feet deep.

ANOTHER VESSEL

WILL TAKE THE PLACE OF THE MOHAWK.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 18.—The Fall River line freight steamer Boston arrived at her dock in this city shortly before 9 o'clock today three hours late, having brought the crew of the Central Vermont railroad freighter Mohawk, which they had taken from the burning steamer in Long Island sound during the night. The Boston brought 27 persons from the Mohawk, including 25 of the crew and two women, wives of officers of the Mohawk. One man, the night watchman, of the steamer, a Swede named Larsen, was lost.

As he was the person who should have discovered the fire, and as no report from him was received by the officers of the ship it is supposed that he was overcome by the flames and burned to death.

The crew remained in Fall River but a short time, taking a trolley train for Providence, where they will remain until a vessel is secured to take the place of the burned Mohawk.

The Boston came up with the Mohawk at 2.25 this morning about a mile east of Cornfield. The Mohawk was then about an hour's run from New London, her usual terminus on the eastward trip. The Mohawk was stopped and was burning furiously forward. She signalled the Boston, which ran up as close as possible and stood by to give assistance.

A boat bearing two women and members of the crew put out almost immediately after the Boston's arrival and the women were placed safely on board the Fall River line boat.

Those who came in the boat said that the fire on the Mohawk was discovered by those in the pilot house shortly after midnight. It was pretty well forward and the crew were at once sent to their stations to fight the flames.

The great heat, however, prevented them from getting close to the blaze which spread and rapidly drove back those who opposed it until the entire vessel seemed doomed. Nevertheless, the boat crew which had come to the Boston [illegible] for nearly an hour still fighting, but the effort was vain and when it was seen that nothing further could be done, the officers of the crew abandoned the burning vessel, going to the Boston in two boats. As they drew away it was seen that the Mohawk was ablaze from end to end, and shortly after they had reached the Boston a heavy explosion occurred on the Mohawk. As she carried no oil in her cargo it is supposed that the flames had reached the boilers. The explosion seemed to lift the deck and the smoke stack flew upward followed by a burst of flame and [illegible] of black smoke. Then the flames leaped up to a great height, and continued burning fiercely. It was apparent that no further purpose would be served if the Boston remained by and she resumed her course for Fall River.

The Mohawk left New York late yesterday afternoon with one of the heaviest cargoes she had ever taken from the city. It included nearly one thousand barrels of sugar, a large quantity of baled rags, besides oil and [illegible].

In fighting the fire none of the crew was hurt and every one was in readiness to reship at Providence on the steamer which will take the place of the Mohawk.

The Mohawk was chartered by the Central Vermont Company from the New London Steamboat Company. Those who were on board of her, were unable to estimate her value or to approximate the value of her cargo.

GEISHA GIRLS

ON THEIR WAY BACK TO JAPAN.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 18.—The hundred and thirty-two Chinese, who have been connected with a World's Fair concession, have departed in special cars for San Francisco whence they will sail for China.

The party is in charge of immigration inspectors and the Chinamen will be closely guarded on the trip, as many of them do not want to return to their native country.

In one of the cars, accommodations were reserved for 13 Geisha girls, who had also been filling a nengagement at the World's Fair. The Japanese were deported on orders received from Washington where the papers had been sent after a hearing before the local authorities to prevent the girls from being sent out of the country.

There was considerable excitement at the house where the Geisha girls had been under guard by the federal authorities for several weks, when the immigration authorities attempted to escort them to the station. One of the girls refused to leave her room, and it was necessary to carry her to the carriage.

Mr. A. B. Sunbury, leader of the Calumet orchestra, is playing first violin with the orchestra of Howley's minstrels, now ontour in Canada.

PERED AWAY

oes Must Leave Reno, Nevada

ICAGO, Nov. 18—A dispatch to the ribune, from Reno, Nevada, says:

The chief of police has tonight issued an order that all negroes have obeyed the command, and more are leaving by every train. This order is the result of a number of depredations committed by negroes in Reno during the last few weeks.

George Burns was the first offender. He attempted to assault a white girl and narrowly escaped lynching.

He was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary. Other minor events followed, but the culmination came when a negro attempted to assassinate Officer Acree.

TO PROTECT CITY

Mayor Would Take Out Accident Policy

Mayor Howe paid a visit to the Aiken street bridge this morning to see how the work was progressing there and came away perfectly satisfied that it is being pushed with all haste. As he watched the 75 men employed on the bridge His Honor realized that theirs was a dangerous occupation and upon returning to City Hall informed a reporter of The Sun that while watching the men at work it had occurred to him that the city would do well to take out an employers' liability policy for a month or so to cover the period to be covered by the work, so as to protect the city in case of accident.

His Honor consulted with some of the insurance men during the day and if their premiums are not too high in all probability will take out a policy.

BISHOP GARRIGAN

DONATES LOVING CUP TO K. OF C. CASTILIAN TABLE.

Mr. John J. Cuin, chairman of the Castilian table of the Knights of Columbus carnival has received a beautiful gift from Bishop Garrigan of Sioux city, Iowa for the table in the shape of a large solid silver loving cup standing two feet high with three genuine stag horn handles and with two crests, one representing a buffalo and the other a Sioux Indian. The words "Sioux City Iowa" are engraved at the base of the cup. It makes an exquisite ornament and in all probability the council will purchase it from the table for an ornament for the council chamber. The Castilian table has been particularly fortunate as regards donations made to it for the bazaar and will offer its patrons a host of beautiful things.

AFTER PLUMBERS

BOARD OF HEALTH WILL PROSECUTE UNLICENSED WORKMEN.

The board of health held its annual review of the financial outcome of the year's work at the meeting in City hall yesterday afternoon. The board opened the discussion at 4.30 with Dr. Jackson, Dr. Huntress, Mr. Doherty and Clerk Knapp present.

The main item of business discussed was the investigation of certain plumbers, who are plying their trade in the city without a proper permit or license. The board will get after these men in short order.

Clerk Knapp stated that $500 or $600 was needed for smallpox. He also announced that $3175 had been paid to the city treasurer up to November 1 for swill.

An examination will be held for plumbers next Monday night at 7.30 p. m., in the office of the board of health.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

"New York Day by Day," a sensational comedy-drama in four acts, was presented at the Academy of Music yesterday afternoon and evening. The plot, features and scenic effects were entirely new and pleased the large audiences. The scenes of the play are located in the slums of New York. A young blind girl, who is the heiress of a fortune, is being swindled out of money which was left her by her father. A rich broker, a fellow workman in the diamond fields of Australia with the blind girls' father, is the villian who tries to rob the girl, but through the combined efforts of a sailor lover of the blind girl and a young ragamuffin the attempts of the villain are foiled and the girl besides recovering her money also recovers the use of her eyes.

During the progress of the play, a number of pleasing specialties are introduced. Mamie Lincoln Trixley in a series of characters; Rags, a street gamin, being the principal, displays the work of a clever young actress. Polly Horne, the blind flower girl, is well portrayed by Miss Grace Welby. John Cravan, as Mother Cantwell, and H. E. Hambro as her husband, two depraved creatures of the slums, who will "do any kind of a trick" from petty larceny to murder, for money, play well the parts to which they are assigned. Charles P. Rice as Richard Blakely, a broker, whose every deed is dishonest and low, is quite satisfactory, while Jimmy the Rat, one of his handy men, is well taken care of by James Johnson. Leonard Barry, in the character of Jack Waters, a young American sailor, in love with Polly, makes a favorable impression. Miss Prixley is assisted in the comedy parts by George Barlow as Moses Vopps a hot sausage vender and John Morris as Dennis Fogerty the policeman. The other parts are carried out in a capable manner.

"New York Day by Day" will be presented at the Academy of Music this afternoon and evening and tomorrow afternoon and evening.

WRESTLING NOTES

Tonight James Little and William Ladue will have a 15-minute go. Little will prove a big disappointment if he fails to stay 15 minutes.

Wilfred Barrett and James Prokos will meet tomorrow afternoon. Prokos has had the nose bleed for the past week or more, while wrestling, but he has been operated upon and will probably experience no further trouble from that source. In the opinion of the writer, Barrett is the equal of Prokos and in a finish contest would come out with the long end of the purse.

John J. Little of Brockton claims that a man has a right to coach a wrestler under catch-as-catch-can rules. Little says there is nothing in the rules to prevent coaching and declares that he will be in Jackson's corner with all of the advice at his command on the night of the Jackson-Tremblay match. It's up to the referee. At the last match Referee Walsh stopped the coaching on complaint of Joe Dextra who held the watch for Tremblay.

TELEPHONE WIRE STOLEN.

Several sections of telephone wire on the Billerica road were cut last night and carried away, disabling the circuit. Thirteen or fourteen sections of wire near Burlington were also cut and carried away last night.

The wire thieves got away with about 100 pounds of copper wire.

FOR SKATING POND

Mayor Orders the Ledge Cleaned and Flooded

Mayor Howe today instructed Supt. Farnham to clear the debris from the old ledge in Bowers and Fletcher streets and flood the bottom of it so that the children of the city will have a good and safe skating area by Thanksgiving. Supt. Farnham started a crew of men to work on the ledge this forenoon and promises an ideal skating place in a few days.

LARGELY ATTENDED

FUNERAL OF THE LATE JAMES McDERMOTT.

The funeral of the late James McDermott took place this morning. The funeral was very largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends, including a large number from out of town, also delegates from the G. A. R. and Division S. A. O. H., the delegation from the latter consisting of Messrs. Patrick Curtin, Thomas Kane, Thomas J. Lynch and John Gallagher.

The funeral took place from his late home, 686 Gorham street, at 8.30 o'clock and proceeded to St. Peter's church in Gorham street, where a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock by Rev. Daniel J. Hefferman, assisted by Rev. W. George Mullin as deacon and Rev. Hugh McDermod as sub-deacon.

The choir, which was augmented for the occasion, was under the direction of Mr. John Warburton and Schmidt's mass was sung. At the offertory Mr. Warburton sung "Pie Jesu" and at the close Miss Mollie G. Ivers rendered "Face to Face". "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" was sung by Mr. James E. Donnelly as the remains were being borne from the church.

There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings in evidence, showing the esteem in which the deceased was held by his many friends and acquaintances, the following being the most prominent:

Mammoth pillow, from Elizabeth and Martha, daughters of the deceased; cross, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hogan; wreath, from friends at C. I. Hood's laboratory; cross, Edward Cunningham and family; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Humphrey; wreath, Miss Kittie Donohue; wreath, Miss Minnie Geary; wreath, Thyne family; pillow, Captain M. E. McDonald; cross, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Meloy; spray of roses, William J. Keenan and Miss Sarah Keenan; spray, Miss Annie Welch; spray, William Callahan and family of Lynn; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tuttle and a large wreath from Edward Meloy.

The bearers were Messrs. Chester Goodwin, Lawrence Roache, Frank Fahey and Capt. J. P. Thompson, representing the G. A. R., and Capt. M. E. McDonald of this city and William Callahan of Lynn, friends of the deceased.

The ushers at the house and church were Messrs. John J. O'Connor, Denis J. Murphy and Charles Kelley of this city and William J. Ronan of Boston.

The interment was in the Catholic cemetery where the last sad rites of the church were solemnized by Rev. Fr. Hefferman. Mr. Daniel E. Hogan had charge of the funeral arrangements, and the interment was under the direction of Funeral Director Charles H. Molloy.

WHIST PARTY

HELD IN KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS HALL LAST EVENING.

A delightful dancing and whist party was held at the Knights of Columbus hall last evening by the Ferdinand table complimentary to the members of the table and their friends and a most enjoyable evening was enjoyed by the young people present. An orchestra provided a pleasing musical program from 8 to 9 and dancing was enjoyed until midnight.

This evening the Porto Santo table will conduct a social and dance at the Knights of Columbus hall.

Saturday night a tea and cake sale and a bean supper will be given by the members of the San Salvador table.

The Columbus table will hold a meeting at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the rooms.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock the sub-committee from the Granada table which is to have charge of the girls' basketball game to be held December 6 will meet at the rooms.

Tuesday night the Isabella table will hold a meeting and social at the hall of the Mathew Temperance Institute.

BRYAN STIRRED

He Opens Up on Roosevelt

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 18—Declaring Theodore Roosevelt to be something of a political accident, but insisting he has an opportunity such as comes to but few men in a generation, William J. Bryan devotes a page of his forthcoming Commoner to the election of the president and what he should accomplish. He begins with an attack, by saying no candidate for the presidency ever used the power of his office more openly or unscrupulously to secure a renomination.

Mr. Bryan enumerates some of the reforms with which Mr. Roosevelt should signalize his election, such as a stand on the side of the people, opposition to plutocracy and trusts, more strict regulation of the railroads and a change in policy toward the Philippines, and says:

"He owes his first elevation to the presidency to an unexpected event, the murder of a president. He owes his recent great victory largely to the error of democratic leaders. Others have therefore given him the opportunity which he coveted; how will he employ it? His place in history will depend not upon what others have done for him, but upon what he does for the country."

Mr. Bryan also discusses the lesson of the election as it affects democracy. He says:

"Eight years ago the democratic party put its hand to the plow and began the work of reform. Defeat dampened the ardor of some in 1900, but still the party continued to cultivate the seed sown in 1896. And again the season was unpropitious, and by 1904 there were enough who were discouraged to turn the party organization over to those who had not been in full sympathy with the party's purpose.

"Those who had tried to prevent the reorganization of the party went down in the general wreck with those who were conspicuous in leading the party astray. If the penalty fell only upon the guilty there would be less cure taken to put the party right, and keep it right. But when the whole party must bear the blame for the action of those who obtain control, members of the party who desire to make the organization effective in behalf of reforms are forced to be ever upon the alert.

"Let the experience of 1904 be a warning for the future. Let the work of organization begin today, in order that the party may regain, at the first opportunity, the ground that has been lost."

ROME, Nov. 18.—Severe earthquake shocks were felt today in central Italy and especially at Florence, Pisa and Urbino. No damage was done.

TOOK HIS MONEY

MAN HELD UP IN BACK BAY STATION.

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—George Norman, a wealthy resident of Newport and well known in this city, was held up by three men early today at the Back Bay railroad station and was robbed of about $90.

Mr. Norman had been visiting friends in Boston and was on his way home. At the station three men crowded about him and while one seized his arm, the others searched his pockets.

He is an athlete and a member of the Myopia polo team. He exerted all his strength in an effort to release himself and when railroad employes came to his assistance, two of the robbers fled. The third man was held by Mr. Norman and he was placed under arrest. He gave his name as Joseph Robinson, aged 23. The two missing men are supposed to have the money which the Newport man missed from his pocket.

CHINAMEN WIN

VERDICT OF $500 FOR EACH OF THEM.

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—Chin Wing and George Zee Wah, who sued John J. Leonard, an undertaker in Dorchester, for damages for assault and battery committed on them by the defendant, were given verdicts yesterday by a jury in the seventh session of the superior court, before Judge Fox.

Wing recovered $550 and Wah obtained $250. Each sued for $2000. These were the first suits to be brought in this state by Chinese for damages for injuries arising from assaults made on them.

Leonard assaulted the Chinese in Melrose March 18, 1903.

PERSONALS

Rev. P. L. Despouy has arrived in this city, from Portugal, to assist Rev. Joaquin V. Rosa, pastor of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic church on Gorham street. Fr. Despouy arrived at the parish house on Tuesday and at once began his duties. He is a native of Portugal, where he received his education and has ministered for the past 10 years. Fr. Rosa has been without an assistant since last April, when Rev. H. R. Ferriera went back to the Western islands.

L. Perry Hands is playing quarter and Melvin F. Master is playing halfback on the freshman football team at the University of Vermont.

Leon R. Whitcomb, class of '05, University of Vermont, has resigned his position as assistant in the freshman chemistry laboratory and will engage in newspaper work connected with the college. Mr. Whitcomb is a student in the chemistry department and president of the University Chemistry club.

Miss Sadie Ella Mansell held a pretty party at her home, 72 Third street, Thursday evening, celebrating her 14th birthday anniversary. Her young friends spent the evening enjoyably, playing games and hearing musical selections on the piano. Refreshments were served at 9 o'clock, and an hour later the party came to an end. Miss Mansell, who is very popular in the neighborhood, received many gifts from her friends.

LAWRENCE MAN APPOINTED.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 18. J. Avery Gould, superintendent of the Riverside mill of the American Woolen company in Olneyville, has resigned to go into partnership with Charles Chodin and operate mills in Concord, N. H.

Charles Coggeshall of Lawrence, Mass., will supersede Mr. Gould at the Riverside mill.

MANY MEN PERISHED

Twenty Two Gas Tanks Exploded in Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—Twenty-two gas tanks in the big railroad gas charging station at 73rd street and South Chicago avenue, exploded today. This afternoon eight dead bodies of employes had been removed from the ruins and it was said that about ten more employes were missing.

The tanks were of the style attached to railroad cars for lighting purposes. Eleven of the tanks exploded in rapid succession and were followed at short intervals by the other tanks. The fire spread among the property of the People's Gaslight and Coke company and threatened to reach the large storage tanks of that company. Policemen were sent about for a mile radius, warning persons to move from their homes.

To prevent the explosion of the gas in the mammoth tanks, Superintendent Ralph Wells ordered the waste pipes opened. These pipes run outside of the plant and in a short time the big tanks were discharging the gas into the air. This was a dangerous undertaking but it was chanced and proving successful, prevented a larger destruction of property.

Across South Chicago avenue, directly opposite the gas storage buildings, was a large coal shed stored with coal used in the manufacture of gas. The huge coal pile was ignited and in a few minutes the blaze there was beyond control.

When the danger of the larger tanks exploding had been reduced to a minimum, Chief Engineer Eustace with several assistants, entered the ground and shut off the supply pipes from the ruined buildings to the large tanks. He said it was almost miraculous that the fire had not entered the larger tanks.

One of the workmen, after the disaster, expressed a belief that at least forty of his companions lost their lives.

The explosions were so forceful that for a radius of half a mile windows were broken and walls of buildings thrown out of plumb.

For fear that the explosions might continue and cause the explosion of the two big tanks which hold millions of feet of gas, no one would venture near the ruins of the plant. Calls were sent for patrol wagons and ambulances to every station on the south side and a general alarm of fire was sent in. At the first explosions many of the men employed in the plant fled into the street. These escaped with slight injuries. Persons living in the vicinity deserted their homes, and storekeepers left their stores, all fleeing with what valuables they could seize.

Fire lines were thrown about the property of the gas company to keep the crowds back. For a time the firemen threw water on the fire from a distance of a block, fearing other tanks would explode. Flames were shooting hundreds of feet into the air, accompanied by clouds of black smoke from the burning gas. Masses of brick and iron from the bursting tanks were thrown into the air by explosions. Buildings within a block of the place were so severely shaken that many will no longer be fit for occupancy. A two-story building at 73rd street and Greenwood avenue was totally wrecked.

One of the victims was blown through a wall and one hundred feet away from the building in which he was at work. He was fearfully crushed but may live. He said:

"I was working about one of the gas tanks when the first explosion occurred. I believe one of the tanks in the row east of us blew up. The ground trembled and seemed to heave upward when suddenly there was a rip and a roar and I don't remember what occurred after that until I came to in the street 100 feet away. I know there were 40 men in the place and I don't believe many of them escaped."

The explosion may have been caused by a search for leaks in supply tanks made by one of the employes.

"All I can say," said Supt. Ralph Wells, "is that one of the men went into the storage rooms where the gas tanks were charged and stored, and that the man carried a lighted torch. Of course a leak in one tank would cause an explosion."

The cause of the rapid explosions numbering up to twenty, was the presence of twenty-two small tanks in the storage building. These tanks were charged with gas under a pressure of 2,200 pounds to the cubic inch. The tanks are used to place beneath sleeping cars and other railway cars.

WAGON CAPSIZED

Daniel O'Keefe Was a Bit Obstreperous

Daniel F. O'Keefe made things a bit lively for "Tom" Flynn on the way from the city farm to the police station this forenoon. Daniel was pulled in for drunkenness a few days ago and was sent to the city farm because it was deemed advisable that he should undergo the wormwood treatment. His nerves were twitchy and he was very peevish.

Daniel is not the most robust man that ever boarded a schooner from the bar and when "Tom" Flynn who drives the city farm wagon was advised to handcuff Daniel, he laughed and be it said that if "Tom" could have looked ahead into the transpirations of the coming hour he would have placed the irons on Daniel's wrists.

Daniel did not offer any objection to the transfer from the city farm to the jail until he was well on the road and then he said he guessed he would go to the hospital. "Tom" Flynn allowed that Daniel had a right to guess and he couldn't see any harm in it.

Daniel threatened to tip the wagon over on "Tom" who was once the terror of them all in old ward one when an application of knuckles was called for allowed himself to be amused by Daniel's threats. While he was resting, in his mind, the scenes of his boyhood days, Daniel grabbed the reins, yanked the horse around right smart and over went the wagon. "Tom" and "Dan" rolled into the street and Tom's assistant "Joe Friday" put back for the farm for all he was worth.

"Tom" had four things to attend to—himself, Daniel, the horse and the wagon. His first thought was for the wagon and he managed to put it back where it belonged. Then he turned his attention to Daniel who was resting quietly on a horse blanket in the middle of the street. "Tom" allowed that the best thing for him to do would be to telephone the police station and ask for assistance.

He telephoned and Officers Clement and Holland were sent to his relief. Dan O'Keefe was all in when the officers arrived on the scene and "Tom" didn't have any wind to spare. "Dan" didn't make any charges in the presence of "Tom" but on the way to the police station he said that he didn't touch the reins. He said that "Tom" Flynn did the trick himself.

Mayor Howe this morning picked up an old picture of the mayor and board of alderman taken during the administration of the late Mayor Courtney when Mayor Howe was a member of the board of aldermen. Three members of the group are sitting and the others are standing behind him. The three sitting are Mayor Courtney in the centre with his hand resting on the head of Mayor Howe's dog "Jack," ex-Mayor Crowley on the mayor's right and ex-Alderman Trydor, who died yesterday, on his left. By a strange coincidence, the three men sitting in the picture and the dog are dead, while the others are all alive and well.

"FATHER" HAYES

MISSED THE OPPORTUNITY THAT MADE "FATHER" BERTRAND.

When Councilman Jimmie Hayes, the joker of the common council, saw his son acting as band guide in the Eagles' parade Thursday night, he said: "Great Scott, what a fine opportunity I've missed. If I knew the boy was going to have that job I would have had him carry a banner with the inscription on it, 'Do all you can for father.'"

$8,000 DAMAGE

DONE BY FIRE, SMOKE AND WATER.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Nov. 18—Fire, smoke and water caused damage amounting to about $8000 in the Davis block on Main street today. The blaze started from a spark from the furnace in the basement and ate its way into the first floor, which was practically burned out. Colling, Wood & Sons, furniture dealers, and Smith's news stand, suffered most severely. The losses are covered by insurance.

OFFER REFUSED

CHINA DID NOT LIKE FRENCH CONDITIONS.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 18—The Chinese government has refused the offer of the Banque DeParis to advance money toward the establishment of an Imperial bank of China in return for the control of the same.

A dispatch from Shanghai November 10, told that the report of the Banque DeParis had offered to start a bank with a capital of 10,000,000 [illegible] French.

FUNERALS

PLASTRIDGE—The funeral of Mrs. Esther W. Plastridge was held yesterday afternoon from her home, 671 Mammoth road. The services at the house were conducted by Rev. George E. Martin. Burial was in Dunstable. Dr. A. W. Burnham had charge of the arrangements and J. W. Brooks was the undertaker.

WHITTET—The funeral of Mrs. Clara A. Whittet was held yesterday afternoon from her residence, 128 Sixth street, and was largely attended. Rev. C. W. Huntington was the officiating clergyman and appropriate hymns were sung by the Temple quartette. The bearers were William C. Walker, John L. Robertson, Edward E. Sargent and Frank M. Dowling. The floral offerings were profuse. Burial was in the Lowell cemetery. Undertaker J. A. Weinbeck had charge.

DEATHS

HAHN—Maria W. Hahn, wife of Otto S. Hahn, died at her home, 25 Marginal street, last evening, aged 55 years, 1 month and 11 days. Besides a husband she leaves one son and three daughters.

FAULKNER—Mary F. Faulkner, widow of the late Edward F. Faulkner, died at her home, 22 Sargent street, last evening, after a short illness. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. John Leary and Miss Annie Faulkner, and one son, Frank F. Faulkner. She was an old resident of Lowell and was a member of St. Patrick's parish.

McCABE—Mrs. Mary McCabe, aged [illegible] years, died this morning at St. John's hospital. The remains were taken to the funeral parlors of C. H. Molloy in Market street and afterwards to her home, 85 Agawam street. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, Bernard, three daughters, Mrs. Thomas Farrell and Misses Mary and Margaret McCabe and one son, George.

JEALOUS LOVER

Fired Five Bullets at Girl

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 18—Frantic because Miss Jessie Mountain, aged 19 years, did not reciprocate his affections and turned a deaf ear to his pleadings, William Meyers, aged 23 years, fired five shots at the girl in front of her home last night at 6 o'clock, exclaiming:

"You have been making a fool of me, now I'm going to kill you."

The girl ran shrieking across the street as the second bullet passed through her hair ribbon. Meyers was arrested, charged with assault with intent to kill. The girl said she had known the man some time, and told the following story:

"A few days ago I was going to New York to see some friends and as William had friends there, he went down too. He was very nice while we were away, and I didn't notice anything out of the way in his talk or his actions. Coming up on the train yesterday afternoon he got to talking foolish, saying how much he cared for me and all that. I laughed at him, but he persisted in saying how much he cared for me.

"We got out at Union station. William tried to get me to go where we could get a drink. I told him that I wasn't that kind of a girl and that he ought to know better than to ask me. He seemed provoked and said: 'Well, then come and wait for me while I pawn my ring'.

"Then he wanted me to go to a drug store after soda but I told him I was in a hurry to go home. I had been complaining that my shoes hurt me and he took me to a shoe store and bought me a pair. I tried to break away and say good-bye, and as I was doing so, he turned on me as if he was going to eat me. 'You've been making a fool of me,' he shouted, 'and now I'm going to kill you'. I thought he was fooling, for he had made the same threat coming up on the train, but he had no sooner gotten the words out of his mouth than he drew a revolver from his pocket and fired right at me."

FAMILY INDICTED

CHARGED WITH BURGLARY AND ARSON.

LEBANON, N. H., Nov. 18.—Twenty-five indictments have been reported by the grand jury at the superior court.

Among the prominent ones is the Wilkins case, in which Henry Wilkins of Wentworth is charged with killing his wife on the morning of Sept. 30. This case will come up for trial early next week. Wilkins has been under the care of Superintendent Bancroft of the state hospital at Concord for three weeks, and it is expected that a plea of insanity will be the defence.

Batchellor and Mitchell of Littleton have been assigned by the court as counsel for the defence. County Solicitor M. D. Cobleigh and Attorney General Eastman will appear for the state.

The other important indictments are those of the Adams family of Newfound Lake, in Bristol, five in all. They are charged with robbing and firing the summer cottage of Alfred Carr of Boston in the early spring of 1902. The family implicated are Alexander Adams, Sr., who is indicted as accessory after the fact of receiving and retaining stolen goods; Rosanna, his wife, and Mrs. Alexander E. Adams, Jr., breaking and entering and larceny; Alexander F. Adams Jr., breaking and entering, larceny and accessory before and after the fact of arson; William Adams, breaking and entering, larceny and arson.

Edward G. Leach of Franklin Falls has been secured as counsel for Mr. and Mrs. Alexander F. Adams, Jr., and Lewis W. Fling of Boston for the remaining members of the family.

Wilson Adams is said to have confessed to setting fire to the buildings, claiming that he was hired by Alexander Adams, Jr., his brother. The case will come up for trial next week.

GENERAL HUERTAS

RESIGNS AS WAR MINISTER OF PANAMA.

PANAMA, Nov. 18—General Huertas, the war minister, resigned this morning and President Amador by a decree accepted his resignation, leaving Huertas the rank of general unattached but with a salary, which is equivalent to a pension. The army will not be disbanded just now. General Yuandia, secretary of the war office and an old veteran has been appointed to the supreme command of the troops. Everything is quiet now. The censorship on telegraphic messages has just been suspended.

JUDGE DIED SUDDENLY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Judge Thos. A. Moran of Chicago died suddenly today, at the Waldorf-Astoria in this city. He was 61 years of age. Judge Moran resigned from the bench in 1892, having first served on the circuit court, Cook county and in the appellate court 12 years. He was born at Bridgeport, Conn., in 1839.

BURNED AT SEA

Crew of the Steamer Mohawk Rescued

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—While bound down through Long Island Sound on one of her regular trips between this city and New London, Connecticut, the freight steamer Mohawk of the Central Vermont railroad's fleet took fire off Horton's Point, on the Long Island shore and was burned to the water's edge early today. Her crew, with the exception of the watchman, was rescued by a passing steamship and taken to Fall River, Mass. It is believed that the Mohawk will be a total loss and that little if any of her cargo will be saved.

The Mohawk left New York last evening with a full cargo of general merchandise. She had 28 persons on board including two women. As the steamer passed Horton's Point, the lighthouse-keeper saw flames breaking from the boat and a few minutes later she was afire from stem to stern.

Assistance was at hand in the Fall River line steamer Boston, which had closely followed the Mohawk down the sound and all on board except the watchman were soon taken off. The flames were beyond control, however, and the Mohawk was abandoned. A few moments after the Boston had resumed her voyage there came the sound of a heavy explosion and a mass of burning timbers accompanied by a fresh burst of flames shot up from the centre of the abandoned freighter.

When dawn came the steamer was lying fast on the bar and only a portion of her upper works showed above the surface.

This gradually disappeared as the fire ate its way into the hull of the boat. The lighthouse-keeper was unable to make out the name of the abandoned steamer, and it was not until the rescued crew had reached Fall River that the name of the unfortunate craft was made known. At the same time, it was learned that one life was lost by the burning of the steamer. A watchman who was on duty when the flames were discovered failed to reach the Boston when she stood by to give assistance and it is supposed that he lost his life. Attempts to send assistance from here to the burning steamer were unsuccessful. The Rocky Point Life Saving crew put out in a boat but were driven back by the intense hot flames. Later a volunteer crew from Peconic started out and stood by the burning hulk waiting for the fire to burn itself out.

The fire continued to smoulder during the forenoon and frequent explosions scattered burning embers and clouds of ashes over the water.

The Mohawk was a comparatively new steamer, having been built at Chester, Pa., in 1896.

She was of 2,150 net tons 285 feet in length, 45 feet beam and 16.8 feet deep.

ANOTHER VESSEL

WILL TAKE THE PLACE OF THE MOHAWK.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 18.—The Fall River line freight steamer Boston arrived at her dock in this city shortly before 9 o'clock today three hours late, having brought the crew of the Central Vermont railroad freighter Mohawk, which they had taken from the burning steamer in Long Island sound during the night. The Boston brought 27 persons from the Mohawk, including 25 of the crew and two women, wives of officers of the Mohawk. One man, the night watchman, of the steamer, a Swede named Larsen, was lost.

As he was the person who should have discovered the fire, and as no report from him was received by the officers of the ship it is supposed that he was overcome by the flames and burned to death.

The crew remained in Fall River but a short time, taking a trolley train for Providence, where they will remain until a vessel is secured to take the place of the burned Mohawk.

The Boston came up with the Mohawk at 2.25 this morning about a mile east of Cornfield. The Mohawk was then about an hour's run from New London, her usual terminus on the eastward trip. The Mohawk was stopped and was burning furiously forward. She signalled the Boston, which ran up as close as possible and stood by to give assistance.

A boat bearing two women and members of the crew put out almost immediately after the Boston's arrival and the women were placed safely on board the Fall River line boat.

Those who came in the boat said that the fire on the Mohawk was discovered by those in the pilot house shortly after midnight. It was pretty well forward and the crew were at once sent to their stations to fight the flames.

The great heat, however, prevented them from getting close to the blaze which spread and steadily drove back those who opposed it until the entire vessel seemed doomed. Nevertheless, the [illegible] crew which had come to the Boston [illegible] for nearly an hour still fighting but the effort was vain and when it was seen that nothing further could be done, the members of the crew abandoned the burning vessel going to the Boston in two boats. As they drew away it was seen that the Mohawk was ablaze from end to end, and shortly after the [illegible] the Boston a heavy explosion occurred on the Mohawk. As she carried no [illegible] in her cargo it is supposed that the flames had reached [illegible]. The explosion seemed to lift the deck and the smoke stacks flew upward followed by a burst of flame and dense columns of black smoke. Then the flames leaped up to a great height, and continued burning fiercely. It was apparent that no further purpose would be served if the Boston remained by and she resumed her course for Fall River.

The Mohawk left New York late yesterday afternoon with one of the heaviest cargoes she had ever taken from the city. It included nearly one thousand barrels of sugar, a large quantity of baled rags, besides oil and [illegible].

In fighting the fire none of the crew was hurt and every one was in readiness to reship at Providence on the steamer which will take the place of the Mohawk.

The Mohawk was chartered by the Central Vermont Company from the New London Steamboat Company. Those who were on board of her, were unable to estimate her value or to approximate the value of her cargo.

GEISHA GIRLS

ON THEIR WAY BACK TO JAPAN.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 18.—The hundred and thirty-two Chinese, who have been connected with a World's Fair concession, have departed in special cars for San Francisco whence they will sail for China.

The party is in charge of immigration inspectors and the Chinamen will be closely guarded on the trip, as many of them do not want to return to their natice country.

In one of the cars, accommodations were reserved for 13 Geisha girls, who had also been filling a nengagement at the World's Fair. The Japanese were deported on orders received from Washington where the papers had been sent after a hearing before the local authorities to prevent the girls from being sent out of the country.

There was considerable excitement at the house where the Geisha girls had been under guard by the federal authorities for several weks, when the immigration authorities attempted to escort them to the station. One of the girls refused to leave her room, and it was necessary to carry her to the carriage.

Mr. A. B. Sunbury, leader of the Calumet orchestra, is playing first violin with the orchestra of Howley's minstrels, now ontour in Canada.

DERED AWAY

oes Must Leave Reno, Nevada

ICAGO, Nov. 18—A dispatch to the ribune, from Reno, Nevada, says:

The chief of police has tonight issued an order that all negroes have obeyed the command, and more are leaving by every train. This order is the result of a number of depredations committed by negroes in Reno during the last few weeks.

George Burns was the first offender. He attempted to assault a white girl and narrowly escaped lynching.

He was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary. Other minor events followed, but the culmination came when a negro attempted to assassinate Officer Acree.

WILL SELL ROAD

THERE IS A MORTGAGE OF $250,000.

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—John T. Burnett and John L. Hall of this city, receivers of the Middleboro, Wareham and Buzzards Bay street railway announced today that the road will be sold at auction on December 7, at Middleboro. The sale will be subject to a mortgage of $500,000 held by a Boston Trust company now before the U. S. district court.

Messrs. Burnett and Hall, who are also receivers of the Bristol county street railway, state that that road will be sold under the hammer at Attleboro, December 17. This sale is subject to a mortgage of $250,000. Both roads went into the hands of receivers last spring.

FROM YESTERDAY'S LATE EDITION

TO PROTECT CITY

Mayor Would Take Out Accident Policy

Mayor Howe paid a visit to the Aiken street bridge this morning to see how the work was progressing there and came away perfectly satisfied that it is being pushed with all haste. As he watched the 75 men employed on the bridge His Honor realized that theirs was a dangerous occupation and upon returning to City Hall informed a reporter of The Sun that while watching the men at work it had occurred to him that the city would do well to take out an employers' liability policy for a month or so to cover the period to be covered by the work, so as to protect the city in case of accident.

His Honor consulted with some of the insurance men during the day and if their premiums are not too high in all probability will take out a policy.

BISHOP GARRIGAN

DONATES LOVING CUP TO K. OF C. CASTILIAN TABLE.

Mr. John J. Cain, chairman of the Castilian table of the Knights of Columbus carnival has received a beautiful gift from Bishop Garrigan of Sioux city, Iowa for the table in the shape of a large solid silver loving cup standing two feet high with three genuine stag horn handles and with two crests, one representing a buffalo and the other a Sioux Indian. The words "Sioux City Iowa" are engraved at the base of the cup. It makes an exquisite ornament and in all probability the council will purchase it from the table for an ornament for the council chamber. The Castilian table has been particularly fortunate as regards donations made to it for the bazaar and will offer its patrons a host of beautiful things.

AFTER PLUMBERS

BOARD OF HEALTH WILL PROSECUTE UNLICENSED WORKMEN.

The board of health held its annual review of the financial outcome of the year's work at the meeting in City hall yesterday afternoon. The board opened the discussion at 4.30 with Dr. Jackson, Dr. Huntress, Mr. Doherty and Clerk Knapp present.

The main item of business discussed was the investigation of certain plumbers, who are plying their trade in the city without a proper permit or license. The board will get after these men in short order.

Clerk Knapp stated that $500 or $600 was needed for smallpox. He also announced that $3175 had been paid to the city treasurer up to November 1 for swill.

An examination will be held for plumbers next Monday night at 7.30 p. m., in the office of the board of health.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

"New York Day by Day," a sensational comedy-drama in four acts, was presented at the Academy of Music yesterday afternoon and evening. The plot, features and scenic effects were entirely new and pleased the large audiences. The scenes of the play are located in the slums of New York. A young blind girl, who is the heiress of a fortune, is being swindled out of money which was left her by her father. A rich broker, a fellow workman in the diamond fields of Australia with the blind girls' father, is the villian who tries to rob the girl, but through the combined efforts of a sailor lover of the blind girl and a young ragamuffin the attempts of the villain are foiled and the girl besides recovering her money also recovers the use of her eyes.

During the progress of the play, a number of pleasing specialties are introduced. Mamie Lincoln Prixley in a series of characters; Rags, a street gamin, being the principal, displays the work of a clever young actress. Polly Horne, the blind flower girl, is well portrayed by Miss Grace Welby. Joan Crayan, as Mother Cantwell, and H. E. Hambro as her husband, two depraved creatures of the slums, who will "do any kind of a trick" from petty larceny to murder, for money, play well the parts to which they are assigned. Charles P. Rice as Richard Blakely, a broker, whose every deed is dishonest and low, is quite satisfactory, while Jimmy the Rat, one of his handy men, is well taken care of by James Johnson. Leonard Barry, in the character of Jack Waters, a young American sailor, in love with Polly, makes a favorable impression. Miss Prixley is assisted in the comedy parts by George Barlow as Moses Vopps a hot sausage vender and John Morris as Dennis Fogerty the policeman. The other parts are carried out in a capable manner.

"New York Day by Day" will be presented at the Academy of Music this afternoon and evening and tomorrow afternoon and evening.

WRESTLING NOTES

Tonight James Little and William Ladue will have a 15-minute go. Little will prove a big disappointment if he fails to stay 15 minutes.

Wilfred Barrett and James Prokos will meet tomorrow afternoon. Prokos has had the nose bleed for the past week or more, while wrestling, but he has been operated upon and will probably experience no further trouble from that source. In the opinion of the writer, Barrett is the equal of Prokos and in a finish contest would come out with the long end of the purse.

John J. Little of Brockton claims that a man has a right to catch a wrestler under catch-as-catch-can rules, Little says there is nothing in the rules to prevent coaching and declares that he will be in Jackson's corner with all of the advice at his command on the night of the Jackson-Tremblay match. It's up to the referee. At the last match Referee Walsh stopped the coaching on complaint of Joe Dextra who held the watch for Tremblay.

TELEPHONE WIRE STOLEN.

Several sections of telephone wire on the Billerica road were cut last night and carried away, disabling the circuit. Thirteen or fourteen sections of wire near Burlington were also cut and carried away last night.

The wire thieves got away with about 100 pounds of copper wire.

FOR SKATING POND

Mayor Orders the Ledge Cleaned and Flooded

Mayor Howe today instructed Supt. Farnham to clear the debris from the old ledge in Bowers and Fletcher streets and flood the bottom of it so that the children of the city will have a good and safe skating area by Thanksgiving. Supt. Farnham started a crew of men to work on the ledge this forenoon and promises an ideal skating place in a few days.

LARGELY ATTENDED

FUNERAL OF THE LATE JAMES McDERMOTT.

The funeral of the late James McDermott took place this morning. The funeral was very largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends, including a large number from out of town, also delegates from the G. A. R. and Division 8, A. O. H., the delegation from the latter consisting of Messrs. Patrick Curtin, Thomas Kane, Thomas J. Lynch and John Gallagher.

The funeral took place from his late home, 686 Gorham street, at 8.30 o'clock and proceeded to St. Peter's church in Gorham street, where a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock by Rev. Daniel J. Hefferman, assisted by Rev. W. George Mullin as deacon and Rev. Hugh McDermond as sub-deacon.

The choir, which was augmented for the occasion, was under the direction of Mr. John Warburton and Schmidt's mass was sung. At the offertory Mr. Warburton sang "Pie Jesu" and at the close Miss Mollie G. Ivers rendered "Face to Face". "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" was sung by Mr. James E. Donnelly as the remains were being borne from the church.

There was a profusion of beautiful and appropriate floral offerings in evidence, showing the esteem in which the deceased was held by his many friends and acquaintances, the following being the most prominent:

Mammoth pillow, from Elizabeth and Martha, daughters of the deceased; cross, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hogan; wreath, from friends at C. I. Hood's laboratory; cross, Edward Cunningham and family; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Humphrey; wreath, Miss Kittie Donohue; wreath, Miss Minnie Geary; wreath, Thyne family; pillow, Captain M. E. McDonald; cross, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Meloy; spray of roses, William J. Keenan and Miss Sarah Keenan; spray, Miss Annie Welch; spray, William Callahan and family of Lynn; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tuttle and a large wreath from Edward Meloy.

The bearers were Messrs. Chester Goodwin, Lawrence Roache, Frank Fahey and Capt. J. P. Thompson, representing the G. A. R., and Capt. M. E. McDonald of this city and William Callahan of Lynn, friends of the deceased.

The ushers at the house and church were Messrs. John J. O'Connor, Denis J. Murphy and Charles Kelley of this city and William J. Ronan of Boston.

The interment was in the Catholic cemetery where the last sad rites of the church were solemnized by Rev. Fr. Hefferman. Mr. Daniel E. Hogan had charge of the funeral arrangements, and the interment was under the direction of Funeral Director Charles H. Molloy.

WHIST PARTY

HELD IN KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS HALL LAST EVENING.

A delightful dancing and whist party was held at the Knights of Columbus hall last evening by the Ferdinand table complimentary to the members of the table and their friends and a most enjoyable evening was enjoyed by the young people present. An orchestra provided a pleasing musical program from 8 to 9 and dancing was enjoyed until midnight.

This evening the Porto Santo table will conduct a social and dance at the Knights of Columbus hall.

Saturday night a tea and cake sale and a bean supper will be given by the members of the San Salvador table.

The Columbus table will hold a meeting at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the rooms.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock the sub-committee from the Granada table which is to have charge of the girls' basketball game to be held December 6 will meet at the rooms.

Tuesday night the Isabella table will hold a meeting and social at the hall of the Mathew Temperance Institute.

On Monday night of next week, the Granada table will conduct a complimentary social at the rooms.

Tuesday night the Genoa table will also conduct a social at the rooms. On the same night the Ferdinand table will hold a meeting.

Wednesday night a Thanksgiving party will be held by the Columbus table at the room. The council will hold their regular meeting Thursday evening.

On Friday night the Santa Maria table meets; also the members of the Castillian table.

A bean supper will be held at Post 120 hall on Saturday night of next week by the members of the Porto Santo table.

BURIED IN QUEBEC

BODY OF LATE BROTHER FLORENCE TAKEN THERE.

The remains of the late Rev. Bro. Florence of St. Joseph's college, were removed from the college house in Merrimack street last night shortly before eight o'clock and taken to the Middlesex street station where they were placed on board the 8.10 train for St. Hyacinthe, Que., where the interment took place today.

Rev. Bro. Chrysostol, director of St. Joseph's college, accompanied the remains.

BRYAN STIRRED

He Opens Up on Roosevelt

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 18—Declaring Theodore Roosevelt to be something of a political accident, but insisting he has an opportunity such as comes to but few men in a generation, William J. Bryan devotes a page of his forthcoming Commoner to the election of the president and what he should accomplish. He begins with an attack, by saying no candidate for the presidency ever used the power of his office more openly or notoriously to secure a renomination.

Mr. Bryan enumerates some of the reforms with which Mr. Roosevelt should signalize his election, such as a stand on the side of the people, opposition to plutocracy and trusts, more strict regulation of the railroads and a change in policy toward the Philippines, and says:

"He owes his first elevation to the presidency to an unexpected event, the murder of a president. He owes his recent great victory largely to the error of democratic leaders. Others have therefore given him the opportunity which he coveted; how will he employ it? His place in history will depend not upon what others have done for him, but upon what he does for the country."

Mr. Bryan also discusses the lesson of the election as it affects democracy. He says:

"Eight years ago the democratic party put its hand to the plow and began the work of reform. Defeat dampened the ardor of some in 1900, but still the party continued to cultivate the seed sown in 1896. And again the season was unpropitious, and by 1904 there were enough who were discouraged to turn the party organization over to those who had not been in full sympathy with the party's purpose.

"Those who had tried to prevent the reorganization of the party went down in the general wreck with those who were conspicuous in leading the party astray. If the penalty fell only upon the guilty there would be less care taken to put the party right, and keep it right. But when the whole party must bear the blame for the action of those who obtain control, members of the party who desire to make the organization effective in behalf of reforms are forced to be ever upon the alert.

"Let the experience of 1904 be a warning for the future. Let the work of organization begin today, in order that the party may regain, at the first opportunity, the ground that has been lost."

SEVERAL SHOCKS

EARTHQUAKE FELT IN CENTRAL ITALY.

ROME, Nov. 18.—Severe earthquake shocks were felt today in central Italy and especially at Florence, Pisa and Urbino. No damage was done.

TOOK HIS MONEY

MAN HELD UP IN BACK BAY STATION.

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—George Norman, a wealthy resident of Newport and well known in this city, was held up by three men early today at the Back Bay railroad station and was robbed of about $90.

Mr. Norman had been visiting friends in Boston and was on his way home. At the station three men crowded about him and while one seized his arm, the others searched his pockets.

He is an athlete and a member of the Myopia polo team. He exerted all his strength in an effort to release himself and when railroad employes came to his assistance, two of the robbers fled. The third man was held by Mr. Norman and he was placed under arrest. He gave his name as Joseph Robinson, aged 23. The two missing men are supposed to have the money which the Newport man missed from his pocket.

CHINAMEN WIN

VERDICT OF $800 FOR EACH OF THEM.

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—Chin Wing and George Zee Wah, who sued John J. Leonard, an undertaker in Dorchester, for damages for assault and battery committed on them by the defendant, were given verdicts yesterday by a jury in the seventh session of the superior court, before Judge Fox.

Wing recovered $550 and Wah obtained $250. Each sued for $2000. These were the first suits to be brought in this state by Chinese for damages for injuries arising from assaults made on them.

Leonard assaulted the Chinese in Melrose March 18, 1903.

PERSONALS

Rev. P. L. Despouy has arrived in this city, from Portugal, to assist Rev. Joaquin V. Rosa, pastor of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic church on Gorham street. Fr. Despouy arrived at the parish house on Tuesday and at once began his duties. He is a native of Portugal, where he received his education and has ministered for the past 10 years. Fr. Rosa has been without an assistant since last April, when Rev. H. R. Ferriera went back to the Western Islands.

L. Percy Hands is playing quarter and Melvin F. Master is playing halfback on the freshman football team at the University of Vermont.

Leon R. Whitcomb, class of '05, University of Vermont, has resigned his position as assistant in the freshman chemistry laboratory and will engage in newspaper work connected with the college. Mr. Whitcomb is a student in the chemistry department and president of the University Chemistry club.

Miss Sadie Ella Mansell held a pretty party at her home, 72 Third street, Thursday evening, celebrating her 11th birthday anniversary. Her young friends spent the evening enjoyably, playing games and hearing musical selections on the piano. Refreshments were served at 9 o'clock, and an hour later the party came to an end. Miss Mansell, who is very popular in the neighborhood, received many gifts from her friends.

LAWRENCE MAN APPOINTED.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 18.—J. Avery Gould, superintendent of the Riverside mill of the American Woolen company in Olneyville, has resigned to go into partnership with Charles Chapin and operate mills in Concord, N. H.

Charles Coggeshall of Lawrence, Mass., will supersede Mr. Gould at the Riverside mill.

TURKEYS ARE HIGH

Scarcity of Festive Bird is Threatened

Now that Thanksgiving day is approaching interest as to what will be the price of poultry is being manifested among the Lowell householders, as well as among the householders all over New England. A tour among the wholesalers here revealed the fact that while there is some difference of opinion as to the price that will prevail all are agreed that the fat turkeys will be pretty scarce this year.

One cause of the shortage can be assigned to President Roosevelt, for his proclamation giving the date for Thanksgiving brings that day something like a week earlier this year than it was last.

Another reason is that in most of the turkey raising states the spring was late and wet and the young birds were not hatched until some ten days later than is usually the case.

Then again the present fall has been late and warm and turkeys have not been restricted in their range and fed grain to fatten them.

To those who are acquainted with the habits of the turkey it is a well known fact that these birds to do well must have a wide range and that when turkeys are bred to become prime birds for market a wide range and choice of feed with good water is a necessity. A turkey deprived of his liberty, no matter how well fed, will not do so well as those not under restraint with less feed, and the present fall having been warm and open the birds have kept their range and grown to bone and muscle. Had the weather been cold and stormy so that they would have been led to seek shelter of their own volition, in the fence corners and coverts about the farm house, they would have sought their feed in the grain usually scattered for fattening fowls when they remain about their hatching houses. By so doing all feeling of the restraint is done away with and the bird picks up more grain and, not ranging wide, lays on more fat. Bad weather is about the only restraint that will work well with a turkey and as the weather has been good the turkeys have not been kept about the farm buildings where they could obtain the corn and other grains they need to fatten them for market.

Chickens and fowls are much different in their habits and the prospect for an adequate supply of this class of poultry is good, though on account of the scarcity of turkeys prices will go high.

The Lowell poultry dealers as wholesalers go back a good many years and some of the oldest of them expressed the opinion to a reporter that good poultry would be had as usual though turkeys are scarce and will come high. Their advices indicate that there will be very light shipments from the West, if any, and that Kentucky is about the only state that will ship turkeys East for this season's Thanksgiving trade, and that prices will range as high or higher than ever before known in this city for Thanksgiving turkeys.

There is little known as yet as to what the East will show in the way of turkey shipments and the wholesale price of birds here, it is predicted, will reach 30 cents per pound and may go to 32.

The outlook for Christmas Turkeys is better, because the winter weather will drive the turkeys to depend on house feed and as they will seek shelter they will lay on fat, instead of building bone and muscle, and be in condition for market.

The local supply of turkeys is nothing practically, but a good stock of fowls and chickens is in the hands of growers being fitted to kill for the Thanksgiving market fitted to kill for the Thanksgiving trade.

Miners Killed by Explosion of Gas

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 19.—A Fernie, B. C., despatch to the Pioneer Press says fourteen miners were killed at the Carbonado mines near Morrissey yesterday afternoon as a result of a terrific explosion of coal gas. The disaster occurred in No. 1 mine, ten miles west of Fernie. The work of rescue was kept up all the afternoon and all the bodies have been recovered.

The dead:

Mr. Jenkins, Louis Carker, Peter Kenny, Albert Johnson, Patrick Boyle, William Platt, Michael Gustrick, Anton Prebenick, Venesla Venecka, Martin Tomzarky, Anton and John Prondee, two brothers, Joseph Suchy and James Greenman.

TYNGSBORO GRANGE

HELD ITS FIRST ANNUAL FAIR LAST NIGHT.

The Tyngsboro grange held its first annual fair last evening, and the affair was a success. The attendance was large, the entertainment good and the tables were well patronized. The following committee had charge of the fair: Otis L. Wright, chairman; William J. Collins, and Mrs. Annie W. Wood.

The entertainment was in charge of Miss C. Josephine Colburn and the tableaux included: "Abou Ben Adem," "Rock of Ages," "The Flower of the Family," and "The Child's Evening Prayer." In the first named, Mr. H. H. Upton personated "Abou," the Abraian chief, and Miss Grace Collins was the vision in white. The story itself was delivered by Miss Colburn. In the "Flower of the Family," the first scene showed a flour barrel on the stage, and the following one displayed both the flour and the flower, for a little girl was in the barrel then. Miss Mattie Worcester appeared in this tableau. In the "Child's Evening Prayer," Mrs. Charles Worcester and Miss Mattie Worcester were the characters. Miss Grace E. Matthews and Miss Lottie Upton appeared in the "Rock of Ages."

The program:

Piano solo, Miss Bertha Danforth; recitation, Miss Grace E. Matthews; piano solo, Mrs. Fred O. Noyes; reading, Mrs. Annie R. Harlow; song, Duncan Campbell; piano solo, Miss Maude Marshall; graphophone selections.

The following committees were on duty at tables:

Five and ten cent table—Mrs. Jeannette P. Strong, chairman; Mrs. W. J. Collins, assistant.

Fancy table—Mrs. Eulo A. Perham, chairman; Miss Carrie Flint.

Candy table Mrs. Perry A. Flint, chairman; Miss Alice Dickinson.

Domestic table Mrs. P. B. Lawrence, chairman; Miss Sarah Slack, assistant.

Donation table (farmers' supplies, vegetables, etc.)—Lucien C. McLoon, chairman.

Mystery table—Mrs. Annie E. Wood, chairman.

Supper was served from 6 until 8 o'clock and the tables in the dining hall was attractively arranged. The committee in charge: Otis L. Wright, chairman; William J. Collins, Mrs. Annie E. Wood, Benjamin B. Lawrence. A number of the young women assisted in serving.

There were visitors present from Dracut, Tewksbury, Chelmsford and Lowell.

Cake sale and bean supper, Knights of Columbus' hall, Saturday, Nov. 19.

ICE TOO THIN

AMESBURY BOY BROKE THROUGH AND WAS DROWNED.

AMESBURY, Nov. 19.—Arthur Page, aged about 10 years, was drowned at Clark's pond yesterday afternoon. Young Page, who is an adopted son of Mrs. Amanda Page, was walking out upon the ice with a playmate, Benny Coughlin, when both lads went through the ice into several feet of water.

The Coughlin boy was rescued insensible. It is expected that he will recover.

The body of young Page was recovered by Conrad Peterson and Frank W. Pierce, who put out in a boat. Yesterday noon another boy broke through the ice near where these boys went in, but he was rescued at once.

BUST OF MORGAN

WILL BE PLACED IN PALACE AT ASCOLI.

ROME, Nov. 19.—The municipality of Ascoli has, by acclamation, conferred honorary citizenship upon J. Pierpont Morgan in recognition of his action in restoring to the city the famous Ascoli cope. It was also decided to place a bust of Mr. Morgan in the city palace, together with a marble tablet recording his generous action and to bestow his name upon one of the principal streets of the city.

$20,000 LOSS

LORETTO ACADEMY IN CAIRO DESTROYED.

CAIRO, Ills., Nov. 19.—Fire last night destroyed all the buildings of the Loretto academy, located in this city, with their contents, causing a loss of $20,000. The academy was one of the oldest educational institutions in this section, having been established by the Loretto sisters during the war and conducted by them until last year when it came under the control of the Benedictine sisters.

SCHWAB'S PLANS

FOR HIS SHOP IN BETHLEHEM, PA.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Herald today prints an interview with Chas. M. Schwab, former president of the United States Steel corporation in which Mr. Schwab is quoted as saying that he intends to make in his Bethlehem (Pa.) plant, all sorts of guns, gun forgings, tools, etc., which require the highest workmanship. Mr. Schwab's plans according to the interview are to put the plant on a par with the Krupp works in Germany and those of Vickers Sons and Makim company of England.

STEAMER DAMAGED.

SAN JUAN, P. R., Nov. 19.—The Red D line steamer Caracas, Captain Woodrick, from New York for La Guayra arrived here late yesterday with eight of her staterooms wrecked. The Caracas encountered a hurricane off Cape May on November 15 and for thirty-six hours the ship was flooded. Three men passengers were nearly drowned. Captain Woodrick says it was the worst storm he had experienced in thirty-six years. The passengers are all well.

FOUNDERS ASSOCIATION.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 19.—The National Founders association which has been in session here since Wednesday, last night issued an "outline of policy," which has been adopted by the convention to be pursued in the factories of the association.

Employes will be paid by the hourly rate, premium system, piece work or contract, as the employers may elect. It is the privilege of the workman to leave when he sees fit and the privilege of the employer to discharge a man when he sees it.

Disapproving absolutely of strikes and lockouts, the members of the association will not arbitrate any questions with men on strike. Neither will the association commence a lockout on any arbitrable question, unless arbitration has failed.

In case of disagreement concerning matters not covered by the foregoing, announcement, members are advised to meet their employes either individually or collectively and endeavor to adjust the difficulty on a fixed and equitable bases.

The operation of piece work, premium plan or contract system now in force, to be extended or established in the future, the association will not commence any conditions of wages which are not just, or which will not allow a workman of average efficiency to earn at least fair wages.

JEWELS STOLEN

LOCK ON A TRUNK WAS BROKEN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Holly, of Lexington, Ky., who are in this city, reported that one of their trunks was robbed of jewelry valued at nearly $25,000. Dr. Holly is a prominent southern physician.

Dr. and Mrs. Holly came to this city last Sunday. On inspecting their baggage when it reached the hotel here, it was found that the lock of a trunk had been opened and the jewels were missing. It is not known where the theft occurred.

This is the time to buy coal. See Fred H. Rourke, 984 Gorham street.

To Aid the Fall River Strikers

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—By unanimous vote, the delegates to the American Federation of Labor yesterday decided to aid the striking textile workers of Fall River to the extent of $25,000 per week for three weeks. If by the end of this time it is found that the strike is not broken, the executive council will, if it sees fit, continue the donation. The money for the purpose is to be raised by an assessment of one cent each week levied on each member of every labor organization affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Stirring and impassioned addresses on behalf of the workers of the Fall River district were delivered. Delegate Driscoll of Boston put the motion before the house, which was carried amid the cheers of the entire convention. Many delegates arose in their seats and on behalf of the organizations which they represented, offered then and there, to hand over to Delegate Golden, checks to cover the amount of their respective unions' assessments.

Further than considerlug few resolutions no other business was transacted by the delegates and an adjournment was taken until today.

PRES. ROOSEVELT

SADDENED BY ATTACKS UPON HIM IN THE SOUTH.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Colonel John S. Mosby received a few months ago a letter from Judge Boulhac of Birmingham, Ala., commenting on the attitude of the southern people toward the president personally.

Colonel Mosby sent the letter to Oyster Bay, as he thought the sentiments expressed in it by a confederate veteran would be gratifying to the president.

He received a reply which he did not publish during the campaign, as he felt that the president's motives in writing the letter would be misconstrued. The letter is as follows:

"Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 10, 1904.

"(Personal.)

"My Dear Col. Mosby—That is a fine letter of Boulhac's and I appreciate it. I have always been saddened rather than angered by the attacks upon me in the south. I am half a southerner myself, and I can say with all possible sincerity that the interests of the south are exactly as dear to me as the interests of the north. Sincerely yours, (Signed) "THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

"Col. John S. Mosby, Department of Justice, Washington."

REPUBLICAN MAJORITY

WILL BE LARGER THAN USUAL.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The official figures show that the republicans will have in the house the largest majority in the history of congress, with one exception, the 54th. They gained 41 members by the late election. Of the 386 members they will have 251 and the democrats 135, a majority of 116.

Gains were made in 17 states as follows: California 3, Delaware 1, Illinois 6, Indiana 2, Iowa 1, Kentucky 1, Massachusetts 1, Michigan 1, Minnesota 1, Missouri 3, Nebraska 1, Nevada 1, New Jersey 2, New York 6, North Carolina 1, Ohio 3 and Pennsylvania 2.

In the 54th congress there were 246 republicans and 101 democrats, a republican majority of 142.

BISHOP WILSON

ELECTED PRESIDENT OF ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 19.—The American Anti-Saloon league adjourned yesterday after electing Bishop Luther D. Wilson of Maryland, President, and other officers.

The resolutions adopted declare that the liquor traffic must be regarded and dealt with as a crime; call upon congress to make prohibition a condition of statehood for the Indian Territory, and favor the passage of the so-called Hepburn-Dolliver bill "in such form as shall effectively secure to the states power to control the liquor traffic within their own boundaries from without under the guise of interstate commerce."

With reference to the army canteen the resolutions say:

"We deplore the lack of co-operation of army officers in the establishment of post canteens where the men may congregate and where common necessaries may be purchased and where entertaining recreations may be enjoyed by the men, free from the debauching influence of drink and gambling and for which post exchanges with proper accessories for recreation congress has already appropriated a million and a half dollars.

"Until exchanges without intoxicating liquors have had a full and fair trial, in spirit and effort, during the existence of conditions essential to their success, we will do all in our power to resist the efforts of the liquor interests and their friends to have the law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors on military reservations repealed."

The resolutions call upon the state and territorial legislatures to prohibit traffic in intoxicating liquors within two or more miles of all military reservations, and urge the government to encourage total abstinence among the officers and men of the army.

WILD EXCITEMENT

In the Hungarian Parliament Yesterday

BUDA PEST, Hungary, Nov. 19.—The lower house of the Hungarian parliament yesterday passed Premier Tissza's motion altering for a year the standing orders of the house so as to allow afternoon sittings from 4 to 9 in addition to the ordinary morning sessions with the object of overcoming obstructions and expediting public business. The entire opposition had previously left the house singing the Kossuth hymn, Francis Kossuth having declared that the Hungarian opposition would never agree to such an illegal procedure.

The lower house resumed its sitting at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Count Apponyi, the leader of the opposition, declared that the sitting was illegal and that his party was there under protest merely to exercise control.

The session lasted until 10 o'clock at night with evidences of rising temper, when Premier Tissza, in a speech dealing with obstruction, declared there was no choice between abandoning the nation to its fate or putting an end to this comedy.

President of the Chamber De Perczel, in the midst of increasing disorder, then tried to put to a vote the motion dealing with obstruction, but was met with howls of derision and screams of passionate protestation.

Deputy Rakosi handed the president a paper demanding that the sitting be closed, and on the refusal of the president to accept the paper, Rakosi threatened him with a pair of scissors.

Many members hurried to President De Perczel's assistance. Seats, books and ink pots were hurled at De Perczel and insulting epithets were freely employed. The opposing parties were hardly prevented from indulging in fisticuffs.

Finally the president read the royal rescript proroguing the house and the sitting closed with scenes of the wildest excitement.

PRAISE SERVICE

AND ANNUAL THANK OFFERING AT KIRK STREET CHURCH.

Last night in the vestry of the Kirk street church was held the annual thank offering and praise service, the sum of $212.87 being found in the envelopes.

The boys' choir of the church sang sweetly, and Edward Wirt gave a pleasing rendition of "The Hymn of Praise." A. C. Spalding, the church organist, presided at the piano.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Robert A. Hume, D. D., a missionary of the American board in India, who is enjoying his third vacation in thirty years. His home for the present is in Springfield. Queen Victoria decorated Dr. Hume with the Kaiser I Hind gold medal, in recognition of his distinguished service in connection with the great Indian famine. The speaker referred to his former visit to Kirk street church, when, in 1886, during the pastorate of Dr. Dana he spoke in the local church.

GENERAL FIGHT

Two Sicilians Were Fatally Stabbed

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 19.—John Cunard, 35, and Vincenzo Cursisi, 30 years of age, both Sicilians, were perhaps fatally stabbed in a general fight in the Federal hill Italian colony last night. The former is at the Rhode Island hospital with his throat cut almost from ear to ear and the latter with his abdomen ripped open and a portion of his entrails protruding. During the fight, the cause of which is unknown, another man is believed to have been shot, but he escaped with four others. Both of the injured men refuse to talk about the affairs and their relatives who matter revenge against the assailants, refuse to help the police in running down the men who were concerned in the affair.

ANNUAL DANCE

OF THE AMERICAN GLEE CLUB LAST EVENING.

One of the most popular and successful social events of the season was the second annual dance given by the American Glee Club in Prescott Hall last evening.

Excellent music was provided by the Kittredge orchestra and the event was under the general management of Walter W. Maher, assisted by Charles F. Sweeney, Bernard J. O'Hagan acting as floor director, assisted by John T. McCabe.

There were twenty numbers on the programme of dances. The grand march and circle was led by Bernard J. O'Hagan and Miss Amelia Proctor, followed by fully two hundred couples, all of whom heartily enjoyed the pleasures of the evening.

Edward J. Higgins acted as chief aid, assisted by members of the American Glee Club.

The reception committee was composed of Paul Conway, chairman; Miss Mary McCaffrey, Miss Bessie McCaffrey, Miss Amelia Proctor, Miss Ida Reidy, Miss Eva Grooms, Miss Jennie Leahy, Miss Annie Keyes and Miss Winnie Gannon.

BOY DROWNED

HAVERHILL LAD'S SLED WENT THROUGH ICE.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Nov. 19.—Arthur McCiss, 10 years old, was drowned in Little river here yesterday. The boy was coasting down a hill and his sled went onto the river. The ice gave way and the boy was drowned before assistance arrived. The body was recovered about an hour later by the police.

SECOND NIGHT

Carnival of Nations a Great Success

The second night of the Carnival of Nations at the armory in Westford street was as great a success as was the opening night. The attendance was very large and exceptionally appreciative and enthusiastic. The tables were even more liberally patronized than on the night before and everybody was in the best of cheer.

The carnival march, as on the preceding night, was a thing of beauty and a joy forever. The pupils of Miss Blanche Perrin performed delightful evolutions and danced themselves into the hearts of the spectators.

No changes were made in the arrangement of the tables, Cake and ice cream were dispensed at the Scottish table and the Irish table with its myriads of green shamrocks was visited by a large number who made liberal purchases.

The American table was partially hidden from view by the large crowds who gathered to show that they were with "Old Glory" and had the prerequisite with them to make purchases. The French table and the Russian table both came in for their share of attention, as did the "Gloria" booth. The Russian table had a taking feature—the fortune teller's tent, presided over by Madame Zoka. The Chinese table was originally beautiful and the "Chinks" in charge did a land-office business.

The English table was devoted principally to the sale of sweetmeats, and here loving couples were found making frequent visits.

The gaudy and attractive Spanish table with its many attractive articles, and the shooting gallery, and peanut-guessing buried as additional features, were magnets which drew forth the pocketbooks of those who passed that way.

The Japanese table was a bower of loveliness with its cut flowers, ferns and plants and articles of fancy work.

The German table was rich with beautiful articles which caught the fancy of all.

Following the stage program there was general dancing to the music of the Cadet orchestra.

PLEASANT SOCIAL.

The Sam Walter Foss Literary club held its first social of the season on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Albert French on Parkview avenue, and a delightful afternoon was passed. A musical and literary program was furnished by the hostess, consisting of a piano solo by Mrs. A. E. Kenyon and Mrs. Robert Gilmore; banjo playing by Zoella Swanton and readings and song by little Miss Mildred French. Supper and a dainty lunch served by the hostess as chairman, assisted by Mrs. Will H. Howe, Mrs. Arthur French, Miss S. A. Pickering and Mrs. Robert Gilmore, filled in the afternoon.

The club is taking up "Current Events" for the next three months' study, Japan being the subject of the next meeting, which is to be held with Mrs. F. J. Spaulding, 32 Grace street.

COMMITTED SUICIDE

DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS INSTITUTED AGAINST MRS. FENNESSY.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 19.—Mrs. Grace Morrill Fennessy, aged 28 years, the wife of Col. James E. Fennessy, proprietor of Houcks Opera House in this city and well-known throughout the country as a leading member of the vaudeville theatrical syndicate, committed suicide last night by swallowing carbolic acid. Recently her husband instituted divorce proceedings.

SECRETARY MORTON

TAKEN ILL AT A BANQUET IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Secretary of the Navy Paul Morton was taken ill last evening at the dinner of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers at Delmonico's.

Secretary Morton had been assigned to speak to the toast "The President of the United States," and he represented President Roosevelt at the banquet. He spoke but a short time and then excused himself and left the banquet hall.

Rear Admiral Bowles (retired), who presided, told the guests that Secretary Morton was ill and wished him to offer his excuses for leaving them so soon, that he was not seriously sick but did not feel well enough to remain longer at the banquet.

It was said later that Secretary Morton had left for Washington.

SHOT AND KILLED

MEN HAD A DISPUTE OVER POLITICS.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 19—Noah Bailey, a prosperous merchant, was shot and killed on the street at Panther last evening by Roscoe Henderson, who fled to the hills. He is still at large, though being pursued by a party of his victim's friends. Bad blood arising from differences on politics was the cause of the shooting. Bailey and Henderson were friends until a few weeks ago.

FATALLY INJURED

MOTORMAN WAS PINNED UNDER WRECKAGE.

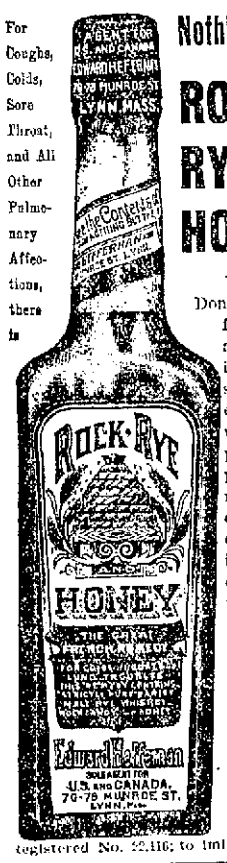

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—In a rear-end collision on the Kings County elevated road in Brooklyn last night, Isaac Smith, a motorman was fatally injured. Smith was pinned down in the wreckage and it was nearly an hour before the police and fire departments were able to effect his release. In the meantime a physician managed to reach him through the crushed woodwork and gave him hypodermic injections to relieve his sufferings.

SUFFERING IN FALL RIVER.

There must be considerable suffering in Fall River among the operatives out on strike. The city has withdrawn aid from able-bodied men and women who can support themselves by going back to work. This will increase the suffering, unless averted by the $75,000 contribution of the American Federation of Labor.

FOR PRESIDENT OF HARVARD.

President Roosevelt is mentioned as possible successor to President Eliot of Harvard as head of the great university. Prof. Norton of Harvard rises to remark that Roosevelt is ineligible for the place on account of being a pronounced partisan, and second because he is not of New England birth and tradition. The partisan objection we take it is well founded, but the other would tend to broaden the office and the institution rather than the reverse.

LAWYER COTTON'S SCHEME OVERCOME.

The state of Massachusetts is fighting against paying an excessive legal fee to one John R. Cotton, a lawyer of Boston. Congress recently appropriated over $1,600,000 to compensate the state of Massachusetts for fitting out troops during the Civil war, and this Mr. Cotton, who it is alleged, was employed by the then state authorities to look after the claim, says he was to receive ten per cent. of the claim in case he should secure it from the government at Washington.

Cotton had received the check or warrant for the money and refused to pay it over to the state until he received ten per cent. of the amount.

Attorney General Moody has ordered the warrant in Cotton's hands to be cancelled and another made out payable to the state treasurer. Thus Cotton's scheme is frustrated, but no doubt expensive litigation will ensue.

THE LAST OF THE TRADING STAMPS.

The day of the trading stamp is about over in Lowell and we may add in the state. Already the merchants of this city have come to an agreement as to what they will do so that January 1, 1905, will see the business wound up in Lowell and in all probability there will be no reputable business man in this city who will have the hardihood to use trading stamps or any substitute for trading stamps after the date mentioned.

The state of Massachusetts has already passed a law to put an embargo upon the use of trading stamps—this no doubt because of the manner in which they engrafted themselves upon the business of the leading merchants. The companies rent stores and produce nothing except stamps. They furthermore coerce the business men of the city to use stamps in order not to be outdone by rivals while the craze is on, for it must be admitted that the companies working upon the desire of the people to get something for nothing, have been able to influence trade by the use of stamps represented as having a positive financial value. The companies have thus been drawing a regular income from the profits of hard working business men and in many cases they have failed to fulfill their pledges to the merchants and thus the merchants have been blamed.

But the law passed by the Massachusetts legislature to take effect Dec. 1, will probably close up the various shades of stamps, whether blue, green, yellow or pink.

The law provides that hereafter on the first day of January and the first day in July each year, every person, firm or corporation doing a trading stamp business shall make a return to the treasurer of the city or town in which the business is carried on, stating the number of checks, coupons or similar devices sold, given or delivered in connection therewith during the preceding six months. Then the treasurer of such city or town will compute a tax of 3 per cent. on the total receipts of the business on which such stamps, checks or coupons are given and shall direct the collector of taxes to collect the same amount in the same manner as any other tax.

For omission to make such returns a fine of from $5 to $15 per day for the first fifteen days after the date on which the return is required to be made and a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $200 for every day thereafter until the return is made will be imposed.

Already the treasurer is getting ready to call for the returns under the new law. The stamp companies are claiming that the law is unconstitutional, that it will be overturned by the supreme court, but that prophecy may not be fulfilled. Even the law should be overthrown it is pretty certain that the merchants will combine to rid themselves of a nuisance based upon greed, carried out under the delusion that the stamps guarantee the purchaser something for nothing and leave the unscrupulous stamp sharks to be the final arbiters as to what the stamps are worth when the books are filled and the premiums are demanded.

IMMIGRATION ABUSES TO BE REMEDIED.

United States inspectors, who have been investigating the subject of immigration at foreign ports, report a condition of affairs that calls for prompt remedy. At least two countries encourage their subjects to come to this country to earn money and return home to invest it. Hungary and Italy, it is understood, are the countries in question. As a result of investigation a number of immigrants from these countries, may be deported. A number of Hebrews come here for the sole purpose of qualifying as citizens and then go to the Holy Land under the protection afforded by our government. It was for an American citizen of this type that the president sent a fleet to Tangiers to demand his release from an outlaw chief.

It is hinted also that there is a bureau in existence in Europe for the manufacture of bogus naturalization papers. This is quite an easy thing as the papers could be easily copied and signatures forged. Were it not profitable it would not be carried on in Europe. Such papers, however, would be of no use in securing the protection of this government in a foreign country. They might be used as a means of securing admission to deceive the immigration officials. Hereafter, however, it is expected there will be greater scrutiny at once to guard against such imposition.

Another thing which this government has in contemplation is the deportation of certain paupers and criminals from European nations, none of whom has any claim upon this country.

The immigration laws are in many cases blamable for laxity in permitting ineligible immigrants to embark. For this they will be held responsible hereafter.

On the other hand it is claimed that on several of the lines the immigrants are subjected to insult and maltreatment at the hands of certain members of the crew. Complaints were made by several immigrants at Boston and by others at New York and this matter has been brought to the attention of trans-Atlantic companies so that they will exercise greater vigilance in the future. There is much need of reform as many women and young girls have been shamefully treated by members of the crew who held positions of some authority.

On the whole, therefore, there are many abuses carried on in connection with the immigration question which will be wiped out as soon as possible.

BUSINESS REVIVAL

20,000 MORE MEN EMPLOYED BY RAILROADS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—A revival of business on the railroads entering the city has, according to statistics gathered by the Herald, resulted within the last six weeks in the re-employment of more than 20,000 men who were dropped from the pay rolls during a period of a few months ending with June 1, last.

In this list the Pennsylvania company, which made the most sweeping reduction, is estimated to have taken back on its many systems, 11,000 men; the New York Central has restored 6000 more; the Reading system, in the neighborhood of 2000, and the Independent lines as many more. At every railroad office in New York and Philadelphia the statement was "running on full time in every department" or "will be running on full time very soon."

In addition to this, the railroads, which were compelled to economize in the purchase of freight cars, during the dull period, have all ordered new equipment. The New York Central has ordered 5000 new freight and 155 new locomotives. The Pennsylvania has ordered 6000 new freight cars besides a number of new locomotives. In the other roads the orders will exceed 4000 new freight cars.

PASTOR SENTENCED

HE MUST SERVE A TERM IN JAIL.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 18.—W. P. Squires, pastor of the First Baptist church, East Brookfield, was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 or serve 30 days in jail by Judge William T. Forbes in the probate court today for contempt of court. Mr. Squires in his defense said he had no intention of committing contempt, and said that he could not pay the fine. He was removed to the Worcester county jail by Deputy Sheriff W. W. Scott.

The trouble arose over a suit in equity of the First Baptist church against W. Hayward and others to determine what should be done with the Harrington fund for which Mr. Hayward was trustee. Mr. Squires wrote a letter in which he tried to show that three of the four witnesses had perjured themselves. The summons declared that the writer of this letter had used undue and improper influence with the court, while the case was pending.

1200 SPELLBINDERS

WILL HOLD BANQUET AT WALDORF-ASTORIA.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—At the dinner which 1200 of the men who made speeches for the republican candidates in the recent campaign are to give at the Waldorf Astoria on the night of November 30, President Roosevelt is expected to be the guest of honor. The entire first floor of the hotel has been engaged. Secretary of state John Hay, Senator C. W. Fairbanks, Chairman Cortelyou, Governor Odell, Governor-elect Higgins, and a score of republican statesmen of national fame have been invited.

President Roosevelt has not indicated whether he will attend or not. The affair is to be known as the Roosevelt and Fairbanks jubilee banquet. It will be the biggest political dinner held in this city for many years.

LOWELL COAL CO.

Attached For $35,000 by Boston Creditor

EMBARRASSMENT MAY BE ONLY TEMPORARY

Directors Held Special Meeting Yesterday Afternoon

The Lowell Coal company, the largest coal and wood establishment in this city, has been attached for $35,000 by M. L. Cobb of Boston, dealer in soft coal, and the attachment was served on Wednesday evening by Deputy Sheriff E. W. Clark.

As a result of the attachment a special meeting of the company's directors, local bank men and lawyers, was held in the office of McIntire & Wilson, yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of devising ways and means whereby the Cobb claim could be satisfied and local creditors kept from pressing upon the corporation for the present so that the concern can continue in business.

Present at the meeting were Chas. E. McIntire and William H. Wilson, attorneys for the Lowell Coal company; Norman P. Hesseltine, of Boston, representing the interests of M. L. Cobb; F. E. Dunbar, appearing for the Lowell Gas Light company; John J. Hogan, representative of the Lowell Trust company; James J. Kerwin, appearing for the Old Lowell bank, Charles M. Williams, cashier of the same institution; Walter Moore, general manager of the Lowell Coal company; William E. Livingstone, president and treasurer, and Arthur C. Moore, clerk and director.

The situation was carefully discussed, the meeting covering a period of several hours, and at its conclusion William H. Wilson, counsel for the Lowell Coal company, gave out the following statement to the newspapers:

"The Lowell Coal company is financially embarrassed. That is true. The meeting was to devise ways and means whereby M. L. Cobb, a wholesale soft coal dealer of Boston, may be satisfied. He has an attachment for $35,000 against the company. His actual bill amounts to $27,000. Plans were discussed and were given to Mr. Hesseltine, Mr. Cobb's representative. Until we hear from Mr. Cobb, the course of the corporation will not be known. We should have an answer by Monday. Then, probably, we shall know whether he accepts the offer made. Local creditors were represented and there was a sprinkling of local bank men."

Mr. Wilson said the trouble was the result of selling coal to the people of Lowell under cost.

What the object of such a policy could be he did not state.

Mr. Arthur C. Moore said: "I am not in a position to say anything relative to the attachment. We have a good line of customers and a good trade. I understand that matters can be fixed up all right, and confidently expect that they will be. We have lost money as a result of selling coal at such a low price. I think we have sufficient assets to pay debts all right."

REPORT INCORRECT.

DEAD INDIANS

PETRIFIED ONES USED FOR CIGAR SIGNS.

Joe De Champ, a backwoodsman living in the Three River Falls region, in northern Minnesota, says the Anaconda (Mont.) Standard has lately been engaged in removing the remains of Indians from their graves in the lands soon to be opened to settlement. The bodies he robberies in places outside the ceded lands. Among the stories of his experiences in the former cemetery of the aborigines is one regarding the finding of several perfectly petrified bodies, and the uncanny feeling which one has when he listens to the account is intensified at the end, when it is related that one of the petrified aborigines was used as a hitching post, while another served as a cigar sign. Eight men worked with Joe digging for the bodies of the dead Indians. Joe receives $14.50 for each corpse from the government; therefore he is exceedingly industrious. The moonbeams filtering through the branches of the pines, shone down on Joe one night as he labored with pick and spade. About him the razed fence that had been built about the final resting place of a tribal leader formed a decorative festoon.

Dig, dig, dig, stopping only to wipe the perspiration from his brow, Joe labored on. He heard not the croaking of the frogs in the pond near by, nor paid he any attention to the echoing calls of the animals that roamed abroad in their nocturnal search for food. Encountering what appeared to be a stone, Joe laid aside his shovel, mopped his sweaty face, and then set to work with a pick. Joe is a callous man, used to looking composedly on grinning skulls and heaps of bones, but when he saw there, in the uncertain light, the grim countenance of a real red man, sticking up in the hole he had made, he fled for his assistants, roused them from their sleep and enlisted their services in exhuming his perturbed mind and in completing the removal of the body. Finally the report reached the Chippewa village, and then there was more trouble for De Champ, who had various heart-to-heart talks with inquiring red people.

The upshot of it all was that the cigar sign and the hitching post have been decently buried—if, indeed, the bodies were ever used for that purpose. The petrified bodies, almost perfectly preserved were removed from the shallow grave with difficulty. Near by another body was encountered in the same condition, and laid aside while the work of removing the other mortal remains progressed. It so happens that De Champ is a great joker, and when the story of the petrified cigar Indian and the aboriginal hitching post got around his friends began to ask about his resurrection operations with mock seriousness. Altogether Joe has taken up 113 Indians. Of the number, 25 were of the Catholic faith and were reburied at the agency. The remainder, who were old-time pagans, were taken across the Beltrami county line for burial. The Catholics, when taken up, were found to be encased in wooden coffins, but those who remained loyal to the old Indian faith were wrapped in pitch bark. Thus far only two petrified bodies have been found.

LITTLE CHILDREN

HOW THEY TRAIN THE PARENTS TO SELF-CONTROL AND KINDNESS.

The children of the family—one is apt to look on them as burdens, bothers, and expenses.

When the baby comes, be it ever so welcome, the mother has more work to do.

As it grows into childhood, and on to maturity, it is more and more care, worry, and expense.

And so the little children, those innocent trespassers, are borne with as patiently as possible until they grow to a successful manhood or womanhood.

Few stop to think deeply about this, or it would be plainly seen how erroneous the impression.

The children of the family, instead of being burdens, are burden-bearers; small saviors who are daily means of grace; and who lead the world-worn parents once more into the paths of innocence and peace.

A baby's tiny hand clasped around his mother's finger has stilled heartthrobs of sorrow and of bitter trouble; a baby's arms around his father's neck have brought to the man's weary brain a renewal of that love which is all that makes life livable.

And as the child grows into a toddler, it makes both parents become as little children; once more they tell the little stories and pray the little prayers which they themselves heard so many years ago.

As the child grows larger, we see a great improvement in the minor matters of etiquette or morals; for little Mary must not see her mother petulant and angry; little Charles must not hear profane words from his father nor see him aught but the patron saint which the little fellow thinks he is.

And so as the years go by we find ourselves, for our children's sake, much nearer to that ideal man or woman which so long ago we dreamed about.

The child has done what perhaps religion, education, or precept has failed to do. It has made us into lovable, patient, and humble men and women, for the child's steadfast eyes looking into ours asks, nay demands, the very best in our nature.

There is many a grave and reverend grandfather, well permeated with the odor of sanctity, who owes it all to the little children whom he has loved so dearly; many a gentle grandmother, who has thus developed from a selfish and irritable girlhood simply because sundry small grandchildren, with dancing feet and beckoning hands, have coaxed her along the pathway of patience and of love.

The children, bless their small hearts! Desolate the house without them, cursed and forlorn the home where no little ministers of grace give the daily example of innocent joy and loving-kindness.

If you have no children, friend, beg, borrow or steal some. Take a poor little foundling from his forlorn asylum home, and watch his heart warm, his brain develop, and his sad eyes sparkle as you give him love and comfort and a parent's care.

The experiment, if only for your own sake, is exceedingly worth while.

HOUNDED HIM

SENSATIONAL TESTIMONY IN A PORTLAND CASE.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 19.—Testimony on the contestants' side was introduced yesterday in the probate court hearing on the petition of Miss Mary Belle Stackpole of North Westport, Mass., for administration of the estate of Andrew J. Stackpole, of Westbrook, whose daughter and sole heir she claims to be.

Mrs. Conway, sister of the deceased and the principal contestant, now ill, by deposition admitted that Miss Stackpole had visited him twice and claimed to be his daughter, but Mrs. Conway said her brother told her that Miss Stackpole is a daughter of Madame Birchenough, the fortune teller, who came here from North Westport to assist in the prosecution of the petitioner's claim. Madame Birchenough had hounded Stackpole and had written him letters charging him with being the father of her daughter, demanding money and making threats. These letters were received while his wife was living. Shortly before his death Stackpole told his sister that he expected "these two women" would come down from Massachusetts, after he was dead, and "make a raid," but that they were entitled to nothing. He gave his sister a deed of his home.

Henry Birchenough, husband of Mme. Birchenough, came here to assist in opposing her claim. He testified that he is an inmate of the poorhouse at New Bedford, Mass., that he married Mme. Birchenough, then Mrs. Connell, in 1900, and she lived with him three months. She accepted his marriage proposal on condition that before the ceremony he make over to her a deed of half his property in her. The next day she had it transferred to Miss Stackpole. After the separation he brought suit against the two women and recovered a half share of the property, but his wife succeeded in causing him to lose the rest, and told him there was nothing for him between her and the poorhouse. He drifted to the poorhouse, the only course left him.

The name is the thing to get the coin.

A PECULIAR LEASE

Held by the City for Huntington Hall

The appraisers have not yet taken up the matter of adjusting the loss on Huntington Hall until the city and the Boston & Maine get together and agree upon their rights in the building. The lease is a most peculiar one and The Sun prints below in full the letter of Ex-City Solicitor Qua to Mayor Bennett in 1898 at the time when Huntington Hall burned down before, explaining the nature of the lease.

It reads as follows:

Lowell, Mass., Jan. 7, 1898.

Office of the city solicitor.

Hon. James W. Bennett, Mayor.

Dear Sir: In accordance with your request I have carefully examined the various contracts and agreements between the city of Lowell and the Boston and Lowell railroad corporation, relative to construction and use of the building at the corner of Merrimack and Shattuck streets which contained Huntington and Jackson halls and the passenger station of said railroad with a view to ascertaining the rights and obligations of the city under such contracts, and what action is required to be taken by the city in view of the recent destruction of a portion of said building by fire.

The building was originally constructed in pursuance of a contract entered into between the city and railroad corporation dated July 1, 1852.

Under said contract said railroad corporation was required to construct according to certain descriptions, plans and specifications referred to and made part of the contract and the city was required to pay to said corporation all the money that the same actually cost over and above the sum of $25,726.93.

In and by said contract said railroad also demised and conveyed to the city all that portion of the building so erected above the first story together with an entrance to the same on Merrimack street and also on Shattuck street for a term of 999 years unless the term should sooner be determined by virtue of another provision in the contract which is hereinafter mentioned.

This demise and conveyance was upon the expressed conditions that one portion of the second story of the building namely a room 127 feet, 4 inches long and 80 feet, 4 inches wide, should for 30 years from the date of the contract be held and used by the city for a city hall and that the other portion of the demised premises should never be used by the city nor for a period of thirty years by anyone claiming under the city for any business requiring the use of machinery nor for any business which would interfere with the beneficial use of the lower story by the railroad corporation and that the estate and term of the city should not for thirty years be aliened or assigned without the consent in writing of the railroad corporation first obtained.

The railroad corporation also covenanted not to erect any building upon the land between said building and Shattuck street during the whole term of the demise, namely 999 years.

The city covenanted that within six months after the completion of the building by the railroad corporation it would have the room for the city hall of the dimensions stated, finished and the remaining portion of the building above the first story finished into such rooms as it should be deemed fit and proper and to pay the railroad corporation the sum of $350 annually on the first day of January on demand during the continuance of the term.

REPAIRS.

The contract also provided that the lower story of the building from the foundation to the second story should be kept in repair by the railroad corporation at its own expense. That portion between the first story and the roof, including the entrance ways, and the stairways, was to be kept in repair by the city at its own expense and the roof and foundation and covering over the canal at the joint expense of the city and railroad corporations.

TERMINATION OF LEASE BY PURCHASE.

It was also provided that after the expiration of thirty years the railroad company should have the privilege and right of purchasing of the city of Lowell, their successors and assigns the interest and estate of the city and premises, by payment of a sum of money which was to be agreed upon between the railroad and the city or in case of failure to agree to be determined by the award of three disinterested and discreet persons or arbitrators, one to be appointed by the railroad corporation, one by the city and the third by the first two chosen.

The city of Lowell was also given the right after the expiration of said term of thirty years to sell, assign or convey its interest in the property to any other person or corporation subject to the same conditions on which it held the estate except the condition requiring a portion of the building to be used as city hall, which in case of said sale was to be discharged.

Before selling its interest, however, the city was required to offer the same to the railroad corporation and in case such railroad corporation desired to purchase the same, but the parties did not agree upon the price to be paid, such price was to be continued by the arbitrators appointed in a manner heretofore stated.

FIRE.

In case the building should be destroyed by fire during the continuance of the term (999 years, unless the estate had been previously determined in the manner aforesaid) then the foundation, covering over the canal walls and roof were to be forthwith built by the railroad corporation and when so rebuilt to be finished and kept in repair and occupied by the parties, their successors and assigns subject to the same conditions, covenants, provisions and agreements as were made in reference to the building so destroyed; the city to pay one-half of the expense of rebuilding the foundation, covering over canal and the roof and to refinish the inside from the top of the first story to the roof together with the entrance ways and stairways at its own expense.

It is provided, however, that in case of such destruction by fire after thirty years from the date of the contract, the city may by a written notice to that effect abandon the contract and lease and assume no further liability in reference to the same.

SECOND CONTRACT.

By a subsequent contract entered into Feb. 4, 1863, between said railroad corporation and by city the corporation leased to the city of Lowell the right and privilege of placing and laying water pipes through the station house of said railroad at the corner of Merrimack and Dutton streets in said Lowell and also of running the same across the railroad tracks of said corporation as far as their land extends towards said Dutton street to the sewer in said street, and also the right to pass the soil and water from the privies or privy in Huntington hall through said pipes so far as it extends in their land towards said sewer the same said pipes are now laid and adjusted between the parties hereto.

This right and privilege is, however, by the term of said contract terminable at any time by the railroad corporation upon giving to the city six months' notice in writing thereof.

THIRD CONTRACT.

By another contract between said Boston & Lowell corporation and the city the 31st day of December, 1872, it is provided that the city of Lowell may build an entrance and staircase to Huntington hall at the southwesterly end of said hall and maintain and use the same as a place of ingress and egress to and from city hall, and over the premises of said railroad corporation thereto adjoining from the date thereof, (Dec. 31, 1872) to the end of the thirty-year term and in the original contract between the city and said railroad corporation to said hall, dated July 1, 1852, the city agreeing to maintain and keep in repair such entrance and staircase and to pay for the right and privilege aforesaid the sum of $25 annually, in addition to the sum agreed upon in said original contract, and to protect and save harmless the railroad corporation from any claims for damages or injury to any person, on said premises, approaching to go into said hall or while leaving the same.

FOURTH CONTRACT.

By a fourth contract between said railroad corporation and the city, made on the first day of July, 1882, the period of thirty years mentioned in said original contract is extended to fifty years from July 1, 1852, and all the provisions, covenants and conditions in said first contract to which the term of thirty years from the date thereof was applied were so modified and changed that the term of fifty years should be applicable to them instead of thirty years as mentioned in said first mentioned contract.

From the above statement it will be seen that the railroad corporation is bound to rebuild said building. The city is also bound to pay the railroad corporation one-half the expense of rebuilding the roof of the same (I do not understand that the foundation or covering over the canal has been in any way injured), and also to refinish at its own expense said hall and other rooms in the said building above the first story as well as the entrance ways and staircases.

There can be no essential or material change in the dimensions of said hall or in the uses to which it may be put without a new agreement between the city and the railroad corporation.

It seems to me that it would be desirable for the city to have some more permanent contract with the railroad corporation in reference to the maintenance of its water pipes through the station and across the tracks of the railroad corporation, than that which now exists and also that the provision contained in the contract of 1872 in relation to the building and maintaining of an entrance and staircase at the southwesterly end of Huntington hall should be so changed and extended as to cover the period of fifty years provided for in the contract of 1852.

It will be observed that after the first day of July, 1902, the railroad corporation may, if it chooses to do so, insist upon the purchase of the city's interest in the building at a price to be fixed by arbitration.

Whether, in view of this fact, the city will deem it prudent to endeavor by some arrangement with the railroad corporation to further extend the period during which the city have the absolute right to hold its interest before expending a large sum of money in finishing the hall and rooms, is a question to be considered.

I have drawn the enclosed joint resolution to be submitted to the city council if you deem it proper.

Respectfully submitted.

FRANCIS W. QUA,
City Solicitor.

These organs must be kept constantly in action to insure uninterrupted good health, and there is no remedy or corrective so harmless and so certain as 'Seven Barks.'"

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Mr. Talmon Snoddy, of Midway, Tenn., writes:—
"My mother was troubled with Sick Headache. She tried several medicines with no relief until she used 'Seven Barks,' which completely cured her. Her trouble was of eighteen years' standing."

Mrs. Emma Pinet, 22 Lewis street, Haverhill, Mass, says:—
"I was troubled with Sick Headaches, Indigestion and Biliousness. I was so nervous I could not rest nights. Since taking 'Seven Barks' my Indigestion has disappeared and I can rest well, and everything I eat tastes so good now."

If anyone with Stomach, Liver or Kidney Troubles will get a bottle of "Seven Barks," take as directed, and if all the benefit one should expect is not derived, no charge will be made. We are not taking chances in making this offer, for we know the character of the remedy and we are satisfied it will do all that is claimed for it.

Comforting Words

Many a Lowell Household Will Find Them So

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidneys sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Lowell readers:

Mrs. Annie Kelly, of 90 Appleton street, Lowell, says: "To overpraise Doan's Kidney Pills is impossible. Before I used them I suffered greatly from a complication of kidney and bladder troubles. There was constant pain in my back, the secretions of the kidneys were variable, and in addition to being highly colored they contained much sediment. My nerves were unstrung. I could not sleep nights and could not obtain ease while up. Learning about Doan's Kidney Pills I went to Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store and got a box. It helped me so much that I bought half a dozen more. I believe Doan's Kidney Pills will cure any ordinary case of kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

WORLD'S FAIR

TO COMMEMORATE END OF THE CIVIL WAR.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 19.—The first announcement was made yesterday of a formal movement to hold in this city in 1915 a world's fair, to be known as the Semi-Centennial Peace Jubilee exposition, commemorating the end of the Civil war. It is asserted that assurances of aid from the government and various organizations have been secured. The following announcement explaining the nature of the exposition has been issued:

"From 1861 to 1865, there was fought in these United States the greatest Civil war the world has ever seen. Peace between the states was established on April 9, 1865. It is customary to celebrate important periods in our history by holding expositions which demonstrate the progress that has been made. Great expositions of this kind were held at Chicago in 1893 and in St. Louis in 1904, eleven years apart. Eleven years more will bring us to 1915, the year of our semi-centennial peace anniversary.

"Chattanooga is the geographical centre of the scenes of the Civil war. It was the most strategical point and is immediately surrounded by some of the greatest battlefields of that war."

GREENHALGE DEBATERS.

The Frederic T. Greenhalge Debating society, of the Lowell High school, held its first meeting yesterday afternoon in room 20, there being a large attendance. The subject of the debate was "Resolved, That Governor Bates should not have vetoed the overtime bill."

The affirmative was upheld by J. Newcomb Lake and Warren Shaw; Sidney B. Whipple and John Varney taking the negative. The former won the decision.

The judges were Miss Sweetser and Miss O'Connor. President Frank Sullivan was in the chair.

William C. Burke has been appointed sergeant-at-arms.

TO THE POOR

MRS. SARAH TRACEY LEFT HER ESTATE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Rt. Rev. P. J. Donahue, Roman Catholic bishop of Wheeling, W. Va., will receive the major portion of the estate of Sarah C. Tracy, valued at more than $250,000, under the terms of the will filed in the surrogate's office yesterday. The will requests that Bishop Donahue use the estate to erect and maintain an industrial school for unfortunate poor in memory of the testator's grandfather, Keating Rawson, and two orphan asylums in memory of her dead brother, Edward Tracey.

The will bequeaths $1000 to Bishop McDonald of Brooklyn, $5000 to St. John's college for a scholarship, and $1000 to the sisters of St. Francis Xavier church. Bishop Donahue is bequeathed $1000, together with all the books, paintings, horses and carriages owned by the testatrix for his own use. He is to sell her rare laces and jewels and devote the proceeds to charity.

Bishop Donahue is made residuary legatee and the testatrix explains that he is to account to no person. If sufficient funds remain, the will directs that a church is to be erected and dedicated to the "Blessed Virgin, Mother of God." Should Bishop Donahue die, Archbishop Farley is to carry out the plans.

A TRIP TO NEW YORK.

The story of "New York Day by Day," which will be told on the stage of the Academy of Music this afternoon and evening should interest every one who appreciates and enjoys high class melodrama. The plot deals with the attempts of Richard Blakely, a banker, to defraud Polly, a blind girl, out of the fortune that is hers by right.

The development of the plot is secured by a number of strongly dramatic scenes mingled with a vein of comedy that is at times uproarious. While the dramatic is never sacrificed to the ludicrous, there is a judicious mingling of the gay with the graver side of life that is one of the secrets of the popularity attained by "New York Day by Day."

There are a number of singing and dancing specialties introduced during the action of the play and the scenery is handsome and complete in every detail.

RUNAWAY GIRLS

Visit of Nashua Maidens Interfered With

Alma and Mary Bonin, two pretty girls, who came here from Nashua, to spend time and money, have had their pleasant sojourn interrupted and have been obliged, much to their own and the regret of numerous Lowell friends, to return to their old New Hampshire home.

It seems that the Bonin girls, who have been missing from Nashua, since Wednesday, Nov. 9, supplied themselves with sufficient money to purchase pretty dresses and other things.

Saying nothing of their intentions to their parents they came to this city where they have enjoyed their stolen vacation to the limit.

The distracted parents, in the meantime, communicated with the police, who were balked for a time in locating the girls because of the change they had made in their wearing apparel. But yesterday afternoon Inspectors Maher and LaFlamme spotted the couple on Central street and took them to the police station.

There the girls admitted their identity. They are the 15 and 16-year-old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bonin, who reside at 11 Arlington street, Nashua. In company with their father and a Nashua officer the runaway maidens returned to their home last night.

TOOK POISON

BOSTON MAN REFUSES TO EXPLAIN ACTION.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Jacob Convlser, 32 years old, married and living at 40 Hale street, West End, while passing through Merrimac street was taken suddenly sick and went into a stable at 135 Merrimac street, from which place he was sent to the City hospital relief station.

Upon examination the doctors found that he had taken carbolic acid, and when asked how it happened, replied that someone had given it to him. He refused to explain further, saying that if he got better he might tell, and if he didn't it would not matter.

After working on him for some time the doctors concluded that he was in a dangerous condition, and his relatives were notified. Convlser is a tailor, with a place of business at 80 Blackstone street.

AT THE CASTO NEXT WEEK.

Woodford's educated ponies, monkeys and baboons and dogs head the program at the Casto Theatre next week, and will present the greatest animal act upon the American stage. Representing the highest type of animal education they perform almost incredible feats with ease and dexterity, and cold type cannot do justice to this act. Among the animals which will be at the Casto next week is the smallest pony in the world which weighs but 17 pounds. The remainder of the program is composed of star comedy acts, and includes Hennings, Lewis and Hennings in their refined musical comedy: interspersed with excellent singing and dancing; Bush, Devere Trio in their original musical specialty; Mooney and Holbein in their grotesque singing and dancing specialty; Nichols and Croix in a high class comedy sketch; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lucier presenting their comedy "A Rustic Romeo," with mirth and music; Harry Brown in his amusing songs, and Emelie Benner, the girl with the underground voice. Reserved seats will be in great demand at the Casto next week, and they should be ordered in advance. This can be done by telephone 815-3, or they may be purchased at the box office which is open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Y. M. C. A. AT CASTO

MEN'S MEETING IN THEATRE TOMORROW AFTERNOON AT 3.30.

The Y. M. C. A. will hold the regular Sunday afternoon meeting for men in the Casto Theatre tomorrow. Rev. W. W. Bustard of Boston will speak on "A Good Grip." The University Male Quartet of Boston will sing "The Homeland," Dow; "Cast Your Care Upon Him," Dow; "The Story of the Day," Mace. There will also be a male chorus under the direction of J. Avison Baker. The Casto is one of our most popular theatres, Mr. Bustard is a gifted speaker, the University Male Quartet is composed of talented musicians and Mr. Baker's ability and reputation as a conductor is a guarantee that the chorus work will be first class. With such an array of attractions our men are assured of a good time and present indications point to a big crowd. Doors open 3.10, program 3.30. All men invited.

Doesn't Respect Old Age.

SOMETHING NEW IN MANTLES

Everyone is talking of the guaranteed mantle.

To think that a mantle could be guaranteed for two months is a new idea to most people.

And the Barker Co., who is ever on the watch for the real thing, is pleased that they can put before the people of Lowell an excellent mantle guaranteed to last for two months.

And the fact of the matter is they will last five times two months.

WITH THE HORSES

Items of Interest Clipped and Gleaned

It is reported that a syndicate of horsemen have opened negotiations for the purchase of the Jewett covered track.

Latest advices from Memphis, Tenn., state that Trainer E. F. Geers is doing well, but may have to remain in the hospital several weeks.

A report is in circulation that Dave McClary has sold his 3-year-old colt, Lord Revelstoke 2.12½, by Bingen, 2.03¾, for export to Italy at a long price.

Ed Benyon will probably train a public stable next year, as his contract with Walnut Hall farm, that expires Jan. 1, will not be renewed. L. Harkness having decided to discontinue his racing stable, hereafter the colts bred at Walnut Hall farm will be sold at Big Farm as yearlings and 2-year-olds. Oxnard, 2.07½, will be bred to Moko in 1905, and Peter, 2.05¾, to Walnut Hall, 2.04¾.

Frank G. Smith writes in the Horse World: "I hear that Col. Dick Arthurs of Brookville and the 'only' Dick Clover of Punxsutawney have invited Vance Nuckols to join them on a hunting trip this week. Mr. Clover has cooked up all the rabbit holes in that section of Pennsylvania, and when Mr. Nuckols gets ready to fire there will be a swarm to shoot at. Last year H. Ebbsmith, a distinguished member of the party, tied a rabbit to a hitching post so that Vance Nuckols could have the honor of killing one for certain. But alas Vance shot the string in two, and the rabbit was still running at last accounts."

The famous broodmare Estabella, by Alcantara, 2.23, dam Anchel, by George Wilkes, that established a notable family at Village Farm, is dead. Estabella produced Prince Regent, 2.16¾, and Helen Rolfe, 2.09¾, both successful sires; also Princess Royal, 2-year-old record 2.20, dam of The Earl, 2.07; Princess Chimes, dam of Lady of the Manor, 2.04½, Grace Hamlin, dam of Her Imperial, 2.02¾, and Vice Regent, sire of Vice Regal, 2.04¾, etc. Her foal of 1904 is not yet completed as some of her younger foals are likely to take records. Estabella was foaled in Kentucky in 1881 and was bought of David Bonner by Mr. Hamlin when a 3-year-old. She was never trained but possessed a good deal of natural speed.

The pedigree of Commodore Kitson, sire of the fast pacing mare Lady May, 2.04½, is very interesting and runs to lines identified with New England. He is by Revenue, 2.22¼, dam Lady Rolfe, 2.22¾ trotting, 2.23 pacing, by Tom Rolfe, 2.33½. Revenue, 2.22¼, was by Smuggler, 2.15½, dam May Morning, 2.30, by Daniel Lambert, grandam May Queen, by Ethan Allen, 2.15½; third dam the old-time pacing queen Pocahontas. Pocahontas was also the dam of Tom Rolfe, the grandsire of Nelson, 2.09, and she was by Iron's Cadmus, and it was Blanco, son of Iron's Cadmus, that sired Smuggler. Lady Rolfe, dam of Commodore Kitson produced Rolfewood, 2.19¾, pacing, and Paenlet, 2.19¼, and was the grandam of Rene Rolfe, 4, 2.19¾, who was also by Revenue. Lady Rolfe was a remarkable mare in that she could be shifted from the trot to the pace merely by the bit and driven miles better than 2.30 at both gaits without being taken off the track between heats.

Although just made public, the death of Hamlin's Almont, Jr., occurred at Village Farm some little time ago. This son of Almont was probably the greatest son of his famous sire. He was foaled in 1872 and remained vigorous almost up to the time of his death. When he was made the premier sire at Village Farm the brood mares owned there were vastly inferior in point of breeding to those owned there later, but from them Almont, Jr., sired speed of high enough class to make him widely known as a most successful sire. Belle Hamlin, 2.12¾, Globe, 2.14¾, and Justina, 2.20, by their performances in single and double harness, aroused the interest of the public to an unusual extent. Belle Hamlin and Justina first placed the world's team record at 2.13, and later on Belle Hamlin and Globe reduced it to 2.12, where it remained until last season. The three also established a triple team record of 2.14, which has never been beaten. Almont, Jr., sired 54 standard performers, 16 of which took records of 2.20 or better. Fifteen of his sons are sires of standard performers and his daughters have produced 16 standard performers, including the famous Lord Derby, 2.06¾, and four others with records below 2.10. Almont Jr. was a horse of great beauty and beautiful action, both of which qualities he transmitted to his get very uniformly. As a sire of handsome, trappy-gaited and speed horses he has had no equal in Western New York, and it is maintained by many of his admirers that could he have been mated with some of the best of the matrons which have been seen in Village Farm brood mare ranks for the last few years his rank as a sire would have been greatly advanced before the records of his get were entirely made up. As it is, his family will always occupy a prominent place in the breeding history.

This is the time to buy flour. Fred H. Rourke, 954 Gorham street.

CYCLE NEWS

Frank Waller, who was reported to have died in London some months ago, returned to New York last week with his nine-year-old son, after an absence of nearly two years in Australia and England. He left San Francisco for Australia on November 24, 1902, taking one motor pacing machine with him. In Australia he paced Smythe, "a seventeen stone amateur," as Waller described him, for the amateur paced records. He also competed in motor races there, and paced Major Taylor in his training and in a few short distance paced races.

From Australia Waller went to England, arriving there in April, 1903, after a journey of six weeks by boat. He went on the same steamer as Dieketmann and Robl, who had been racing on the Australian tracks behind motor pace. Robl had made an agreement with Waller for the latter to act as his pacemaker when they arrived in Europe, but Robl left the ship at Naples and did not keep his part of the agreement. As Waller had no written contract with the German pace follower, he remained on the ship until he reached England.

Waller went to London, and, as he had sold his motor pacing machine in Australia to pay his passage, he went to work building motor bicycles. He worked for Arthur A. Chase, the famous English pace follower, in the latter's factory near the Crystal Palace track. His wife and children joined him in London, two of his children having died since he began his trip around the world. Though he is now more than forty-five years old, Waller says he may enter the six-day team race in Madison Square Garden next month.

He says that the English motor bicycles are not to be compared in appearance to American machines like the Indian and others. Most of the British machines are very heavy and cumbersome and have wide treads. The belt drive is used there almost exclusively, though the Humber firm makes a chain-driven model. The majority of the machines are of either 3 or 3½ horsepower. The 3-horsepower models weigh about 145 pounds, and the others fifteen or twenty pounds less. The weight is frequently increased by extra coils, accumulators, hand brakes and other fittings. The machines are regularly fitted with mud guards and a frame on the back wheel which can be used as a luggage carrier or to hold the wheel clear of the ground while making repairs.

John S. Prince and Gussie Lawson, well known in Lowell, returned to New York from Europe on the Oceanic on Nov. 9. Prince went over as an emissary of the promoters of the six-day race in Madison Square Garden, and Lawson had been racing behind motor pace in France and Germany. Lawson competed in but three races, in two of which he was defeated, the other resulting in a victory. He attributed his poor showing to the fact that he had not raced for several years, during which he acted as pacemaker for Robert Walthour. He will be with the latter again next season, when Walthour begins racing behind motor pace.

While he was abroad, Prince visited France, Germany and England to investigate the chances for building indoor tracks. He said that the outlook was so good that he would return to England, where he expects to be able to build coliseum tracks in some of the interior cities. If his plans do not miscarry, Prince will have a team of American riders sent over to compete on the tracks after they are finished.

New York's annual six-day team race will be started at 12.05 a. m. on December 5, and will end at 10.05 p. m., on December 10. Six teams of foreign riders who will compete in the long grind will sail from France next week. They will be cared for during the race by a corps of trainers under the direction of John West of Chicago. West handled Fisher and Bowles in last year's contest, and did not intend to take charge of a team again, but was prevailed upon by P. T. Powers to assume the care of the foreign contingent. West had charge of the foreign riders three years ago, and Gougoltz asked that he care for them this time.

Emile Friol, the young French sprinter who surprised nearly every one by winning the professional championship of France this year, will be one of the attractions at the "curtain raiser" meet on the Saturday night before the big race starts. He will ride a match race against Frank L. Kramer, the American champion, that night, and will give exhibitions during the week. Another attraction for the "curtain raiser" meet will be a motor-paced match race between Robert Walthour and James Michael.

SUM OF $15,000

SENT TO IRISH PARLIAMENTARY FUND.

BOSTON, Nov. 19. Contributions aggregating $15,000 to the Irish parliamentary fund were forwarded from this city yesterday. The gift was accompanied by the following letter:

"Boston, Nov. 18 1904.

Right Rev. Patrick O'Donnell, D. D., Bishop of Raphoe: Hon. John E. Redmond, M. P., Chairman Irish Party; Alderman Stephen O'Mara, Limerick; Trustees Irish Parliamentary Fund, Dublin, Ireland:

"Gentlemen: Enclosed please find drafts for two thousand pounds (2000) which together with the one thousand (1000) forwarded a few days ago, makes three thousand pounds (30000) or fifteen thousand dollars forwarded you within a week.

"This I am enabled to do through the splendid assistance of twelve thousand dollars (12,000) from the good people of Philadelphia and the generous contribution of thirteen hundred and eleven dollars, fifty-three cents ($1311.53) from the patriotic sympathizers of the home rule movement in Toronto, Canada.

"We are gratified to learn that other sections of our country are preparing to follow the good example set by Philadelphia, Toronto and other places already so creditably heard from. With this disposition of co-operation so manifest, it is reasonable to believe that the amount pledged at the recent convention will be realized within a comparatively short space of time.

"With kind regards, I remain, respectfully yours,

(Signed) "T. B. FITZPATRICK."

Knocked Out Rube Smith of Denver

DENVER, Col., Nov. 19—Jimmy Gardner of Lowell, Mass., last night knocked out Rube Smith of Denver in the fifth round of a scheduled ten-round bout. With the exception of the second round in which Smith floored Gardner with a right to the wind, the Lowell boy had the better of the milling. The men fought at 135 pounds.

BENNINGS TRACK

SENSATIONAL FINISH TO ONE RACE.

BENNINGS, D. C., Nov. 19.—An unattractive program was converted into excellent racing yesterday by the sensational finish between Monacodor and Gold Fleur, in the selling race for two year olds and the surprising work of Jane Holly in winning from Palette, a 3 to 5 favorite in the sixth race for mares three years old and upwards. Jane Holly refused to go to the wire and delayed the start fifteen minutes. After she got away she led Palette around the course. Monacodor and Gold Fleur ran almost a dead heat, former winning. Summaries:

First race, selling, for 3-year-olds, seven furlongs; Columbia Course, Brooklynite, 91, Notter, 4 to 1, won; Briar Thorpe, 93, Crimmins, 6 to 1, second; Panique, 96, Lee, 10 to 1, third. Time—1.28 4-5.

Second race, two year olds; fillies, six furlongs; Columbia course, Sufferance, 109, Redfern, 3 to 5, won; Queen Rose, 109, T. Burns, 6 to 1, second; Bravery, 109, Lee, 15 to 5, third. Time—1.17.

Third race, selling, for 3 year olds and upwards, mile and 40 yards, old course; Andrew Mack, 100, Romanelli, 3 to 1, won; Copella, 98, Travers, 2½ to 1, second; Charles Elwood, 111, Wonderly, 7 to 1, third. Time—1.46.

Fourth race, selling; two year olds, six furlongs; Columbia course, Monacodor, 112, T. Burns, 4 to 1, won; Gold Fleur, 109; Crimmins, 11 to 5 second; Preen, 112, Redfern, 5 to 1, third. Time—1.15 3-5.

Fifth race, for maiden three year olds and upwards, mile and 60 yards, old course. Ben Crockett, 107, Travers, 2 to 1, won; Nuit Blanche, 107, T. Burns, 15 to 1, second; Silver Foot, 110, Redfern, 3½ to 1, third. Time—1.48 1-5.

Sixth race, selling, for mares, 3 years old, and upward, one mile, Columbia course, Jane Holly, 106, Romanelli, 5 to 1, won; Pallette, 95, Notter, 3 to 5, second; Cheripe, 95, H. Miller, 7 to 1, third. Time 1.42 3-5.

EASY VICTORIES

NEWBURYPORT AND NATICK ARE WINNERS.

NEWBURYPORT, Nov. 19—Newburyport defeated New Bedford at basketball last night before 500 people, 41 to 33. The passing of the home team was far superior to that of the visitors. The latter team improved during the last part of the game. During intermission two amateur teams played, the Myopias defeating the Columbias, 8 to 0. The summary of the league game:

NEWBURYPORT	NEW BEDFORD
Martens rf	lb Donnelly
Punch lf	rb Healy
W. I. Sheridan c	c Murphy
Reagan, H. Sheridan rb	lf Marshall
Hayes lb	rf Sanger

Score—Newburyport 41, New Bedford 33. Goals from floor, Martens 5, Punch 5, W. I. Sheridan, 4, H. Sheridan 3, Hayes, 5, Healy 5, Sanger 5, Murphy 5, Donnelly 2. Fouls called on Newburyport 5, on New Bedford 2. Referee—Pickard of Haverhill. Timer—Murphy of New Bedford. Time—three 15m. periods.

NATICK 47, FALL RIVER 30.

NATICK, Nov. 19—Natick defeated Fall River last night at basketball, 47 to 30. The visitors were clearly outclassed, Natick having no difficulty in scoring at will. Hough and Ferrat did some clever basket shooting for the home team, and Gebhard and Matthews for the visitors. The summary:

NATICK	FALL RIVER
Ferrat rf	lb Gebhard
Hough lf	rb Henechel
Mulliner c	c Gretzinger
Kincaide rb	lf Matthews
Mayhem lb	rb Haggerty

Score—Natick 47, Fall River 30. Goals scored, by Hough 12, Ferrat 5, Mayhem 4, Mulliner, Matthews 7, Gebhard 4, Gelzinger 2, Henechel. Fouls called, on Natick 5, on Fall River 3. Referee—Davis. Timers—O'Neil and Kelleher. Time—three 15m. periods. Attendance—500.

Well, we face Natick tonight and here's hoping that the Lowell boys will turn the trick.

YALE SCHEDULE.

A more elaborate schedule of games for the Yale University basket ball team has been arranged for the coming winter than in any previous season.

Instead of the usual western trip during the Christmas holidays, this year, a southern trip as far as New Orleans has been planned, and following this, the intercollegiate games will be played.

The schedule of the team includes the following dates:

December 22 at Baltimore; December 23 at Richmond; December 24 at Charleston; December 26 at Savannah; December 27 at Atlanta; December 29, at Mobile; December 30, at New Orleans; January 1 at Birmingham; January 2 at Nashville; January 4 at Cumberland University; January 5 at Cincinnati; January 6 at Alleghany college; January 7, at Syracuse; January 10, at Colgate.

BOWLING NEWS

The Mohairs defeated the Fairmounts on the alleys last night by the margin of 21 pins. The game was close and interesting throughout, the losing team having the better of the argument until the last string when the Mohairs got down to hard work and captured both the string and the game. Abbott of the Fairmounts was high man both in single and three string totals. The score:

COURT ST. ANTOINE C. O. F.

A solemn high mass will be sung at nine o'clock Thanksgiving day at St. Jean Baptiste church for the repose of the souls of the deceased members of Court St. Antoine, C. O. F. The deceased members of the court with the date of their death are as follows:

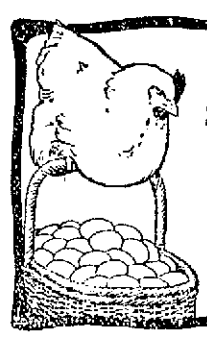

Dr. Romeo L. Vaillancourt, March, 1900; Alphonse Baron, May, 1900; Hubert Matton, October, 1901; Joseph Piche, October, 1901; Joseph T. Fontaine, April, 1903; J. B. Deschenes, January, 1904; Wilfrid G. Caisse, January, 1904; Elzear Langlois, April, 1904.

The court will also visit the graves of the dead members tomorrow afternoon at St. Joseph's cemetery. The members are to take part in the memorial Sunday exercises of L'Association Catholique—which, having been postponed from last Sunday, are to take place tomorrow—and once at the cemetery will visit in a body the graves of their own dead. This is the first observance of the kind made by the court, but hereafter a memorial visit to the cemetery will be made every year, as with L'Association Catholique.

CHOPPED HIS THUMB.

While Joseph McCluskey was trying to cut a rope with an axe at the Lowell Waste Co.'s works this morning he chopped off the top of his left thumb. He was taken to the Emergency hospital where his thumb was dressed. McCluskey resides in Butler avenue.

MILLS RUNNING

Very Few Hands Are Working

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 19.—Mills are running this morning about as Friday. Very few hands are working in the center though most engines are turning. The factories are doing no better than in the past few days. In the eastern section the Flint, Wampanoag, Barnard and Stafford mills have closed for the day, but will start up Monday. The other east end factories claim to be running with added hands.

In the south end the Shove, Laurel Lake and Bourne mills are closed down and the others are not running well.

The same conditions prevail in the north end, three plants closed and two running with few operatives.

AT THE HORSESHOW

SOCIETY TURNED OUT IN LARGE NUMBERS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—The crowds at the horse show yesterday afternoon and last night were the largest of the week. This has been the most successful week in the matter of attendance which the National Horse Show association of America has ever held.

The most picturesque feature of the afternoon was the class in which three members of various hunt clubs competed. They were the Cameron Run Hunt club, from Alexandria, Va., Richmond County Hunt, Westchester Hunt and Essex Hunt of Orange, N. J. The Virginia huntsmen easily carried off the blue ribbon. Their horses were more nearly matched, they fenced better, the uniforms were more distinctive and the riders more of a height, and in general conformation they easily were ahead. The three riders with the mounts were Mr. Evans, on Ripley, Mrs. Howe, on Tip Top, Mr. Smith, on Lucy Sullivan.

What always proves to be the prettiest sight in the horse show was on the program yesterday when a class of Shetland ponies were shown. None of the horses was larger than a good sized dog and they were driven to small wagons by children. Aberdeen and Breezy of Pittsford, owned by M. F. Hawley, were awarded blue and red ribbons, respectively.

RED LETTER DAY

Zemstovs Ask for Voice in Government

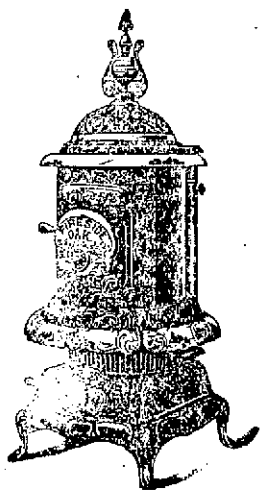

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 19.—Today may mark a red letter day in the Russian calendar. About one hundred representatives of provincial zemstovs assembled privately at 2 o'clock this afternoon with the avowed purpose of presenting to Emperor Nicholas through Interior Minister Sviatopolk Mirsky a truthful picture of the internal conditions of Russia coupled with recommendations pointing out in plain terms the necessity for calling a legally empowered constituent assembly to have a direct voice in the government. The word "constitution" however, will be carefully avoided.

The liberals have been greatly excited by the developments of the last few days. The meeting was to be held at the duma, or city hall, but at the last moment official auspices were refused, the emperor withdrawing his consent.

Many of the zemstvos' representatives attribute the emperor's attitude to the influence of Grand Duke Sergius M. Pobedonosteff, the procurer general of the holy synod, and M. Sassonooff, a member of the council of the empire, and indirectly to such reactionaries as Merchersky, Strumer and Suchinsky. The latter two formerly were the late Interior Minister Von Plehve's assistants who were promoted to the council of the empire. When Prince Sviatolpolk Mirsky dispensed with their services, the spectre of a constitution was successfully raised, according to their view. They are not disposed to criticise Prince Sviatolpolk Mirsky, whose goo dintentions they do not question. They believe he is powerless but nevertheless they express disappointment at the fact that he yielded. Prince Sviatolpolk Mirsky's friends, however, have another side of the story. They insist that he acted in the sincere conviction of what he believed to be the greatest interest of the zemstvos. They explain that when the minister began the negotiations M. Shihoff and Petrunkavich and Prince Ivoff were sent to explain what the meeting proposed to do and the minister found that instead of 34 presidents whom he had invited, about 100 representatives were to be present and that they proposed to go much further than their powers authorized. They were in no sense official representatives chosen by the zemstvos to present a memorial to the government.

When the emperor declined to grant permission however, Prince Sviatolpolk Mirsky informed the representatives that although official sanctation was declined, they could meet privately, police protection being guaranteed. Moreover he himself at once drafted a law for submission to the council of the empire authorizing the zemstvos to elect delegates to sit in a consultative body in connection with the department of rural affairs of his ministry. This law will be immediately promulgated in order that the zemstvos at their approaching meetings in December may choose representatives. Prince Sviatolpolk Mirsky's idea that if digested, action might wreck the prospects of the future was supported by a number of the zemstvos representatives here but the majority although moderate in their views rejected the advice of their colleagues as being simply a step to a whale and entered the meeting this afternoon determined to speak plainly. Their program has a negative and a positive side. The first consists in the adoption of a sort of Reductio ad absurdum argument in the form of a memorandum in which they will attempt to show that the existing conditions in the empire with constant unrest and disturbance resulting in an increase in the revolutionary propoganda cannot continue. The course of the story will be traced to show the ebb and flow of imperialism and it will be contended that the liberal tendency of the government which began in the reign of Alexander II. was really checked after the Polish insurrection and only briefly revived in the days of Loris-Melikoff.

The positive memorandum will recommend the calling of a constitution assembly as the means of securing a legal expression of the views of the nation. The radicals and some student organizations had planned sympathetic demonstrations in front of the Duma, in favor of ending the war and calling a national assembly but with the place of meeting of the zemstvos, representatives secret the demonstrations will probably not occur.

WAS SANDBAGGED

AMESBURY MAN HELD UP BY HIGHWAYMAN.

AMESBURY, Nov. 19.—John E. Chesley, a well-known farmer of the Allen's Corner district, was sandbagged last night on his way home. At a lonely spot on the Southampton road he was confronted by a man who ordered him to hold up his hands, and asked if he had any money.

"I haven't, but my brother has," he replied, whereupon the footpad struck at Mr. Chesley with a sandbag. He missed the victim's head but struck his right shoulder, although the blow did not knock Mr. Chesley down.

The highwayman at once ran off and escaped in the woods. His victim gave the police a good description of the fellow, who was about 5 feet, 8 inches tall and smooth faced. The police are confident that a man whom they suspect will prove to be the guilty party.

TO REORGANIZE

Plans Made by N. H. Traction Co.

BOSTON, Nov. 19—The affairs of the New Hampshire Traction company which operates a number of lines throughout southeastern New Hampshire and extending over the Massachusetts border are being re-organized. A reorganization committee consisting of Charles F. Ayer of Boston and Alfred B. Foster and Otto T. Bargard, both of New York have submitted a plan which provides for a foreclosure and the formation of a new corporation with $4,000,000, 1 per cent. non cumulative stock and $1,000,000 of common stock.

Bond holders are to receive 50 per cent. of the par value of principal on their bonds in new preferred stock and 50 per cent. in new common stock, while holders of the certificates of indebtedness will receive new common stock to the par value of their certificates. This will leave the new company with no fixed charges. Holders of a majority of the bonds have assented to the plan of re-organization. The New Hampshire Traction company was organized two years ago by the New York Security Trust company to consolidate the so-called Lowell system of railroads in southeastern New Hampshire. Unsatisfactory weather conditions seriously affected it from the time of its organization and last November the company was obliged to fund two years' coupons upon its $2,700,000 bonds into certificates of indebtedness. Last winter the company sustained heavy losses.

NATIONAL GRANGE

HAS PROPERTY VALUED AT $80,600.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 19.—The report of the executive committee of the national grange, which is now in session in this city, shows that the affairs of the organization are in a prosperous condition. The property owned by the Grange at present is valued at $80,500, an increase of $9,293.

The executive committee thinks that the powers now conferred upon the interstate commerce committee are not ample enough and the legislation necessary to enlarge its powers, is recommended. The report endorses the parcels posts and condemns the effort being made to repeal the Grout oleomargarine bill. The committee recommends that the Grange adopt resolutions at this session favoring direct election of United States senators. The report closes by re-endorsing Congressman Currier's bill, providing for federal aid in building roads, which is before Congress and in emphatic terms denounces the trusts and urges the endorsement of present laws and the enacting of new ones.

GOVERNOR BATES

SAYS HIS CAMPAIGN COST HIM $650.

BOSTON, Nov. 19—The first expense return on account of the city primary was filed yesterday by John E. Cotter of ward 24-25, republican nominee for the board of aldermen, stating: "Not one single cent." The report was dated Nov. 18.

State election accounts filed Thursday and yesterday show that Governor Bates contributed $500 to the republican state committee, $100 to the republican city committee, and $50 to the Massachusetts republican club; Oliver Stevens, $50 to the democratic committee of Chelsea; William Taylor, nominee for the senate from the 3d Suffolk district, $150 each to wards 2, 6 and 8 democratic committees.

PAID THE FINE

FRIENDS RAISED THE MONEY FOR PASTOR SQUIRES.

BROOKFIELD, Nov. 19—Rev. W. P. Squires, pastor of the First Baptist church of East Brookfield, who was sentenced by Judge Wm. T. Forbes of the Worcester probate court yesterday for contempt of court in writing a letter to the judge discussing a case upon which a decision had not been given is at home again after a three hours' sojourn in jail. Rev. Mr. Squires was fined $50, but on his statement that he was unable to pay it he was committed to jail for 30 days. Friends however, have paid the fine and the pastor is at liberty.

MASTER PAINTERS

ENTERTAINED THE EXECUTIVE BOARD OF STATE BODY.

The executive board of the Master Painters and Decorators of Massachusetts were the guests last evening of the Master Painters and Decorators of Lowell at their rooms, 40 Central street.

After a short business session of the executive board, called for the purpose of making arrangements for the fourteenth annual convention of the Massachusetts association, which is to be held in the American house in Boston on the 11th and 12th of January, it was stated that the program for the occasion had been duly completed.

After the business meeting was over a fine banquet was served at which the local president, Milo D. Clay, presided and short speeches were delivered by visiting officers and Lowell members.

The attendance of Lowell members was large. Among the guests entertained were: James Mancey, president of the state and also the Boston association; George W. Locke, of South Boston, vice president of the state association; W. E. Wall, of Somerville, secretary and treasurer of the state association and also of the national association; C. F. W. Hanson, Geo. H. Agnew, C. Forsberg, W. H. Naylor, R. Rose, Charles F. Smith and H. O. Goodwin, members of the Boston association; N. G. Edwards, M. A. Feeley and J. Leo McDonald, all of Cambridge; E. Hough, J. S. Norris and J. A. Manley of Newton; W. A. Houston, George H. Brown, John Renaud, Frank Renaud, James Hargraves, A. Blanchette, Walter Blythe and E. L. Kidd of Lawrence.

Mr. Clay is a member of the executive board.

SEEKS DIVORCE

SUIT ENTERED BY VANDERBILT'S GRANDDAUGHTER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Cables from Paris announce that the first tribunal of the Seine is hearing the divorce proceedings brought by Countess Czaykowski against Count Czaykowski, better known as Rechid Bey, a Turkish diplomat, now stationed as secretary of the Turkish legation at The Hague.

The proceedings are reported as highly sensational, and a heated controversy is progressing relative to the disposition of the children. Countess Czaykowski holds that the father is unfit to control them.

Countess Czaykowski is better known in this country as Edith Collins, the former ward of Senator Chauncey Depew, to whom she was reported to be engaged some years ago. She is the daughter of Clarence Lyman Collins, and her mother was a daughter of Mrs. R. J. Nivens, third daughter of Commodore Vanderbilt.

Countess Czaykowski's fortune is estimated at about $5,000,000.

HE CAN'T LAND

ALEXANDER GERVAIS A MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY.

Alexander Gervais, aged 30 years who until last June lived at the boarding house of George E. Desilets in Paige street for the past nine years is the unhappy victim of relentless immigration laws. Last June Gervais who is not a naturalized citizen went over to England and becoming "broke" became a stowaway on a vessel bound for this country. Upon arriving here he was held up as a pauper and though he protested that he had lived in Lowell for nine years he was sent back. Since then he has made two more trips over only to be sent back again. Last month he wrote to Lawyer Guillet from Boston but before the attorney's reply reached the Hub Gervais had been shipped again. Since that time, Oct. 5, he has not been heard from. Mr. Guillet is now interested in the case and will attempt to get him a landing if he appears here again. If Gervais could save up $40 and then come over he would be allowed to land, but he appears to be "broke" every time he strikes the country.

DIPHTHERIA CASES

NINE WERE REPORTED THIS WEEK.

There were nine new diphtheria cases in Lowell this week, but over that number were removed from the list, the disease having passed so that there was really no increase.

HEROIC TEACHER

Rushed Into Icy Pond to Save Pupil

MISS EMMA HOLT IN A VAIN EFFORT TO SAVE HER DROWNING PUPIL.

The Lad Had Sunk Through Ice and Was Lifeless When the Teacher Reached the Spot

A sad drowning accident occurred at Nabnasset pond in West Chelmsford yesterday afternoon in which the victim was little James Larla, aged eight years, and the son of Joseph Larla who keeps a boarding house at the Fletcher quarry. Miss Emma Holt, a school teacher who was attracted to the scene, made a daring attempt to rescue the youngster as she waded into the icy water at the risk of her own life, but she came too late as when she reached the boy life was extinct.

The lad had just been dismissed from school together with the other pupils, and in company with a playmate, Morlck Perkins, aged six years, went down to the pond. The Perkins boy remained on the shore but the little Larla boy went out on the thin ice. He had gone a distance of about twenty-five feet when he started to slide, but either his weight was too much for the ice or else he stepped into an opening, for he went through the ice and into the cold, waters of the pond.

The Perkins lad ran to the schoolhouse and told the teacher, Miss Emma Holt, who hastened to the edge of the pond and dashed into the water breaking the ice as she went. On reaching the spot where the boy went down she lifted the body in her arms but alas it was limp and lifeless. She carried the body ashore where by artificial respiration she tried to restore life, but though she worked over him for a long time her efforts were unrewarded.

Dr. Varney of Chelmsford, who was sent for immediately by the teacher, said on his arrival that everything had been done that he himself could have done, and he commended Miss Holt in the highest terms for her bravery and skill.

The boy was carried to the Moore farmhouse, a short distance away, and was later removed to the home of his parents, by Undertaker O'Donnell.

Miss Holt is a daughter of Henry Holt of West Chelmsford, and is but 20 years of age. This is her first term teaching the school.

"The Massachusetts Legislature is Bought and Sold As Are Sausages and Fish at the Market and Wharves"

This is one of the many startling statements made by Thomas W. Lawson in the December installment of "Frenzied Finance" in Everybody's Magazine for December, just published. Mr. Lawson tells of the wholesale buying and selling of senators and representatives in the great commonwealth of Massachusetts, which culminated in the sudden and mysterious disappearance of a Boston lawyer and his secretary.

As back numbers of Everybody's Magazine are out of print, the previous chapters of Mr. Lawson's "Frenzied Finance"—contained in the numbers from July to November inclusive—are republished in a pamphlet, at 25 cents a copy. Influence of Modern Weapons on War Casualties

IT is the opinion of the United States war department, based on a series of investigations covering the entire history of war, that as military agents grow more destructive there is a corresponding decrease in the loss of life in battle. It is contended that not even the shocking mortality of the present war in Asia invalidates this theory. In support of this view the government experts assert that the proportion of casualties in war was greatest from the time the use of firearms became general to the introduction of the iron ramrod and the bayonet.

During this period foot soldiers were divided into about equal numbers of pikemen and musketeers. In battle they were formed ten deep, pikemen in the center and musketeers on the flank. This was because it was found that when the front rank had fired it could reload by the time nine other ranks had come to the front and fired. The musketeer carried a dozen charges in a horn flask, and the musket barrel was four and a half feet in length. The soldier also carried a bullet bag, containing bullets, molds, worms, screws and priming iron. Among the other impedimenta essential to his equipment were a scouring stick and a gun rest of hard wood with an iron spike at one end to stick in the ground and a half hoop of iron at the other end for the musket to rest upon. Gustavus Adolphus, who was the most up to date military man of his time, introduced cartridge pouches, abolished the heavy casta and formed his men in files six deep. The old fashion continued in England for some time. Modern factitians do not understand how the solid battles, ten squares, were managed. The pikemen must have stood like lambs, presenting a fair mark for the muskets of their foes. When it came to push of pike, what became of the musketeers?

This mode of fighting was observed at the battle of Leipsic, in which 62,000 men were engaged and in which the casualties amounted to 22 per cent. The average percentage of casualties for this first period was 26. A marked feature of this time was the large proportion of killed to the entire amount of casualties. At Marston Moor the country folk buried 4,000 on the field, and at Lutzen 9,000 were killed outright. An entire regiment lay on the ground in the exact order in which it had stood. At Rocroy 18,000 men were engaged and 9,000 were slain. "How many of you were there before the fight?" asked a Frenchman of a Spanish officer. "You have only to count the dead and the prisoners," was the reply.

The substitution of the smoothbore flintlock with bayonet for the pike brought about a decrease in the rate of casualties from 26 to 20 per cent. This period begins with the battle of Hohenfriedberg, in which the rate was 10 per cent. In the battle of Fontenoy the casualties were 11 per cent. At the battle of Zorndorf, between the Russians and Prussians, the casualties rose to the enormous rate of 40 per cent. About 19 per cent of the troops engaged at Austerlitz, 17 per cent at Jena, 14 per cent at Talavera, 9 per cent at Wagram and 36 per cent at Borodino suffered casualties. At Lundy's Lane the percentage was 13, at Bunker Hill 24, at Friedland 20 and at Bautzen 14.

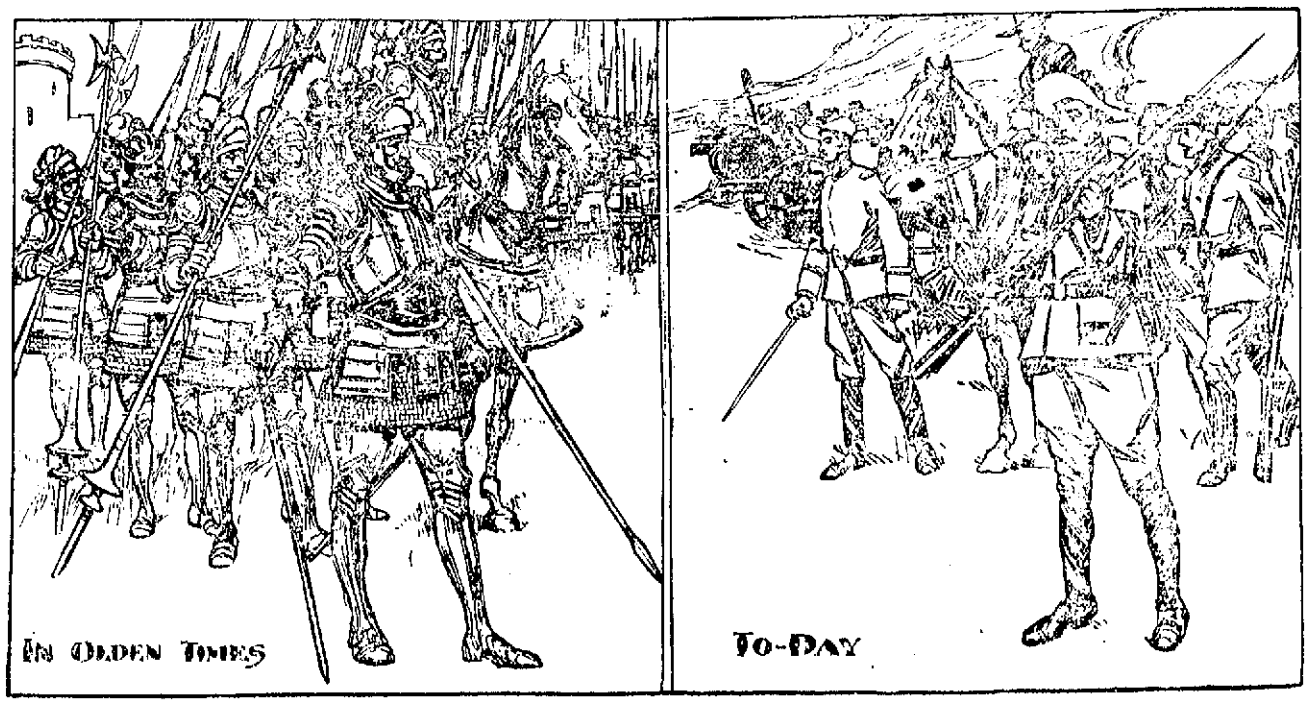

A further decrease in casualties was brought about by another improvement in weapons—the introduction of rifled barrels and percussion caps. The average loss during the employment of the smoothbore flintlock was about 20 per cent. When the rifled barrel and percussion caps came into general use casualties fell to 15 per cent. This third period begins with the battle of Alma, fought in 1854 between the allies and the Russians. The casualties were only 9 per cent. At the battles of Solferino and Magenta the casualties were about the same ratio as that of Alma.

Coming down to the period of the American civil war the decrease is still maintained. At Shiloh, in 1862, there were 50,000 men engaged. The casualties were 10,977, or 24 per cent. At the battles of the Chickahominy, which lasted seven days, the combined armies numbered 193,000 men. The casualties amounted to 15 per cent. There were 122,519 men in the battle of Antietam, and the casualties were 16 per cent. At Fredericksburg 176,000 men fought, and the casualties were only 8 per cent. At Chancellorsville, with 190,000 engaged, the per cent was advanced to 11. From this time until the close of the war the mortality was at a greatly increased ratio. At Gettysburg the casualties were 20 per cent, at Murfreesboro 23, at Chickamauga 28. The Wilderness campaign is not included in the war department's estimate for the reason that accuracy cannot be maintained in computing the casualties of each engagement. It is known, however, that the losses were far in excess of the average percentage.

The first appearance of the breechloader, which was a notable improvement over all weapons hitherto devised, marks the decrease in casualties to 11 per cent as against 15 per cent in the preceding period. The breechloader era began at the battle of Koniggratz in 1866, when 415,000 Prussians and Austrians fought. There were in all 28,000 casualties, or 7 per cent. At the battle of Woerth, in 1870, 130,000 French and Prussians fought savagely, and the casualties amounted to 14 per cent. In the same campaign, at the battle of Marsle-Tour, 200,000 men were engaged, and there were 31,800 casualties, or 16 per cent. At Sedan, with 343,000 in the field, there were casualties of less than 9 per cent. In all of these actions except Koniggratz the breechloader was used by both sides. At that famous engagement the Austrians were not equipped with the then new firearm.

The war department does not extend its investigations to the point of finding a reason for this apparent decrease in casualties. An official of the department advances the opinion that the new weapons are so deadly in their action that they produce a moral effect on the soldier and thus prevent the close actions which were so sanguinary in the old times. He admits, however, that this theory has received a severe shock and doubled setback in the present hostilities between Russia and Japan.

The enormous cost of modern warfare is also a powerful factor in the decrease of casualties. Of course it accomplishes this indirectly—by discouraging nations from going to war and by influencing them to settle their disputes by arbitration or some other peaceful method known to the diplomatic world. According to recent estimates made by French and German statisticians who are proficient in such matters, the wars of the last fifty years have cost the almost inconceivable sum of $18,000,000,000. Of this amount France alone has paid $3,600,000,000.

omical or conservative citizen for the entire scheme can be so financed that it will not cost the city of Lowell a cent. A suitable structure can be put upon this lot that would not cost when completed more than $200,000, including the price of the land. But even if something more elaborate is decided upon it would be unnecessary to expend more than $250,000 for the complete structure. The city of Lowell could arrange for the issue of a series of bonds to be known as the Public Buildings Bonds to bear interest at 3½ per cent. and to run for a period of thirty years. An issue of such bonds amounting to $250,000 could be disposed of in the city of Lowell within one week among the various banks and financial institutions of the city. In any event it would be easy to dispose of them outside of the city at par and possibly above par.

The rental from the public market stalls and for the use of the halls when not engaged for public purposes, would easily take care of the bonds and the interest on the same. The sum of about $7,000 could be set aside from the net earnings each year to provide for a sinking fund and $9600 per year would easily take care of the interest account.

This would require a net income of only $16,000 a year from the entire building. This, as any conservative man will allow, is extremely moderate. Indeed, we believe the enterprise would pay an annual profit of ten per cent. to the city, besides taking care of all its obligations, and at the end of thirty years not only would the city receive the benefit of this annual dividend but would be presented with a beautiful structure free of cost, and the citizens of Lowell would meanwhile enjoy the benefits of a grand combination of halls and a public market that would save on an average from 10 to 15 per cent. in the provision bills of every household in the city that may see fit to avail of its advantages.

If there is any objection to the market in connection with the halls, that feature might be dispensed with, and the halls could be made to pay the entire expense. If necessary, stores could be rented on the first floor as was formerly done by the city at old city hall, and a goodly sum could be realized by any of the proposed systems.

NO GRAFT IN IT.

Another feature that should appeal to thinking citizens is the fact that there need be no graft or corruption in this proposition. A commission might be appointed by the mayor to consist of seven reputable, responsible and capable citizens of this city. Seven such men can easily be found who would be glad to give our citizens the benefit of their business talents free of cost. Our past experience with commissions has been most satisfactory. Our city hall commission covered itself with glory and performed a public service that will stand to their credit as long as our city hall and memorial buildings shall endure. The city hall commission served without salary, and it has been said that the structures erected under their charge were built and furnished at about one-half the cost paid for similar buildings in other cities the size of Lowell.

One library commission is another proof that commissions made up of responsible citizens working without salary are most desirable. The record of the commissioners of the city library is an honorable one. So it is with our park commission, which is giving to the citizens of Lowell more for their money than they ever obtained under previous methods. So it would be in the case of a public building commission. They would see to it that the new hall was erected economically and according to the most modern designs. These commissioners might also be empowered to look after the building, to provide all the necessary supplies and service going with the care of the building. They would also arrange for the renting of the market stalls and in this there would be no possibility of graft or corruption, as it would be a simple matter to have the stalls auctioned off for periods of from two to five years to the highest bidder. With a wide-awake auctioneer such as Conant or Keyes to conduct these public competitions there would be no chance for favoritism or trickery of any kind in renting stalls to those who offered most for them and guaranteed to comply with the conditions of their lease.

Property in the vicinity of the proposed building is earning about $1.00 a square foot per year. If the market earned about one-half this rate it would take care of all the bonded obligations without the necessity of deriving a cent's income from the halls on the upper floor. The scheme is feasible from every point of view. The question is, will the people of Lowell seize the opportunity. They have not been as vigilant in such matters in previous years as they might have been. All that is necessary is to arouse a little public spirit, and the movement will be started in a way that will prove satisfactory and beneficial to all the citizens of the city. Mr. White no doubt would sell the property for public use at a reasonable price, and the city could well afford to pay him a liberal price. If he insists on more than a reasonable price the city government would be justified in condemning the lot for public purposes and seizing it by right of eminent domain. This would compel the owner to accept judgment from a sheriff's jury or the courts on a reasonable appraisal of the land and buildings.

ONLY ONE OBJECTION.

Since the subject was first broached we have heard but one objection, and that comes from people who are supposed to be interested in the barroom now located on the north east corner of the lot. As far as the people of Lowell are concerned we do not think it would be a terrible calamity if that barroom were wiped off the face of the earth. The proprietor might move to some other locality, of course, but when we consider some of the sights we have witnessed through the front windows of this same saloon and the more deplorable sights of women running in and out of the rear entrance on French street we do not think there would be any public protest if the saloon were moved a little farther north and relocated in the bottom of the adjoining canal.

There might be some objection from storekeepers who would consider this a competition against stores that are now rented as meat and provision markets, but experience in other cities shows that stores formerly used at the low rate necessary for meat and provision markets are turned to other uses at an increased rental to the owners.

From every point of view, therefore, the proposition is a feasible one, and the location is all that could be desired. The opportunity is a grand one for the city of Lowell if our city officials or our public-spirited citizens only grasp it without delay.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gallagher of 458 Lawrence street are rejoicing over the arrival of a son.

BILL IN EQUITY

Cotton Wants Pay For Services

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—John B. Cotton, the attorney who procured the award of the Massachusetts claim of $1,611,740.85, and now demands ten per cent. of that sum for his services, filed a bill in equity in the supreme court of the District of Columbia this morning, as soon as Attorney-General Moody's opinion was made known. It had been decided that Cotton must turn his warrant over to the state and then go into court for his re-embursement. The bill which Mr. Cotton filed seeks to enjoin the secretary of the treasury from issuing the duplicate draft that Mr. Moody proposed that he should do unless Cotton turned the original over to the state. The court is believed by lawyers here, would not issue any restraining order on the secretary of the treasury. The form would rather be an order enjoining the claimant from receiving the draft; but many lawyers say that the secretary of the treasury would respect the filing of a bill, out of courtesy to the court, and permit the case to go to trial. This would bring the question directly before the equity judge as to the right of the state of Massachusetts to a duplicate draft. Unless he rendered a decision that was satisfactory to both sides, an appeal could be taken to the court of appeals and then to the supreme court of the United States. This is evidently Mr. Cotton's line of policy, from the action he has taken in this matter.

It has been the custom for years for the secretary of the treasury to turn warrants over to the attorney for the claimant, when he is a man of good standing. It is not only convenient, but it provides reasonable security for the attorney's fees. There was a Lowell, Mass., case some years ago in which a question came up about the delivery of the draft; and questions have arisen, when the attorney had died, as to whether the administrator of his estate at home, or some specially appointed representative here should receive the draft. When Secretary Sherman came in he tried to change this practice of paying drafts to the attorneys, but or some reason the treasury soon went back to the old policy.

LIVES IN PERIL

Many Barely Escaped Runaway Horses

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Four big work horses unhampered by harness of any kind save three short halters which attached them one to the other, dashing madly down crowded sidewalks on Third avenue and Twenty-third street today sent terror to the hearts of hundreds of persons. That no one was injured or any serious damage done by the runaways before their mad career was checked is considered remarkable.

The horses had been taken from a sales stable and were being led down Third avenue when they became frightened by the roar of an elevated train overhead and broke into a wild run. The halter was jerked from the hands of the stableman and without restraint of any kind the fear maddened animals swung onto the crowded sidewalk and dashed down the avenue. Warned by the sounds of iron shod hoofs on the sidewalks, pedestrians fled for their lives and many succeeded in reaching protecting doorways or other places of safety without an instant to spare.

The horses finally were captured before any serious damage had been done.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of James A. Garfield, Women's Relief Corps, No. 38, was held Thursday afternoon, Nov. 17. In the evening the Corps celebrated its 21st anniversary.

The department vice-president, Mrs. Ralph, was present, also Past President Mrs. Proctor of Medway. At seven o'clock Post 120 and invited guests sat down to a bountiful supper, under the direction of Mrs. Crawford, after which an entertainment of much merit was given under the direction of Mrs. Hattie Whitney, which was very much enjoyed. A sketch of the organization and work of the corps for 21 years was given by Mrs. Tuttle and was very interesting. Stirring speeches were given by Mrs. Ralph, Mrs. Louise Blood, Mrs. Elizabeth Bean, the several clergymen, Commander Cragin and Comrade Ripley. The evening was interspersed with fine music and the whole was enjoyable.

At a business meeting of the Molly Varnum chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, the following executive committee was appointed to represent the chapter at the coming D. A. R. bazaar to be held in Boston, Dec. 13, 14 and 15; Miss Abbie Davis, chairman, Mrs. Joshiah French, Mrs. George F. Richardson, Mrs. Charles E. Howe, Mrs. Solon Stevens, Miss Marion Keyes, Mrs. Charles E. Paige, Mrs. John P. Horner, Mrs. Walter Parker, Mrs. H. C. Fuller. Mrs. Charles E. Paige is assistant chairman. Mrs. Solon Stevens treasurer, Mrs. John P. Horner secretary.

Passaconaway tribe's meeting last night was well attended. The committee on lawsuit reported that all of the great chiefs of the great council of Massachusetts and Deputy Great Sachem Jesse L. Orr, and prominent men of the city will be present. Hibbard's orchestra will furnish music and the team will be one that will tickle the palate of our Red Brothers. Everything will be done to make the 18th anniversary, Dec. 9, a memorable one. The degree staff rehearsed the Hunter and Warriors' degree. Other routine business was transacted.

At the close of the council fire a social hour was enjoyed.

Disastrous Blaze in Bristol, N. H.

BRISTOL, N. H., Nov. 19.—A disastrous fire which threatened to wipe out the entire business section of this town, destroyed eight buildings yesterday, causing a loss of $25,000, with partial insurance. Franklin sent a steamer, which materially aided in subduing the blaze. The fire was discovered in the large crutch factory of Calley & Currier and spread rapidly. This building, together with an additional building occupied by the same company, the saw mill owned by Charles P. George, and occupied by Homer H. Hutchinson, two tenement houses owned by the Blake heirs, and E. Dearborn, respectively, and a building owned by Albert Blake, were destroyed. The flames leaped across the river and set fire to the machine shop of C. W. Holmes and to the wood working shop of S. H. Wells, both of which were burned to the ground. Calley & Currier carried no insurance on their factory but most of the other losses are partly covered by insurance.

KEAN FOUND DEAD

Was a Character of the Tenderloin

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Thomas Kean, one of the characters of the tenderloin, whose profession was unique, has been found dead in his Sixth avenue office.

Kean was known as "the black eye artist". He made a business of treating damaged optics by painting over the discoloration and had a great following which covered all classes of society.

The police took charge of the office when his body was found and were kept busy sending away callers. First came a rounder who had been on a night's spree and been badly bruised in a fight. Last came an apparently wealthy woman, heavily veiled. She had sustained a blackened eye in an automobile accident and was greatly chagrined because her beauty could not be restored so that she might attend the horse show.

JURY DISAGREED

IN A WILL CASE IN LAWRENCE, MASS.

LAWRENCE, Nov. 19.—The jury reported a disagreement yesterday in the superior court case of Josiah B. Smith against his sister, Mrs. Annie V. Burnham, to compel her to give him the share he would have received of his mother's estate if she had left no will, and the claim that his mother directed Mrs. Burnham to destroy her will and that the latter pretended to do so.

DETAILS OF ORGIES

IN WHICH SOCIETY PEOPLE TOOK PART.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Sensational details of the orgies of alleged Chicago society people during the week-end parties at the fashionable South Bay hotel, just across the Indiana state line, were recounted before a jury yesterday in the Laporte county court. The Indiana Harbor Improvement society, which owns the hotel, is suing Miss Bertha Crittenden for possession, alleging violation of lease.

Testimony of George Echriner and James Simon supported the allegation of the plaintiffs that the South Bay hotel had become a rendezvous for sporty Chicagoans, desirous of getting away from the city for a "quiet fling". Stories were told of banquets, attended by both sexes, at which the carousals extended over Sunday.

Once a gilded Chicago youth climbed on a table and bathed his feet in champagne. The witnesses told of an alleged minister being brought to the hotel to conduct services, as a result of which he was sent to a drink cure institution. The case is being bitterly contested and is expected to be on trial two weeks.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE OF TWO PIECES OF REALTY, LOT OF LAND CONTAINING ABOUT 5931 SQUARE FEET, ON THE WESTERLY SIDE OF FOSTER STREET; ALSO A DWELLING HOUSE AND ABOUT 3650 SQUARE FEET OF LAND AT NO. 9 WARNOCK STREET, TEWKSBURY.

Pursuant to a power of sale granted me as administrator of this estate, I will absolutely make sale of the above two parcels of realty, in order to make a settlement in the estate.

At 2.30 o'clock

Lot of land situated on the westerly side of Foster street, containing about 5931 square feet. It is a level and dry lot, has fine elevation, is clustered with many beautiful residences, concrete walk and curbing all set in, and it is a very grand, pronounced building site. The frontage on Warnock street is about 57 feet, has all city conveniences leading to same, is but one minute's walk to Westford street electric car line; it is of the right size, and is well adapted for mostly any kind of a building.

TERMS: $100 will be required as a deposit, and must be paid to the auctioneer as soon as the property is struck off.

At 3.30 o'clock

I will make sale under the same conditions, of a dwelling house and about 3650 square feet of land at No. 9 Warnock street. This is a prime, good parcel of realty, as it is in very good condition. It sets on the brow of the hill, on the southerly side of Warnock street, this street running from Billerica street this side of the Salem & Lowell tracks, to Whitehead street. The house contains seven rooms, has been somewhat improved recently, and to a man of moderate means, it would mean a snug, cosy, little mansion. It is surrounded by very good neighbors, who own their own places, and on the whole, is a very pretty and desirable place for a small home. The lot has a frontage of about 45 feet on Warnock street, it is of good size, is all fenced in, and is high and dry. Now, if you have a small amount of capital which you wish to invest, no better small piece of property could you invest in that this I am going to sell you. The sale will be an absolute one, and the highest bidder will purchase the property.

TERMS: $250 must be paid or secured to the auctioneer, as soon as the property is struck off.

By order of
ORRIN B. RANLETT,
Administrator of the Estate of Irene E. Richardson.

Saturday, Nov. 26, at 4 o'clock

POSITIVE SALE OF A FOUR-TENEMENT HOUSE NUMBERING 73 AND 75 SUMMER STREET, HOUSE NUMBERING 47 DAVIS STREET, AND ABOUT 4522 SQUARE FEET OF LAND IN ONE PARCEL.

As two-thirds of my time is spent away from the city, I feel it is an obligation I owe myself to dispose of the above property, thereby relieving my mind of that care and responsibility which certainly confronts any woman who has real estate to look after. Therefore, at the appointed time and place, I have engaged Mr. C. F. Keyes to sell at public auction, in one parcel, these two houses on Davis and Summer streets, situated on the corner lot, containing an area of about 4522 sq. ft., with a frontage on Summer St. of about 65 ft., and on Davis St. of about 82 ft. The house on Summer St. containing four tenements of five rooms each, has the best of sewerage, is well appointed with large rooms and very convenient. It has a very good class of tenants who pay their rents weekly, and it is seldom a tenement is idle; it rents at the present time for about $468 a year. The house on Davis street contains 10 rooms and is rented to one family, who pay $16 per month in advance, making a total rental of the entire property of about $660 a year. This property has paid me handsomely, with the little care I have given it, but it is the constant running up and back that wears on me, and my mind is fully set now, to sell to the highest bidder, regardless of any and all conditions, at the time and day set for sale. The location is all that could be desired for tenement property, as it is in a thickly settled part, close to factories, schools, churches, the city's centre, and has every conceivable want for the class of property that it is.

TERMS: $500 must be paid or secured to the auctioneer, as soon as the property is struck off; other terms will be made known at sale.

By order of MARY A. McOWEN.

Tuesday, Nov. 29, at 2.30 o'clock

THE WELL-KNOWN HILAND FARM ON MAMMOTH ROAD, IN RICHARDSON SQUARE, DRACUT, MASS. THE FIRST PARCEL CONSISTS OF A HOUSE, BARN AND ABOUT 19 ACRES OF LAND. THE SECOND PARCEL, SITUATED OPPOSITE THE HOMESTEAD, WITH A LARGE FRONTAGE ON THE MAMMOTH AND NASHUA ROADS, CONTAINS ABOUT 14 ACRES.

Immediately after selling the real estate, shall sell 8 cows, 1 bull, about 40 hens, 2 small lots of hay, farm wagon, market wagon, one-horse dump cart, open buggy, and all implements used in connection with the farm.

I am about to start into business in the city, and this is my only reason for offering the farm for sale. It has always given me a good living, and it is sure to do the same for the purchaser. I have absolutely pledged it to the auctioneer, to be sold, on the day advertised, regardless of the weather, for the best bid. With the homestead lot is the house, barn and about 18 acres of land. The house is a cosy little cottage of 7 rooms, and is in good repair inside and out. There is also a large woodshed in the rear of the house. The barn has accommodation for 10 head of cattle, 3 horses and plenty of room for the storage of hay and grain. Adjoining the barn are 2 carriage sheds and in the rear a good sized hennery. The lot which contains about 19 acres has a large frontage on the Mammoth road, with abundance of fruit and shade trees and it is divided up into fields by good stone walls. There are parts of it excellent hay land and parts of it well cultivated. I think this an excellent opportunity for some one who is looking for a small farm near the city.

The second parcel which is nearly opposite the homestead contains about 14 acres of land, and has a large frontage on the Mammoth and Nashua roads. There is good pasture with a brook running through. There is a small pine grove, all the front land on the Mammoth road is well cultivated, and in all, it is an excellent piece of land. I have refused two or three very good offers for this lot within the last two years.

The above two parcels are located about two miles from Pawtucket bridge, about half a mile from the Collinsville mills, and about a mile and one-half from Lakeview. The Pelham cars pass the premises every half hour, and it is but a five-cent ride to the city. This property adjoins the well-known Richardson Beaver Brook farm in Richardson square, Dracut, Mass. If you want to locate in the country, this is your opportunity. It will pay intending purchasers to look these premises over, as it may be some time before you get a chance of this kind again.

Terms: Deposits of $300 on the homestead lot and $150 on the 14 acres, will be required, and must be paid or secured to the auctioneer as soon as they are struck off; personal property CASH.

By the order of J. J. HILAND.
JOHN W. McEVOY, Attorney.

NIGHT EDITION

YALE SCORED

Had Harvard 6 to 0 at End of First Half

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 19—Frost lay thick on the ground but the sky overhead was without a cloud when the early risers among the hundreds of Yale and Harvard men who are here for the annual football game between the two universities left their hotels or sleeping cars to view the weather prospects for the event. Few days for this great match have been so near the ideal football weather, as this. It gladdened the hearts of the collegians and of the thousands of enthusiasts who arrived on trains as early as 7 o'clock and who immediately began promenading the down town streets, waving flags of their favorite color and occasionally gathering on a street corner to give a mild cheer for their favorite team.

Out on Yale field the caretakers of the gridiron began to prepare the surface for the fray, taking off the straw covering in order that the sun might quickly draw out the frost which had slightly penetrated the turf during the night. The field was in good condition, promising an elastic footing for the runners and a safe ground for the punters. The frost of the last two nights had not struck in deep enough to make the turf soften when thawed out by the sun.

AFTER EARLY NEWS.

As was the case last night, the host gathered first at the New Haven House to get the morning tidings from both teams. The excitement began early as the occupants of a score or more sleeping cars which had been quartered over night in the railroad yard had to turn out early in search of breakfast, and as most of these were active partisans of one or the other of the teams, there was an insistent demand for news. Trainer Michael Murphy of Yale, was more noncommunicative than he was last night but he did say that in all likelihood, his team would play some of the new formations which have been practiced during the past fortnight and which were not shown at the Princeton game a week ago. The Yale players were kept in their beds until a late hour and after breakfast were called into session with the coaches for the final words of instruction.

The uncertainty as to the line-up of Yale during the forenoon was the same as last night, the question being whether Owsley was in good enough condition to go in at full back at the start, or whether he should be replaced by Flinn. It was evident from talk with the Yale coaches that changes would be made as often as necessary in the back field to meet the new formations which Harvard was expected to show.

The Yale News in an expert analysis of the teams today pointed out that the most important advantage that the blue has over the crimson was its great strength in a powerful line of veterans, which have been developed by a system of team work.

The same paper editorially warned the team that its chief weakness is over confidence.

EARLY RISERS.

At the Pequot House on the Morris Cove shore the Harvard players were up and out for an early morning walk before the white frost had gone. All the coaches made an early trip up town, announcing that there would be no line up or signal practice for the men until the field was reached just before the game. Trainer McMasters said his men were in fine spirits and were imbued with more confidence than yesterday due, he thought, to the color of the reports brought down from Yale.

In spite of the importance of the day the usual routine in Yale was not omitted and many of the visitors went to Chapel just after 8 o'clock and later had the freedom of the Yale buildings.

Between 9 and 2 o'clock the New Haven road had upwards of 40 special trains scheduled to arrive in addition to the regular trains from all directions, each of which was crowded. As the noon hour approached the streets became crowded, presenting the usual hurly burly which characterizes football day in New Haven.

Sandwich men parading the streets gave notice that there were seats on sale at the two Alumni Weekly offices and the supply was sufficient to keep down the premiums demanded by the speculators who were more in evidence as the hour for the game approached. At no previous game here in years were there so many tickets available at the last minutes as today and the explanation given was the extra 6,000 seats on the grand stands and the return of several hundred tickets from Cambridge augmented the supply almost to the limit of the demand.

SENATOR FAIRBANKS ARRIVES.

Senator Charles Warren Fairbanks, the vice president-elect and Mrs. Fairbanks, who were among the most notable of the spectators at the game, arrived shortly before noon and were immediately driven to the residence of Mr. H. Grant Thompson, on Whitney avenue, where a luncheon was served. Among the other guests were president and Mrs. Hadley who had with them, their own guest Mr. Gouverneur Calhoun of Georgia, Yale '91, Messrs. Richard and Robert Fairbanks, sons of the chief guests, Miss Jean Derrydick of Rochester, N. Y., Professor and Mrs. Chittenden of the Sheffield scientific school and several other members of the Yale faculty and a number of prominent Yale men. After the luncheon an informal reception was held and later the party went to the game.

The crowd which had arrived by the noon hour was so large that it swarmed all over the Yale buildings, especially those of the bicentennial group, which had been thrown open. For the first time in local football history sandwiches and pies were sold from sidewalk stands, along Chapel street, and the eatables were eagerly snapped up by the latest arrivals. The price of vehicles for use to the field went up with a bound $25 being demanded for a hack in spite of the long string of cars.

SIGNAL PRACTICE.

Just before noon when the Yale players were assembled in the gymnasium, signal practice for ten minutes was gone through on the main floor in the presence of all the coaches. The Harvard squad left the Pequot house at 11.30 and came to the city, going to the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium to dress. At noon, field coach Rafferty for Yale and Coach Wrightington for Harvard announced the lineup, each making the qualifying statement that there might be changes at the last minute.

The lineup follows:

YALE		HARVARD
Shevlin le		le Randall
Bloomer lt		lt Brill
Kinney lg		lg White
Rosenback c		c Parker
Tripp rg		rg Squire
Hogan (Capt.) rt		rt Derby
Neal re		re Montgomery
Rockwell qb		qb Starr
Hoyt lhb		lhb Sperry
Morse rhb		rhb Hurley (Capt.)
Flynn fb		fb Mills

Officials: Referee, Matthew McClung, Lehigh. Umpire—Paul Dashiel, Lehigh. Linesman J. C. McCracken, Penna. Time of halves, 35 minutes.

The stands began to fill up by 1 o'clock, Harvard being massed on the west side and having a band in the centre. The gridiron appeared to be somewhat softer than expected and considerable sawdust was sprinkled on bare spots in the turf to take up the moisture. While the crowd was swarming into the seats copies of Harvard and Yale songs were liberally distributed by ushers. The playing conditions when the game started were excellent, the wind blowing generally from the southeast or diagonally across the field.

The bands went into action at 1.30, Yale opening with "Bright College Years" and Harvard answering with "Up the Street." The cheer leaders took their stands fifteen minutes later and the uproar began in time to be turned into a greeting to Vice-President-elect Fairbanks as he took a seat on the Yale side.

The University of Pennsylvania team had seats on the Harvard side line benches and the Princeton team was on the opposite side. The teams were late in reaching the field above the crush of traffic on the street for a quarter of a mile outside the gates cityward.

THE GAME.

The Yale team came on the field at 2.07 and at once began running through signals. Harvard appeared three minutes later. Yale kicked off at 2.23 to Randall on the 15-yard line.

Randall advanced it 12 yards where Harvard's first attack on the line was a failure.

Randall attempted to circle the line but it was a loss of five yards and Sperry punted to Yale's 50-yard line where Rockwell ran it back seven yards. Hoyt went through for one yard and then Flynn took the ball to Harvard's 45-yard line. Then Morse made two more through Brill.

A heavy line attack netted one more and then Hogan added a couple. Morse went through Derby for six yards and the same player at the same spot got four more.

Flynn shaved left tackle for two yards and in a line play Yale placed the ball on the 27-yard line.

Morse made two yards through Derby.

Hogan fell down 18 yards from Harvard's goal and after measuring the referee gave Harvard the ball.

Harvard made four yards on two cross butts and then Sperry punted to Hoyt on Yale's 45-yard line. He was thrown out of bounds after running the ball back 11 yards.

Morse made two yards and Flynn eight more round the end. At this point there was a mix up among the players because the ball was stolen out of Rourback's hands on the lineup. Delay ensued while the captains discussed the matter.

Flynn made four yards through center.

Morse took the ball to Harvard's 25 yard line. Flynn made two yards through Derby. Morse made one. Flynn took it to the 18 yard line.

Flynn circled Harvard's left end but fumbled the ball on the ten yard line and Sperry picking it up carried it to Yale's 25 yard line where Hogan brought him down with a thud.

Brill made three yards through Tripp. An attempt around Shevlin's end met with a mix up in which the ball was fumbled but Harvard got it on Yale's 27 yard line.

Sperry punted on the first down to Yale's 42 yard line where Hoyt was downed in his tracks.

Hoyt punted to Starr on Harvard's 10 yard line. Starr made two yards on a quarter back run.

Hurley made seven yards through Bloomer. The same play repeated netted Harvard 3 more.

Tripp's jersey was torn from his back and there was a delay while he was fitted to another behind a shield on the side lines. The fierce attacks seem to affect both teams to a considerable extent.

In a cross butt Sperry went through a big hole in Yale's line but he fumbled the ball and it rolled to Tripp and Hogan who went down on it together on the 28 yard line.

Flynn made a yard outside Harvard's left tackle.

Morse made a first down on the next play and then Bloomer was lifted completely over the line to the 18 yard line. Morse barely made a cord on a line attack. Flynn made two yards through the centre and then Morse pulled by Rockwell took the ball to Harvard 5 yard line but Yale was penalized for holding and the ball went back to the 25 yard line.

Brill broke up the next play and then Hoyt dropped back to the 38 yard line and on a fake attempt at a field goal ran 5 yards round right end but he was thrown by Hurley and it was Harvard's ball on her own 32 yard line. Twice Harvard was thrown back on delayed passes for a loss of four yards.

The noticeable feature of the game thus far was the slowness in which the teams lined up before putting the ball in play. The crowds on the side lines were inclined to object to the delay. Sperry punted to Yale's 35 yard line and Flynn ran to midfield where Hurley threw him. Morse made two yards around right end.

Flynn through the center got 3 more. Yale was given five yards for off side play. Morse made four yards outside right tackle.

There was delay here and the Harvard side sang and, Yale replied accompanied by the band.

Shevlin circled Harvard's left for two yards.

Morse made four yards outside of Brill.

He then got two yards through the other side of the line and it was first down for Yale on Harvard's 31 yard line.

Shevlin again circling the line from his own position made two yards. Flynn got a yard through centre. Morse got a yard through centre and Brill was laid out, requiring attention from Trainer McArthur. He resumed and Hogan back of the line took the ball through Parker for 3 yards in one of the best rushes thus far.

Hogan went through Brill for two yards more and Yale was given four yards as penalty which put the ball on Harvard's 18-yard line.

Yale began short rushing and quickly got the ball to Harvard's 8-yard line almost in front of the goal post.

Hogan made a yard through Brill.

He then carried it to the 5-yard line and Flynn followed with the ball inside the 5-yard line.

There was a fumble on the snap back but Morse got it and Harvard was penalized inside the 5-yard line.

Hogan took the ball to the 1-yard line.

On the next rush Morse carried the ball over with only a few inches to spare.

Hoyt kicked the goal.

Score: Yale 6, Harvard 0.

In the last rush, Hogan got a severe gash across the forehead and bled profusely down his face.

Harvard kicked off to Shevlin at the 5-yard line, and he ran it to the Yale 38-yard line. Mills made a good tackle. Yale made no gain on the attack against center.

On a fake punt Flynn went through the line for five yards. Morse went over and shook hands with Matthews to show his friendly feeling while the Harvard stand yelled at Randall, apparently not liking the change.

Rockwell on a quarter back run took the ball to his own 53-yard line.

Hoyt punted to Starr on his own 15-yard line but the Yale ends were down the ball to his own 53-yard line, helped to bring down the runner.

There was no more scoring during this half.

CROWDS FROM BOSTON.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Between 8 and 9 o'clock today three special trains left Boston for New Haven, heavily loaded with passengers going to the Harvard-Yale football game. A large number had left on the regular night trains, but the usual crowd had waited for the day specials.

The tide of suburbanites flowing out of the big entrance during the early morning met a counter current of heavily clad, eager-faced individuals, and at 8 o'clock passage ways to the trains began to be choked with the throng. The first train left at 8.15. Fifteen minutes later the second train started, and a third pulled out at 8.45.

DARTMOUTH-BROWN GAME.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Anxiety to efface the memory of last year's defeat of 62 to 0, produced a dogged determination on the part of the Brown football eleven to defeat Dartmouth in the annual contest between the rival colleges on the Huntington avenue baseball grounds in this city this afternoon.

The Dartmouth men on the other hand were prepared to do their hardest work of the season to crush their opponents by a decisive score. While the teams appeared very evenly matched, Dartmouth's record this fall has surpassed that of the Providence eleven. Dartmouth has not been defeated and her goal line has not been crossed, the only scores against her having been on goals from the field by Amherst and Holy Cross. Brown has been defeated by Amherst, Pennsylvania and Yale. Dartmouth also succeeded in playing Harvard to a standstill. Both teams were in excellent condition today and a close game was expected. Glaze, Dartmouth's right end, was hurt in the Amherst game and it was anticipated that Church would take his place in the Brown game. The weather today was excellent, the sky being clear and the atmosphere frosty.

The game was scheduled to begin at 2 o'clock and the lineup as announced before the game was as follows:

DARTMOUTH.		BROWN.
Lillard le		le Schwinn
Keady lt		lt Higgins
Gilman lg		lg Winslow
Farler c		c Colter
Clough rg		rg Fletcher
Gage rt		rt Webb (Capt.)
Church re		re Ross
Melvin qb		qb Schwartz
Patterson lhb		lhb Cobb
Vaughan rhb		rhb Walsh
Knibbs (Capt.) fb		fb Savage

Dartmouth scored in the first five minutes and kicked a goal.

Score—Dartmouth 6, Brown 0.

Gage scored the second touchdown for Dartmouth on an end rush. Vaughan kicked the goal.

Score—Dartmouth 12, Brown 0.

HUNTINGTON HALL

And a New Public Market Combined

Plan Showing the Geo. P. White Lot in Merrimack Square the proposed site for a new Huntington Hall and Public Market.

Both Could be Erected on the White Lot in Merrimack Sq.—Location is Convenient and Ideal Every Way—Building Can be Erected Free of Expense to the City — Housekeepers Would Benefit by Getting Provisions at First Cost

The citizens of Lowell need a hall in which to hold public meetings to replace Huntington hall. They want it to be of modern construction, safe and easy of access. They also need what they have needed for many years—a public market. This should also be of modern design and easy of access. They have now a rare opportunity of getting both the public hall and public market under favorable conditions if they will take advantage of the situation and go at the matter in earnest.

THE SITE.

The most desirable site in the city from every point of view is the White lot on Bridge street, near Merrimack square, to which The Sun has made previous reference. The above diagram shows the location of the lot, and no reasonable person will deny that it fulfills every requirement for a hall or combination of halls and a public market. The lot is practically 150 feet square, fronting on four thoroughfares. It is at the junction of all the street railway lines in the city and those approaching the city from suburban districts. The lot is covered with old buildings and can be obtained at a more reasonable price today than if the citizens were to wait until it is covered with modern structures.

A hall on this lot could be made practically fireproof as it would not be endangered by any adjoining risks or exposures to fire. The building need not be more than two stories high and exits could be provided on all sides, so that in case of fire the people could reach any or all of the four surrounding streets in a few minutes. People might go to this new Huntington hall with the full assurance that if a fire should start, which on account of its isolation is quite unlikely, they would still be sure of getting out safely on account of the open areas provided by the public highways on all sides. As this building would not be located over a canal, it would be possible to have a good basement in which a proper heating plant could be installed, and the heating could be done much more economically than it has been done at Huntington hall.

THE MARKET.

With reference to the proposal to utilize the lot for a public market it may be safely said that thoughtful people have recognized the need of such an institution in this city for many years. Experience has proven that the best way to get provisions to the consumer in good condition and at the lowest prices is by means of a public market. Farmers would bring their produce in daily, dispose of it to the occupants of the various stalls at the ruling price, and the dealers would no doubt be glad to be in the same building to dispose of their wares to the numerous purchasers who would come as they do to every public market to buy all their foodstuffs in one place and at the lowest market price. In a public market the goods are turned over so rapidly that they are always in the best condition while the dealers, enjoying the advantage of quick sales are content with smaller profits. No city that enjoys the advantages of a public market would think of parting with it under any consideration. Besides, the occupants of the various market stalls consider them a valuable asset, and in many cities they are handed down from father to son as a rich legacy. The system is profitable to the dealer, economical and advantageous for the purchaser. It is needless to state that the best place for a public market is at the end of the converging street railway lines where people can come and go without the necessity of changing cars.

THE DESIGN.

The design for a market and public halls combined would permit of very wide scope for competing architects, and a beautiful, safe and comfortable structure could be designed for this lot in a way that would insure its erection at a moderate cost. A series of arcades running from Paige street through to French street would provide for all the requirements for a market that would be light and airy in all seasons. The first story need not be more than 15 or 18 feet high. This would permit of easy access to the halls above. The entrance to the halls suggests a wide and majestic approach from Bridge street with rear entrances from George street and emergency exits on all four streets.

THE COST.

The matter of cost to the city of Lowell need not alarm the most econ-

BATTLE RAGING

Japanese and Russian Armies in Fierce Combat

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 19.—It is reported that a battle between the two armies below Mukden is in full swing. The war office does not confirm the rumor, though it admits that the activity all along the lines indicates that both armies are ready. The Russians, according to General Kuropatkin's report, are pressing the Japanese left, while a very significant movement of the Japanese is reported at Stintsintin, forty-five miles east of Mukden. A special correspondent, telegraphing under last night's date, says the battle has begun and that the thunder of the guns is unceasing.

LOCKED IN ROOM

Young Married Woman Had a Rough Experience

Went to Man's Room for Clothing and He Locked Her in—Judge Hadley Dealt Severely With Her Assailant—Boarding House Keeper Said Woman Choked Him

Joseph J. Grooms was arraigned in police court today and pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging him with assault and battery on Georgiana Rivers, a young married woman. Mrs. Rivers wore a badly discolored eye and her story to the court was substantially as follows:

"He came to our house about noon time and he bought some beer and some whiskey. I drank three glasses of beer. He asked my mother if she would mend his clothing and I went with him to the Moody house to get them. As soon as I entered the room he locked the door and refused to let me out. I screeched and hollered "Murder" but he held me there. He insulted me and assaulted me. I have known him for a good many years and I did not know that he was a bad man. I was in the room for one hour and I continued to holler all the time that I was there. No one came to my assistance. I did not drink any whiskey while I was in his room."

Grooms said that the woman did not tell the truth. He said that she did not go to his room to get his clothing. He alleged that he had made an appointment with her. He admitted, however, that he struck her in the eye but said it was an accident. Grooms' story was a miserable one. Judge Hadley was disgusted with the man and branded the story as the vilest ever told in the local police court. Grooms was sentenced to the house of correction for a term of six months. He appealed and was ordered in $300 for the superior court.

KNOCKED HIM DOWN.

Elvork Babbigan, who conducts a boarding and lodging house in John street, complained to the police a few days ago that he had been assaulted by Eli Gagnon and Marie Lessard. He said that he called at the woman's room to quell a disturbance and that the woman assaulted him. "She choked my throat," he said, "and knocked me down. Then the man hit me in the face and head with his fist."

Marie Louise said she wasn't strong enough to choke anybody. She said that the complainant was mad at her because she refused to kiss him when she roomed at the house before. She showed a cut on her hand that she said was made by a knife in the hands of the complainant's son. The defendants in the case were fined $10 each.

ARRESTED WRONG MAN.

Things were a bit embarrassing for Special Officer Allen who sees to it that everything is peaceful at the Collinsville mills. He had a warrant for one Frank Tatar, and the man he produced was not the man mentioned in the warrant. In order to give the special officer time to straighten matters out the case was continued for one week.

THE DRUNKEN OFFENDERS.

Thomas F. Gagnon said he was not drunk when arrested. "I'll tell you the whole thing," he said to the court, "and then it will be up to you." He said he had taken a few drinks during the afternoon and that when the officer called at his house at 11.20 last evening he was reading. "I was quiet as a lamb," he said. The officer, however, told a different story. He said that Thomas had the house in an uproar and that his family had tired of his abuse. He was sentenced to the state farm and appealed. Four first offenders were fined $2 each.

STANDARD OIL

Will be Put on the Rack

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 19.—The department of commerce and labor will investigate the Standard Oil company just as it has been investigating the beef trust. This action has been decided upon after repeated conferences between President Roosevelt and Commissioner Garfield. It is the disposition of the president to avoid any sensational methods in making the inquiry into the business practices of this famous monopoly. At present no effort will be made to bring it into any of the federal courts to answer charges of violating the laws governing restraint of interstate commerce. The investigators of the department of commerce will quietly take up the various phases of the oil industry, beginning with the wells, leading up to the refineries and following to the methods of distribution, both in the United States and in foreign countries. They will take up the reports concerning the Standard Oil's control of independent companies. The investigation will not be completed before congress adjourns next March and Roosevelt begins his new administration.

ARTHUR M. BURTT

TENDERED A RECEPTION BY WASHINGTON FRIENDS.

The Washington Evening Star of November 14 had the following:

"The Washington Architectural club held its opening reception of the year in its new club rooms, 1420 F street, last night. An exhibition of the sketches made during the summer occupied the walls of the main room. A short business meeting was held and eight new members were elected making the total membership 109.

"The club took occasion to express its regret at the departure of its secretary, Mr. Arthur M. Burtt, for his new position as architect for the Panama canal commission, at Ancon Hill, Canal Zone, Isthmus of Panama. Entertainment was furnished by the musical members of the club. Mr. Burtt contributing a number of songs. Mr. Wolfsteiner and Mr. Atkinson gave piano solos, and Mr. Matthews also entertained with songs. The rooms were crowded throughout the evening and refreshments were served.

Among the sketches exhibited were a number of water colors by the late J. Wells Champney of New York, and by Mr. Harry Pratt. It was decided that the club should attend in a body the annual exhibition of the Baltimore Architectural club, which will be held December 10, at Peabody Institute.

Mr. Burtt is a son of Charles H. Burtt of this city.

ARCHBISHOP CHAPPELLE

MAY BE RELIEVED OF DUTIES AS APOSTOLIC DELEGATE.

ROME, Nov. 19.—Partly to satisfy the wishes of Archbishop Chappelle of New Orleans, the apostolic delegate for Cuba and Porto Rico, and partly because of complaints received from the archdiocese of New Orleans owing to his unavoidable absences the vatican may soon relieve the archbishop from the apostolic delegation in the Antilles in order that he may devote his entire time to his archdiocese.

It is asserted that most probably Mgr. Broderick, auxiliary bishop of Havana, will not return to Cuba.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 19. A proposal to establish woman suffrage will be submitted to the diet. The petition will claim that Finnish women are fully competent to enjoy the franchise, the organic law of the Grand Duchy only providing that women shall not sit in the diet.

SCHOONER LAUNCHED.

BATH, Me., Nov. 19. The four-masted schooner John Bossert, built for Louis Bossert & Son, New York lumber dealers, was launched today by Kelley, Spear & Co. The christening was by Miss Jennie B. Bossert, daughter of one of the owners. The dimensions are: Length 170.7 feet, beam 38 feet, depth 12.8.

The gross tonnage is 604. The schooner was built for the lumber trade with a capacity of 600 M, is a duplicate of the Louis Bossert, built here last June. The vessel will be commanded by Capt. H. B. Smith of Deer Isle, Maine.

IN SHANTY FIRE

Tools and Clothing Completely Destroyed

WATCHMAN SAVED THE EXPLOSIVES

Street and Sewer Departments Will Work Sunday

Upon learning of the fire that destroyed the tool shed of the sewer department at the Stromquist avenue job Supt. Farnham immediately sent a requisition to Purchasing Agent Donnelly for sufficient lumber to construct a new shanty and the work was begun at once as a shanty is necessary for the storage of tools, etc., as well as for a place where the employes may eat their dinner.

The sewer department lost quite a lot of valuable tools in the fire, which raged so furiously that nothing could be saved. Much clothing was also lost, including a new $25 overcoat owned by a watchman employed by the railroad.

Since the work of putting the sewer under the tracks was undertaken the railroad has had two watchmen at the job to warn trains and make them proceed with caution over the spot. Signalling at night is done by means of rockets and the night watchman had a quantity of these rockets in a tin box in the tool house. As soon as the watchman discovered the flames he rushed into the burning shanty and removed the box of rockets but the heat was so intense that he was forced to leave before he could get his new overcoat.

DEPARTMENTS WORK SUNDAY.

Both street and sewer departments will work 10 hours per day, seven days a week until the Aiken street bridge and Stromquist avenue sewers are finished. Speaking of those two jobs Supt. Farnham said to a reporter of The Sun today: "We are having great luck on both of these jobs for the Lord is certainly with us as regards weather.

"We will almost finish the Stromquist ave. job before the cold weather sets in and in order to do it we will work while there is daylight, Sundays and all. Tomorrow we will finish the work of laying the sewer pipe under the railroad track, a difficult and dangerous operation. The Aiken street bridge job is moving right along to completion and all except the lumpers will work on it all day tomorrow. We will give the public not only practically a new bridge but one of the best and strongest bridges in New England for the work we are doing will last for 20 years."

GETTING NERVOUS

JUDGE PICKMAN INQUIRES ABOUT MOTH APPROPRIATION.

On October 25th Mayor Howe sent a communication to the city council enclosing a letter from the park commission relative to the extermination of the brown tail moth, his honor recommending an appropriation of $500 to be used by the commission, the matter being reported in The Sun at that time. The matter came up in the board of aldermen in due time and was referred to the appropriations committee and sent down to the common council for concurrent action. But the council has never taken the matter up, and it now lies forgotten among the papers of the common council. Yesterday Judge Pickman telephoned to the mayor's office to learn what had become of the communication. He was somewhat reassured upon learning that the matter was not dead but sleeping.

DAVID NEAL

DISTINGUISHED ARTIST WILL PAINT DAVIS PORTRAITS.

The John Davis estate has now been fully settled, and there is something like $115,000 available for the public library. It is the desire of the trustees to have portraits painted of Mr. and Mrs. Davis, to be hung in the library in their memory, and to have the work done by a distinguished artist who was born in Lowell, Mr. David Neal. A letter was recently received from Mr. Neal, written in Munich, Bavaria, in which the artist said that he would be very glad to undertake the work, and would come to Lowell for the purpose if the commission were given to him. The only problem confronting the trustees is the fact that there are few available photographs of either Mr. or Mrs. Davis, and the task of painting a portrait would be a difficult one.

MRS. CALLAHAN'S RECITAL.

The pupils of Mrs. Carrie Miles Callahan gave a delightful musicale at her home, 19a Walker street, last night. Many friends attended the pretty affair and the house in which the gathering took place was charmingly dressed with climbing vines and potted plants. Arbor vita was the centre of the pretty decorative scheme.

Assisting Mrs. Callahan were Mr. Arthur Booth, autoharp soloist, Mr. Horace Bancroft, 'cellist, and Miss Belle Pickman, accompanist. Many little treats in music were given by the various instrumentalists and singers, and the affair was fascinating in every way.

The program consisted of the following numbers: Piano solo (a) "On the Meadows," (b) "Masses in the Cold Ground," Miss Martha Jones; song, "My Dream of You," Miss Ethel Jones; 'cello solo, Mr. Horace Bancroft; piano solo (a), "Doll's Dream," (b) "Buds and Blossoms," Miss Beatrice Callanore; song, "Angels' Serenade," Miss Mabel Nickerson, with violin obbligato by Miss Flint Frisbie; autoharp solo, Mr. Arthur Booth; vocal solo, "Song of the Lighthouse Bell," Mr. Frank Lucy, piano solo, Fifth Nocturne (Leybach), Mr. William Smith; song and aria from "Jeanne de Arc," Miss Mabel Nickerson; 'cello solo, Mr. Bancroft, song, "Beneath Summer Skies," Miss Flint Felshlin; song, "Spring Revels," Mr. Horace B. Hanson, and autoharp solo, Mr. Booth.

Following the musicale, light refreshments were served.

BRITISH CRUISER SAILS.

SIMONSTOWN, Cape Colony, Nov. 19. The British cruiser Barossa sailed from here today.

It is believed her destination is Walfish Bay on the west coast of German South West Africa, and that her object is to watch the approaching division of the Russian second Pacific squadron.

BILLY LADUE WON

Threw Little in Less Than 10 Minutes

William F. Ladue, the wrestler regained some of his lost laurels, last evening by throwing J. Little of Brockton in 9 minutes, 40 seconds, in a very pretty and interesting exhibition that was on the level. The bout took place at the Boston theatre and Little was to stay 15 minutes. He appeared as clever as Ladue but was out of shape while Ladue was in the pink of condition. Joe Haynes was referee and Charlie Jackson of Brockton, James Prokos, Nelson Desmarais, Lake Walsh and a number of other wrestlers were in the wings and after the bout they were entertained with a lively war of words between Ladue and Jackson during which Ladue pushed his fist into Jackson's face and threatened to lick him. But it was only talk.

Manager Tibbetts has taken Ladue in charge and wants to match him against Jackson.

DANGEROUSLY ILL

GERMAN CONSUL GENERAL HAD APPENDICITIS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Charl Buenz, the German consul general at this port, is dangerously ill.

Five weeks ago he was operated on for appendicitis. Following this came an attack of pneumonia. He rallied but another relapse has occurred and the consul general is now reported to be in a serious condition.

SENATOR COCKRELL

MAY BE APPOINTED ON PANAMA CANAL COMMISSION.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—While no announcement yet has been made regarding the president's action in the selection of the man to succeed Col. Frank J. Hecker on the Isthmian canal commission, it is known that he is considering seriously the appointment of Senator F. M. Cockrell of Missouri to the vacancy. It is intimated that Senator Cockrell himself practically will have the determination of the matter. If his health will permit him to undertake the arduous work of the commission, it is reasonably certain that he can have the appointment.

FIRE IN A STORE

Corner of Cross and Willie Streets

INCIPIENT BLAZE AT FRANKLIN SCHOOL

False Alarm By Telephone Fooled Chief Hosmer

An alarm from box 39 at 3.40 o'clock this morning summoned a portion of the fire department to a lively blaze in a grocery store conducted by Arthur Cayer at the corner of Cross and Willie streets.

The fire started in some unaccountable manner under the counter as the owner can give no reason how it started. The only thing which was under the counter where the fire started was a bag of flour, some clothes pins, and a few small grocery articles, the matches being located quite a distance away from where the fire started.

Mr. Cayer informed Chief Hosmer that when he closed the store at 8.30 o'clock last night he smelled smoke, but an investigation failed to show that there was any fire. He also denied that he threw a match under the counter, stating that he always threw the burned ones in the stove.

A pet cat which was sleeping in the store was suffocated by the smoke.

The stock and fixtures were insured through the agency of F. M. Brogan. T. C. Lee & Co. had the insurance on the building.

INCIPIENT BLAZE

AT FRANKLIN SCHOOL EXTINGUISHED WITHOUT AN ALARM.

Yesterday while the Franklin school in Branch street was in session a slight fire broke out in the boiler room. The janitor had left a piece of oily waste on a motor in the basement, and the motor generating sufficient heat to set it afire started the blaze.

One of the teachers detected the odor of smoke and while she sent one of the pupils out to the Branch street engine house nearby to notify the firemen, the other teachers in the building were notified and the pupils were put through the fire drill, the entire school being vacated in a few minutes.

The fire was of a trivial nature and was put out by a few dashes from the extinguisher.

FALSE ALARM GIVEN.

A false alarm was sent into the central station at 3.48 last night, evidently by a person who thought he was funny, but as Chief Hosmer has a clue to the identity of the individual, the latter unless he can explain his action may find himself in a serious difficulty.

The person telephoned word to Chief Hosmer that there was a fire at the corner of Paige and John streets and the chief in turn sent several pieces of apparatus from the central fire station to the scene of the supposed fire.

When the apparatus arrived there was no sign of a fire and no one seemed to know anything about an alarm having been sent in.

BOY APPEALED

HE WAS FINED FOR THROWING STONES.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 19.—The continued case of John Vino, Jr., the sixteen year old boy, arrested last Wednesday evening for throwing stones at operatives leaving the Sagamore mills was heard before Judge McDonough in the district court this morning. Vine was found guilty and fined $25. An appeal was entered.

O'DONOVAN ROSSA

GIVEN GREAT RECEPTION BY IRISH PEOPLE.

QUEENSTOWN, Ireland, Nov. 19.—A numerous deputation, accompanied by a band, went out on a tender to meet O'Donovan Rossa, who arrived here today from New York November 12. The deputation escorted Mr. Rossa ashore. His entry into Cork Sunday will be the occasion of a great demonstration and his stay in Ireland is expected to be marked by considerable political activity.

PERSONALS

Bert E. Tuttle of 28 June street left Lowell this morning for Goldsboro, N. C., where he has accepted a position with his brother, who is in the plumbing and steamfitting business.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dunn had their first at home last evening at their home in Haines avenue, and entertained about 75 guests. Refreshments were served during the evening and many of those present enjoyed dancing.

POLITICAL FIELD

Lively Contests on Both Sides for Nomination

Mayor Howe opened headquarters last evening in the store at 60 Central street, with entrances on Central and Prescott streets.

The gathering was a most enthusiastic one, the speakers being Representative William E. Westall, L. P. Turcotte, E. W. Lachance, E. A. Wilson, Dr. Downs, Representative Rolfe Bradbury, Charles Copeland, William Hardy, George Spence, E. S. Houle, James Birtwell, Fred Horne, Loren Foss, Ed. Salmon and Charles Gale.

Mr. Walter Coburn presided, and, after appealing to the voters present to do their utmost for the candidate between now and Tuesday, the mayor himself thanked those present for their friendship and loyalty, and the meeting adjourned after giving three rousing cheers and an enthusiastic tiger for the Hon. Charles E. Howe.

The many supporters of Thomas E. Smith are confident that he will be one of the three lucky ones in ward two council fight on caucus night. "Tom Ed" is a hustler and is putting up a lively canvass.

The registration for last night was fairly good, and was given out by wards as follows: Ward one, five; ward two, six; ward three, four; ward four, four; ward five, five; ward six, four; ward seven, three; ward eight four, and ward nine, three; total 38.

The supporters of James B. Casey held a rousing rally in the Lyon street school basement last evening, several hundred attending. Prior to the rally the Fifth Regiment drum corps paraded the principal streets and marched to the hall.

The rally was presided over by Patrick B. McHugh, who made a graceful 10-minute speech in favor of Mr. Casey, after which remarks were made by John H. Meehan, Dennis Healy and John R. Shea. Mr. Casey spoke at length.

Hector Lavallee of L'Etoile has been employed by the republican city committee to look up candidates for naturalization and registration in precinct 1 of ward 7. Hector nightly makes a house to house canvass in Little Canada.

Cyrille Constantineau has broken into the political game again and is hustling for the republican city committee in ward seven.

Jeremiah Daly, the popular member of the Knights of Columbus and other organizations, is a ward two candidate for the common council who is looked upon as one of the strongest.

John J. Connors, the popular clerk for Richard H. Casey of Suffolk street, is looked upon by his friends as one of the sure winners in ward two, for the common council. They account him as a progressive, upright, temperate and intelligent young man, amply qualified to represent the ward with credit.

The friends of Councilman Michael Quinn point to the improvements at the Mann school, notably the establishment of the drinking fountain as among the reasons why he should be renominated.

Ralph H. Cullinan is looked upon as one of the winners in the ward four council fight. He has been a hustler for others in the ward for years and his friends now believe that all will rally to his support and land him among the winners. He says if he goes to the council he will favor the White lot as a site for the new Huntington hall. He believes it is a grand location.

The town clerks of the 25th and 27th districts met with City Clerk Dadman, yesterday afternoon to officially canvass and declare the election returns. All the town clerks were present except Mr. Upton of North Reading who was ill.

The returns were certified to as follows: 25th district total votes: Bradbury, 2303; Burgess, 183; Folsom, 179; Gormley, 2501; Hayes, 2019; Hilton, 3076; McMannmon, 2713; Sheehan, 2147; Blanks, 2011.

27th district: Conley, 2068; Murphy, 2058; Stevens, 2260; Mustall, 2223; blanks, 1795.

VIOLENT DEATHS

Husband and Wife Were Murdered

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 19.—The dead bodies of John Hanly, a fisherman, and his wife have been found in their cabin at Horn Lake Pass, a desolate region 20 miles south of Memphis. Gunshot and other wounds on their bodies and two bloody axes near by testified to the violence of their deaths.

A young baby was discovered barely alive, though uninjured, under a pile of bed clothing. The cabin had been ransacked for valuables, which Henly was reputed to have stored away.

ONLY ONE POINT

IN DISPUTE BETWEEN RUSSIA AND GREAT BRITAIN.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 19. The negotiations on the subject of the Anglo-Russo convention are practically concluded. Only one, small, minor point remains to be settled and that is of such slight importance that foreign minister Lamsdorff and Ambassador Hardinge this afternoon will discuss the question as to how and where the signatures are to be changed. In substance, the change in the language regarding the determination of responsibility by the international commission will make the convention provide for the location of any blame which is found to exist upon any person of Russian, British or foreign nationality.

MEDICAL EXPERTS

MUST EMPLOY ASSISTANTS WHO PASS EXAMINATION.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—The civil commission of Greater New York has ruled that the experts, appointed last year by the city authorities to investigate pneumonia and its causes, cannot employ assistants in other cities unless the physicians so employed first come to New York and undergo a municipal civil service examination.

The ruling has surprised the expert commission which comprises some of the most distinguished medical men in the country. It is made up of Professors Wm. Osler and Wm. H. Walsh of Johns Hopkins university; Edward G. Daneway of New York university; T. Mitchell Pruden and L. Emmett Holt of the college of physicians and surgeons; Frank Billings of Rush medical college, Chicago; John M. Musser, of the university of Pennsylvania, and Theobald Smith of Harvard.

To pay the expenses of the commissions' work the board of estimate made an appropriation of $10,000 to assist them in their researches. The members of the commission asked leave to appoint without competitive examinations physicians of Baltimore, Philadelphia and Boston to collect data, statistics and other material of value to them from those centres of population. It was proposed to pay these physicians $100 a month. The civil service commission has now refused the request, though the services of the physicians would be of an occasional and expert character.

BOER SOLDIERS

WANT TO REMAIN IN THIS COUNTRY.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 19.—Depositions are being taken by the local immigration officers of the British and Boer soldiers of the Boer war company at the World's Fair.

According to the immigration laws of the United States these men must return to their respective countries at the expiration of the World's Fair as they were brought here by contract for public purpose of exhibition. About 400 members of the troupe are involved. In order to remain in this country, as they have expressed a desire, they will be compelled to file new applications, which practically means the seeking of renewed admission to this country through an interior port.

STATUE UNVEILED

Impressive Exercises Held in Washington Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Hailed by a military blare of twenty trumpets, whose prolonged note of welcome rang out sharp on the crisp November air and was echoed far down the Potomac, the bronze statue of Frederick the Great, presented to the American people by Emperor William, was unveiled this afternoon by the Baroness Speck-von-Sternburg, the wife of the German ambassador. This beautiful American woman was the central figure in an elaborate ceremony, which was marked by great military and official display. The statue was presented on behalf of the emperor by his personal envoy, the German ambassador, who made a brief address. The president made the chief address of the day and accepted the gift on behalf of the American people. Remarks were made by Lieut.-Gen. Chaffee, chief of staff; Major-General Gillespie of the general staff, master of ceremonies; Lieut.-General Von Loewenfeld, one of the special commissioners sent to the unveiling by the emperor; and Charlemagne Tower, American ambassador to Germany.

BRILLIANT ASSEMBLAGE.

Seldom has the national capital witnessed a more brilliant and distinguished assemblage than was gathered on the grand esplanade of the Army War college around the pedestal of the statue. Immediately back of the statue on the president's stand, which was completely covered in red, white and blue bunting and decorated with American flags, sat the president and his cabinet, the German ambassador and the Baroness Speck-von-Sternburg, Lieut.-General Von Loewenfeld, and Major Count Von Schmettow, the emperor's special commissioners to the unveiling, and the entire diplomatic corps, all in full uniform. On stands to the right and left of the statue were officers of the army and navy in full dress uniform, the members of the supreme court, members of congress and other invited guests. Directly in front of the pedestal of the statue were grouped the members of the German societies from various parts of the country who came to Washington for the ceremony.

Within the gates of the Army War college along the line of march to the esplanade were stationed the troops in attendance.

ALIVE WITH TROOPS.

Early in the day Washington was alive with marching troops and before noon mounted policemen gathered along the line of march. By one o'clock Pennsylvania avenue contained a steady stream of carriages filled with diplomats and army and navy officers whose brilliant uniforms excited general attention and were the signal for the gathering of the crowds along the approaches to the War college. The president's flag was taken from the White House in the forenoon and placed in the custody of the commander of the Washington light cracks ready to be raised the moment the president's carriage was announced at the outer gates of the post.

The diplomats, with the exception of the German ambassador and his staff, drove informally to the esplanade to await the arrival of the official party, which came in three groups. They arrived in inverse order of rank, the military group first, then the diplomatic group and lastly the presidential group, each under escort of a troop of cavalry.

Promptly at one o'clock troop B, 7th cavalry, reported to Capt. Grote Hutcheson, general staff, for duty as escort to Lieutenant General Von Loewenfeld, adjutant general to the German emperor. From the lieutenant general's apartments the cavalcade moved at a rapid trot. The order of carriages was: First, Lieutenant General Von Loewenfeld and Lieutenant General Chaffee with their aides, Captain Dickman and Capt. Hutcheson; second, Major Count Von Schmettow and Major Duvall; third, Brigadier General Grant and Capt. Gallagher; fourth, Major Von Etzel, military attache of the German embassy and Major Goethals; fifth, Mrs. Chaffee, Miss Chaffee, and Mrs. Hutcheson; sixth, Mrs. Gillespie and Mrs. Grant, and seventh, Mrs. Bromwell and Mrs. Winslow.

AMBASSADORIAL PARTY.

Ten minutes later, escorted by troop D, 7th cavalry, the ambassadorial party left the German embassy for the barracks. The personnel of this party and the order of their carriages was: First, the ambassador and Major Gen. Gillespie with their aides, Lieut. Martin and Captain Alvord; second, the Baroness Speck-von-Sternburg, mother, Mrs. Langham and her sister, Miss Langham escorted by Colonel Allen; third, the Baron von dem Russche-Baddenhausen and Mr. Scheller-Stehwartz and their aide, Col. Sharpe; fourth, Commander and Mrs. Hobbingans and Lieutenant Col. Kerr; fifth, Mr. Von Verdy du Vernois and Mr. Diedrich, with Capt. Nolan.

PRESIDENT'S ESCORT.

To troop A, 7th cavalry, fell the honor of escorting the presidential party, which moved at a rapid trot down Pennsylvania avenue and along the route followed by the preceding cavalcades. The presidential party left the White House in carriages at two o'clock in the following order: The president, the secretary to president, and the president's aides, Col. Bromwell and Commander Winslow; Mrs. Roosevelt and Major McCawley; the secretary of state; the secretary of the treasury; the attorney general; the postmaster general; the secretary of the navy; the secretary of the interior; the secretary of agriculture; the secretary of commerce and labor; the acting secretary of war and his aide, Brigadier General Story; and Mrs. Oliver and the Misses Oliver escorted by Capt. Michie.

As each party started, the escorting troop formed in line and rendered appropriate honors.

Formed in lines to the west of the old main road through the Washington barracks were all of the foot troops participating in the ceremonies. Two batteries of field artillery were stationed in south battery of the post and, upon the arrival at the gates of the several groups, fired the prescribed salute, Lieutenant Gen. von Loewenfeld, receiving 15 guns; the German ambassador, nineteen guns; and the president, twenty-one guns. As each group passed in front of the line of foot troops the prescribed honors were rendered. As soon as the presidential group passed down the line the troops moved promptly directly in front of the president's stand, forming the fourth side of the square enclosing the statue.

The firing of the president's salutet of 21 guns had barely finished when his carriage reached the west stairway of the war college terrace. The entire assemblage arose as he ascended the grand esplanade and remained standing until Master of Ceremonies Major General Gillespie, had escorted him to his seat in the front row of the president's stand and directly to the right of the statue. The president's flag had been hoisted over the stand as soon as the first gun of his salute had boomed forth. It was lowered as the president left and was returned to the White House in the custody of his escorting troop of cavalry.

THE PROGRAM.

The official program began with the invocation by the Rt. Rev. Dr. Satterlee, the bishop of Washington. Major General Gillespie then addressed the ambassador.

STATUE UNVEILED.

As he closed his address, Maj. Gen. Gillespie turned to the ambassadress and, offering her his arm, escorted her to the edge of the statue where were fastened the silken cords attached to the American and German flags in which it was shrouded. Gripping the cords firmly, one in each hand, the ambassadress had but to give one tug before the silken folds loosened from around the figure of Frederick the Great. Straightway twenty trumpeters of the army, drawn up in front of the president's stand, sounded a military blare of welcome—one prolonged note—and as the flags slowly parted, the American to the right and the German to the left, the Marine band struck up the German National Anthem. Instead of falling to the pedestal the flags, by an ingenious device, were hoisted to the top of flag poles on either side of the statue and unfurled to the breeze amid the inspiring melody of the German hymn. The ambassadress was gowned in gray velvet and wore a hat of chinchilla.

Lieutenant General von Loewenfeld was then presented by the master of ceremonies and, as the special commissioners of the German emperor, transferred the statue to the custody of his majesty's personal envoy, Baron Sternburg, the German ambassador.

Baron Sternburg, the German ambassador, presented a striking appearance in his sky blue uniform with silver trimmings and high boots and wearing the tartar cap of ermine adorned in front with a white aigrette. He was introduced by Maj. Gen. Gillespie and, accepting the custody of the statue from the special commissioner, formally presented the gift, on behalf of the emperor, to the American people through their president, whom the ambassador addressed.

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

A most enthusiastic greeting was given the president as he arose and advanced to the edge of the stand to deliver his address of acceptance. The president's address follows:

Mr. Ambassador:

Through you I wish on behalf of the people of the United States to thank His Majesty the German Emperor, and the people of Germany for the gift to the nation which you have just formally delivered to me. I accept it with deep appreciation of the friendly regard which it typifies for the people of this republic both on the part of the emperor and on the part of the German people. I accept it not merely as the statue of one of the half dozen greatest soldiers of all time, and therefore peculiarly appropriate for placing in this War College, but I accept it as the statue of a great man, whose life was devoted to the service of a great people, and whose deeds hastened the approach of the day when a united Germany should spring into being.

As a soldier Frederick the Great ranks in that very, very small group which includes Alexander, Caesar, and Hannibal in antiquity, and Napoleon, and possibly Gustavous Adolphus, in modern times. He belonged to the ancient and illustrious house of Hohenzollern, which after playing a strong and virile part in the middle ages, and after producing some men, like the great Elector, who were among the most famous princes of their time, founded the royal house of Prussia two centuries ago, and at last in our own day established the mighty German Empire as among the foremost of world powers. We receive this gift now at the hands of the present Emperor, himself a man who has markedly added to the luster of his great house and his great nation, a man who has devoted his life to the welfare of his people, and who, while keeping ever ready to defend the rights of that people, has also made it evident in emphatic fashion that he and they desire peace and friendship with the other nations of the earth.

FREDERICK TRIUMPHED.

It is not my purpose here to discuss at length the career of the mighty King and mighty General whose statue we have just received. In all history no other great commander save only Hannibal fought so long against such terrible odds, and while Hannibal finally failed, Frederick finally triumphed. In almost every battle he fought against great odds, and he almost always won the victory. When defeated he rose to an even greater altitude than when victorious. The memory of the Seven Years' war will last as long as their lives in mankind the love of heroism, and its operations will be studied to the minutest detail as long as the world sees a soldier worthy of the name. It is difficult to know whether to admire most the victories of Leuthen and Prague, Rossbach and Zorndorf, or the heart-breaking campaigns after Kunersdorf, when the great King, after having been beaten to the ground by the banded might of Europe, yet rose again and by an exhibition of skill, tenacity, energy, and daring such as had never before been seen united in one person, finally wrested triumph from defeat. Not only must the military scholar always turn to the career of Frederick the Great for lessons in strategy and tactics; not only must the military administrator always turn to his career for lessons in organizing success; not only will the lover of heroism read the tales of his mighty feats as long as mankind cares for heroic deeds; but even those who are not attracted by the valor of the soldier must yet, for the sake of the greatness of the man, ponder and admire the lessons taught by his undaunted resolution, his inflexible tenacity of purpost, his farsighted grasp of lofty possibilities, and his unflinching, unyielding determination in following the path he had marked out. It is eminently fitting that the statue of this iron soldier, this born leader of men, should find a place in this War College; for when soldierly genius and heroism reach the highest point of achievement the man in whom they are displayed grows to belong not merely to the nation from which he sprang, but to all nations capable of showing, and therefore capable of appreciating, the virile and masterful virtues which alone make victors in those dread struggles where resort is at last had to the arbitrament of arms.

SYMBOL OF FRIENDSHIP.

But, Mr. Ambassador, in accepting the statue given us today through you from the German emperor, I accept it not merely because it is the statue of a mighty and terrible soldier, but I accept it as a symbol of the ties of friendship and good will which I trust as the years go on will bind ever closer together the American and the German peoples. There is kinship of blood between the two nations. We of the United States are of mixed stock. In our veins runs the blood of almost all the peoples of middle, northern and western Europe. We already have a history of which we feel that we have the right to be legitimately proud, and yet our nationality is still in the formative period. Nearly three centuries have elapsed since the landing of the English at Jamestown marked the beginning of what has since grown into the United States.

During these three centuries streams of newcomers from many different countries abroad have in each generation contributed to swell the increase of our people. Soon after the English settled in Virginia and New England, the Hollander settled at the mouth of the Hudson and the Swede at the mouth of the Delaware. Even in colonial days the German element had become very strong among our people in various parts of this country; the Irish element was predominant in the foothills of the Alleghenies; French Huguenots were numerous. By the time of the Declaration of Independence that process of fusion which has gone on ever since was well under way. From the beginning of our national history men of German origin or German parentage played a distinguished part in the affairs of both of peace and of war.

EXPESSES THANKS.

In closing, let me thank you, and through you the German emperor and the German people, for this statue, which I accept in the name of the American people; a people claiming blood kinship with your own; a people owing much to Germany; a people which, though with a national history far shorter than that of your people, nevertheless, like your people, is proud of the great deeds of its past, and is confident in the majesty of its future. I most earnestly pray that in the coming years these two great nations shall move on toward their several destinies knit together by ties of the heartiest friendship and good will.

Led by the president the assemblage arose and with uncovered heads remained standing throughout the playing of "America" by the Marine band.

The next address on the program was by special request of the president who desired that Lieutenant General Chaffee, chief of staff, should speak at the unveiling.

Charlemagne Tower, the American ambassador to Germany, was presented, after the playing of "Hail Columbia," and made a few remarks.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Paul A. Menzel, pastor of Concordia Lutheran church.

Again the assemblage stood uncovered while the band rendered "The Star Spangled Banner," which closed the official ceremony.

After congratulating the German ambassadress and shaking hands with the foreign ambassadors, the president and his party left the esplanade followed by the German ambassador and his party and Lieutenant General Loewenfeld and his party. In the inverse order in which they came, the presidential cavalcade leading, the official procession was reformed and left the Washington barracks, while the field batteries were firing the second presidential salute of twenty-one guns.

THREE DROWNED

First Skating Accident of the Season in Lynn

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 19.—Lynn's first skating accident came this noon when three school boys of the Tower Hill district were drowned in a Holyoke street clay pit.

Edward Carey, 13 years old, son of W. J. Carey; Geo. Stiles, 15 years old, son of Joseph S. Stiles; and Albert Hawkes, 15 years old, son of Arthur Hawkes, were skating on the pit's surface went under with the lads, who sank immediately in the deep water. Fred Phillips, passing, saw the accident. He hurried to the pond and jumped in, catching Carey and pulling him to the shore. The boy was dead however. Phillips tried to get the other boys but was unsuccessful. In response to his cries, people from the neighborhood appeared and with poles the other two bodies were taken out. Four doctors worked for an hour over the boys but could not resuscitate them.

MORE TESTIMONY

"Tech" Students Say They Were Clubbed

BOSTON, Nov. 19—What will probably be the last session of the board of police hearing on the Technology riot which will be devoted to the institute witnesses was held today. At the opening of the session counsel for the institute presented a series of 20 photographs of the injuries of Technology students which he wished to enter as evidence.

M. B. Hall, 1906 of St. Louis, Mo., was the first witness. He said he saw a mounted policeman run into a woman, strike her with a club and knock her into the street. He saw later a policeman brandish a revolver in front of the Brunswick while people shouted to him, "Why don you shoot."

George W. Treat, a graduate of the institute, testified that he saw several students struck by the police and saw blood flowing from the head of one of the boys. He also said that a student was hurt by an officer's horse falling on him and that during the encounter in front of the Rogers building one of the officers lost his helmet. The witness was struck by an officer and in retaliation he said he hit the policeman. Several other students gave evidence concerning the fighting between the students and police.

OUT ON STRIKE

Operatives Object to Wage Reduction

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 19.—Fifty men and 15 girls, employed by the Eastern Kid company, mostly as stakers, refused to work today when they found a new piece price list posted that they claim makes a general reduction of 20 percent. Supt. Haddock replaced several striking bower blazers but failed to settle matters at a conference with the strikers.

ANCIENT ENGINE

TAKES THE PLACE OF ONE BEING REPAIRED.

A new addition to the fire apparatus arrived at the central station the other day in the form of an engine to take the place of engine 3 which has been sent to the factory at Amoskeag to be overhauled.

The new engine is of the very ancient type, and it is hinted that Noah brought it over in the ark. At any rate it is one of the oldest steam engines now used by any fire department in the country. The engine was built at the Amoskeag factory about 1852, and was first used as a hand engine, that is it was pulled by call men who drew the cumbersome machine by aid of long ropes. The engineer stood on the rear step of the engine and started the fire while the engine was being hauled to the fire. The brake on the rear wheels is a slight reminder of the old times.

A number of years ago the machine was sent back to the factory and it was equipped with a pole and horses drew it. It is now used by the factory to be sent to different cities when engines are taken to be repaired. It is a very old looking machine and has attracted no end of attention, but it can do good work nevertheless.

Engine 3 is to receive a new boiler and undergo a general overhauling, no repairs of any consequence having been made on it since its purchase, 15 years ago.

RAILROAD NOTES.

As stated in yesterday's Sun the Boston and Northern railroad has called in all the passes of employes. The local employes will start to turn their passes in Tuesday and all are expected to be in by November 30. The motormen and conductors pay the railroad $10 for these tickets, the money to be returned when the tickets are given up; therefore the railroad will have to turn back considerable money to its employes.

Owing to the work being done on the Billings street sewer people residing in Drascut Centre have to change cars at the corner of Billings and Bridge streets.

Residents of Chelmsford Centre who use the electric road have to change cars at Golden Cove owing to the fact that the highway commission is laying a new culvert under the tracks at the cove.

MARRIAGE TIES

Married Couple Cannot Divorce Themselves

"Nor am I convinced that it is within the power of married couples to divorce themselves in this commonwealth by instruments of writing, or otherwise; or that by means of agreements entered into, either between themselves, or by the intervention of third persons, they may avoid the legal responsibilities with which they are charged by their marriage contract."

The above is the finding of Judge McIntire of the Middlesex probate court in the case of Ida S. Dillon of this city, who sued her husband, William, an expert accountant, of Newton, for separate support. He orders the husband to pay $135 forthwith, and $8 a week to the support of his wife.

In July, 1903, the couple, then living in Roxbury, agreed to separate, and in consideration of the wife's promise not to make further claim upon him for support, the husband paid $1000 to James A. Bailey, acting as trustee, who was empowered to pay over that amount to Mrs. Dillon. She received the first instalment, $400, which was all that was left of $500 after the trustee's expenses were deducted, and has made no effort since to collect the remainder.

A petition, brought by the wife in the Suffolk probate court, was dismissed by Judge McKim, but when the husband took up his abode in Newton proceedings were brought in Middlesex county.

The husband set up as a defence the agreement mentioned above. The wife repudiated the agreement, and claimed that she did not know the import of the instrument which she had signed.

Judge McIntire found that she made the agreement in good faith, and, although the husband may avail himself of the agreement as a bar to separate support proceedings in the probate court, as effectually as in an equity proceeding in the supreme court, yet the $500 remaining in the hands of the trustee is insufficient and inadequate for the support of the wife. The payments ordered will be paid out of the trust fund until exhausted.

Mrs. Dillon claimed that the lawyers had taken advantage of her, and accused her former counsel.

The boy, Schuyler, who figured in so many kidnappings, will remain in the father's custody. Some time ago Mrs. Dillon drove to the school in Roxbury which the boy attended, and at recess time, with the aid of a hack driver, seized the boy and took him to the House of the Angel Guardian, where the father got him in turn.

HAMM IS DEAD

AS RESULT OF A HUNTING ACCIDENT.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Nov. 19.—Thos. E. Hamm, a member of the Fairville fire department, is dead as the result of a hunting accident. Hamm, while with a shooting party on the marshes several miles from the city, apparently stumbled, and his gun was discharged. A heavy load of buckshot struck him in the head blowing part of his face away and causing instant death.

Hamm was 37 years old and leaves a widow and four children.

WENT ASHORE

CREW FORCED TO ABANDON VESSEL.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Nov. 19.—The three-masted schooner Charles Luling, while attempting to enter this harbor during the night, went ashore near the western jetty, well inside the shoals. Her decks are awash and the crew have abandoned the vessel with their dunnage. The schooner is laden with coal. The captain says he was coming in without a pilot and claims that the lamps on the jetties were not lighted. He states that he mistook the cliff beacons for the harbor entrance and took a wrong course.

The captain and crew remained aboard until it was evident that the schooner was leaking so badly that it was impossible to keep her afloat then they came ashore in their own boats. The vessel lies in an easy position but has filled with water. The weather is clear and the sea is calm. It is expected a tug and lighter will be sent her from Vineyard Haven to make an attempt to raise the vessel. The Charles Luling was of 185 tons net, 123 feet wide, and 9 feet deep.

SECRETARY TAFT WILL SPEAK.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 19.—Secretary of War Taft and party reached here today. They were received by a committee of prominent citizens, members of the governor's staff and a military detail of regulars and members of the state guard. Secretary Taft will speak on "The president and the army" at a banquet tonight.

FREEDOM OF ELECTIONS.

ODESSA, Russia, Nov. 19.—A majority of the city councillors have petitioned the government to restore the freedom of municipal elections and debates as guaranteed under the law of 1870 and also to suspend the state of siege.

FOR RECIPROCITY

BOSTON MERCHANTS WILL CALL ON PRESIDENT.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—The officials of the Boston chamber of commerce are considering a plan under which it is proposed to send a delegation to Washington to urge President Roosevelt to do what he can towards bringing about reciprocity with other countries, particularly with Canada. The size of the delegation has not been determined but it is expected a representative of each leading industry will be included.

It is understood the advocates of reciprocity in Massachusetts are to conduct a vigorous campaign during the winter.

ANOTHER DELAY

Patterson Jurors Ask to be Excused

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Further delay in the trial of Nan Patterson, the show girl, who is charged with causing the death of Caesar Young, a wealthy horseman, was indicated by rumors which were prevalent around the criminal court building today. Ellwood Hendricks, the foreman, asked the court yesterday to excuse him from duty on the ground that a member of his family was seriously ill. It was said that several other jurors had asked to be dismissed for private reasons. These requests will be considered by the court when the trial is resumed Monday. The members of the special panel of talesmen who have not already been examined have been notified to be present at that time.

DEATHS

LYNCH—George Lynch died yesterday at state hospital, Tewksbury. The remains were taken to the funeral chaped of J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

FUNERALS

CONSTERDINE—The funeral of the late Odra A. Consterdine took place this afternoon from her home, 135 West street, Centralville. Services were held at two o'clock, Rev. Mr. Pickles officiating. The bearers were Messrs. James and William Harding, Robert Hollingworth and Amos A. Cudworth. The interment was in the Edson cemetery and was under the direction of Funeral Director Charles H. Molloy.

THOMPSON—The remains of the late Thomas Thompson, who was killed at Kitson's machine shop yesterday morning, have been removed to his home, 17 Lille street, by Undertaker Charles H. Molloy.

KENNEDY—The funeral of the late Maria Kennedy took place this morning at 8:30 o'clock from her late home, 712 Gorham street, and was largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased. The funeral cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church where a high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock by Rev. Fr. McDermod. The choir was in attendance and sang the Gregorian mass and during the service appropriate selections were rendered by the members of the choir.

The bearers were Messrs. John Cunningham, Edward O'Hare, Michael Curnane, John Lyons, John Judge and Michael Monahon. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. McDermod. The funeral was under the direction of Funeral Directors J. J. O'Connell & Co.

CARROLL—The funeral of Mary Carroll took place this morning from the home of John Ewing, 125 D street. A requiem mass was celebrated at St. Peter's church by Rev. Hugh McDermod. The choir was in attendance and sang the Gregorian mass and during the service appropriate selections were rendered by members of the choir.

The bearers were Messrs. John Ewing, George Marshall, Thomas Morrissey, Charles Curley. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. McDermod. The funeral was under the direction of Funeral Director John F. Rogers.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS

SUBJECT TO AILMENT RESEMBLING SOFTENING OF THE BRAIN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19—Football players, according to Jere Delaney, trainer of the North Western University eleven are subject to an ailment similar to softening of the brain which leads not only to the making of peculiar statements but causes strange actions which sometimes are amusing.

The exact cause of the trouble, Trainer Delaney said, he is unable to fathom. He declared, however, that it results more from the long continued physical and nervous strain to which the men are subjected during the three months of rigid training which they are forced to undergo than from the blows, kicks and bumps they receive on their skulls during games.

"It is known," said Delaney, "That every player of the game fights his games over and over again in his dreams, but only by the men who are in closest touch with the players is it recognized that they are given to day dreaming during which they make strange motions as if struggling with an imaginary opponent."

According to Dekney the athletes are given to almost childish methods of play when at rest. An instance related by the trainer was of a man who during more than an hour pored over a map of the United States, drawing lines with his index finger and imagining he was traveling over the country which his finger crossed.

CROWDS ANGERED

DEMONSTRATIONS IN FRONT OF PALACE OF GRAND DUKE.

MOSCOW, Nov. 19—Demonstrations occurred here today owing to the refusal of the authorities to authorize an official meeting of the zemstvos representatives at St. Petersburg. Crowds in the streets in front of the palace of Grand Duke Sergius, governor general of Moscow shouted "Down with the Moscow Gazette" the only newspaper in Russia which is hostile opposed to the zemstvos. Later the crowds voluntarily dispersed.

The zemstvo supporters here telegraph 9 to M. Shipoff, president of the Moscow zemstvo to make a final effort to induce the government to allow the meeting to be held under official auspices.

BOTH WERE DEAD

Couple Asphyxiated in Haverhill Hotel

HAVERHILL, Mass., Nov. 19.—Arthur Nichols and Mrs. Mollie Crosier, both of Kingston, N. H., were found dead from gas asphyxiation in a room in the Aetna house early today. The couple registered last night as Dr. Johnson and wife of Exeter, N. H.

Early today, Landlord Gordon noted a smell of gas and tracing it to their room, broke open the door and found them lying on the bed dead. There were evidences that they had been drinking, and as there were no reasons to believe suicide had been planned, the case was adjudged an accident. Nichols had been employed in a hotel in Kingston as a hostler for the year past and had made the acquaintance of Mrs. Crosier, who was employed there as a laundress. He had claimed to belong in Vermont but no one knows anything of his relatives. Wm. Crosier, husband of the dead woman, was communicated with but refused to have anything to do with the body and it will probably be buried by the city.

NAVAL BURIAL

GIVEN THE BODY OF HENRY MITCHELL.

NICE, France, Nov. 19.—A detachment of officers and men from the U. S. warships now at Villefranche gave a naval burial today to the body of Henry Mitchell, the blue jacket who was found dead under suspicious circumstances last August.

The American consul, Mr. Van Bure, Surgeon Evans of the cruiser Cleveland, and a detachment of blue jackets under Midshipman Howard of the Cleveland, assisted at the interment, which took place in the special plot intended for American sailors dying abroad. A triple volley was fired over the grave.

UNDER ARREST

FOUR MEN ARE CHARGED WITH MURDER.

WILLIAMSBURG, Ky., Nov. 19.—Andrew Meadors, Joshua Cumming, Bee and Edward Hollsenback are under arrest charged with the murder of Ples Curd and Emma Upchurch, near Cumberland Falls, Thursday.

SENT TO PRISON

ELTZ WAS CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 19.—In the criminal session of the supreme court today, before Judge Wilbur, George F. Eltz of this city, pleaded nolo contendere to an indictment charging him with the manslaughter of James E. Tandy and was sentenced to serve a term of seven years in state prison. Tandy was shot as he was sitting in a milk wagon before his place of employment on March 26, 1904. The trouble between the two men was caused over Eltz's wife. Tandy died ten minutes after he was shot.

JOHN MORLEY

PAID A VISIT TO HARVARD COLLEGE.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Rt. Hon. John Morley, English litterateur and a leader of the liberal party in England, paid a visit to Harvard university today. He is making a few days' stay in Boston as the guest of the historian, James Ford Rhodes.

MRS. DAMROISCH DEAD.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—After a short illness, lasting but two days, Mrs. Leopold Damrosch, widow of the well-known composer and musician, and mother of Walter and Frank Damrosch is dead. Mrs. Damrosch, previous to her marriage, was Helen Von Heimburg, well known as an opera singer.

She was a native of Oldenburg, Germany, and was 69 years old.

MRS. CHENEY DEAD.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Mrs. Ednah Dow Cheney, one of the foremost women in this city in work of a philanthropic character, died at her home in Jamaica Plain today in her 81st year.

Mrs. Cheney was born in Boston in 1824. She was active in the Freedmen's aid movement; had been vice president of the New England Women's club; president of the Mass. School Suffrage association; secretary from 1862 to 1887 of the New England hospital for women and children and later its president. She also had been prominent in numerous other societies. Mrs. Cheney had done much literary work and was the author of numerous volumes. She was married to Seth W. Cheney, an artist, in 1853.

DEMOCRAT WINS.

BUTTE, Mont., Nov. 19—The official canvass of votes in Silver Bow county apparently show the election of Miles Romney, democrat, to the office of secretary of state by a plurality of 16. On unofficial figures the republicans have claimed all state offices but those of governor and lieutenant governor.

STRUCK BY SHOT

VESSEL FIRED ON BY BRITISH GUNBOAT.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The Carron line steamer Grange arrived in the Thames today and reported having had an exciting experience in the North sea, off Inchkieth, Nov. 17, the vessel being struck by shots from a British gunboat. The latter was practicing with her guns in hazy weather and the shots fell all around the Grange, which was twice struck but not seriously injured. The fire only ceased after a continuous shrieking of the Grange's siren.

TURKEYS ARE HIGH

Scarcity of Festive Bird is Threatened

Now that Thanksgiving day is approaching interest as to what will be the price of poultry is being manifested among the Lowell householders, as well as among the householders all over New England. A tour among the wholesalers here revealed the fact that while there is some difference of opinion as to the price that will prevail all are agreed that the fat turkeys will be pretty scarce this year.

One cause of the shortage can be assigned to President Roosevelt, for his proclamation giving the date for Thanksgiving brings that day something like a week earlier this year than it was last.

Another reason is that in most of the turkey raising states the spring was late and wet and the young birds were not hatched until some ten days later than is usually the case.

Then again the present fall has been late and warm and turkeys have not been restricted in their range and fed grain to fatten them.

To those who are acquainted with the habits of the turkey it is a well known fact that these birds to do well must have a wide range and that when turkeys are bred to become prime birds for market a wide range and choice of feed with good water is a necessity. A turkey deprived of his liberty, no matter how well fed, will not do so well as those not under restraint with less feed, and the present fall having been warm and open the birds have kept their range and grown to bone and muscle. Had the weather been cold and stormy so that they would have been led to seek shelter of their own volition, in the fence corners and coverts about the farm house, they would have sought their feed in the grain usually scattered for attending fowls when they remain about their hatching houses. By so doing all feeling of the restraint is done away with and the bird picks up more grain and, not ranging wide, lays on more fat. Bad weather is about the only restraint that will work well with a turkey and as the weather has been good the turkeys have not been kept about the farm buildings where they could obtain the corn and other grains they need to fatten them for market.

Chickens and fowls are much different in their habits and the prospect for an adequate supply of this class of poultry is good, though on account of the scarcity of turkeys prices will go high.

The Lowell poultry dealers as wholesalers go back a good many years and some of the oldest of them expressed the opinion to a reporter that good poultry would be had as usual though turkeys are scarce and will come high. Their advices indicate that there will be very light shipments from the West, if any, and that Kentucky is about the only state that will ship turkeys East for this season's Thanksgiving trade, and that prices will range as high or higher than ever before known in this city for Thanksgiving turkeys.

There is little known as yet as to what the East will show in the way of turkey shipments and the wholesale price of birds here, it is predicted, will reach 30 cents per pound and may go to 32.

The outlook for Christmas Turkeys is better, because the winter weather will drive the turkeys to depend on house feed and as they will seek shelter they will lay on fat, instead of building bone and muscle, and be in condition for market.

The local supply of turkeys is nothing practically, but a good stock of fowls and chickens is in the hands of growers being fitted to kill for the Thanksgiving trade.

FOURTEEN DEAD

Miners Killed by Explosion of Gas

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 19.—A Fernie, B. C., despatch to the Pioneer Press says fourteen miners were killed at the Carbonado mines near Morrissey yesterday afternoon as a result of a terrific explosion of coal gas. The disaster occurred in No. 1 mine, ten miles west of Fernie. The work of rescue was kept up all the afternoon and all the bodies have been recovered.

The dead:

Mr. Jenkins, Louis Carter, Peter Kenny, Albert Johnson, Patrick Boyle, William Platt, Michael Gustrick, Anton Prebenick, Venesia Venecka, Martin Tomzacky, Anton and John Prondez, two brothers, Joseph Suchy and James Greenman.

TYNGSBORO GRANGE

HELD ITS FIRST ANNUAL FAIR LAST NIGHT.

The Tyngsboro grange held its first annual fair last evening, and the affair was a success. The attendance was large, the entertainment good and the tables were well patronized. The following committee had charge of the fair: Otis L. Wright, chairman; William J. Collins, and Mrs. Annie W. Wood.

The entertainment was in charge of Miss C. Josephine Colburn and the tableaux included: "Abou Ben Adem," "Rock of Ages," "The Flower of the Family," and "The Child's Evening Prayer." In the first named, Mr. H. H. Upton personated "Abou," the Abraian chief, and Miss Grace Collins was the vision in white. The story itself was delivered by Miss Colburn. In the "Flower of the Family," the first scene showed a flour barrel on the stage, and the following one displayed both the flour and the flower, for a little girl was in the barrel then. Miss Mattie Worcester appeared in this tableau. In the "Child's Evening Prayer," Mrs. Charles Worcester and Miss Mattie Worcester were the characters. Miss Grace E. Matthews and Miss Lottie Upton appeared in the "Rock of Ages."

The program:

Piano solo, Miss Bertha Danforth; recitation, Miss Grace E. Matthews; piano solo, Mrs. Fred O. Noyes; reading, Mrs. Annie R. Harlow; song, Duncan Campbell; piano solo, Miss Maude Marshall; graphophone selections.

The following committees were on duty at tables:

Five and ten cent table—Mrs. Jeannette P. Strong, chairman; Mrs. W. J. Collins, assistant.

Fancy table—Mrs. Enlo A. Perham, chairman; Miss Carrie Flint.

Candy table—Mrs. Perry A. Flint, chairman; Miss Alice Dickinson.

Domestic table—Mrs. P. B. Lawrence, chairman; Miss Sarah Slack, assistant.

Donation table (farmers' supplies, vegetables, etc.)—Lucien C. McLoon, chairman.

Mystery table—Mrs. Annie E. Wood, chairman.

Supper was served from 6 until 8 o'clock and the tables in the dining hall was attractively arranged. The committee in charge: Otis L. Wright, chairman; William J. Collins, Mrs. Annie E. Wood, Benjamin B. Lawrence. A number of the young women assisted in serving.

There were visitors present from Dracut, Tewksbury, Chelmsford and Lowell.

Cake sale and bean supper, Knights of Columbus' hall, Saturday, Nov. 19.

ICE TOO THIN

AMESBURY BOY BROKE THROUGH AND WAS DROWNED.

AMESBURY, Nov. 19.—Arthur Page, aged about 10 years, was drowned at Clark's pond yesterday afternoon. Young Page, who is an adopted son of Mrs. Amanda Page, was walking out upon the ice with a playmate, Benny Coughlin, when both lads went through the ice into several feet of water.

The Coughlin boy was rescued insensible. It is expected that he will recover.

The body of young Page was recovered by Conrad Peterson and Frank W. Pierce, who put out in a boat. Yesterday noon another boy broke through the ice near where these boys went in, but he was rescued at once.

BUST OF MORGAN

WILL BE PLACED IN PALACE AT ASCOLI.

ROME, Nov. 19.—The municipality of Ascoli has, by acclamation, conferred honorary citizenship upon J. Pierpont Morgan in recognition of his action in restoring to the city the famous Ascoli cope. It was also decided to place a bust of Mr. Morgan in the city palace, together with a marble tablet recording his generous action and to bestow his name upon one of the principal streets of the city.

$20,000 LOSS

LORETTO ACADEMY IN CAIRO DESTROYED.

CAIRO, Ills., Nov. 19.—Fire last night destroyed all the buildings of the Loretto academy, located in this city, with their contents, causing a loss of $20,000. The academy was one of the oldest educational institutions in this section, having been established by the Loretto sisters during the war and conducted by them until last year when it came under the control of the Benedictine sisters.

SCHWAB'S PLANS

FOR HIS SHOP IN BETHLEHEM, PA.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Herald today prints an interview with Chas. M. Schwab, former president of the United States Steel corporation in which Mr. Schwab is quoted as saying that he intends to make in his Bethlehem (Pa.) plant, all sorts of guns, gun forgings, tools, etc., which require the highest workmanship. Mr. Schwab's plans according to the interview are to put the plant on a par with the Krupp works in Germany and those of Vickers Sons and Makim company of England.

STEAMER DAMAGED.

SAN JUAN, P. R., Nov. 19.—The Red D line steamer Caracas, Captain Wondrick, from New York for La Guayra arrived here late yesterday with eight of her staterooms wrecked. The Caracas encountered a hurricane off Cape May on November 13 and for thirty-six hours the ship was flooded. Three men passengers were nearly drowned. Captain Woodrick says it was the worst storm he had experienced in thirty-six years. The passengers are all well.

FOUNDERS ASSOCIATION.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 19—The National Founders association which has been in session here since Wednesday, last night issued an "outline of policy," which has been adopted by the convention to be pursued in the factories of the association.

Employes will be paid by the hourly rate, premium system, piece work or contract, as the employers may elect. It is the privilege of the workman to leave when he sees fit and the privilege of the employer to discharge a man when he sees fit.

Disapproving absolutely of strikes and lockouts, the members of the association will not arbitrate any questions with men on strike. Neither will the association countenance a lockout on any arbitrable question, unless arbitration has failed.

In case of disagreement concerning matters not covered by the foregoing, announcement, members are advised to meet their employes either individually or collectively and endeavor to adjust the difficulty on a fixed and equivalent bases.

The operation of piece work, premium plan or contract system now in force, to be extended or established in the future, the association will not countenance any conditions of wages which are not just, or which will not allow a workman of average efficiency to earn at least fair wages.

JEWELS STOLEN

LOCK ON A TRUNK WAS BROKEN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Holly, of Lexington, Ky., who are in this city, reported that one of their trunks was robbed of jewelry valued at nearly $20,000. Dr. Holly is a prominent southern physician.

Dr. and Mrs. Holly came to this city last Sunday. On inspecting their baggage when it reached the hotel here, it was found that the lock of a trunk had been opened and the jewels were missing. It is not known where the theft occurred.

This is the time to buy coal. See Fred H. Rourke, 984 Gorham street.

To Aid the Fall River Strikers

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—By unanimous vote, the delegates to the American Federation of Labor yesterday decided to aid the striking textile workers of Fall River to the extent of $25,000 per week for three weeks. If by the end of this time it is found that the strike is not broken, the executive council will, if it sees fit, continue the donation. The money for the purpose is to be raised by an assessment of one cent each week levied on each member of every labor organization affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Stirring and impassioned addresses on behalf of the workers of the Fall River district were delivered. Delegate Driscoll of Boston put the motion before the house, which was carried amid the cheers of the entire convention. Many delegates arose in their seats and on behalf of the organizations which they represented, offered then and there, to hand over to Delegate Golden, checks to cover the amount of their respective unions' assessments.

Further than considering few resolutions no other business was transacted by the delegates and an adjournment was taken until today.

PRES. ROOSEVELT

SADDENED BY ATTACKS UPON HIM IN THE SOUTH.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Colonel John S. Mosby received a few months ago a letter from Judge Roulhac of Birmingham, Ala., commenting on the attitude of the southern people toward the president personally.

Colonel Mosby sent the letter to Oyster Bay, as he thought the sentiments expressed in it by a confederate veteran would be gratifying to the president.

He received a reply which he did not publish during the campaign, as he felt that the president's motives in writing the letter would be misconstrued. The letter is as follows:

"Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 10, 1904.

"(Personal.)

"My Dear Col. Mosby—That is a fine letter of Roulhac's and I appreciate it. I have always been saddened rather than angered by the attacks upon me in the south. I am half a southerner myself, and I can say with all possible sincerity that the interests of the south are exactly as dear to me as the interests of the north. Sincerely yours,

(Signed)

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

"Col. John S. Mosby, Department of Justice, Washington."

REPUBLICAN MAJORITY

WILL BE LARGER THAN USUAL.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The official figures show that the republicans will have in the house the largest majority in the history of congress, with one exception, the 54th. They gained 41 members by the late election. Of the 386 members they will have 251 and the democrats 135, a majority of 116.

Gains were made in 17 states as follows: California 3, Delaware 1, Illinois 6, Indiana 2, Iowa 1, Kentucky 1, Massachusetts 1, Michigan 1, Minnesota 1, Missouri 8, Nebraska 1, Nevada 1, New Jersey 2, New York 6, North Carolina 1, Ohio 3 and Pennsylvania 2.

In the 54th congress there were 240 republicans and 104 democrats, a republican majority of 142.

BISHOP WILSON

ELECTED PRESIDENT OF ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 19—The American Anti-Saloon league adjourned yesterday after electing Bishop Lutheran D. Wilson of Maryland, President, and other officers.

The resolutions adopted declare that the liquor traffic must be regarded and dealt with as a crime; call upon congress to make prohibition a condition of statehood for the Indian Territory, and favor the passage of the so-called Hepburn-Dolliver bill "in such form as shall effectively secure to the states power to control the liquor traffic within their own boundaries from without under the guise of interstate commerce."

With reference to the army canteen the resolutions say:

"We deplore the lack of co-operation of army officers in the establishment of post canteens where the men may congregate and where common necessaries may be purchased and where entertaining recreations may be enjoyed by the men, free from the debauching influence of drink and gambling and for which post exchanges with proper accessories for recreation congress has already appropriated a million and a half dollars.

"Until exchanges without intoxicating liquors have had a full and fair trial, in spirit and effort, during the existence of conditions essential to their success, we will do all in our power to resist the efforts of the liquor interests and their friends to have the law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors on military reservations repealed."

The resolutions call upon the state and territorial legislatures to prohibit traffic in intoxicating liquors within two or more miles of all military reservations, and urge the government to encourage total abstinence among the officers and men of the army.

WILD EXCITEMENT

In the Hungarian Parliament Yesterday

BUDA PEST, Hungary, Nov. 19.—The lower house of the Hungarian parliament yesterday passed Premier Tasza's motion altering for a year the standing orders of the house so as to allow afternoon sittings from 4 to 9 in addition to the ordinary morning sessions with the object of overcoming obstructions and expediting public business. The entire opposition had previously left the house singing the Kossuth hymn. Francis Kossuth having declared that the Hungarian opposition would never agree to such an illegal procedure.

The lower house resumed its sitting at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Count Apponyi, the leader of the opposition, declared that the sitting was illegal and that his party was there under protest merely to exercise control.

The session lasted until 10 o'clock at night with evidences of rising temper, when Premier Tasza, in a speech dealing with obstruction, declared there was no choice between abandoning the nation to its fate or putting an end to this comedy.

President of the Chamber De Perczel, in the midst of increasing disorder, then tried to put to a vote the motion dealing with obstruction, but was met with howls of derision and screams of passionate protestation.

Deputy Rakosi handed the president a paper demanding that the sitting be closed, and on the refusal of the president to accept the paper, Rakosi threatened him with a pair of scissors.

Many members hurried to President De Perczel's assistance. Seats, books and ink pots were hurled at De Perczel and insulting epithets were freely employed. The opposing parties were hardly prevented from indulging in fisticuffs.

Finally the president read the royal receipt proroguing the house and the sitting closed with scenes of the wildest excitement.

Have you offered a name for the alleys? Ten dollars for the best one.

PRAISE SERVICE

AND ANNUAL THANK OFFERING AT KIRK STREET CHURCH.

Last night in the vestry of the Kirk street church was held the annual thank offering and praise service, the sum of $212.87 being found in the envelopes.

The boys' choir of the church sang sweetly, and Edward Wirt gave a pleasing rendition of "The Hymn of Praise." A. C. Spalding, the church organist, presided at the piano.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Robert A. Hume, D. D., a missionary of the American board in India, who is enjoying his third vacation in thirty years. His home for the present is in Springfield. Queen Victoria decorated Dr. Hume with the Kaiser I Hind gold medal, in recognition of his distinguished service in connection with the great Indian famine. The speaker referred to his former visit to Kirk street church, when, in 1886, during the pastorate of Dr. Dana he spoke in the local church.

GENERAL FIGHT

Two Sicilians Were Fatally Stabbed

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 19.—John Punani, 35, and Vincenzo Curusi, 30 years of age, both Sicilians, were perhaps fatally stabbed in a general fight in the Federal Hill Italian colony last night. The former is at the Rhode Island hospital with his throat cut almost from ear to ear and the latter with his abdomen ripped open and a portion of his entrails protruding. During the fight, the cause of which is unknown, another man is believed to have been shot, but he escaped with four others. Both of the injured men refuse to talk about the fracas and their relatives who mutter revenge against the assailants, refuse to help the police in running down the men who were concerned in the affair.

ANNUAL DANCE

OF THE AMERICAN GLEE CLUB LAST EVENING.

One of the most popular and successful social events of the season was the second annual dance given by the American Glee Club in Prescott Hall last evening.

Excellent music was provided by the Kattredge orchestra and the event was under the general management of Walter W. Maher, assisted by Charles F. Sweeney, Bernard J. O'Hagan acting as floor director, assisted by John T. McCabe.

There were twenty numbers on the programme of dances. The grand march and circle was led by Bernard J. O'Hagan and Miss Amelia Proctor, followed by fully two hundred couples, all of whom heartily enjoyed the pleasures of the evening.

Edward J. Higgins acted as chief aid, assisted by members of the American Glee Club.

The reception committee was composed of Paul Conway, chairman; Miss Mary McCaffrey, Miss Bessie McCaffrey, Miss Amelia Proctor, Miss Ida Reidy, Miss Eva Grooms, Miss Jennie Leahy, Miss Annie Kevil and Miss Winnie Gannon.

BOY DROWNED

HAVERHILL LAD'S SLED WENT THROUGH ICE.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Nov. 19.—Arthur McCliss, 10 years old, was drowned in Little river here yesterday. The boy was coasting down a hill and his sled went onto the river. The ice gave way and the boy was drowned before assistance arrived. The body was recovered about an hour later by the police.

SECOND NIGHT

Carnival of Nations a Great Success

The second night of the Carnival of Nations at the armory in Westford street was as great a success as was the opening night. The attendance was very large and exceptionally appreciative and enthusiastic. The tables were even more liberally patronized than on the night before and everybody was in the best of cheer.

The carnival march, as on the preceding night, was a thing of beauty and a joy forever. The pupils of Miss Blanche Perrin performed delightful evolutions and danced themselves into the hearts of the spectators.

No changes were made in the arrangement of the tables. Cake and ice cream were dispensed at the Scottish table and the Irish table with its myriads of green shamrocks was visited by a large number who made liberal purchases.

The American table was partially hidden from view by the large crowds who gathered to show that they were with "old Glory" and had the prerequisite with them to make purchases. The French table and the Russian table both came in for their share of attention, as did the "Filoria" booth. The Russian table had a taking feature—the fortune teller's tent, presided over by Madame Zola. The Chinese table was orientally beautiful and the "Chinks" in charge did a land-office business.

The English table was devoted principally to the sale of sweetmeats, and here loving couples were found making frequent visits.

The gaudy and attractive Spanish table with its many attractive articles, and the shooting gallery, and peanut-guessing barrel as additional features, were magnets which drew forth the pocketbooks of those who passed that way.

The Japanese table was a bower of loveliness with its cut flowers, ferns and plants and articles of fancy work.

The German table was rich with beautiful articles which caught the fancy of all.

Following the stage program there was general dancing to the music of the Cadet orchestra.

PLEASANT SOCIAL.

The Sam Walter Foss Literary club held its first social of the season on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Albert French on Parkview avenue, and a delightful afternoon was passed. A musical and literary program was furnished by the hostess, consisting of a piano solo by Mrs. A. E. Kenyon and Mrs. Robert Gilmore; banjo playing by Zoella Swanton and readings and song by Ruth Miss Mildred French. Games and a dainty lunch served by the hostess as chairman, assisted by Mrs. Will H. Howe, Mrs. Arthur French, Mrs. S. A. Pickering and Mrs. Robert Gilmore, filled in the afternoon.

The club is taking up "Current Events" for the next three months' study, Japan being the subject of the next meeting, which is to be held with Mrs. W. J. Spaulding, 32 Grace street.

COMMITTED SUICIDE

DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS INSTITUTED AGAINST MRS. FENNESSY.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 19—Mrs. Grace Morand Fennessy, aged 29 years, the wife of Col. James E. Fennessy, proprietor of Houcks Opera House in this city and well-known throughout the country as a leading member of the vaudeville theatrical syndicate, committed suicide last night by swallowing carbolic acid. Recently her husband instituted divorce proceedings.

SECRETARY MORTON

TAKEN ILL AT A BANQUET IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Secretary of the Navy Paul Morton was taken ill last evening at the dinner of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers at Delmonico's.

Secretary Morton had been assigned to speak to the toast "The President of the United States," and he represented President Roosevelt at the banquet. He spoke but a short time and then excused himself and left the banquet hall.

Rear Admiral Howles (retired), who presided, told the guests that Secretary Morton was ill and wished him to offer his excuses for leaving them so soon, that he was not seriously sick but did not feel well enough to remain longer at the banquet.

It was said later that Secretary Morton had left for Washington.

SHOT AND KILLED

MEN HAD A DISPUTE OVER POLITICS.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 19—Noah Bailey, a prosperous merchant, was shot and killed on the street at Panther last evening by Roscoe Henderson, who fled to the hills. He is still at large, though being pursued by a party of his victim's friends. Bad blood arising from differences on politics was the cause of the shooting. Bailey and Henderson were friends until a few weeks ago.

FATALLY INJURED

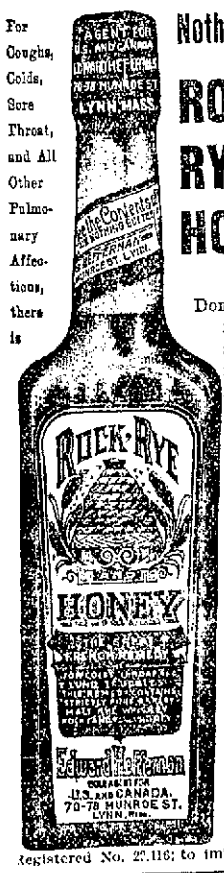

MOTORMAN WAS PINNED UNDER WRECKAGE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—In a rear-end collision on the Kings County elevated road in Brooklyn last night, Isaac Smith, a motorman was fatally injured. Smith was pinned down in the wreckage and it was nearly an hour before the police and fire departments were able to effect his release. In the meantime a physician managed to reach him through the crushed woodwork and gave him hypodermic injections to relieve his sufferings.

SUFFERING IN FALL RIVER.

There must be considerable suffering in Fall River among the operatives out on strike. The city has withdrawn aid from able-bodied men and women who can support themselves by going back to work. This will increase the suffering, unless averted by the $75,000 contribution of the American Federation of Labor.

FOR PRESIDENT OF HARVARD.

President Roosevelt is mentioned as possible successor to President Eliot of Harvard as head of the great university. Prof. Norton of Harvard rises to remark that Roosevelt is ineligible for the place on account of being a pronounced partisan, and second because he is not of New England birth and tradition. The partisan objection we take it is well founded, but the other would tend to broaden the office and the institution rather than the reverse.

LAWYER COTTON'S SCHEME OVERCOME.

The state of Massachusetts is fighting against paying an excessive legal fee to one John R. Cotton, a lawyer of Boston. Congress recently appropriated over $1,600,000 to compensate the state of Massachusetts for fitting out troops during the Civil war, and this Mr. Cotton, who it is alleged, was employed by the then state authorities to look after the claim, says he was to receive ten per cent. of the claim in case he should secure it from the government at Washington.

Cotton had received the check or warrant for the money and refused to pay it over to the state until he received ten per cent. of the amount.

Attorney General Moody has ordered the warrant in Cotton's hands to be cancelled and another made out payable to the state treasurer. Thus Cotton's scheme is frustrated, but no doubt expensive litigation will ensue.

THE LAST OF THE TRADING STAMPS.

The day of the trading stamp is about over in Lowell and we may add in the state. Already the merchants of this city have come to an agreement as to what they will do so that January 1, 1905, will see the business wound up in Lowell and in all probability there will be no reputable business man in this city who will have the hardihood to use trading stamps or any substitute for trading stamps after the date mentioned.

The state of Massachusetts has already passed a law to put an embargo upon the use of trading stamps—this no doubt because of the manner in which they engrafted themselves upon the business of the leading merchants. The companies rent stores and produce nothing except stamps. They furthermore coerce the business men of the city to use stamps in order not to be outdone by rivals while the craze is on, for it must be admitted that the companies working upon the desire of the people to get something for nothing, have been able to influence trade by the use of stamps represented as having a positive financial value. The companies have thus been drawing a regular income from the profits of hard working business men and in many cases they have failed to fulfill their pledges to the merchants and thus the merchants have been blamed.

But the law passed by the Massachusetts legislature to take effect Dec. 1, will probably close up the various shades of stamps, whether blue, green, yellow or pink.

The law provides that hereafter on the first day of January and the first day in July each year, every person, firm or corporation doing a trading stamp business shall make a return to the treasurer of the city or town in which the business is carried on, stating the number of checks, coupons or similar devices sold, given or delivered in connection therewith during the preceding six months. Then the treasurer of such city or town will compute a tax of 3 per cent. on the total receipts of the business on which such stamps, checks or coupons are given and shall direct the collector of taxes to collect the same amount in the same manner as any other tax.

For omission to make such returns a fine of from $5 to $15 per day for the first fifteen days after the date on which the return is required to be made and a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $200 for every day thereafter until the return is made will be imposed.

Already the treasurer is getting ready to call for the returns under the new law. The stamp companies are claiming that the law is unconstitutional, that it will be overturned by the supreme court, but that prophecy may not be fulfilled. Even the law should be overthrown it is pretty certain that the merchants will combine to rid themselves of a nuisance based upon greed, carried out under the delusion that the stamps guarantee the purchaser something for nothing and leave the unscrupulous stamp sharks to be the final arbiters as to what the stamps are worth when the books are filled and the premiums are demanded.

IMMIGRATION ABUSES TO BE REMEDIED.

United States inspectors, who have been investigating the subject of immigration at foreign ports, report a condition of affairs that calls for prompt remedy. At least two countries encourage their subjects to come to this country to earn money and return home to invest it. Hungary and Italy, it is understood, are the countries in question. As a result of investigation a number of immigrants from these countries may be deported. A number of Hebrews come here for the sole purpose of qualifying as citizens and then go to the Holy Land under the protection afforded by our government. It was for an American citizen of this type that the president sent a fleet to Tangiers to demand his release from an outlaw chief.

It is hinted also that there is a bureau in existence in Europe for the manufacture of bogus naturalization papers. This is quite an easy thing as the papers could be easily copied and signatures forged. Were it not profitable it would not be carried on in Europe. Such papers, however, would be of no use in securing the protection of this government in a foreign country. They might be used as a means of securing admission to deceive the immigration officials. Hereafter, however, it is expected there will be greater scrutiny in order to guard against such imposition.

Another thing which this government has in contemplation is the deportation of certain paupers and criminals from European nations, none of whom has any claim upon this country.

The immigration lines are in many cases blamable for laxity in permitting ineligible immigrants to embark. For this they will be held responsible hereafter.

On the other hand it is claimed that on several of the lines the immigrants are subjected to insult and maltreatment at the hands of certain members of the crew. Complaints were made by several immigrants at Boston and by others at New York and this matter has been brought to the attention of trans-Atlantic companies so that they will exercise greater vigilance in the future. There is much need of reform as many women and young girls have been shamefully treated by members of the crew who held positions of some authority.

On the whole, therefore, there are many abuses carried on in connection with the immigration question which will be wiped out as soon as possible.

BUSINESS REVIVAL

20,000 MORE MEN EMPLOYED BY RAILROADS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—A revival of business on the railroads entering the city has, according to statistics gathered by the Herald, resulted within the last six weeks in the re-employment of more than 20,000 men who were dropped from the pay rolls during a period of a few months ending with June 1, last.

In this list the Pennsylvania company, which made the most sweeping reduction, is estimated to have taken back on its many systems, 11,000 men; the New York Central has restored 6000 more; the Reading system, in the neighborhood of 2000, and the Independent lines as many more. At every railroad office in New York and Philadelphia the statement was "running on full time in every department" or "will be running on full time very soon."

In addition to this, the railroads, which were compelled to economize in the purchase of freight cars, during the dull period, have all ordered new equipment. The New York Central has ordered 5000 new freight and 155 new locomotives. The Pennsylvania has ordered 6000 new freight cars besides a number of new locomotives. In the other roads the orders will exceed 4000 new freight cars.

PASTOR SENTENCED

HE MUST SERVE A TERM IN JAIL.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 18.—W. P. Squires, pastor of the First Baptist church, East Brookfield, was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 or serve 30 days in jail by Judge William T. Forbes in the probate court to-day for contempt of court. Mr. Squires in his defense said he had no intention of committing contempt, and said that he could not pay the fine. He was removed to the Worcester county jail by Deputy Sheriff W. W. Scott.

The trouble arose over a suit in equity of the First Baptist church against W. Hayward and others to determine what should be done with the Harrington fund for which Mr. Hayward was trustee. Mr. Squires wrote a letter in which he tried to show that three of the four witnesses had perjured themselves. The summons declared that the writer of this letter had used undue and improper influence with the court, while the case was pending.

1200 SPELLBINDERS

WILL HOLD BANQUET AT WALDORF-ASTORIA.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—At the dinner which 1200 of the men who made speeches for the republican candidates in the recent campaign are to give at the Waldorf-Astoria on the night of November 30, President Roosevelt, is expected to be the guest of honor. The entire first floor of the hotel has been engaged. Secretary of state John Hay, Senator C. W. Fairbanks, Chairman Cortelyou, Governor Odell, Governor-elect Higgins, and a score of republican statesmen of national fame have been invited.

President Roosevelt has not indicated whether he will attend or not. The affair is to be known as the Roosevelt and Fairbanks jubilee banquet. It will be the biggest political dinner held in this city for many years.

LOWELL COAL CO.

Attached For $35,000 by Boston Creditor

EMBARRASSMENT MAY BE ONLY TEMPORARY

Directors Held Special Meeting Yesterday Afternoon

The Lowell Coal company, the largest coal and wood establishment in this city, has been attached for $35,000 by M. L. Cobb of Boston, dealer in soft coal, and the attachment was served on Wednesday evening by Deputy Sheriff E. W. Clark.

As a result of the attachment a special meeting of the company's directors, local bank men and lawyers, was held in the office of McIntire & Wilson, yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of devising ways and means whereby the Cobb claim could be satisfied and local creditors kept from pressing upon the corporation for the present so that the concern can continue in business.

Present at the meeting were Chas. E. McIntire and William H. Wilson, attorneys for the Lowell Coal company; Norman F. Hesseltine, of Boston, representing the interests of M. L. Cobb; F. E. Dunbar, appearing for the Lowell Gas Light company; John J. Hogan, representative of the Lowell Trust company; James J. Kerwin, appearing for the Old Lowell bank; Charles M. Williams, cashier of the same institution; Walter Moore, general manager of the Lowell Coal company; William E. Livingstone, president and treasurer, and Arthur C. Moore, clerk and director.

The situation was carefully discussed, the meeting covering a period of several hours, and at its conclusion William H. Wilson, counsel for the Lowell Coal company, gave out the following statement to the newspapers:

"The Lowell Coal company is financially embarrassed. That is true. The meeting was to devise ways and means whereby M. L. Cobb, a wholesale soft coal dealer of Boston, may be satisfied. He has an attachment for $35,000 against the company. His actual bill amounts to $27,000. Plans were discussed and were given to Mr. Hesseltine, Mr. Cobb's representative. Until we hear from Mr. Cobb, the course of the corporation will not be known. We should have an answer by Monday. Then, probably, we shall know whether he accepts the offer made. Local creditors were represented and there was a sprinkling of local bank men."

Mr. Wilson said the trouble was the result of selling coal to the people of Lowell under cost.

What the object of such a policy could be he did not state.

Mr. Arthur C. Moore said: "I am not in a position to say anything relative to the attachment. We have a good line of customers and a good trade. I understand that matters can be fixed up all right, and confidently expect that they will be. We have lost money as a result of selling coal at such a low price. I think we have sufficient assets to pay debts all right."

REPORT INCORRECT.

MUNICH, Nov. 19.—Felix Weingartner, director of the Berlin Symphony orchestra, and who, it was reported, had been called to New York to direct the Philharmonic concerts, says the rumor is incorrect.

DEAD INDIANS

PETRIFIED ONES USED FOR CIGAR SIGNS.

Joe De Champ, a backwoodsman living in the Three River Falls region, in northern Minnesota, says the Anaconda (Mont.) Standard has lately been engaged in removing the remains of Indians from their graves in the lands soon to be opened to settlement. The bodies he relocates in places outside the ceded lands. Among the stories of his experiences in the former cemetery of the aborigines is one regarding the finding of several perfectly petrified bodies, and the uncanny feeling which one has when he listens to the account is intensified at the end, when it is related that one of the petrified aborigines was used as a hitching post, while another served as a cigar sign. Eight men worked with Joe digging for the bodies of the dead Indians. Joe receives $14.50 for each corpse from the government; therefore he is exceedingly industrious. The moonbeams filtering through the branches of the pines, shone down on Joe one night as he labored with pick and spade. About him the razed fence that had been built about the final resting place of a tribal leader formed a decorative festoon.

Dig, dig, dig, stopping only to wipe the perspiration from his brow, Joe labored on. He heard not the croaking of the frogs in the pond near by, nor paid he any attention to the echoing calls of the animals that roamed abroad in their nocturnal search for food. Encountering what appeared to be a stone, Joe laid aside his shovel, mopped his sweaty face, and then set to work with a pick. Joe is a callous man, used to looking comparedly on grinning skulls and heaps of bones, but when he saw there, in the uncertain light, the grim countenance of a real red man, sticking up in the hole he had made, he fled for his assistants, roused them from their sleep and enlisted their services in calming his perturbed mind and in completing the removal of the lady. Finally the report reached the Chippewa village, and then there was more trouble for De Champ, who had various heart-to-heart talks with inquiring red people.

The upshot of it all was that the cigar sign and the hitching post have been decently buried if, indeed, the bodies were ever used for that purpose. The petrified bodies, almost perfectly preserved were removed from the shallow grave with difficulty. Near by another body was encountered in the same condition, and laid aside while the work of removing the other mortal remains progressed. It so happens that De Champ is a great joker, and when the story of the petrified cigar Indian and the aboriginal hitching post got around his friends began to ask about his resurrection operations with mock seriousness. Altogether Joe has taken up 132 Indians. Of the number, 26 were of the Catholic faith and were reburied at the agency. The remainder, who were old-time pagans, were taken across the Beltrami county line for burial. The Catholics, when taken up, were found to be encased in wooden coffins, but those who remained loyal to the old Indian faith were wrapped in pitch bark. Thus far only two petrified bodies have been found.

LITTLE CHILDREN

HOW THEY TRAIN THE PARENTS TO SELF-CONTROL AND KINDNESS.

The children of the family—one is apt to look on them as burdens, bothers, and expenses.

When the baby comes, be it ever so welcome, the mother has more work to do.

As it grows into childhood, and on to maturity, it is more and more care, worry, and expense.

And so the little children, those innocent trespassers, are borne with as patiently as possible until they grow to a successful manhood or womanhood.

Few stop to think deeply about this, or it would be plainly seen how erroneous the impression.

The children of the family, instead of being burdens, are burden-bearers; small saviors who are daily means of grace; and who lead the world-worn parents once more into the paths of innocence and peace.

A baby's tiny hand clasped around his mother's finger has stilled heartthrobs of sorrow and of bitter trouble; a baby's arms around his father's neck have brought to the man's weary brain a renewal of that love which is all that makes life livable.

And as the child grows into a toddler, it makes both parents become as little children; once more they tell the little stories and pray the little prayers which they themselves heard so many years ago.

As the child grows larger, we see a great improvement in the minor matters of etiquette or morals; for little Mary must not see her mother petulant and angry; little Charles must not hear profane words from his father nor see him aught but the patron saint which the little fellow thinks he is.

And so as the years go by we find ourselves, for our children's sake, much nearer to that ideal man or woman which so long ago we dreamed about.

The child has done what perhaps religion, education, or precept has failed to do. It has made us into lovable, patient, and humble men and women, for the child's steadfast eyes looking into ours asks, nay demands, the very best in our nature.

There is many a grave and reverend grandfather, well permeated with the odor of sanctity, who owes it all to the little children whom he has loved so dearly; many a gentle grandmother, who has thus developed from a selfish and irritable girlhood simply because sundry small grandchildren, with dancing feet and beckoning hands, have coaxed her along the pathway of patience and of love.

The children, bless their small hearts! Desolate the house without them, cursed and forlorn the home where no little minsters of grace give the daily example of innocent joy and loving-kindness.

If you have no children, friend, beg, borrow or steal some. Take a poor little foundling from his forlorn asylum home, and watch his heart warm, his brain develop, and his sad eyes sparkle as you give him love and comfort and a parent's care.

The experiment, if only for your own sake, is exceedingly worth while.

HOUNDED HIM

SENSATIONAL TESTIMONY IN A PORTLAND CASE.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 18. Testimony on the contestants' side was introduced yesterday in the probate court hearing on the petition of Miss Mary Belle Stackpole of North Westport, Mass., for administration of the estate of Andrew J. Stackpole, of Westbrook, whose daughter and sole heir she claims to be.

Mrs. Conway, sister of the deceased and the principal contestant, now ill, by deposition admitted that Miss Stackpole had visited him twice and claimed to be his daughter, but Mrs. Conway declared that he was not married in 1872, when Miss Stackpole is alleged to have been born. Mrs. Conway said her brother told her that Miss Stackpole is a daughter of Madame Birchenough, the fortune teller, who came here from North Westport to assist in the prosecution of the petitioner's claim. Madame Birchenough had hounded Stackpole and had written him letters charging him with being the father of her daughter, demanding money and making threats. These letters were received while his wife was living. Shortly before his death Stackpole told his sister that he expected "these two women" would come down from Massachusetts, after he was dead, and "make a raid," but that they were entitled to nothing. He gave his sister a deed of his home.

Henry Birchenough, husband of Mme. Birchenough, came here to assist in opposing her claim. He testified that he is an inmate of the poorhouse at New Bedford, Mass., that he married Mme. Birchenough, then Mrs. Connell, in 1900, and she lived with him three months. She accepted his marriage proposal on condition that before the ceremony he make over to her a deed of half his estate, valued at $3500. He didn't understand a great deal about legal matters, and the deed he signed gave all his property to her. The next day she had it transferred to Miss Stackpole. After the separation he brought suit against the two women and recovered a half share of the property, but his wife succeeded in causing him to lose the rest, and told him there was nothing for him between her and the poorhouse. He drifted to the poorhouse, the only course left him.

The name is the thing to get the coin.

A PECULIAR LEASE

Held by the City for Huntington Hall

The appraisers have not yet taken up the matter of adjusting the loss on Huntington Hall until the city and the Boston & Maine get together and agree upon their rights in the building. The lease is a most peculiar one and The Sun prints below in full the letter of Ex-City Solicitor Qua to Mayor Bennett in 1898 at the time when Huntington Hall burned down before, explaining the nature of the lease.

It reads as follows:

Lowell, Mass., Jan. 7, 1898.

Office of the city solicitor,

Hon. James W. Bennett, Mayor.

Dear Sir: In accordance with your request I have carefully examined the various contracts and agreements between the city of Lowell and the Boston and Lowell railroad corporation, relative to construction and use of the building at the corner of Merrimack and Shattuck streets which contained Huntington and Jackson halls and the passenger station of said railroad with a view to ascertaining the rights and obligations of the city under such contracts, and what action is required to be taken by the city in view of the recent destruction of a portion of said building by fire.

The building was originally constructed in pursuance of a contract entered into between the city and railroad corporation dated July 1, 1852.

Under said contract said railroad corporation was required to construct according to certain descriptions, plans and specifications referred to and made part of the contract and the city was required to pay to said corporation all the money that the same actually cost over and above the sum of $25,726.93.

In and by said contract said railroad also demised and conveyed to the city all that portion of the building so erected above the first story together with an entrance to the same on Merrimack street and also on Shattuck street for a term of 999 years unless the term should sooner be determined by virtue of another provision in the contract which is hereinafter mentioned.

This demise and conveyance was upon the expressed conditions that one portion of the second story of the building namely a room 127 feet, 4 inches long and 80 feet, 4 inches wide, should for 30 years from the date of the contract be held and used by the city for a city hall and that the other portion of the demised premises should never be used by the city nor for a period of thirty years by anyone claiming under the city for any business requiring the use of machinery nor for any business which would interfere with the beneficial use of the lower story by the railroad corporation and that the estate and term of the city should not for thirty years be liënated or assigned without the consent in writing of the railroad corporation first obtained.

The railroad corporation also covenanted not to erect any building upon the land between said building and Shattuck street during the whole term of the demise, namely 999 years.

The city covenanted that within six months after the completion of the building by the railroad corporation it would have the room for the city hall of the dimensions stated, finished and the remaining portion of the building above the first story finished into such rooms as it should be deemed fit and proper and to pay the railroad corporation the sum of $450 annually on the first day of January on demand during the continuance of the term.

REPAIRS.

The contract also provided that the lower story of the building from the foundation to the second story should be kept in repair by the railroad corporation at its own expense. That portion between the first story and the roof, including the entrance ways, and the stairways, was to be kept in repair by the city at its own expense and the roof and foundation and covering over the canal at the joint expense of the city and railroad corporations.

TERMINATION OF LEASE BY PURCHASE.

It was also provided that after the expiration of thirty years the railroad company should have the privilege and right of purchasing of the city of Lowell, their successors and assigns the interest and estate of the city and premises, by payment of a sum of money which was to be agreed upon between the railroad and the city or in case of failure to agree to be determined by the award of three disinterested and discreet persons or arbitrators, one to be appointed by the railroad corporation, one by the city and the third by the first two chosen.

The city of Lowell was also given the right after the expiration of said term of thirty years to sell, assign or convey its interest in the property to any other person or corporation subject to the same conditions on which it held the estate except the condition requiring a portion of the building to be used as city hall, which in case of said sale was to be discharged.

Before selling its interest, however, the city was required to offer the same to the railroad corporation and in case such railroad corporation desired to purchase the same, but the parties did not agree upon the price to be paid, such price was to be continued by the arbitrators appointed in a manner heretofore stated.

FIRE.

In case the building should be destroyed by fire during the continuance of the term (999 years) unless the estate had been previously determined in the manner aforesaid) then the foundation, covering over the canal walls and roof were to be forthwith built by the railroad corporation and when so rebuilt to be finished and kept in repair and occupied by the parties, their successors and assigns subject to the same conditions, covenants, provisions and agreements as were made in reference to the building so destroyed; the city to pay one-half of the expense of rebuilding the foundation, covering over canal and the roof and to refinish the inside from the top of the first story to the roof together with the entrance ways and stairways at its own expense.

It is provided, however, that in case of such destruction by fire after thirty years from the date of the contract, the city may by a written notice to that effect abandon the contract and lease and assume no further liability in reference to the same.

SECOND CONTRACT.

By a subsequent contract entered into Feb. 4, 1863, between said railroad corporation and by city the corporation leased to the city of Lowell the right and privilege of placing and laying water pipes through the station house of said railroad at the corner of Merrimack and Dutton streets in said Lowell and also of running the same across the railroad tracks of said corporation as far as their land extends towards said Dutton street to the sewer in said street, and also the right to pass the soil and water from the privies or privy in Huntington hall through said pipes so far as it extends in their land towards said sewer the same said pipes are now laid and adjusted between the parties hereto.

This right and privilege is, however, by the term of said contract terminable at any time by the railroad corporation upon giving to the city six months' notice in writing thereof.

THIRD CONTRACT.

By another contract between said Boston & Lowell corporation and the city the 31st day of December, 1872, it is provided that the city of Lowell may build an entrance and staircase to Huntington hall at the southwesterly end of said hall and maintain and use the same as a place of ingress and egress to and from city hall, and over the premises of said railroad corporation thereto adjoining from the date thereof, (Dec. 31, 1872) to the end of the thirty-year term and in the original contract between the city and said railroad corporation to said hall, dated July 1, 1852, the city agreeing to maintain and keep in repair such entrance and staircase and to pay for the right and privilege aforesaid the sum of $25 annually, in addition to the sum agreed upon in said original contract, and to protect and save harmless the railroad corporation from any claims for damages or injury to any person, on said premises, approaching to go into said hall or while leaving the same.

FOURTH CONTRACT.

By a fourth contract between said railroad corporation and the city, made on the first day of July, 1882, the period of thirty years mentioned in said original contract is extended to fifty years from July 1, 1852, and all the provisions, covenants and conditions in said first contract to which the term of thirty years from the date thereof was applied were so modified and changed that the term of fifty years should be applicable, to them instead of thirty years as mentioned in said first mentioned contract.

From the above statement it will be seen that the railroad corporation is bound to rebuild said building. The city is also bound to pay the railroad corporation one-half the expense of rebuilding the roof of the same (I do not understand that the foundation or covering over the canal has been in any way injured), and also to refinish at its own expense said hall and other rooms in the said building above the first story as well as the entrance ways and staircases.

There can be no essential or material change in the dimensions of said hall or in the uses to which it may be put without a new agreement between the city and the railroad corporation.

It seems to me that it would be desirable for the city to have some more permanent contract with the railroad corporation in reference to the maintenance of its water pipes through the station and across the tracks of the railroad corporation, than that which now exists and also that the provision contained in the contract of 1872 in relation to the building and maintaining of an entrance and staircase at the southwesterly end of Huntington hall should be so changed and extended as to cover the period of fifty years provided for in the contract of 1882.

It will be observed that after the first day of July, 1902, the railroad corporation may, if it chooses to do so, insist upon the purchase of the city's interest in the building at a price to be fixed by arbitration.

Whether, in view of this fact, the city will deem it prudent to endeavor by some arrangement with the railroad corporation to further extend the period during which the city have the absolute right to hold its interest before expending a large sum of money in finishing the hall and rooms, is a question to be considered.

I have drawn the enclosed joint resolution to be submitted to the city council if you deem it proper.

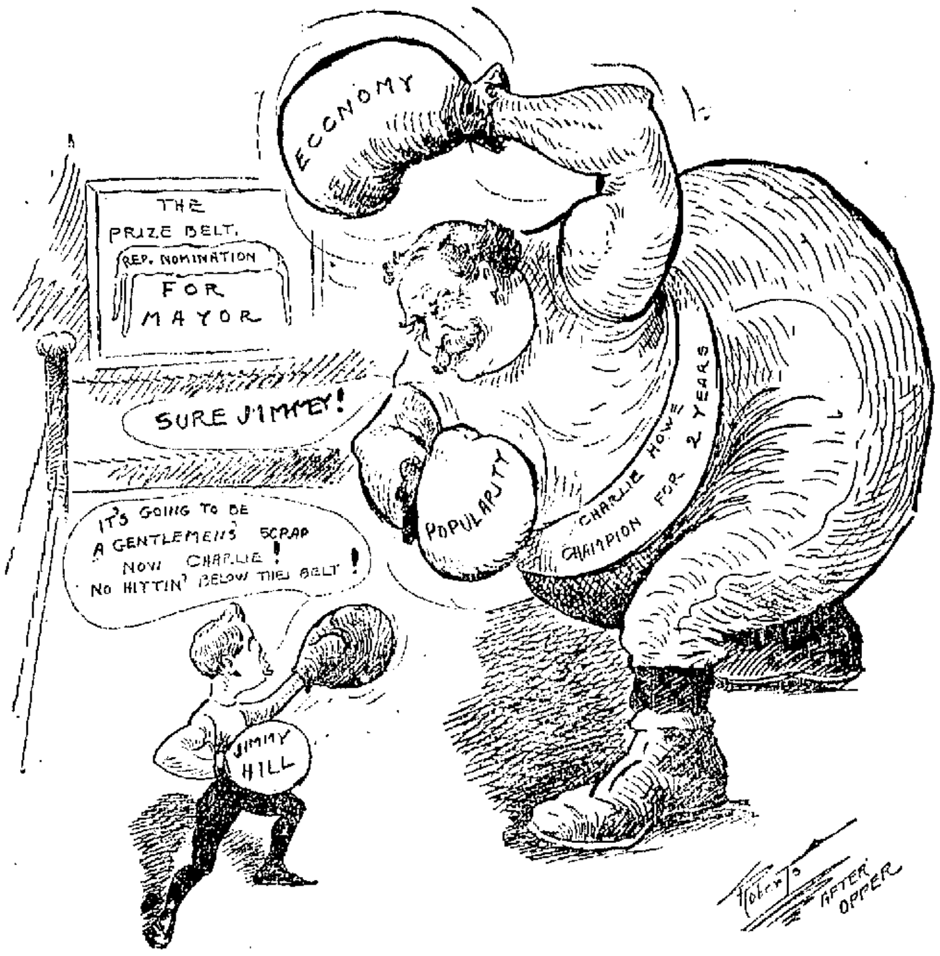

Respectfully submitted,

FRANCIS W. QUA,

City Solicitor.

WORLD'S FAIR

TO COMMEMORATE END OF THE CIVIL WAR.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 19.—The first announcement was made yesterday of a formal movement to hold in this city in 1915 a world's fair, to be known as the Semi-Centennial Peace Jubilee exposition, commemorating the end of the Civil war. It is asserted that assurances of aid from the government and various organizations have been secured. The following announcement explaining the nature of the exposition has been issued:

"From 1861 to 1865, there was fought in these United States the greatest Civil war the world has ever seen. Peace between the states was established on April 9, 1865. It is customary to celebrate important periods in our history by holding expositions which demonstrate the progress that has been made. Great expositions of this kind were held at Chicago in 1893 and in St. Louis in 1904, eleven years apart. Eleven years more will bring us to 1915, the year of our semi-centennial peace anniversary.

"Chattanooga is the geographical centre of the scenes of the Civil war. It was the most strategical point and is immediately surrounded by some of the greatest battlefields of that war."

GREENHALGE DEBATERS.

The Frederic T. Greenhalge Debating society, of the Lowell High school, held its first meeting yesterday afternoon in room 20, there being a large attendance. The subject of the debate was "Resolved, That Governor Bates should not have vetoed the overtime bill."

The affirmative was upheld by J. Newcomb Lake and Warren Shaw; Sidney B. Whipple and John Varney taking the negative. The former won the decision.

The judges were Miss Sweetser and Miss O'Connor. President Frank Sullivan was in the chair.

William C. Burke has been appointed sergeant-at-arms.

TO THE POOR

MRS. SARAH TRACEY LEFT HER ESTATE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Rt. Rev. P. J. Donahue, Roman Catholic bishop of Wheeling, W. Va., will receive the major portion of the estate of Sarah C. Tracy, valued at more than $250,000, under the terms of the will filed in the surrogate's office yesterday. The will requests that Bishop Donahue use the estate to erect and maintain an industrial school for unfortunate poor in memory of the testator's grandfather, Keating Rawson, and two orphan asylums in memory of her dead brother, Edward Tracy.

The will bequeaths $1000 to Bishop McDonald of Brooklyn, $5000 to St. John's college for a scholarship, and $1000 to the sisters of St. Francis Xavier church. Bishop Donahue is bequeathed $1000, together with all the books, paintings, horses and carriages owned by the testatrix for his own use. He is to sell her rare laces and jewels and devote the proceeds to charity.

Bishop Donahue is made residuary legatee and the testatrix explains that he is to account to no person. If sufficient funds remain, the will directs that a church is to be erected and dedicated to the "Blessed Virgin, Mother of God." Should Bishop Donahue die, Archbishop Farley is to carry out the plans.

A TRIP TO NEW YORK.

The story of "New York Day by Day," which will be told on the stage of the Academy of Music this afternoon and evening should interest every one who appreciates and enjoys high class melodrama. The plot deals with the attempts of Richard Blakely, a banker, to defraud Polly, a blind girl, out of the fortune that is hers by right.

The development of the plot is secured by a number of strongly dramatic scenes mingled with a vein of comedy that is at times uproarious. While the dramatic is never sacrificed to the ludicrous, there is a judicious mingling of the gay with the graver side of life that is one of the secrets of the popularity attained by "New York Day by Day."

There are a number of singing and dancing specialties introduced during the action of the play and the scenery is handsome and complete in every detail.

RUNAWAY GIRLS

Visit of Nashua Maidens Interfered With

Alma and Mary Bonin, two pretty girls, who came here from Nashua, to spend time and money, have had their pleasant sojourn interrupted and have been obliged, much to their own and the regret of numerous Lowell friends, to return to their old New Hampshire home.

It seems that the Bonin girls, who have been missing from Nashua, since Wednesday, Nov. 9, supplied themselves with sufficient money to purchase pretty dresses and other things.

Saying nothing of their intentions to their parents they came to this city where they have enjoyed their stolen vacation to the limit.

The distracted parents, in the meantime, communicated with the police, who were balked for a time in locating the girls because of the change they had made in their wearing apparel. But yesterday afternoon Inspectors Maher and LaFlamme spotted the couple on Central street and took them to the police station.

There the girls admitted heir identity. They are the 15 and 16-year-old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bonin, who reside at 11 Arlington street, Nashua. In company with their father and a Nashua officer the runaway maidens returned to their home last night.

TOOK POISON

BOSTON MAN REFUSES TO EXPLAIN ACTION.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Jacob Conviser, 32 years old, married and living at 40 Hale street, West End, while passing through Merrimac street was taken suddenly sick and went into a stable at 135 Merrimac street, from which place he was sent to the City hospital relief station.

Upon examination the doctors found that he had taken carbolic acid, and when asked how it happened, replied that someone had given it to him. He refused to explain further, saying that if he got better he might tell, and if he didn't it would not matter.

After working on him for some time the doctors concluded that he was in a dangerous condition, and his relatives were notified. Conviser is a tailor, with a place of business at 80 Blackstone street.

AT THE CASTO NEXT WEEK.

Woodford's educated ponies, monkeys and baboons and dogs head the program at the Casto Theatre next week, and will present the greatest animal act upon the American stage. Representing the highest type of animal education they perform almost incredible feats with ease and dexterity, and cold type cannot do justice to this act. Among the animals which will be at the Casto next week is the smallest pony in the world which weighs but 17 pounds. The remainder of the program is composed of star comedy acts, and includes Hennings, Lewis and Hendings in their refined musical comedy; interspersed with excellent singing and dancing; Bush, Devere Trio in their original musical specialty; Mooney and Holbein in their grotesque singing and dancing specialty; Nichols and Croix in a high class comedy sketch; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lucier presenting their comedy "A Rustic Romeo," with mirth and music; Harry Brown in his amusing songs, and Emelie Benner, the girl with the underground voice. Reserved seats will be in great demand at the Casto next week, and they should be ordered in advance. This can be done by telephone 815-3, or they may be purchased at the box office which is open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Y. M. C. A. AT CASTO

MEN'S MEETING IN THEATRE TOMORROW AFTERNOON AT 3.30.

The Y. M. C. A. will hold the regular Sunday afternoon meeting for men in the Casto Theatre tomorrow. Rev. W. W. Bustard of Boston will speak on "A Good Grip." The University Male Quartet of Boston will sing "The Homeland," Dow; "Cast Your Care Upon Him," Dow; "The Story of the Day," Mace. There will also be a male chorus under the direction of J. Avison Baker. The Casto is one of our most popular theatres, Mr. Bustard is a gifted speaker, the University Male Quartet is composed of talented musicians and Mr. Baker's ability and reputation as a conductor is a guarantee that the chorus work will be first class. With such an array of attractions our men are assured of a good time and present indications point to a big crowd. Doors open 3.10, program 3.30. All men invited.

THE DISCOVERER OF

Seven Barks

A NOTED PHYSICIAN

Who Truthfully Claimed That Bad Stomachs and Torpid Livers Were Responsible for 95 Per Cent of All Disease.

As Dr. Gauswein says, "The cause of nearly every disease can be directly traced to clogged and inactive stomachs, livers or intestines. Biliousness, Indigestion, Gout, Rheumatism, Headaches, Insomnia, Kidney and Bladder Troubles and all Liver Complaints emanate from one of the digestive or drainage organs. These organs must be kept constantly in action to insure uninterrupted good health, and there is no remedy or corrective so harmless and so certain as 'Seven Barks.'"

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Mr. Talmon Sneddy, of Midway, Tenn., writes:—

"My mother was troubled with Sick Headache. She tried several medicines with no relief until she used 'Seven Barks,' which completely cured her. Her trouble was of eighteen years' standing."

Mrs. Emma Pinet, 32 Lewis street, Haverhill, Mass, says:—

"I was troubled with Sick Headaches, Indigestion and Biliousness. I was so nervous I could not rest nights. Since taking 'Seven Barks' my Indigestion has disappeared and I can rest well, and everything I eat tastes so good now."

If anyone with Stomach, Liver or Kidney Troubles will get a bottle of "Seven Barks," take as directed, and if all the benefit one should expect is not derived, no charge will be made. We are not taking chances in making this offer, for we know the character of the remedy and we are satisfied it will do all that is claimed for it.

Comforting Words

Many a Lowell Household Will Find Them So

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidneys sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Lowell readers:

Mrs. Annie Kelly, of 90 Appleton street, Lowell, says: "To overpraise Doan's Kidney Pills is impossible. Before I used them I suffered greatly from a complication of kidney and bladder troubles. There was constant pain in my back, the secretions of the kidneys were variable, and in addition to being highly colored they contained much sediment. My nerves were unstrung, I could not sleep nights and could not obtain ease while up. Learning about Doan's Kidney Pills I went to Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store and got a box. It helped me so much that I bought half a dozen more. I believe Doan's Kidney Pills will cure any ordinary case of kidney trouble."

WITH THE HORSES

Items of Interest Clipped and Gleaned

It is reported that a syndicate of horsemen have opened negotiations for the purchase of the Jewett covered track.

Latest advices from Memphis, Tenn., state that Trainer E. F. Geers is doing well, but may have to remain in the hospital several weeks.

A report is in circulation that Dave McClary has sold his 3-year-old colt, Lord Revelstoke 2.12¾, by Dingen, 2.06¾, for export to Italy at a long price.

Ed Benyon will probably train a public stable next year, as his contract with Walnut Hall farm, that expires Jan. 1, will not be renewed. L. Harkness having decided to discontinue his racing stable, hereafter the colts bred at Walnut Hall farm will be sold at—the farm as yearlings and 2-year-olds. Oranam, 2.07¾, will be bred to Moko in 1905, and Pereno, 2.07¾, to Walnut Hall, 2.08¼.

Frank G. Smith writes in the Horse World: "I hear that Col. Dick Arthurs of Brookville and the 'only' Dick Clover of Punxsutawney have invited Vance Nuckols to join them on a hunting trip this week. Mr. Clover has corked up all the rabbit holes in that section of Pennsylvania, and when Mr. Nuckols gets ready to fire there will be a swarm to shoot at. Last year H. Eddebute, a distinguished member of the party, tied a rabbit to a hitching post so that Vance Nuckols could have the honor of killing one for certain. But alas Vance shot the string in two, and the rabbit was still running at last accounts."

The famous broodmare Estabella, by Alcantara, 2.23, dam Anabel, by George Wilkes, that established a notable family at Village farm, is dead. Estabella produced Prince Regent, 2.16½, and Helen-Lee, 2.05¾, both successful sires; also Princess Royal, 2-year-old record 2.29, dam of The Earl, 2.17; Princess Chimes, dam of Lady of the Manor, 2.04¾; Grace Hamlin, dam of Heir Apparent, 2.23¾, and Vice Regent, sire of Vice Regal 2.19¼, etc. Her roll of honor is not yet completed as some of her younger foals are likely to take records. Estabella was foaled in Kentucky in 1881 and was bought of David Bonner by Mr. Hamlin when a 3-year-old. She was never trained but possessed a great amount of natural speed.

The pedigree of Commodore Kitson, sire of the fast pacing mare Lady May, 2.07¼, is very interesting and runs to those identified with New England. He is by Revenue, 2.22¼, dam Lady Rolfe, 2.22¼, trotting, 2.23 pacing, by Tom Rolfe, 2.33¾, Revenue, 2.22¼, was by Sunspark, 2.15¼, dam May Morning, 2.23, by Daniel Lambert; granddam May Queen, by Ethan Allen, 2.15½; third dam the old-time pacing queen Pocahontas. Pocahontas was also the dam of Tom Rolfe, the grandsire of Nelson, 2.09, and she was by Iron's Cadmus, and it was Blanco, son of Iron's Cadmus, that sired Smuggler. Lady Rolfe, dam of Commodore Kitson produced Rolfewood, 2.19¾, pacing, and Pacolet, 2.19½, and was the granddam of Ryan Rolfe, 4, 2.19¾, who was also by Revenue. Lady Rolfe was a remarkable mare in that she could be shifted from the trot to the pace merely by the bit and driven miles better than 2.30 at both gaits without being taken off the track between heats.

Although just made public, the death of Hamlin's Almont, Jr., occurred at Village Farm some little time ago. This son of Almont was probably the greatest son of his famous sire. He was foaled in 1872 and remained vigorous almost up to the time of his death. When he was made the premier sire at Village Farm the brood mares owned there were vastly inferior in point of breeding to those owned there later, but from them Almont, Jr., sired speed of high quality and class to make him widely known as a most successful sire. Belle Hamlin, 2.12¾, Globe, 2.14½, and Justina, 2.20, by their performances in single and double harness, aroused the interest of the public to an unusual extent. Belle Hamlin and Justina first placed the world's team record at 2.13, and later on Belle Hamlin and Globe reduced it to 2.12, where it remained until last season. The three also established a triple team record of 2.14, which has never been beaten. Almont, Jr., sired 34 standard performers, 16 of which took records of 2.20 or better. Fifteen of his sons are sires of standard performers and his daughters have produced 46 standard performers, including the famous Lord Derby, 2.06¾, and four others with records below 2.10. Almont Jr. was a horse of great beauty and beautiful action, both of which qualities he transmitted to his get very uniformly. As a sire of handsome, reppy-gaited and speed horses he has had no equal in Western New York, and it is maintained by many of his admirers that could he have been mated with some of the best of the matrons which have been seen in Village Farm brood mare ranks for the last few years his rank as a sire would have been greatly advanced before the records of his get were entirely made up. As it is, his family will always occupy a prominent place in the breeding history.

This is the time to buy flour. Fred H. Rourke, 981 Gorham street.

CYCLE NEWS

Frank Waller, who was reported to have died in London some months ago, returned to New York last week with his nine-year-old son, after an absence of nearly two years in Australia and England. He left San Francisco for Australia on November 24, 1902, taking our motor pacing machine with him. In Australia he paced Smythe, "a seventeen stone amateur," as Waller described him, for the amateur paced records. He also competed in motor races there, and paced Major Taylor in his training and in a few short distance paced races.

From Australia Waller went to England, arriving there in April, 1903, after a journey of six weeks by boat. He went on the same steamer as Plekteunn and Robl, who had been racing on the Australian tracks behind motor pace. Robl had made an agreement with Waller for the latter to act as his pacemaker when they arrived in Europe, but Robl left the ship at Naples and did not keep his part of the agreement. As Waller had no written contract with the German pace follower, he remained on the ship until he reached England.

Waller went to London, and, as he had sold his motor pacing machine in Australia to pay his passage, he went to work building motor bicycles. He worked for Arthur A. Chase, the famous English pace follower, in the latter's factory near the Crystal Palace track. His wife and children joined him in London, two of his children having died since he began his trip around the world. Though he is now more than forty-five years old, Waller says he may enter the six-day team race in Madison Square Garden next month.

He says that the English motor bicycles are not to be compared in appearance to American machines like the Indian and others. Most of the British machines are very heavy and cumbersome and have wide treads. The belt drive is used there almost exclusively, though the Humber firm makes a chain-driven model. The majority of the machines are of either 5 or 3½ horsepower. The 5-horsepower models weigh about 145 pounds, and the others fifteen or twenty pounds less. The weight is frequently increased by extra coils, accumulators, hand brakes and other fittings. The machines are regularly fitted with mud guards and a frame on the back wheel which can be used as a luggage carrier or to hold the wheel clear of the ground while making repairs.

John S. Prince and Gussie Lawson, well known in Lowell, returned to New York from Europe on the Oceanic on Nov. 9. Prince went over as an emissary of the promoters of the six-day race in Madison Square Garden, and Lawson had been racing behind motor pace in France and Germany. Lawson competed in but three races, in two of which he was defeated, the other resulting in a victory. He attributed his poor showing to the fact that he had not raced for several years, during which he acted as pacemaker for Robert Walthour. He will be with the latter again next season, when Walthour begins racing behind motor pace.

While he was abroad, Prince visited France, Germany and England to investigate the chances for building indoor tracks. He said that the outlook was so good that he would return to England, where he expects to be able to build coliseum tracks in some of the interior cities. If his plans do not miscarry, Prince will have a team of American riders sent over to compete on the tracks after they are finished.

New York's annual six-day team race will be started at 12.05 a. m. on December 5, and will end at 10.05 p. m., on December 10. Six teams of foreign riders who will compete in the long grind will sail from France next week. They will be cared for during the race by a corps of trainers under the direction of John West of Chicago. West handled Fisher and Bowler in last year's contest, and did not intend to take charge of a team again, but was prevailed upon by P. T. Powers to assume the care of the foreign contingent. West had charge of the foreign riders three years ago, and Gougoltz asked that he care for them this time.

Emile Friol, the young French sprinter who surprised nearly every one by winning the professional championship of France this year, will be one of the attractions at the "curtain raiser" meet on the Saturday night before the big race starts. He will ride a match race against Frank L. Kramer, the American champion, that night, and will give exhibitions during the week. Another attraction for the "curtain raiser" meet will be a motor-paced match race between Robert Walthour and James Michael.

SUM OF $15,000

SENT TO IRISH PARLIAMENTARY FUND.

BOSTON, Nov. 19. Contributions aggregating $15,000 to the Irish parliamentary fund were forwarded from this city yesterday. The gift was accompanied by the following letter:

"Boston, Nov. 18, 1904.

Right Rev. Patrick O'Donnell, D. D., Bishop of Raphoe; Hon. John E. Redmond, M. P., Chairman Irish Party; Alderman Stephen O'Mara, Limerick; Trustees Irish Parliamentary Fund, Dublin, Ireland:

"Gentlemen: Enclosed please find drafts for two thousand pounds (2000) which together with the one thousand (1000) forwarded a few days ago, makes three thousand pounds (3000) or fifteen thousand dollars forwarded you within a week.

"This I am enabled to do through the splendid remittance of twelve thousand dollars (12,000) from the good people of Philadelphia and the generous contribution of thirteen hundred and eleven dollars, fifty-three cents (1311.53) from the patriotic sympathizers of the home rule movement in Toronto, Canada.

"We are gratified to learn that other sections of our country are preparing to follow the good example set by Philadelphia, Toronto and other places already so creditably heard from. With this disposition of co-operation so manifest, it is reasonable to believe that the amount pledged at the recent convention will be realized within a comparatively short space of time.

"With kind regards, I remain, respectfully yours,

(Signed) "T. P. FITZPATRICK."

JIMMY GARDNER

Knocked Out Rube Smith of Denver

DENVER, Col., Nov. 19—Jimmy Gardner of Lowell, Mass., last night knocked out Rube Smith of Denver in the fifth round of a scheduled ten-round bout. With the exception of the second round in which Smith floored Gardner with a right to the wind, the Lowell boy had the better of the milling. The men fought at 135 pounds.

BENNINGS TRACK

SENSATIONAL FINISH TO ONE RACE.

BENNINGS, D. C., Nov. 19.—An unattractive program was converted into excellent racing yesterday by the sensational finish between Monacodor and Gold Fleur, in the selling race for two year olds and the surprising work of Jane Holly in winning from Palette, a 3 to 5 favorite in the sixth race for mares three years old and upwards. Jane Holly refused to go to the wire and delayed the start fifteen minutes. After she got away she led Palette around the course. Monacodor and Gold Fleur ran almost a dead heat, former winning. Summaries:

First race, selling, for 3-year-olds, seven furlongs; Columbia Course, Brooklynite, 91, Notter, 4 to 1, won; Briar Thorpe, 93, Crimmins, 6 to 1, second; Pantique, 96, Lee, 10 to 1, third. Time—1.28 4-5.

Second race, two year olds; fillies, six furlongs; Columbia course, Sufferance, 109, Redfern, 3 to 5, won; Queen Rose, 109, T. Burns, 6 to 1, second; Bravery, 109, Lee, 13 to 5, third. Time—1.17.

Third race, selling, for 3 year olds and upwards, mile and 40 yards, old course; Andrew Mack, 100, Romanelli, 3 to 1, won; Copelia, 98, Travers, 2½ to 1, second; Charles Elwood, 111, Wonderly, 7 to 1, third. Time—1.46.

Fourth, race, selling; two year olds, six furlongs; Columbia course, Monacodor, 112, T. Burns, 4 to 1, won; Gold Fleur, 109; Crimmins, 11 to 5 second; Preen, 112, Redfern, 5 to 1, third. Time—1.15 3-5.

Fifth race, for maiden three year olds and upwards, mile and 60 yards, old course, Ben Crockett, 107, Travers, 2 to 1, won; Nuit Blanche, 107, T. Burns, 15 to 1, second; Silver Foot, 110, Redfern, 3½ to 1, third. Time—1.48 1-5.

Sixth race, selling, for mares, 3 years old, and upward, one mile, Columbia course. Jane Holly, 100, Romanelli, 5 to 1, won; Pallette, 95, Notter, 3 to 5, second; Cheripe, 95, B. Miller, 7 to 1, third. Time—1.42 3-5.

EASY VICTORIES

NEWBURYPORT AND NATICK ARE WINNERS.

NEWBURYPORT, Nov. 19—Newburyport defeated New Bedford at basketball last night before 500 people, 41 to 32. The passing of the home team was far superior to that of the visitors. The latter team improved during the last part of the game. During intermission two amateur teams played, the Myophas defeating the Columbias, 8 to 0. The summary of the league game:

NEWBURYPORT	NEW BEDFORD
Martens rf	lb Donnelly
Punch lf	rb Healy
W. I. Sheridan c	c Murphy
Reagan, H. Sheridan rb	lf Marshall
Hayes lb	rf Senger

Score—Newburyport 44, New Bedford 33. Goals from floor, Martens 5, Punch 5, W. I. Sheridan, 4, H. Sheridan 3, Hayes, 5, Healy 5, Senger 5, Murphy 5, Donnelly 2. Fouls called, on Newburyport 5, on New Bedford 2. Referee—Pickard of Haverhill. Timer—Murphy of New Bedford. Time—three 15m. periods.

NATICK 47, FALL RIVER 39.

NATICK, Nov. 19—Natick defeated Fall River last night at basketball, 47 to 39. The visitors were clearly outclassed, Natick having no difficulty in scoring at will. Hough and Ferrat did some clever basket shooting for the home team, and Gebhard and Matthews for the visitors. The summary:

NATICK	FALL RIVER
Ferrat rf	lb Gebhard
Hough lf	rb Henschel
Mullner c	c Getzinger
Kincaide rb	lf Matthews
Mayhem lb	rb Haggerty

Score—Natick 47, Fall River 39. Goals scored, by Hough 12, Ferrat 5, Mayhem 4, Mullner, Matthews 7, Gebhard 4, Getzinger 2, Henschel. Fouls called, on Natick 5, on Fall River 3. Referee—Davis. Timers—O'Neil and Kelleher. Time—three 15m. periods. Attendance—500.

Well, we face Natick tonight and here's hoping that the Lowell boys will turn the trick.

YALE SCHEDULE.

A more elaborate schedule of games for the Yale University basket ball team has been arranged for the coming winter than in any previous season.

Instead of the usual western trip during the Christmas holidays, this year, a southern trip as far as New Orleans has been planned, and following this, the intercollegiate games will be played.

The schedule of the team includes the following dates:

December 23 at Baltimore; December 23 at Richmond; December 24 at Charleston; December 26 at Savannah; December 27 at Atlanta; December 29, at Mobile; December 30, at New Orleans; January 1 at Birmingham; January 3 at Nashville; January 4 at Cumberland University; January 5 at Cincinnati; January 6 at Alleghany college; January 7, at Syracuse; January 10, at Colgate.

BOWLING NEWS

The Mohairs defeated the Fairmounts on the alleys last night by the margin of 21 pins. The game was close and interesting throughout, the losing team having the better of the argument until the last string when the Mohairs got down to hard work and captured both the string and the game. Albert of the Fairmounts was high man both in single and three string totals. The score:

COURT ST. ANTOINE C. O. F.

A solemn high mass will be sung at nine o'clock Thanksgiving day at St. Jean Baptiste church for the repose of the souls of the deceased members of Court St. Antoine, C. O. F. The deceased members of the court with the date of their death are as follows:

Dr. Romeo L. Vaillancourt, March, 1900; Alphonse Baron, May, 1900; Hubert Matton, October, 1901; Joseph Piche, October, 1901; Joseph T. Fontaine, April, 1903; J. B. Deschenes, January, 1904; Wilfrid G. Caisse, January, 1904; Elzear Langlois, April, 1904.

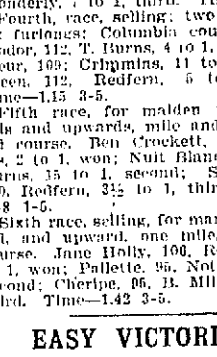

The court will also visit the graves of the dead members tomorrow afternoon at St. Joseph's cemetery. The members are to take part in the memorial Sunday exercises of L'Association Catholique which, having been postponed from last Sunday, are to take place tomorrow—and once at the cemetery will visit in a body the graves of their own dead. This is the first observance of the kind made by the court, but hereafter a memorial visit to the cemetery will be made every year, as with L'Association Catholique.

CHOPPED HIS THUMB.

While Joseph McCluskey was trying to cut a rope with an axe at the Lowell Waste Co.'s works this morning he chopped off the top of his left thumb. He was taken to the Emergency hospital where his thumb was dressed.

MILLS RUNNING

Very Few Hands Are Working

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 19.—Mills are running this morning about as Friday. Very few hands are working in the center though most engines are turning. The factories are doing no better than in the past few days. In the eastern section the Flint, Wampanoag, Barnard and Stafford mills have closed for the day, but will start up Monday. The other east end factories claim to be running with added hands.

In the south end the Shove, Laurel Lake and Bourne mills are closed down and the others are not running well.

The same conditions prevail in the north end, three plants closed and two running with few operatives.

AT THE HORSESHOW

SOCIETY TURNED OUT IN LARGE NUMBERS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—The crowds at the horse show yesterday afternoon and last night were the largest of the week. This has been the most successful week in the matter of attendance which the National Horse Show association of America has ever held.

The most picturesque feature of the afternoon was the class in which three members of various hunt clubs competed. They were the Cameron Run Hunt club, from Alexandria, Va., Richmond County Hunt, Westchester Hunt and Essex Hunt of Orange, N. J. The Virginia huntsmen easily carried off the blue ribbon. Their horses were more nearly matched, they fenced better, the uniforms were more distinctive and the riders more of a height, and in general conformation they easily were ahead. The three riders with the mounts were Mr. Evans, on Ripley, Mrs. Howe, on Tip Top, Mr. Smith, on Lucy Sullivan.

What always proves to be the prettiest sight in the horse show was on the program yesterday when a class of Shetland ponies were shown. None of the horses was larger than a good sized dog and they were driven to small wagons by children. Aberdeen and Breezy of Pittsford, owned by M. P. Hawley, were awarded blue and red ribbons, respectively.

RED LETTER DAY

Zemstovs Ask for Voice in Govarnment

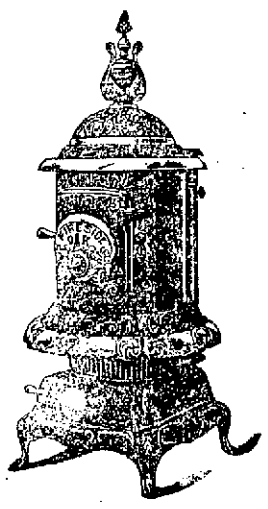

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 19.—Today may mark a red letter day in the Russian calendar. About one hundred representatives of provincial zemstovs assembled privately at 2 o'clock this afternoon with the avowed purpose of presenting to Emperor Nicholas through Interior Minister Sviatopolk Mirasky a truthful picture of the internal conditions of Russia coupled with recommendations pointing out in plain terms the necessity for calling a legally empowered constituent assembly to have a direct voice in the government. The word "constitution" however, will be carefully avoided.

The liberals have been greatly excited by the developments of the last few days. The meeting was to be held at the duma, or city hall, but at the last moment official auspices were refused, the emperor withdrawing his consent.

Many of the zemstvos' representatives attribute the emperor's attitude to the influence of Grand Duke Sergius M. Pobedonostoff, the procurer general of the holy synod, and M. Sassanoff, a member of the council of the empire, and indirectly to such reactionaries as Merchersky, Strumer and Suchinsky. The latter two formerly were the late Interior Minister Von Pichve's assistants who were promoted to the council of the empire. When Prince Sviatolpolk Mirsky dispensed with their services, the spectre of a constitution was successfully raised, according to their view. They are not disposed to criticise Prince Sviatolpolk Mirsky, whose goo dintentions they do not question. They believe he is powerless but nevertheless they express disappointment at the fact that he yielded. Prince Sviatolpolk Mirsky's friends however, have another side of the story. They insist that he acted in the sincere conviction of what he believed to be the greatest interest of the zemstvos. They explain that when the minister began the negotiations M. Shihoff and Petrunkavich and Prince Ivoff were sent to explain what the meeting proposed to do and the minister found that instead of 34 presidents whom he had invited, about 100 representatives were to be present and that they proposed to go much further than their powers authorized. They were in no sense official representatives chosen by the zemstvos to present a memorial to the government.

When the emperor declined to grant permission however. Prince Sviatolpolk Mirsky informed the representatives that although official sanction was declined, they could meet privately, police protection being guaranteed. Moreover he himself at once drafted a law for submission to the council of the empire authorizing the zemstvos to elect delegates to sit in a concultative body in connection with the department of rural affairs of his ministry. This law will be immediately promulgated in order that the zemstvos at their approaching meetings in December may choose representatives. Prince Sviatolpolk Mirsky's idea that ill digested action might wreck the prosperts of the future was supported by a number of the zemstvos representatives here but the majority although moderate in their views rejected the advice of their colleagues as being simply a step to a whale and entered the meeting this afternon determined to speak plainly. Their program has a negative and a positive side. The first consists in the adoption of a sort of Itednetio ad absurdum argument in the form of a memorandum in which they will attempt to show that the existing conditions in the empire with constant unrest and disturbance resulting in an increase in the revolutionary propoganda cannot continue. The course of the story will be traced to show the ebb and flow of imperialism and it will be contended that the liberal tendency of the government which began in the reign of Alexander II. was really checked after the Polish insurrection and only briefly revived in the days of Loris-Melikoff.

The positive memorandum will recommend the calling of a constitution assembly as the means of securing a legal expression of the views of the nation. The radicals and some student organizations had planned sympathetic demonstrations in front of the Duma, in favor of ending the war and calling a national assembly but with the place of meeting of the zemstvos, representatives secret the demonstrations will probably not occur.

WAS SANDBAGGED

AMESBURY MAN HELD UP BY HIGHWAYMAN.

AMESBURY, Nov. 19.—John E. Chesley, a well-known farmer of the Allen's Corner district, was sandbagged last night on his way home. At a lonely spot on the Southampton road he was confronted by a man who ordered him to hold up his hands, and asked if he had any money.

"I haven't, but my brother has," he replied, whereupon the footpad struck at Mr. Chesley with a sandbag. He missed the victim's head but struck his right shoulder, although the blow did not knock Mr. Chesley down.

The highwayman at once ran off and escaped in the woods. His victim gave the police a good description of the fellow, who was about 5 feet, 8 inches tall and smooth faced. The police are confident that a man whom they suspect will prove to be the guilty party.

TO REORGANIZE

Plans Made by N. H. Traction Co.

BOSTON, Nov. 19—The affairs of the New Hampshire Traction company which operates a number of lines throughout southeastern New Hampshire and extending over the Massachusetts border are being re-organized. A reorganization committee consisting of Charles F Ayer of Boston and Alfred B. Foster and Otto T. Barnard, both of New York have submitted a plan which provides for a foreclosure and the formation of a new corporation with $4,000,000. 4 per cent. non cumulative stock and $4,000,000 of common stock.

Bond holders are to receive 50 per cent. of the par value of principal on their bonds in new preferred stock and 50 per cent. in new common stock, while holders of the certificates of indebtedness will receive new common stock to the par value of their certificates. This will leave the new company with no fixed charges. Holders of a majority of the bonds have assented to the plan of re-organization. The New Hampshire Traction company was organized two years ago by the New York Security Trust company to consolidate the so-called Lowell system of railroads in southeastern New Hampshire. Unsatisfactory weather conditions seriously affected it from the time of its organization and last November the company was obliged to fund two years' coupons upon its $7,500,000 bonds into certificates of indebtedness. Last winter the company sustained heavy losses.

NATIONAL GRANGE

HAS PROPERTY VALUED AT $80,600.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 19.—The report of the executive committee of the national grange, which is now in session in this city, shows that the affairs of the organization are in a prosperous condition. The property owned by the Grange at present is valued at $80,600, an increase of $9,293.

The executive committee thinks that the powers now conferred upon the interstate commerce committee are not ample enough and the legislation necessary to enlarge its powers, is recommended. The report endorses the parcels posts and condemns the effort being made to repeal the Grout oleomargarine bill. The committee recommends that the Grange adopt resolutions at this session favoring direct election of United States senators. The report closes by re-endorsing Congressman Currier's bill, providing for federal aid in building roads, which is before Congress and in emphatic terms denounces the trusts and urges the endorsement of present laws and the enacting of new ones.

GOVERNOR BATES

SAYS HIS CAMPAIGN COST HIM $650.

BOSTON, Nov. 19—The first expense return on account of the city primary was filed yesterday by John E. Cotter of ward 24-25, republican nominee for the board of aldermen, stating: "Not one single cent." The report was dated Nov. 18.

State election accounts filed Thursday and yesterday show that Governor Bates contributed $500 to the republican state committee, $100 to the republican city committee, and $50 to the Massachusetts republican club; Oliver Stevens, $50 to the democratic committee of Chelsea; William Taylor, nominee for the senate from the 3d Suffolk district, $150 each to wards 2, 6 and 8 democratic committees.

PAID THE FINE

FRIENDS RAISED THE MONEY FOR PASTOR SQUIRES.

BROOKFIELD, Nov. 19—Rev. W. P. Squires, pastor of the First Baptist church of East Brookfield, who was sentenced by Judge Wm. T. Forbes of the Worcester probate court yesterday for contempt of court in writing a letter to the judge discussing a case upon which a decision had not been given is at home again after a three hours' sojourn in jail. Rev. Mr. Squires was fined $50, but on his statement that he was unable to pay it he was committed to jail for 30 days. Friends however, have paid the fine and the pastor is at liberty.

MASTER PAINTERS

ENTERTAINED THE EXECUTIVE BOARD OF STATE BODY.

The executive board of the Master Painters and Decorators of Massachusetts were the guests last evening of the Master Painters and Decorators of Lowell at their rooms, 40 Central street.

After a short business session of the executive board, called for the purpose of making arrangements for the fourteenth annual convention of the Massachusetts association, which is to be held in the American house in Boston on the 11th and 12th of January. It was stated that the program for the occasion had been duly completed.

After the business meeting was over a fine banquet was served at which the local president, Milo D. Clay, presided and short speeches were delivered by visiting officers and Lowell members.

The attendance of Lowell members was large. Among the guests entertained were: James Muncey, president of the state and also the Boston association; George W. Locke, of South Boston, vice president of the state association; W. E. Wall, of Somerville, secretary and treasurer of the state association and also of the national association; C. F. W. Hanson, Geo. B. Agnew, C. Forsberg, W. H. Naylor, R. Rose, Charles F. Smith and H. O. Goodwin, members of the Boston association; N. G. Edwards, M. A. Feeley and J. Leo McDonald, all of Cambridge; E. Hough, J. S. Norris and J. A. Manley of Newton; W. A. Houston, George H. Brown, John Renaud, Frank Renaud, James Hargraves, A. Blanchette, Walter Blythe and E. L. Kidd of Lawrence.

Mr. Clay is a member of the executive board.

SUIT ENTERED BY VANDERBILT'S GRANDDAUGHTER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Cables from Paris announce that the first tribunal of the Seine is hearing the divorce proceedings brought by Countess Czaykowski against Count Czaykowski, better known as Rechid Bey, a Turkish diplomat, now stationed as secretary of the Turkish legation at The Hague.

The proceedings are reported as highly sensational, and a heated controversy is progressing relative to the disposition of the children. Countess Czaykowski holds that the father is unfit to control them.

Countess Czaykowski is better known in this country as Edith Collins, the former ward of Senator Chauncey Depew, to whom she was reported to be engaged some years ago. She is the daughter of Clarence Lyman Collins, and her mother was a daughter of Mrs. R. J. Nivens, third daughter of Commodore Vanderbilt.

Countess Czaykowski's fortune is estimated at about $7,000,000.

ALEXANDER GERVAIS A MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY.

Alexander Gervais, aged 30 years who until last June lived at the boarding house of George E. Desilets in Paige street for the past nine years is the unhappy victim of relentless immigration laws. Last June Gervais who is not a naturalized citizen went over to England and becoming "broke" became a stowaway on a vessel bound for this country. Upon arriving here he was held up as a pauper and though he protested that he had lived in Lowell for nine years he was sent back. Since then he has made two more trips over only to be sent back again. Last month he wrote to Lawyer Guillet from Boston but before the attorney's reply reached the Hub Gervais had been shipped again. Since that time, Oct. 9, he has not been heard from. Mr. Guillet is now interested in the case and will attempt to get him a landing if he appears here again. If Gervais could save up $40 and then come over he would be allowed to land, but he appears to be "broke" every time he strikes the country.

DIPHTHERIA CASES

NINE WERE REPORTED THIS WEEK.

There were nine new diphtheria cases in Lowell this week, but over that number were removed from the list, the disease having passed so that there was really no increase.

HEROIC TEACHER

Rushed Into Icy Pond to Save Pupil

MISS EMMA HOLT IN A VAIN EFFORT TO SAVE HER DROWNING PUPIL.

The Lad Had Sunk Through Ice and Was Lifeless When the Teacher Reached the Spot

A sad drowning accident occurred at Nabnasset pond in West Chelmsford yesterday afternoon in which the victim was little James Laria, aged eight years, and the son of Joseph Laria who keeps a boarding house at the Fletcher quarry. Miss Emma Holt, a school teacher who was attracted to the scene, made a daring attempt to rescue the youngster as she waded into the icy water at the risk of her own life, but she came too late as when she reached the boy life was extinct.

The lad had just been dismissed from school together with the other pupils, and in company with a playmate, Morick Perkins, aged six years, went down to the pond. The Perkins boy remained on the shore but the little Laria boy went out on the thin ice. He had gone a distance of about twenty-five feet when he started to slide, but either his weight was too much for the ice or else he stepped into an opening, for he went through the ice and into the cold waters of the pond.

The Perkins lad ran to the schoolhouse and told the teacher, Miss Emma Holt, who hastened to the edge of the pond and dashed into the water breaking the ice as she went. On reaching the spot where the boy went down she lifted the body in her arms but alas it was limp and lifeless. She carried the body ashore where by artificial respiration she tried to restore life, but though she worked over him for a long time her efforts were unrewarded.

Dr. Varney of Chelmsford, who was sent for immediately by the teacher said on his arrival that everything had been done that he himself could have done, and he commended Miss Holt in the highest terms for her bravery and skill.

The boy was carried to the Moore farmhouse, a short distance away, and was later removed to the home of his parents, by Undertaker O'Donnell.

Miss Holt is a daughter of Henry Holt of West Chelmsford, and is but 20 years of age. This is her first term teaching the school.

BRIBERY

IN THE MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE

"The Massachusetts Legislature is Bought and Sold As Are Sausages and Fish at the Market and Wharves"

This is one of the many startling statements made by Thomas W. Lawson in the December installment of "Frenzied Finance" in Everybody's Magazine for December, just published. Mr. Lawson tells of the wholesale buying and selling of senators and representatives in the great commonwealth of Massachusetts, which culminated in the sudden and mysterious disappearance of a Boston lawyer and his secretary.

As back numbers of Everybody's Magazine are out of print, the previous chapters of Mr. Lawson's "Frenzied Finance"—contained in the numbers from July to November inclusive—are republished in a pamphlet, at 25 cents a copy. This pamphlet will be sent free to any new subscriber to Everybody's Magazine who requests it and who sends one dollar for a year's subscription beginning with the December number. Address The Ridgeway-Thayer Company, Union Square, New York City.

Influence of Modern Weapons on War Casualties

IT is the opinion of the United States war department, based on a series of investigations covering the entire history of war, that as military agents grow more destructive there is a corresponding decrease in the loss of life in battle. It is contended that not even the shocking mortality of the present war in Asia invalidates this theory. In support of this view the government experts assert that the proportion of casualties in war was greatest from the time the use of firearms became general to the introduction of the iron ramrod and the bayonet.

During this period foot soldiers were divided into about equal numbers of pikemen and musketeers. In battle they were formed ten deep, pikemen in the center and musketeers on the flank. This was because it was found that when the front rank had fired it could reload by the time nine other ranks had come to the front and fired. The musketeer carried a dozen charges in a horn flask, and the musket barrel was four and a half feet in length. The soldier also carried a bullet bag, containing bullets, molds, worms, screws and priming iron. Among the other impedimenta essential to his equipment were a scouring stick and a gun rest of hard wood with an iron spike at one end to stick in the ground and a half hoop of iron at the other end for the musket to rest upon. Gustavus Adolphus, who was the most up to date military man of his time, introduced cartridge pouches, abolished the heavy rests and formed his men in files six deep. The old fashion continued in England for some time. Modern tacticians do not understand how the solid tertias, ten square, were managed. The pikemen must have stood like lambs, presenting a fair mark for the muskets of their foes. When it came to push of pike, what became of the musketeers?

This mode of fighting was observed at the battle of Leipsic, in which 62,000 men were engaged and in which the casualties amounted to 22 per cent. The average percentage of casualties for this first period was 26. A marked feature of this time was the large proportion of killed to the entire amount of casualties. At Marston Moor the country folk buried 4,000 on the field, and at Lutzen 9,000 were killed outright. An entire regiment lay on the ground in the exact order in which it had stood. At Rocroy 18,000 men were engaged and 9,000 were slain. "How many of you were there before the fight?" asked a Frenchman of a Spanish officer. "You have only to count the dead and the prisoners," was the reply.

The substitution of the smoothbore flintlock with bayonet for the pike brought about a decrease in the rate of casualties from 26 to 20 per cent. This period begins with the battle of Hohenfriedberg, in which the rate was 10 per cent. In the battle of Fontenoy the casualties were 11 per cent. At the battle of Zorndorf, between the Russians and Prussians, the casualties rose to the enormous rate of 40 per cent. About 19 per cent of the troops engaged at Austerlitz, 17 per cent at Jena, 14 per cent at Talavera, 9 per cent at Wagram and 36 per cent at Borodino suffered casualties. At Lundy's Lane the percentage was 19, at Bunker Hill 24, at Friedland 20 and at Bautzen 14.

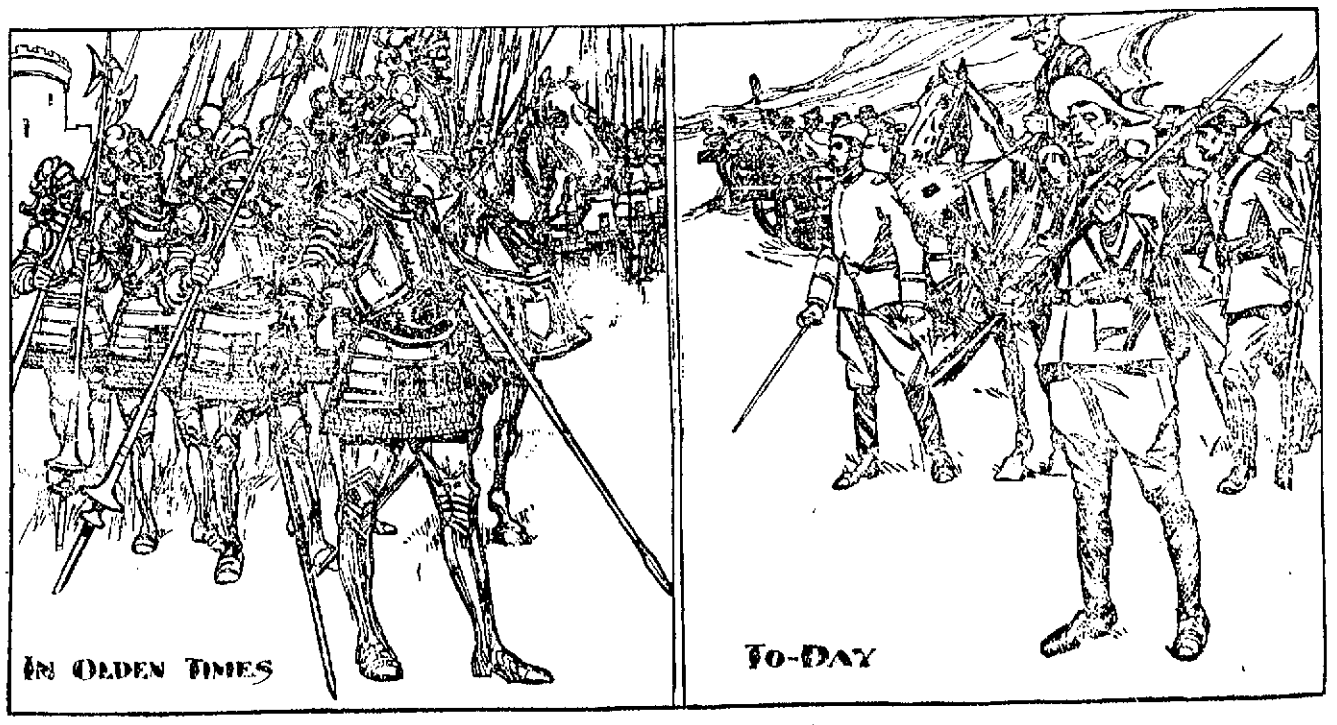

A further decrease in casualties was brought about by another improvement in weapons—the introduction of rifled barrels and percussion caps. The average loss during the employment of the smoothbore flintlock was about 20 per cent. When the rifled barrel and percussion caps came into general use casualties fell to 15 per cent. This third period begins with the battle of Alma, fought in 1854 between the allies and the Russians. The casualties were only 9 per cent. At the battles of Solferino and Magenta the casualties were about the same ratio as that of Alma.

Coming down to the period of the American civil war, the decrease is still maintained. At Shiloh, in 1862, there were 80,000 men engaged. The casualties were 10,357, or 24 per cent. At the battles of the Chickahominy, which lasted seven days, the combined armies numbered 156,000 men. The casualties amounted to 15 per cent. There were 12[illegible] men in the battle of Antietam, and the casualties were 16 per cent. At Fredericksburg 175,000 men fought, and the casualties were only 8 per cent. At Chancellorsville, with 190,000 engaged, the per cent was advanced to 11. From this time until the close of the war the mortality was at a greatly increased ratio. At Gettysburg the casualities were 20 per cent, at Murfreesboro 23, at Chickamauga 28. The Wilderness campaign is not included in the war department's estimate for the reason that accuracy cannot be maintained in computing the casualties of each engagement. It is known, however, that the losses were far in excess of the average percentage.

The first appearance of the breechloader, which was a notable improvement over all weapons hitherto devised, marks the decrease in casualties to 11 per cent as against 15 per cent in the preceding period. The breechloader era began at the battle of Koniggratz in 1866, when 415,000 Prussians and Austrians fought. There were in all 28,000 casualties, or 7 per cent. At the battle of Woerth, in 1870, 130,000 French and Prussians fought savagely, and the casualties amounted to 14 per cent. In the same campaign, at the battle of Mars-le-Tour, 200,000 men were engaged, and there were 31,800 casualties, or 16 per cent. At Sedan, with 343,000 in the field, there were casualties of less than 9 per cent. In all of these actions except Koniggratz the breechloader was used by both sides. At that famous engagement the Austrians were not equipped with the then new firearm.

The war department does not extend its investigations to the point of finding a reason for this apparent decrease in casualties. An official of the department advances the opinion that the new weapons are so deadly in their action that they produce a moral effect on the soldier and thus prevent the close actions which were so sanguinary in the old times. He admits, however, that this theory has received a severe shock and decided setback in the present hostilities between Russia and Japan.

The enormous cost of modern warfare is also a powerful factor in the decrease of casualties. Of course it accomplishes this indirectly—by discouraging nations from going to war and by influencing them to settle their disputes by arbitration or some other peaceful method known to the diplomatic world. According to recent estimates made by French and German statisticians who are proficient in such matters, the wars of the last fifty years have cost the almost inconceivable sum of $18,000,000,000. Of this amount France alone has paid $8,500,000,000.

onical or conservative citizen for the entire scheme can be so financed that it will not cost the city of Lowell a cent. A suitable structure can be put upon this lot that would not cost when completed more than $200,000, including the price of the land. But even if something more elaborate is decided upon it would be unnecessary to expend more than $250,000 for the complete structure. The city of Lowell could arrange for the issue of a series of bonds to be known as the Public Buildings Bonds to bear interest at 3½ per cent, and to run for a period of thirty years. An issue of such bonds amounting to $250,000 could be disposed of in the city of Lowell within one week among the various banks and financial institutions of the city. In any event it would be easy to dispose of them outside of the city at par and possibly above par.

The rental from the public market stalls and for the use of the halls when not engaged for public purposes, would easily take care of the bonds and the interest on the same. The sum of about $7,000 could be set aside from the net earnings each year to provide for a sinking fund and $9000 per year would easily take care of the interest account.

This would require a net income of only $16,000 a year from the entire buildings. This, as any conservative man will allow, is extremely moderate. Indeed, we believe the enterprise would pay an annual profit of ten per cent. to the city, besides taking care of all its obligations, and at the end of thirty years not only would the city receive the benefit of this annual dividend but would be presented with a beautiful structure free of cost, and the citizens of Lowell would meanwhile enjoy the benefits of a grand combination of halls and a public market that would save on an average from 10 to 15 per cent. in the provision bills of every household in the city that may see fit to avail of its advantages.

If there is any objection to the market in connection with the halls, that feature might be dispensed with, and the halls could be made to pay the entire expense. If necessary, stores could be rented on the first floor as was formerly done by the city at old city hall, and a goodly sum could be realized by any of the proposed systems.

NO GRAFT IN IT.

Another feature that should appeal to thinking citizens is the fact that there need be no graft or corruption in this proposition. A commission might be appointed by the mayor to consist of seven reputable, responsible and capable citizens of this city. Seven such men can easily be found who would be glad to give our citizens the benefit of their business talents free of cost. Our past experience with commissions has been most satisfactory. Our city hall commission covered itself with glory and performed a public service that will stand to their credit as long as our city hall and memorial buildings shall endure. The city hall commission served without salary, and it has been said that the structures erected under their charge were built and furnished at about one-half the cost paid for similar buildings in other cities the size of Lowell.

One library commission is another proof that commissions made up of responsible citizens working without salary are most desirable. The record of the commissioners of the city library is an honorable one. So it is with our park commission, which is giving to the citizens of Lowell more for their money than they ever obtained under previous methods. So it would be in the case of a public building commission. They would see to it that the new hall was erected economically and according to the most modern designs. These commissioners might also be empowered to look after the building, to provide all the necessary supplies and service going with the care of the building. They would also arrange for the renting of the market stalls and in this there would be no possibility of graft or corruption, as it would be a simple matter to have the stalls auctioned off for periods of from two to five years to the highest bidder. With a wide-awake auctioneer such as Conant or Keyes to conduct these public competitions there would be no chance for favoritism or trickery of any kind in renting stalls to those who offered most for them and guaranteed to comply with the conditions of their lease.

Property in the vicinity of the proposed building is earning about $1.60 a square foot per year. If the market earned about one-half this rate it would take care of all the bonded obligations without the necessity of deriving a cent's income from the halls on the upper floor. The scheme is feasible from every point of view. The question is, will the people of Lowell seize the opportunity. They have not been as vigilant in such matters in previous years as they might have been. All that is necessary is to arouse a little public spirit, and the movement will be started in a way that will prove satisfactory and beneficial to all the citizens of the city. Mr. White no doubt would sell the property for public use at a reasonable price, and the city could well afford to pay him a liberal price. If he insists on more than a reasonable price the city government would be justified in condemning the lot for public purposes and seizing it by right of eminent domain. This would compel the owner to accept judgment from a sheriff's jury or the courts on a reasonable appraisal of the land and buildings.

ONLY ONE OBJECTION.

Since the subject was first broached we have heard but one objection, and that comes from people who are supposed to be interested in the barroom now located on the north east corner of the lot. As far as the people of Lowell are concerned we do not think it would be a terrible calamity if that barroom were wiped off the face of the earth. The proprietor might move to some other locality, of course, but when we consider some of the sights we have witnessed through the front windows of this same saloon and the more deplorable sights of women running in and out of the rear entrance on French street we do not think there would be any public protest if the saloon were moved a little further north and relocated in the bottom of the adjoining canal.

There might be some objection from storekeepers who would consider this a competition against stores that are now rented as meat and provision markets, but experience in other cities shows that stores formerly used at the low rate necessary for meat and provision markets are turned to other uses at an increased rental to the owners.

From every point of view, therefore, the proposition is a feasible one, and the location is all that could be desired. The opportunity is a grand one for the city of Lowell if our city officials or our public-spirited citizens only grasp it without delay.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gallagher of 458 Lawrence street are rejoicing over the arrival of a son.

BILL IN EQUITY

Cotton Wants Pay For Services

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—John B. Cotton, the attorney who procured the award of the Massachusetts claim of $1,611,740.85, and now demands ten per cent. of that sum for his services, filed a bill in equity in the supreme court of the District of Columbia this morning as soon as Attorney-General Moody's opinion was made known. It had been decided that Cotton must turn his warrant over to the state and then go into court for his re-embursement. The bill which Mr. Cotton filed seeks to enjoin the secretary of the treasury from issuing the duplicate draft that Mr. Moody proposed that he should do unless Cotton turned the original over to the state. The court it is believed by lawyers here, would not issue any restraining order on the secretary of the treasury. The form would rather be an order enjoining the claimant from receiving the draft; but many lawyers say that the secretary of the treasury would respect the filing of a bill, out of courtesy to the court, and permit the case to go to trial. This would bring the question directly before the equity judge as to the right of the state of Massachusetts to a duplicate draft. Unless he rendered a decision that was satisfactory to both sides, an appeal could be taken to the court of appeals and then to the supreme court of the United States. This is evidently Mr. Cotton's line of policy, from the action he has taken in this matter.

It has been the custom for years for the secretary of the treasury to turn warrants over to the attorney for the claimant, when he is a man of good standing. It is not only convenient, but it provides reasonable security for the attorney's fees. There was a Lowell, Mass., case some years ago in which a question came up about the delivery of the draft; and questions have arisen, when the attorney had died, as to whether the administrator of his estate at home, or some specially appointed representative here should receive the draft. When Secretary Sherman came in he tried to change this practice of paying drafts to the attorneys, but or some reason the treasury soon went back to the old policy.

LIVES IN PERIL

Many Barely Escaped Runaway Horses

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Four big work horses unhampered by harness of any kind save three short halters which attached them one to the other, dashing madly down crowded sidewalks on Third avenue and Twenty-third street today sent terror to the hearts of hundreds of persons. That no one was injured or any serious damage done by the runaways before their mad career was checked is considered remarkable.

The horses had been taken from a sales stable and were being led down Third avenue when they became frightened by the roar of an elevated train overhead and broke into a wild run. The halter was jerked from the hands of the stableman and without restraint of any kind the fear maddened animals swung onto the crowded sidewalk and dashed down the avenue. Warned by the sounds of iron shod hoofs on the sidewalks, pedestrians fled for their lives and many succeeded in reaching protecting doorways or other places of safety without an instant to spare.

The horses finally were captured before any serious damage had been done.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of James A. Garfield, Women's Relief Corps, No. 33, was held Thursday afternoon, Nov. 17. In the evening the Corps celebrated its 21st anniversary.

The department vice-president, Mrs. Ralph, was present, also Past President Mrs. Proctor of Medway. At seven o'clock Post 120 and invited guests sat down to a bountiful supper, under the direction of Mrs. Crawford, after which an entertainment of much merit was given under the direction of Mrs. Hattie Whitney, which was very much enjoyed. A sketch of the organization and work of the corps for 21 years was given by Mrs. Tuttle and was very interesting. Stirring speeches were given by Mrs. Ralph, Mrs. Louise Blood, Mrs. Elizabeth Bean, the several clergymen, Commander Cragin and Comrade Ripley. The evening was interspersed with fine music and the whole was enjoyable.

At a business meeting of the Molly Varnum chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, the following executive committee was appointed to represent the chapter at the coming D. A. R. bazaar to be held in Boston, Dec. 13, 14 and 15: Miss Abbie Davis, chairman; Mrs. Joshiah French, Mrs. George F. Richardson, Mrs. Charles E. Howe, Mrs. Solon Stevens, Miss Marion Keyes, Mrs. Charles E. Paige, Mrs. John P. Horner, Mrs. Walter Parker, Mrs. H. C. Fuller, Mrs. Charles E. Paige is assistant chairman, Mrs. Solon Stevens treasurer, Mrs. John P. Horner secretary.

Passaconaway tribe's meeting last night was well attended. The committee on banquet reported that all of the great chiefs of the great council of Massachusetts and Deputy Great Sachem John L. Orr, and prominent men of the city will be present. Hibbard's orchestra will furnish music and the menu will be one that will tickle the palate of our Red Brothers. Everything will be done to make the 18th anniversary, Dec. 5, a memorable one. The degree staff rehearsed the Hunter and Warbird degree. Other routine business was transacted.

At the close of the council fire a social hour was enjoyed.

Disastrous Blaze in Bristol, N. H.

BRISTOL, N. H., Nov. 19.—A disastrous fire which threatened to wipe out the entire business section of this town, destroyed eight buildings yesterday, causing a loss of $25,000, with partial insurance. Franklin sent a steamer, which materially aided in subduing the blaze. The fire was discovered in the large crutch factory of Calley & Currier and spread rapidly. This building, together with an additional building occupied by the same company, the saw mill owned by Charles P. George, and occupied by Homer H. Hutchinson, two tenement houses owned by the Blake heirs, and E. Dearborn, respectively, and a building owned by Albert Blake, were destroyed. The flames leaped across the river and set fire to the machine shop of C. W. Holmes and to the wood working shop of F. H. Wells, both of which were burned to the ground. Calley & Currier carried no insurance on their factory but most of the other losses are partly covered by insurance.

KEAN FOUND DEAD

Was a Character of the Tenderloin

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Thomas Kean, one of the characters of the tenderloin, whose profession was unique, has been found dead in his Sixth avenue office.

Kean was known as "the black eye artist". He made a business of treating damaged optics by painting over the discoloration and had a great following which covered all classes of society.

The police took charge of the office when his body was found and were kept busy sending away callers. First came a rounder who had been on a night's spree and been badly bruised in a fight. Last came an apparently wealthy woman, heavily veiled. She had sustained a blackened eye in an automobile accident and was greatly chagrined because her beauty could not be restored so that she might attend the horse show.

JURY DISAGREED

IN A WILL CASE IN LAWRENCE, MASS.

LAWRENCE, Nov. 19.—The jury reported a disagreement yesterday in the superior court case of Josiah B. Smith against his sister, Mrs. Annie V. Burnham, to compel her to give him the share he would have received of his mother's estate if she had left no will, and the claim that his mother directed Mrs. Burnham to destroy her will and that the latter pretended to do so.

DETAILS OF ORGIES

IN WHICH SOCIETY PEOPLE TOOK PART.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Sensational details of the orgies of alleged Chicago society people during the weekend parties at the fashionable South Bay hotel, just across the Indiana state line, were recounted before a jury yesterday in the Laporte county court. The Indiana Harbor Improvement society, which owns the hotel, is suing Miss Bertha Crittenden for possession, alleging violation of lease.

Testimony of George Echriner and James Simon supported the allegation of the plaintiffs that the South Bay hotel had become a rendezvous for sporty Chicagoans, desirous of getting away from the city for a "quiet fling". Stories were told of banquets, attended by both sexes, at which the carousals extended over Sunday.

Once a gilded Chicago youth climbed on a table and bathed his feet in champagne. The witnesses told of an alleged minister being brought to the hotel to conduct services, as a result of which he was sent to a drink cure institution. The case is being bitterly contested and is expected to be on trial two weeks.

Saturday, Nov. 26, 1904

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE OF TWO PIECES OF REALTY. LOT OF LAND CONTAINING ABOUT 5931 SQUARE FEET, ON THE WESTERLY SIDE OF FOSTER STREET; ALSO A DWELLING HOUSE AND ABOUT 3650 SQUARE FEET OF LAND AT NO. 9 WARNOCK STREET, TEWKSBURY.

Pursuant to a power of sale granted me as administrator of this estate, I will absolutely make sale of the above two parcels of realty, in order to make a settlement in the estate.

At 2.30 o'clock

Lot of land situated on the westerly side of Foster street, containing about 5931 square feet. It is a level and dry lot, has fine elevation, is clustered with many beautiful residences, concrete walk and curbing all set in, and it is a very grand, pronounced building site. The frontage on Warnock street is about 57 feet, has all city conveniences leading to same, is but one minute's walk to Westford street electric car line; it is of the right size, and is well adapted for mostly any kind of a building.

TERMS: $100 will be required as a deposit, and must be paid to the auctioneer as soon as the property is struck off.

At 3.30 o'clock

I will make sale under the same conditions, of a dwelling house and about 3650 square feet of land at No. 9 Warnock street. This is a prime, good parcel of realty, as it is in very good condition. It sets on the brow of the hill, on the southerly side of Warnock street, this street running from Billerica street this side of the Salem & Lowell tracks, to Whitehead street. The house contains seven rooms, has been somewhat improved recently, and to a man of moderate means, it would mean a snug, cosy, little mansion. It is surrounded by very good neighbors, who own their own places, and on the whole, is a very pretty and desirable place for a small home. The lot has a frontage of about 45 feet on Warnock street, it is of good size, is all fenced in, and is high and dry. Now, if you have a small amount of capital which you wish to invest, no better small piece of property could you invest in that this I am going to sell you. The sale will be an absolute one, and the highest bidder will purchase the property.

TERMS: $250 must be paid or secured to the auctioneer, as soon as the property is struck off.

Administrator of the Estate of Irene E. Richardson.

Saturday, Nov. 26, at 4 o'clock

POSITIVE SALE OF A FOUR-TENEMENT HOUSE NUMBERING 73 AND 75 SUMMER STREET, HOUSE NUMBERING 47 DAVIS STREET, AND ABOUT 4522 SQUARE FEET OF LAND IN ONE PARCEL.

As two-thirds of my time is spent away from the city, I feel it is an obligation I owe myself to dispose of the above property, thereby relieving my mind of that care and responsibility which certainly confronts any woman who has real estate to look after. Therefore, at the appointed time and place, I have engaged Mr. C. F. Keyes to sell at public auction, in one parcel, these two houses on Davis and Summer streets, situated on the corner lot, containing an area of about 4522 sq. ft., with a frontage on Summer St. of about 65 ft., and on Davis St. of about 82 ft. The house on Summer St. containing four tenements of five rooms each, has the best of sewerage, is well appointed with large rooms and very convenient. It has a very good class of tenants who pay their rents weekly, and it is seldom a tenement is idle; it rents at the present time for about $468 a year. The house on Davis street contains 10 rooms and is rented to one family, who pay $16 per month in advance, making a total rental of the entire property of about $660 a year. This property has paid me handsomely, with the little care I have given it, but it is the constant running up and back that wears on me, and my mind is fully set now, to sell to the highest bidder, regardless of any and all conditions, at the time and day set for sale. The location is all that could be desired for tenement property, as it is in a thickly settled part, close to factories, schools, churches, the city's centre, and has every conceivable want for the class of property that it is.

TERMS: $500 must be paid or secured to the auctioneer, as soon as the property is struck off; other terms will be made known at sale.

THE WELL-KNOWN HILAND FARM ON MAMMOTH ROAD, IN RICHARDSON SQUARE, DRACUT, MASS. THE FIRST PARCEL CONSISTS OF A HOUSE, BARN AND ABOUT 19 ACRES OF LAND. THE SECOND PARCEL, SITUATED OPPOSITE THE HOMESTEAD, WITH A LARGE FRONTAGE ON THE MAMMOTH AND NASHUA ROADS, CONTAINS ABOUT 14 ACRES.

Immediately after selling the real estate, shall sell 8 cows, 1 bull, about 40 hens, 2 small lots of hay, farm wagon, market wagon, one-horse dump cart, open buggy, and all implements used in connection with the farm.

I am about to start into business in the city, and this is my only reason for offering the farm for sale. It has always given me a good living, and it is sure to do the same for the purchaser. I have absolutely pledged it to the auctioneer, to be sold, on the day advertised, regardless of the weather, for the best bid. With the homestead lot is the house, barn and about 18 acres of land. The house is a cosy little cottage of 7 rooms, and is in good repair inside and out. There is also a large woodshed in the rear of the house. The barn has accommodation for 10 head of cattle, 3 horses and plenty of room for the storage of hay and grain. Adjoining the barn are 2 carriage sheds and in the rear a good sized hennery. The lot which contains about 19 acres has a large frontage on the Mammoth road, with abundance of fruit and shade trees and it is divided up into fields by good stone walls. There are parts of it excellent hay land and parts of it well cultivated. I think this an excellent opportunity for some one who is looking for a small farm near the city.

The second parcel which is nearly opposite the homestead contains about 14 acres of land, and has a large frontage on the Mammoth and Nashua roads. There is good pasture with a brook running through. There is a small pine grove, all the front land on the Mammoth road is well cultivated, and in all, it is an excellent piece of land. I have refused two or three very good offers for this lot within the last two years.

The above two parcels are located about two miles from Pawtucket bridge, about half a mile from the Collinsville mills, and about a mile and one-half from Lakeview. The Pelham cars pass the premises every half hour, and it is but a five-cent ride to the city. This property adjoins the well-known Richardson Beaver Brook farm in Richardson square, Dracut, Mass. If you want to locate in the country, this is your opportunity. It will pay intending purchasers to look these premises over, as it may be some time before you get a chance of this kind again.

Terms: Deposits of $300 on the homestead lot and $150 on the 14 acres, will be required, and must be paid or secured to the auctioneer as soon as they are struck off; personal property CASH.

By the order of J. J. HILAND,
JOHN W. McEVOY, Attorney.

YALE 12 - HARVARD 0

JAMES J. HOGAN,

Exciting Football Struggle Today at Yale Field, New Haven

DANIEL F. HURLEY,
Captain Harvard Eleven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov 19.—Frost lay thick on the ground but the sky overhead was without a cloud when the early risers among the hundreds of Yale and Harvard men who are here for the annual football game between the two universities left their hotels or sleeping cars to view the weather prospects for the event. Few days for this great match have been so near the ideal football weather, as this. It gladdened the hearts of the collegians and of the thousands of enthusiasts who arrived on trains as early as 7 o'clock and who immediately began promenading the down town streets, waving flags of their favorite color and occasionally gathering on a street corner to give a mild cheer for their favorite team.

Out on Yale field the caretakers of the gridiron began to prepare the surface for the fray, taking off the straw covering in order that the sun might quickly draw out the frost which had slightly penetrated the turf during the night. The field was in good condition, promising an elastic footing for the runners and a safe ground for the punters. The frost of the last two nights had not struck in deep enough to make the turf soften when thawed out by the sun.

AFTER EARLY NEWS.

As was the case last night, the host gathered first at the New Haven House to get the morning tidings from both teams. The excitement began early as the occupants of a score or more sleeping cars which had been quartered over night in the railroad yard had to turn out early in search of breakfast, and as most of these were active partisans of one or the other of the teams, there was an insistent demand for news. Trainer Michael Murphy of Yale, was more noncommunicative than he was last night but he did say that in all likelihood, his team would play some of the new formations which have been practiced during the past fortnight and which were not shown at the Princeton game a week ago. The Yale players were kept in their beds until a late hour and after breakfast were called into session with the coaches for the final words of instruction.

The uncertainty as to the line-up of Yale during the forenoon was the same as last night, the question being whether Owsley was in good enough condition to go in at full back at the start, or whether he should be replaced by Flynn. It was evident from talk with the Yale coaches that changes would be made as often as necessary in the back field to meet the new formations which Harvard was expected to show.

The Yale News in an expert analysis of the teams today pointed out that the most important advantage that the blue has over the crimson was its great strength in a powerful line of veterans, which have been developed by a system of team work.

The same paper editorially warned the team that its chief weakness is over confidence.

EARLY RISERS.

At the Pequot House on the Morris Cove shore the Harvard players were up and out for an early morning walk before the white frost had gone. All the coaches made an early trip up town, announcing that there would be no line up or signal practice for the men until the field was reached just before the game. Trainer McMasters said his men were in fine spirits and were imbued with more confidence than yesterday due, he thought, to the color of the reports brought down from Yale.

In spite of the importance of the day the usual routine in Yale was not omitted and many of the visitors went to Chapel just after 8 o'clock and later had the freedom of the Yale buildings.

Between 9 and 2 o'clock the New Haven road had upwards of 40 special trains scheduled to arrive in addition to the regular trains from all directions, each of which was crowded. As the noon hour approached the streets became crowded, presenting the usual hurly burly which characterizes football day in New Haven.

Sandwich men parading the streets gave notice that there were seats on sale at the two Alumni Weekly offices and the supply was sufficient to keep down the premiums demanded by the speculators who were more in evidence as the hour for the game approached. At no previous game here in years were there so many tickets available at the last minutes as today and the explanation given was the extra 6,000 seats on the grand stands and the return of several hundred tickets from Cambridge augmented the supply almost to the limit of the demand.

SENATOR FAIRBANKS ARRIVES.

Senator Charles Warren Fairbanks, the vice president-elect and Mrs. Fairbanks, who were among the most notable of the spectators at the game, arrived shortly before noon and were immediately driven to the residence of Mr. H. Grant Thompson, on Whitney avenue, where a luncheon was served. Among the other guests were president and Mrs. Hadley who had with them, their own guest Mr. Gouverneur Calhoun of Georgia, Yale '91, Messrs. Richard and Robert Fairbanks, sons of the chief guests, Miss Jean Derrick of Rochester, N. Y., Professor and Mrs. Chittenden of the Sheffield scientific school and several other members of the Yale faculty and a number of prominent Yale men. After the luncheon an informal reception was held and later the party went to the game.

The crowd which had arrived by the noon hour was so large that it swarmed all over the Yale buildings, especially those of the tricentennial group, which had been thrown open. For the first time in local football history sandwiches and pies were sold from sidewalk stands, along Chapel street, and the eatables were eagerly snapped up by the latest arrivals. The price of vehicles for use to the field went up with a bound $25 being demanded for a hack in spite of the long string of cars.

SIGNAL PRACTICE.

Just before noon when the Yale players were assembled in the gymnasium, signal practice for ten minutes was gone through on the main floor in the presence of all the coaches. The Harvard squad left the Pequot house at 11.30 and came to the city, going to the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium to dress. At noon, field coach Rafferty for Yale and Coach Wrightington for Harvard announced the lineup, each making the qualifying statement that there might be changes at the last minute.

The lineup follows:

YALE		HARVARD
Shevlin lo		le Randall
Bloomer lt		lt Brill
Kinney lg		lg White
Roarback c		c Parker
Tripp rg		rg Squire
Hogan (Capt.) rt		rt Derby
Neal re		re Montgomery
Rockwell qb		qb Starr
Hoyt lhb		lhb Sperry
Morse rhb		rhb Hurley (Capt.)

Officials: Referee, Matthew McClung, Lehigh. Umpire—Paul Dashiel, Lehigh. Linesman J. C. McCracken, Penna. Time of halves, 35 minutes.

The stands began to fill up by 1 o'clock, Harvard being massed on the west side and having a band in the centre. The gridiron appeared to be somewhat softer than expected and considerable sawdust was sprinkled on bare spots in the turf to take up the moisture. While the crowd was swarming into the seats copies of Harvard and Yale songs were liberally distributed by ushers. The playing conditions when the game started were excellent, the wind blowing generally from the southeast or diagonally across the field.

The bands went into action at 1.30, Yale opening with "Bright College Years" and Harvard answering with "Up the Street." The cheer leaders took their stands fifteen minutes later and the uproar began in time to be turned into a greeting to Vice-President-elect Fairbanks as he took a seat on the Yale side.

The University of Pennsylvania team had seats on the Harvard side line benches and the Princeton team was on the opposite side. The teams were late in reaching the field above the crush of traffic on the street for a quarter of a mile outside the gates cityward.

THE GAME.

The Yale team came on the field at 2.07 and at once began running through signals. Harvard appeared three minutes later. Yale kicked off at 2.23 to Randall on the 15-yard line.

Randall advanced it 12 yards where Harvard's first attack on the line was a failure.

Randall attempted to circle the line but it was a loss of five yards and Sperry punted to Yale's 50-yard line where Rockwell ran it back seven yards. Hoyt went through for one yard and then Flynn took the ball to Harvard's 45-yard line. Then Morse made two more through Brill.

A heavy line attack netted one more and then Hogan added a couple. Morse went through Derby for six yards and the same player at the same spot got four more.

Flynn shaved left tackle for two yards and in a line play Yale placed the ball on the 27-yard line.

Morse made two yards through Derby.

Hogan fell down 18 yards from Harvard's goal and after measuring the referee gave Harvard the ball.

Harvard made four yards on two cross butts and then Sperry punted to Hoyt on Yale's 45-yard line. He was thrown out of bounds after running the ball back 14 yards.

Morse made two yards and Flynn eight more round the end. At this point there was a mix up among the players because the ball was stolen out of Roarback's hands on the lineup. Delay ensued while the captains discussed the matter.

Flynn made four yards through center.

Morse took the ball to Harvard's 25 yard line. Flynn made two yards through Derby. Morse made one. Flynn took it to the 16 yard line.

Flynn circled Harvard's left end but fumbled the ball on the ten yard line and Sperry picking it up carried it to Yale's 25 yard line where Hogan brought him down with a thud.

Brill made three yards through Tripp. An attempt around Shevlin's end met with a mix up in which the ball was fumbled but Harvard got it on Yale's 27 yard line.

Sperry punted on the first down to Yale's 42 yard line where Hoyt was downed in his tracks.

Hoyt punted to Starr on Harvard's 10 yard line. Starr made two yards on a quarter back run.

Hurley made seven yards through Bloomer. The same play repeated netted Harvard 3 more.

Tripp's jersey was torn from his back and there was a delay while he was fitted to another behind a shield on the side lines. The fierce attacks seem to affect both teams to a considerable extent.

In a cross butt Sperry went through a big hole in Yale's line but he fumbled the ball and it rolled to Tripp and Hogan who went down on it together on the 28 yard line.

Flynn made a yard outside Harvard's left tackle.

Morse made a first down on the next play and then Bloomer was lifted completely over the line to the 18 yard line. Morse barely made a cord on a line attack. Flynn made two yards through the centre and then Morse pulled by Rockwell took the ball to Harvard 5 yard line but Yale was penalized for holding and the ball went back to the 25 yard line.

Brill broke up the next play and then Hoyt dropped back to the 38 yard line and on a fake attempt at a field goal ran 5 yards round right end but he was thrown by Hurley and it was Harvard's ball on her own 32 yard line. Twice Harvard was thrown back on delayed passes for a loss of four yards.

The noticeable feature of the game thus far was the slowness in which the teams lined up before putting the ball in play. The crowds on the side lines were inclined to object to the delay. Sperry punted to Yale's 35 yard line and Flynn ran to middield where Hurley threw him. Morse made two yards around right end.

Flynn through the center got 3 more, Yale was given five yards for off side play. Morse made four yards outside right tackle.

There was delay here and the Harvard side sang and Yale replied accompanied by the band.

Shevlin circled Harvard's left for two yards.

Morse made four yards outside of Brill.

He then got two yards through the other side of the line and it was first down for Yale on Harvard's 31 yard line.

Shevlin again circling the line from his own position made two yards. Flynn got a yard through centre. Morse got a yard through centre and Brill was laid out, requiring attention from Trainer McArthur. He resumed and Hogan back of the line took the ball through Parker for 3 yards in one of the best rushes thus far.

Hogan went through Brill for two yards more and Yale was given four yards as penalty which put the ball on Harvard's 18-yard line.

Yale began short rushing and quickly got the ball to Harvard's 8-yard line almost in front of the goal post.

Hogan made a yard through Brill.

He then carried it to the 5-yard line and Flynn followed with the ball inside the 5-yard line.

There was a fumble on the snap back but Morse got it and Harvard was penalized inside the 5-yard line.

Hogan took the ball in the 1-yard line.

On the next rush Morse carried the ball over with only a few inches to spare.

Hoyt kicked the goal.

Score: Yale 6, Harvard 0.

In the last rush, Hogan got a severe gash across the forehead and bled profusely down his face.

Harvard kicked off to Shevlin at the 5-yard line, and he ran it to the Yale 38-yard line. Mills made a good tackle. Yale made no gain on the attack against center.

On a fake punt Flynn went through the line for five yards. Morse went over and shook hands with Matthews to show his friendly feeling while the Harvard stand yelled at Randall, apparently not liking the change.

Rockwell on a quarter back run took the ball t his own 53-yard line.

Hoyt punted to Starr on his own 15-yard line but the Yale ends were down the ball to his own 53-yard line.

Yale easily held Harvard's tandem attack and only one yard was gained on a similar play.

Sperry punted to Yale's 45-yard line where Starr tackled Hoyt from behind.

Parkinson went in at centre in place of Parker who went to left guard. Squires to right tackle and White took Squires' place at right guard.

Hogan went through the line for ten yards and Flynn added five and then Flynn fumbled and the ball went to Harvard on her own 33-yard line. Hurley at once fumbled and Shevlin got it on Harvard's 48-yard line. Yale got two yards on a tackles back and Shevlin two more on a circle behind his line. The half ended there with the ball on Harvard's 45-yard line.

The Harvard players ran off the field while the Yale team was taken to the South end of the field for a talking to by the coaches.

The half was slowly played and the only strong feature was the apparent inability of the Harvard line to stop Yale's rushes except when the ball was in close neighborhood of her goal posts. The play was almost entirely in Harvard's territory. Score first half: Yale 6; Harvard 0.

SECOND HALF.

There were no changes in either team when the second half was started at 3.38 with Harvard kicking off to Shevlin on Yale's five yard line. He ran it forward to the 25-yard line but fumbled the ball, a Yale man however getting it. Hoyt punted to Harvard's 50-yard line where a Harvard man in the first scrimmage fumbled the ball and Yale got it at mid-field.

Morse made four yards and then in a fierce attack with Kinney back the ball was placed on Harvard's 46 yard line. Morse was thrown back for a loss of two yards.

Hogan made a yard through Parkinson.

Hoyt punted out of bounds at the 20 yard line, Harvard being given the ball on her own 35-yard line.

Mills got through Bloomer for four yards. Brill made three more and Hurley three more, but he was pulled back for no gain by sheer weight of numbers against him.

Sperry punted to his own 20-yard line, where a Harvard man fell on it.

The ball was given to Yale.

A confab occurred at this point as it appeared as if Sperry's punt was partly blocked which made it anybody's ball.

Shevlin circled his line for a yard, where he was thrown by Matthews.

Morse went through Brill for four yards, helped by every Yale man, in a fine exhibition of team work.

Morse went outside of Brill for six yards and Flynn add the ball on Harvard's 32-yard line.

A delayed pass gave Yale two yards.

With Bloomer back, Flynn and Morse alternately brought the ball to the Harvard's 20 yard line.

Flynn made nine yards more through Parkinson.

Rockwell on a quarter back run made two yards. Flynn crowded through center for seven yards and then Bloomer placed the ball on Harvard's ten yard line almost in front of the post.

Flynn made three yards through the line and Morse one more while the Yale stands yelled "Touchdown".

Morse put the ball on the 3-yard line.

Morse made a foot on the next play.

It was Harvard's ball on her own 1-yard line, she having held Yale's tremendous attack.

Sperry kicked from behind his goal posts to Rockwell on Harvard's 40-yard line.

Matthews threw him. The ball was set back by the umpire to the 20-yard line for interference with the catch. Matthews having tackled Rockwell the instant before he received the ball.

It was Yale's ball and Hoyt made three yards.

Yale made another yard and then Harvard was given 15 yards as penalty for Yale's holding in the line.

Rockwell on a quarterback kick sent the ball to Starr on Harvard's 20-yard line.

Brill went through Roarback for five yards on a tackles back. On a fake play, Harvard lost the ball through a fumble on the 25-yard line.

Rockwell attempted a run after the snap back but although he worked his way half way across the field's breadth he was thrown out of bounds for a gain of only one yard.

In the next scrimmage Harvard held Yale on her 23-yard line.

Harvard held ofr downs at that point and two rushes gave her four yards for a touchdown.

Hurley got two yards on a fake tackles back.

Hurley got one more through Tripp. Harvard was penalized for off side and the ball was placed on her 25 yard line. She failed to gain on the rush.

On the rush Sperry dropped back to punt on the second. At this point the coaches sent Pratt in to take Matthews's place. The Harvard stands yelled "No" and Matthews stayed. Sperry punted from his own 15 yard line but it was blocked.

The punt was blocked by Kinney and Tripp and Bloomer got the ball on the four-yard line.

Two rushes by Flynn, Bloomer opening the way, took the ball over for Yale's second touchdown. Hoyt kicked the goal.

Score: Yale 12, Harvard 0.

Harvard kicked off to Shevlin at the five yard line and he ran it forward 25 yards.

Hoyt kicked on the second down to Starr at Harvard's 40 yard line and he ran it forward to mid-field where a second later in a quick line up, Harvard got five yards through Tripp and then two more through the same place.

Harvard failed by a few inches to make her distance on the next lay downs and then Yale found herself held on a line at the kick. The ball went back to Hoyt for a punt but he ran with it instead and was thrown for a loss to which was added a penalty for holding which put the ball on Yale's 20-yard line. Hoyt then punted to his own 50-yard line where it went to Harvard.

Sperry punted but it was blocked although the ball dribbled through the players to the 20-yard line where Harvard got it.

Brill fumbled the ball as the Harvard backs went through Yale's line and Harvard got it on the 28-yard line. It was Yale's ball on a quarter back kick on her 28-yard line.

Hoyt punted to Harvard's 45-yard line where Nichols got the ball. The same player got one yard in a try at Shevlin's end.

Nichols punted to Hoyt on Yale's 30-yard line and he ran it back five yards.

Rockwell punted to Starr on Harvard's 50-yard line. Shevlin was there and there was no gain for Starr when he attempted to run it back. Nichols went through for five yards and the ball was in mid-field.

Flynn went through Roarback for five yards. Noyes takes Starr's place at quarter back for Harvard.

Nichols punted over Yale's goal line, Rockwell letting it go until it was over although the temptation was strong to pick it up.

The ball was taken into the 25 yard line where Hoyt kicked to Mills to Yale's 55 yard line. Mills running it back 15 yards.

On a double pass Nichols lost seven yards. Neal having got through and downed him.

On the next pass back for a punt, the ball went over Nichol's head and he picked it up on his own 5-yard line and ran it back, when the game ended at 4.35. Final score Yale 12; Harvard 0.

CROWDS FROM BOSTON.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Between 8 and 9 o'clock today three special trains left Boston for New Haven, heavily loaded with passengers going to the Harvard-Yale football game. A large number had left on the regular night trains, but the usual crowd had waited for the day specials.

The tide of suburbanites flowing out of the big entrance during the early morning met a counter current of heavily clad, eager-faced individuals, and at 8 o'clock passage ways to the trains began to be choked with the throng. The first train left at 8.15. Fifteen minutes later the second train started, and a third pulled out at 8.46.

CLEVER PLAYING

Dartmouth Leads Brown 12 to 5

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Anxiety to efface the memory of last year's defeat of 62 to 6, produced a dogged determination on the part of the Brown football eleven to defeat Dartmouth in the annual contest between the rival colleges on the Huntington avenue baseball grounds in this city this afternoon.

The Dartmouth men on the other hand were prepared to do their hardest work of the season to crush their opponents by a decisive score. While the teams appeared very evenly matched, Dartmouth's record this fall has surpassed that of the Providence eleven. Dartmouth has not been defeated and her goal line has not been crossed, the only scores against her having been on goals from the field by Amherst and Holy Cross. Brown has been defeated by Amherst, Pennsylvania and Yale. Dartmouth also succeeded in playing Harvard to a standstill. Both teams were in excellent condition today and a close game was expected. Glaze, Dartmouth's right end, was hurt in the Amherst game and it was anticipated that Church would take his place in the Brown game. The weather today was excellent, the sky being clear and the atmosphere frosty.

The game was scheduled to begin at 2 o'clock and the lineup as announced before the game was as follows:

DARTMOUTH.		BROWN.
Lillard le		le Schwinn
Krady lt		lt Higgins
Gilman lg		lg Winslow
Farler c		c Colter
Clough rg		rg Fletcher
Gage rt		rt Webb (Capt.)
Church re		re Russ
Melvin qb		qb Schwartz
Patterson lhb		lhb Cobb
Vaughan rhb		rhb Walsh
Knibbs (Capt.) fb		fb Savage

Dartmouth scored in the first five minutes and kicked a goal.

Score—Dartmouth 6, Brown 0.

Gage scored the second touchdown for Dartmouth on an end rush. Vaughan kicked the goal.

Score—Dartmouth 12, Brown 0.

Brown rushed the ball to Dartmouth's 5-yard line, but was sent back 20 yards for holding.

A try for the goal in the field failed. Brown tried for another goal from placement from the 45-yard line and failed. Dartmouth fumbled.

Rush for Brown carried the ball over for a touchdown. No trial for goal.

Score Dartmouth 12, Brown 5.

End of first half.

BIG BUNCO GAME

Defeating the Police of Two Countries

A few months ago a Mr. Power of this city received a letter from one Luis Rodriguez Power who was languishing in jail in old Madrid. Since that time letters of a similar nature have been received in this and other cities. The police of two countries are trying to undermine or ferret out what they believe to be a bunco game of unusual magnitude.

It is believed that this well organized gang of swindlers have representatives, galore, in the United States and Europe and the police are almost frantic in their efforts to "get next."

The following story, relative to the game of the Spanish swindlers, is from the Philadelphia Telegraph of Thursday:

If Mr. William J. Benners, the well-known author, of Wayne, Pa., will kindly furnish the necessary funds (amount not specified but ample) to Senor Antonio Masden, of Madrid, he will speedily become possessed of about $400,000 in cash and a beautiful ward in the person of a dark-eyed Spanish beauty, who is an orphan. Mr. Benners has not bitten, but instead will permit some other of the lovely Castilian's numerous relatives to get next.

It is an attractive bunco game and no cold-blooded American with designs on the pocketbooks of his fellow-man would have thought of working the lovely daughter game into his plans. The Don, however, like all of his kind is romantic and couldn't even relieve a gentleman of his surplus change without playing upon his heartstrings.

FROM A DONJON KEEP.

Mr. Benners received a lengthy letter last September from one Luis Rodriguez "Benners," who languished in jail in old Madrid, mourning the fact that his charming daughter was without his protection and that his "baggage" had been seized. According to his plaint there is a secret compartment in one of his grips that contains the fortune. But he mourned most for the black-eyed one. He would enrich his dear "Americano" cousin, whom he had never seen, but whom he loved just the same, and depend upon him to care for the black eyes.

Mr. Benners concluded that his interest in literature warranted his getting the details. They might give him the nucleus of a new novel. So he replied to the imprisoned parent of the senorita and received a reply about a column long, written in long-hand.

Don Luis, inspired by the nibble, shed ink by the quart and told the story of his life in the ensuing correspondence. The Senor Masden, acting as intermediary, and Senor Benners pleaded with his noble American kinsman to take and care for his child and to get the luggage, and keep the four hundred thou. Also to be generous with the damsel.

DON LUIS' SUDDEN DEATH.

Mr. Benners, of Wayne, showed symptoms of going to Spain. The result was a "personal" letter from Senor Masden, which was full of tears and lamentations, and told of the death of the dear Senor Luis, and asking for funds with which to get the luggage and provide transportation for himself and the bereaved maiden from Madrid to Wayne, Pa.

The "personal" letter was a mimeograph copy with Mr. Benners' name filled in on the typewriter.

Just how many "relatives" the enterprising Senor Luis has succeeded in working for coin or the strength of the fortune and the fairy who goes with it like an animated trading stamp is not known.

JIM PROKOS WON

James Prokos, the young Greek wrestler of this city threw Wilfred Barrette, the French athlete in a catch-as-catch-can wrestling match at the Boston Theatre, this afternoon in 1 minute 2 seconds.

The theatre was packed to the doors with the Greek and French followers of the two gladiators and excitement reigned supreme.

There was some dispute over the relation of a referee, Charlie Jackson being objected to, and young Plurde, a local wrestler, was agreed upon. The two men went at each other roughhouse style and Prokos soon demonstrated his superiority.

Prokos was to have appeared against all comers at the Boston this week, but a nose bleed made him abandon the job, though he agreed to return and meet Barrette today.

LOCKED IN ROOM

Young Married Woman Had a Rough Experience

Went to Man's Room for Clothing and He Locked Her in—Judge Hadley Dealt Severely With Her Assailant—Boarding House Keeper Said Woman Choked Him

Joseph J. Grooms was arraigned in police court today and pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging him with assault and battery on Georgiana Rivers, a young married woman. Mrs. Rivers wore a badly discolored eye and her story to the court was substantially as follows:

"He came to our house about noon time and he bought some beer and some whiskey. I drank three glasses of beer. He asked my mother if she would mend his clothing and I went with him to the Moody house to get them. As soon as I entered the room he locked the door and refused to let me out. I screeched and hollered "Murder" but he held me there. He insulted me and assaulted me. I have known him for a good many years and I did not know that he was a bad man. I was in the room for one hour and I continued to holler all the time that I was there. No one came to my assistance. I did not drink any whiskey while I was in his room."

Grooms said that the woman did not tell the truth. He said that she did not go to his room to get his clothing. He alleged that he had made an appointment with her. He admitted, however, that he struck her in the eye but said it was an accident. Grooms' story was a miserable one. Judge Hadley was disgusted with the man and branded the story as the vilest ever told in the local police court. Grooms was sentenced to the house of correction for a term of six months. He appealed and was ordered in $500 for the superior court.

KNOCKED HIM DOWN.

Elvork Babbigan, who conducts a boarding and lodging house in John street, complained to the police a few days ago that he had been assaulted by Eli Gagnon and Marie Lessard. He said that he called at the woman's room to quell a disturbance and that the woman assaulted him. "She choked my throat," he said, "and knocked me down. Then the man hit me in the face and head with his fist."

Marie Louise said she wasn't strong enough to choke anybody. She said that the complainant was mad at her because she refused to kiss him when she roomed at the house before. She showed a cut on her hand that she said was made by a knife in the hands of the complainant's son. The defendants in the case were fined $10 each.

ARRESTED WRONG MAN.

Things were a bit embarrassing for Special Officer Allen who sees to it that everything is peaceful at the Collinsville mills. He had a warrant for one Faris Talar, and the man he produced was not the man mentioned in the warrant. In order to give the special officer time to straighten matters out the case was continued for one week.

THE DRUNKEN OFFENDERS.

Thomas F. Gagnon said he was not drunk when arrested. "I'll tell you the whole thing," he said to the court, "and then it will be up to you." He said he had taken a few drinks during the afternoon and that when the officer called at his house at 11.20 last evening he was reading. "I was quiet as a lamb," he said. The officer, however, told a different story. He said that Thomas had the house in an uproar and that his family had tired of his abuse. He was sentenced to the state farm and appealed. Four first offenders were fined $2 each.

IN SHANTY FIRE

Tools and Clothing Completely Destroyed

WATCHMAN SAVED THE EXPLOSIVES

Street and Sewer Departments Will Work Sunday

Upon learning of the fire that destroyed the tool shed of the sewer department at the Stromquist avenue job Supt. Farnham immediately sent a requisition to Purchasing Agent Donnelly for sufficient lumber to construct a new shanty and the work was begun at once as a shanty is necessary for the storing of tools, etc., as well as for a place where the employes may eat their dinner.

The sewer department lost quite a lot of valuable tools in the fire, which raged so furiously that nothing could be saved. Much clothing was also lost, including a new $20 overcoat owned by a watchman employed by the railroad.

Since the work of putting the sewer under the tracks was undertaken the railroad has had two watchmen at the place to warn trains and make them proceed with caution over the spot. Signalling at night is done by means of rockets and the night watchman had a quantity of these rockets in a tin box in the tool house. As soon as the watchman discovered the flames he rushed into the burning shanty and removed the box of rockets but the heat was so intense that he was forced to leave before he could get his new overcoat.

DEPARTMENTS WORK SUNDAY.

Both street and sewer departments will work 10 hours per day, seven days a week until the Aiken street bridge and Stromquist avenue sewers are finished. Speaking of those two jobs Supt. Farnham said to a reporter of The Sun today: "We are having great luck on both of these jobs for the Lord is certainly with us as regards weather.

"We will almost finish the Stromquist ave. job before the cold weather sets in and in order to do it we will work while there is daylight, Sundays and all. Tomorrow we will finish the work of laying the sewer pipe under the railroad track, a difficult and dangerous operation. The Aiken street bridge job is moving right along to completion and all except the lumpers will work on it all day tomorrow. We will give the public not only practically a new bridge but one of the best and strongest bridges in New England for the work we are doing will last for 20 years."

GETTING NERVOUS

JUDGE PICKMAN INQUIRES ABOUT MOTH APPROPRIATION.

On October 25th Mayor Howe sent a communication to the city council enclosing a letter from the park commission relative to the extermination of the brown tail moth, his honor recommending an appropriation of $500 to be used by the commission, the matter being reported in The Sun at that time. The matter came up in the board of aldermen in due time and was referred to the appropriations committee and sent down to the common council for concurrent action. But the council has never taken the matter up, and it now lies forgotten among the papers of the common council. Yesterday Judge Pickman telephoned to the mayor's office to learn what had become of the communication. He was somewhat reassured upon learning that the matter was not dead but sleeping.

DAVID NEAL

DISTINGUISHED ARTIST WILL PAINT DAVIS PORTRAITS.

The John Davis estate has now been fully settled, and there is something like $115,000 available for the public library. It is the desire of the trustees to have portraits painted of Mr. and Mrs. Davis, to be hung in the library in their memory, and to have the work done by a distinguished artist who was born in Lowell. Mr. David Neal. A letter was recently received from Mr. Neal, written in Munich, Bavaria, in which the artist said that he would be very glad to undertake the work, and would come to Lowell for the purpose if the commission were given to him. The only problem confronting the trustees is the fact that there are few available photographs of either Mr. or Mrs. Davis, and the task of painting a portrait would be a difficult one.

MRS. CALLAHAN'S RECITAL.

The pupils of Mrs. Carrie Miles Callahan gave a delightful musicale at her home, 10 Walker street, last night. Many guests attended the pretty affair and the house in which the gathering took place was charmingly dressed with clinging vines and potted plants. Arbor Villa was the centre of the pretty decorative scheme.

Assisting Mrs. Callahan were Mr. Arthur Booth, autoharp soloist; Mr. Horace Bancroft, 'cellist, and Miss Belle Pegane, accompanist. Many little duets in music were given by the various instrumentalists and singers, and the affair was fascinating in every way.

The program consisted of the following numbers: Piano solo (a) "On the Meadows," (b) "Masses in the Cold Ground," Miss Martha Jones; song, "My Dream of You," Miss Ethel Jones; 'cello solo, Mr. Horace Bancroft; piano solo (a), "Hoffs Dream," (b) "Birds and Blossoms," Miss Beatrice Callahan; song, "Angels Serenade," Miss Mabel Nickerson, with violin obligato by Miss Flint Frisbie; autoharp solo, Mr. Arthur Booth, vocal solo, "Song of the Lighthouse, D.B." Mr. Frank Lucy, piano solo, "Fifth Nocturne (Leybach), Mr. William Smith; song and air solo, "Chanter de Arc," Miss Mabel Nickerson; 'cello solo, Mr. Bancroft, song, "Beneath Summer Skies," Miss Ethel Crosbie; song, "Tapping Revelly," Mr. Horace R. Hanson, and autoharp solo Mr. Booth.

Following the musicale, light refreshments were served.

BRITISH CRUISER SAILS.

SIMONSTOWN, Cape Colony, Nov. 19. The British cruiser Diadem sailed from here today.

It is believed her destination is Walfish Bay on the west coast of German South West Africa, and that her object is to watch the approaching division of the Russian second Pacific squadron

BILLY LADUE WON

Threw Little in Less Than 10 Minutes

William F. Ladue, the wrestler regained some of his lost laurels, last evening by throwing J. Little of Brockton in 9 minutes, 40 seconds, in a very pretty and interesting exhibition that was on the level. The bout took place at the Boston theatre and Little was to stay 15 minutes. He appeared as clever as Ladue but was out of shape while Ladue was in the pink of condition. Joe Haynes was referee and Charlie Jackson of Brockton, James Prokos, Nelson Desmarais, Lake Walsh and a number of other wrestlers were in the wings and after the bout they were entertained with a lively war of words between Ladue and Jackson during which Ladue pushed his fist into Jackson's face and threatened to lick him. But it was only talk.

Manager Tibbitts has taken Ladue in charge and wants to match him against Jackson.

DANGEROUSLY ILL

GERMAN CONSUL GENERAL HAD APPENDICITIS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Charl Buenz, the German consul general at this port, is dangerously ill.

Five weeks ago he was operated on for a appendicitis. Following this came an attack of pneumonia. He rallied but another relapse has occurred and the consul general is now reported to be in a serious condition.

SENATOR COCKRELL

MAY BE APPOINTED ON PANAMA CANAL COMMISSION.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—While no announcement yet has been made regarding the president's action in the selection of the man to succeed Col. Frank J. Hecker on the ithmian canal commission, it is known that he is considering seriously the appointment of Senator F. M. Cockrell of Missouri to the vacancy. It is intimated that Senator Cockrell himself practically will have the determination of the matter. If his health will permit him to undertake the arduous work of the commission, it is reasonably certain that he can have the appointment.

FIRE IN A STORE

Corner of Cross and Willie Streets

INCIPIENT BLAZE AT FRANKLIN SCHOOL

False Alarm By Telephone Fooled Chief Hosmer

An alarm from box 39 at 3.40 o'clock this morning summoned a portion of the fire department to a lively blaze in a grocery store conducted by Arthur Cayer at the corner of Cross and Willie streets.

The fire started in some unaccountable manner under the counter as the owner can give no reason how it started. The only thing which was under the counter where the fire started was a bag of flour, some clothes pins, and a few small grocery articles, the matches being located quite a distance away from where the fire started.

Mr. Cayer informed Chief Hosmer that when he closed the store at 8.30 o'clock last night he smelled smoke, but an investigation failed to show that there was any fire. He also denied that he threw a match under the counter, stating that he always threw the burned ones in the stove.

A pet cat which was sleeping in the store was suffocated by the smoke.

The stock and fixtures were insured through the agency of F. M. Brogan. T. C. Lee & Co. had the insurance on the building.

INCIPIENT BLAZE

AT FRANKLIN SCHOOL EXTINGUISHED WITHOUT AN ALARM.

Yesterday while the Franklin school in Branch street was in session a slight fire broke out in the boiler room. The janitor had left a piece of oily waste on a motor in the basement, and the motor generating sufficient heat to set it afire started the blaze.

One of the teachers detected the odor of smoke and while she sent one of the pupils out to the Branch street engine house nearby to notify the firemen, the other teachers in the building were notified and the pupils were put through the fire drill, the entire school being vacated in a few minutes.

The fire was of a trivial nature and was put out by a few dashes from the extinguisher.

FALSE ALARM GIVEN.

A false alarm was sent into the central station at 8.48 last night, evidently by a person who thought he was funny, but as Chief Hosmer has a clue to the identity of the individual, the latter unless he can explain his action may find himself in a serious difficulty.

The person telephoned word to Chief Hosmer that there was a fire at the corner of Paige and John streets and the chief in turn sent several pieces of apparatus from the central fire station to the scene of the supposed fire.

When the apparatus arrived there was no sign of a fire and no one seemed to know anything about an alarm having been sent in.

BOY APPEALED

HE WAS FINED FOR THROWING STONES.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 19.—The continued case of John Vine, jr., the sixteen year old boy, arrested last Wednesday evening for throwing stones at operatives leaving the Sagamore mills was heard before Judge McDonough in the district court this morning. Vine was found guilty and fined $25. An appeal was entered.

O'DONOVAN ROSSA

GIVEN GREAT RECEPTION BY IRISH PEOPLE.

QUEENSTOWN, Ireland, Nov. 19.—A numerous deputation, accompanied by a band, went out on a tender to meet O'Donovan Rossa, who arrived here today from New York November 12. The deputation escorted Mr. Rossa ashore. His entry into Cork Sunday will be the occasion of a great demonstration and his stay in Ireland is expected to be marked by considerable political activity.

PERSONALS

Berl M. Tuttle of 28 June street left Lowell this morning for Goldsboro, N. C., where he has accepted a position with his brother, who is in the plumbing and steamfitting business.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dunn had their first at home last evening at their home in Haines avenue, and entertained about 75 guests. Refreshments were served during the evening and many of those present enjoyed dancing.

POLITICAL FIELD

Lively Contests on Both Sides for Nomination

Mayor Howe opened headquarters last evening in the store at 60 Central street, with entrances on Central and Prescott streets.

The gathering was a most enthusiastic one, the speakers being Representative William E. Westall, L. P. Turcotte, E. W. Lachance, E. A. Wilson, Dr. Downs, Representative Rolfe Bradbury, Charles Copeland, William Hardy, George Spence, E. S. Houle, James Birtwell, Fred Horne, Loren Foss, Ed. Salmon and Charles Gale.

Mr. Walter Coburn presided, and, after appealing to the voters present to do their utmost for the candidate between now and Tuesday, the mayor himself thanked those present for their friendship and loyalty, and the meeting adjourned after giving three rousing cheers and an enthusiastic tiger for the Hon. Charles E. Howe.

The many supporters of Thomas E. Smith are confident that he will be one of the three lucky ones in ward two council fight on caucus night. "Tom Ed" is a hustler and is putting up a lively canvass.

The registration for last night was fairly good, and was given out by wards as follows: Ward one, five; ward two, six; ward three, four; ward four, four; ward five, five; ward six, four; ward seven, three; ward eight four, and ward nine, three; total 38.

The supporters of James B. Casey held a rousing rally in the Lyon street school basement last evening, several hundred attending. Prior to the rally the Fifth Regiment drum corps paraded the principal streets and marched to the hall.

The rally was presided over by Patrick B. McHugh, who made a graceful 10-minute speech in favor of Mr. Casey, after which remarks were made by John H. Meehan, Dennis Healy and John R. Shea. Mr. Casey spoke at length.

Hector Lavallee of L'Etoile has been employed by the republican city committee to look up candidates for naturalization and registration in precinct 1 of ward 7. Hector nightly makes a house to house canvass in Little Canada.

Cyrille Constantineau has broken into the political game again and is hustling for the republican city committee in ward seven.

Jeremiah Daly, the popular member of the Knights of Columbus and other organizations, is a ward two candidate for the common council who is looked upon as one of the strongest.

John J. Connors, the popular clerk for Richard H. Casey of Suffolk street, is looked upon by his friends as one of the sure winners in ward two, for the common council. They account him as a progressive, upright, temperate and intelligent young man, amply qualified to represent the ward with credit.

The friends of Councilman Michael Quinn point to the improvements at the Mann school, notably the establishment of the drinking fountain as among the reasons why he should be renominated.

Ralph H. Cullinan is looked upon as one of the winners in the ward four council fight. He has been a hustler for others in the ward for years and his friends now believe that all will rally to his support and land him among the winners. He says if he goes to the council he will favor the White lot as a site for the new Huntington hall. He believes it is a grand location.

The town clerks of the 25th and 27th districts met with City Clerk Dadman, yesterday afternoon to officially canvass and declare the election returns. All the town clerks were present except Mr. Upton of North Reading who was ill.

The returns were certified to as follows: 25th district total votes: Bradbury, 2505; Burgess, 183; Folsom, 170; Gormley, 2501; Hayes, 2019; Hilton, 3016; McMannmon, 2773; Sheehan, 2147; Blanks, 2011.

27th district: Conley, 2068; Murphy, 2058; Stevens, 2360; Mansall, 2221; Blanks, 1796.

VIOLENT DEATHS

Husband and Wife Were Murdered

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 19.—The dead bodies of John Hanly, a fisherman, and his wife have been found in their cabin at Horn Lake Pass, a desolate region 20 miles south of Memphis. Gunshot and other wounds on their bodies and two bloody axes near by testified to the violence of their deaths.

A young baby was discovered barely alive, though uninjured, under a pile of bed clothing. The cabin had been ransacked for valuables, which Hanly was reputed to have stored away.

ONLY ONE POINT

IN DISPUTE BETWEEN RUSSIA AND GREAT BRITAIN.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 19—The negotiations on the subject of the Anglo-Russo convention are practically concluded. Only one, small, minor point remains to be settled and that is of such slight importance that foreign minister Lamsdorff and Ambassador Hardinge this afternoon will discuss the question as to how and where the signatures are to be changed. In substance, the change in the language regarding the determination of responsibility by the international commission will make the convention provide for the location of any blame which is found to exist upon any person of Russian, British or foreign nationality.

MEDICAL EXPERTS

MUST EMPLOY ASSISTANTS WHO PASS EXAMINATION.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—The civil commission of Greater New York has ruled that the experts, appointed last year by the city authorities to investigate pneumonia and its causes, cannot employ assistants in other cities unless the physicians so employed first come to New York and undergo a municipal civil service examination.

The ruling has surprised the expert commission which comprises some of the most distinguished medical men in the country. It is made up of Professors Wm. Osler and Wm. H. Walsh of Johns Hopkins university; Edward G. Duneway of New York university; T. Mitchell Pruden and L. Emmett Holt of the college of physicians and surgeons; Frank Billings of Rush medical college, Chicago; John M. Musser, of the university of Pennsylvania, and Theobald Smith of Harvard.

To pay the expenses of the commissions' work the board of estimate made an appropriation of $10,000 to assist them in their researches. The members of the commission asked leave to appoint without competitive examinations physicians of Baltimore, Philadelphia and Boston to collect data, statistics and other material of value to them from those centres of population. It was proposed to pay these physicians $100 a month. The civil service commission has now refused the request, though the services of the physicians would be of an occasional and expert character.

BOER SOLDIERS

WANT TO REMAIN IN THIS COUNTRY.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 19.—Depositions are being taken by the local immigration officers of the British and Boer soldiers of the Boer war company at the World's Fair.

According to the immigration laws of the United States these men must return to their respective countries at the expiration of the World's Fair as they were brought here by contract for public purposes of exhibition. About 400 members of the troupe are involved. In order to remain in this country, as they have expressed a desire, they will be compelled to file new applications, which practically means the seeking of renewed admission to this country through an interior port.

STANDARD OIL

Will be Put on the Rack

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 19.—The department of commerce and labor will investigate the Standard Oil company just as it has been investigating the beef trust. This action has been decided upon after repeated conferences between President Roosevelt and Commissioner Garfield. It is the disposition of the president to avoid any sensational methods in making the inquiry into the business practices of this famous monopoly. At present no effort will be made to bring it into any of the federal courts to answer charges of violating the laws governing restraint of interstate commerce. The investigators of the department of commerce will quietly take up the various phases of the oil industry, beginning with the wells, leading up to the refineries and following to the methods of distribution, both in the United States and in foreign countries. They will take up the reports concerning the Standard Oil's control of independent companies. The investigation will not be completed before congress adjourns next March and Roosevelt begins his new administration.

ARTHUR M. BURTT

TENDERED A RECEPTION BY WASHINGTON FRIENDS.

The Washington Evening Star of November 11 had the following:

"The Washington Architectural club held its opening reception of the year in its new club rooms, 1329 F street, last night. An exhibition of the sketches made during the summer occupied the walls of the main room. A short business meeting was held and eight new members were elected making the total membership 109.

The club took occasion to express its regret at the departure of its secretary, Mr. Arthur M. Burtt, for his new position as architect for the Panama canal commission, at Ancon Hill, Canal Zone, Isthmus of Panama. Entertainment was furnished by the musical members of the club, Mr. Burtt contributing a number of songs. Mr. Wolfstetter and Mr. Atkinson gave piano solos, and Mr. Matthews also entertained with songs. The rooms were crowded throughout the evening and refreshments were served.

Among the sketches exhibited were a number of water colors by the late J. Wells Champney of New York, sent by Mr. Harry Pratt. It was decided that the club should attend in a body the annual exhibition of the Baltimore Architectural club, which will be held December 10, at Peabody Institute.

Mr. Burtt is a son of Charles H. Burtt of this city.

ARCHBISHOP CHAPPELLE

MAY BE RELIEVED OF DUTIES AS APOSTOLIC DELEGATE.

ROME, Nov. 19.—Partly to satisfy the wishes of Archbishop Chappelle of New Orleans, the apostolic delegate for Cuba and Porto Rico, and partly because of complaints received from the archdiocese of New Orleans owing to his unavoidable absences the Vatican may soon relieve the archbishop from the apostolic delegation in the Antilles in order that he may devote his entire time to his archdiocese.

It is considered that most probably Mgr. Diedrich, auxiliary bishop of Detroit, will not return to Cuba.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 19. A proposal to establish woman suffrage will be submitted to the diet. The petition will claim that Finnish women are fully competent to enjoy the franchise the equitable law of the Grand Duchy now providing that women shall vote on the same terms as men.

SCHOONER LAUNCHED.

BATH, Me., Nov. 19. The four-masted schooner John Dossett, built for Louis Dossett & Co., New York, lumber dealers, was launched today by Kelly, Spear & Co. The christening was by Miss Jennie D. Dossett, daughter of one of the owners. The dimensions are: Length over all, 265 feet, beam 50 feet, depth 19.8.

The gross tonnage is 3,661. The schooner was built for the lumber trade with a capacity of 4,000 M, in a duplicate of the Lord Dossett, built here last June. The vessel will be commanded by Capt. H. H. Smith of Deer Isle, Maine

STATUE UNVEILED

Impressive Exercises Held in Washington Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Hailed by a military blare of twenty trumpets, whose prolonged note of welcome rang out sharp on the crisp November air and was echoed far down the Potomac, the bronze statue of Frederick the Great, presented to the American people by Emperor William, was unveiled this afternoon by the Baroness Speck-von-Sternburg, the wife of the German ambassador. This beautiful American woman was the central figure in an elaborate ceremony, which was marked by great military and official display. The statue was presented on behalf of the emperor by his personal envoy, the German ambassador, who made a brief address. The president made the chief address of the day and accepted the gift on behalf of the American people. Remarks were made by Lieut.-Gen. Chaffee, chief of staff; Major-General Gillespie of the general staff, master of ceremonies; Lieut.-General Von Loewenfeld, one of the special commissioners sent to the unveiling by the emperor; and Charlemagne Tower, American ambassador to Germany.

BRILLIANT ASSEMBLAGE.

Seldom has the national capital witnessed a more brilliant and distinguished assemblage than was gathered on the grand esplanade of the Army War college around the pedestal of the statue. Immediately back of the statue on the president's stand, which was completely covered in red, white and blue bunting and decorated with American flags, sat the president and his cabinet, the German ambassador and the Baroness Speck-von-Sternburg, Lieut.-General Von Loewenfeld, and Major Count Von Schmettow, the emperor's special commissioners to the unveiling, and the entire diplomatic corps, all in full uniform. On stands to the right and left of the statue were officers of the army and navy in full dress uniform, the members of the supreme court, members of congress and other invited guests. Directly in front of the pedestal of the statue were grouped the members of the German societies from various parts of the country who came to Washington for the ceremony.

Within the gates of the Army War college along the line of march to the esplanade were stationed the troops in attendance.

ALIVE WITH TROOPS.

Early in the day Washington was alive with marching troops and before noon mounted policemen gathered along the line of march. By one o'clock Pennsylvania avenue contained a steady stream of carriages filled with diplomats and army and navy officers whose brilliant uniforms excited general attention and were the signal for the gathering of the crowds along the approaches to the War college. The president's flag was taken from the White House in the forenoon and placed in the custody of the commander of the Washington barracks ready to be raised the moment the president's carriage was announced at the outer gates of the post.

The diplomats, with the exception of the German ambassador and his staff, drove informally to the esplanade to await the arrival of the official party, which came in three groups. They arrived in inverse order of rank, the military group first, then the diplomatic group and lastly the presidential group, each under escort of a troop of cavalry.

Promptly at one o'clock troop B, 7th cavalry, reported to Capt. Grote Hutcheson, general staff, for duty as escort to Lieutenant General Von Loewenfeld, adjutant general to the German emperor. From the lieutenant general's apartments the cavalcade moved at a rapid trot. The order of carriages was: First, Lieutenant General Von Loewenfeld and Lieutenant General Chaffee with their aides, Captain Dickman and Capt. Hutcheson; second, Major Count Von Schmettow and Major Duvall; third, Brigadier General Grant and Capt. Gallagher; fourth, Major Von Etzel, military attache of the German embassy and Major Goethals; fifth, Mrs. Chaffee, Miss Chaffee, and Mrs. Hutcheson; sixth, Mrs. Gillespie and Mrs. Grant, and seventh, Mrs. Bromwell and Mrs. Winslow.

AMBASSADORIAL PARTY.

Ten minutes later, escorted by troop D, 7th cavalry, the ambassadorial party left the German embassy for the barracks. The personnel of this party and the order of their carriages was: First, the ambassador and Major Gen. Gillespie with their aides, Lieut. Martin and Captain Alvord; second, the Baroness Speck-von-Sternburg, mother, Mrs. Langham and her sister, Miss Langham escorted by Colonel Allen; third, the Baron von dem Bussche-Haddenhausen and Mr. Scheller-Steinwartz and their aide, Col. Sharpe; fourth, Commander and Mrs. Hebbingaus and Lieutenant Col. Kerr; fifth, Mr. Von Verdy du Vernois and Mr. Diedrich, with Capt. Nolan.

PRESIDENT'S ESCORT.

To troop A, 7th cavalry, fell the honor of escorting the presidential party, which moved at a rapid trot down Pennsylvania avenue and along the route followed by the preceding cavalcades. The presidential party left the White House in carriages at two o'clock in the following order: The president, the secretary to president, and the president's aides, Col. Bromwell and Commander Winslow; Mrs. Roosevelt and Major McCawley; the secretary of state; the secretary of the treasury; the attorney general; the postmaster general; the secretary of the navy; the secretary of the interior; the secretary of agriculture; the secretary of commerce and labor; the acting secretary of war and his aide, Brigadier General Story; and Mrs. Oliver and the Misses Oliver escorted by Capt. Michie.

As each party started, the escorting troop formed in line and rendered appropriate honors.

Formed in lines to the west of the old main road through the Washington barracks were all of the foot troops participating in the ceremonies. Two batteries of field artillery were stationed in south battery of the post and, upon the arrival at the gates of the several groups, fired the prescribed salute, Lieutenant Gen. von Loewenfeld, receiving 15 guns; the German ambassador, nineteen guns; and the president, twenty-one guns. As each group passed in front of the line of foot troops the prescribed honors were rendered. As soon as the presidential group passed down the line the troops moved promptly directly in front of the president's stand, forming the fourth side of the square enclosing the statue.

The firing of the president's salutet of 21 guns had barely finished when his carriage reached the west stairway of the war college terrace. The entire assemblage arose as he ascended the grand esplanade and remained standing until Master of Ceremonies Major General Gillespie, had escorted him to his seat in the front row of the president's stand and directly to the right of the statue. The president's flag had been hoisted over the stand as soon as the first gun of his salute had boomed forth. It was lowered as the president left and was returned to the White House in the custody of his escorting troop of cavalry.

THE PROGRAM.

The official program began with the invocation by the Rt. Rev. Dr. Satterlee, the bishop of Washington. Major General Gillespie then addressed the ambassador.

STATUE UNVEILED.

As he closed his address, Maj. Gen. Gillespie turned to the ambassadress and, offering her his arm, escorted her to the edge of the statue where were fastened the silken cords attached to the American and German flags in which it was shrouded. Gripping the cords firmly, one in each hand, the ambassadress had but to give one tug before the silken folds loosened from around the figure of Frederick the Great. Straightway twenty trumpeters of the army, drawn up in front of the president's stand, sounded a military blare of welcome—one prolonged note—and as the flags slowly parted, the American to the right and the German to the left, the Marine band struck up the German National Anthem. Instead of falling to the pedestal the flags, by an ingenious device, were hoisted to the top of flag poles on either side of the statue and unfurled to the breeze amid the inspiring melody of the German hymn. The ambassadress was gowned in gray velvet and wore a hat of chinchilla.

Lieutenant General von Loewenfeld was then presented by the master of ceremonies and, as the special commissioners of the German emperor, transferred the statue to the custody of his majesty's personal envoy, Baron Sternburg, the German ambassador.

Baron Sternburg, the German ambassador, presented a striking appearance in his sky blue uniform with silver trimmings and high boots and wearing the tartar cap of ermine adorned in front with a white aigrette. He was introduced by Maj. Gen. Gillespie and, accepting the custody of the statue, from the special commissioner, formally presented the gift, on behalf of the emperor, to the American people through their president, whom the ambassador addressed.

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

A most enthusiastic greeting was given the president as he arose and advanced to the edge of the stand to deliver his address of acceptance. The president's address follows:

Mr. Ambassador:

Through you I wish on behalf of the people of the United States to thank His Majesty the German Emperor, and the people of Germany for the gift to the nation which you have just formally delivered to me. I accept it with deep appreciation of the friendly regard which it typifies for the people of this republic both on the part of the emperor and on the part of the German people. I accept it not merely as the statue of one of the half dozen greatest soldiers of all time, and therefore peculiarly appropriate for placing in this War College, but I accept it as the statue of a great man, whose life was devoted to the service of a great people, and whose deeds hastened the approach of the day when a united Germany should spring into being.

As a soldier Frederick the Great ranks in that very, very small group which includes Alexander, Caesar, and Hannibal in antiquity, and Napoleon, and possibly Gustavous Adolphus, in modern times. He belonged to the ancient and illustrious house of Hohenzollern, which after playing a strong and virile part in the middle ages, and after producing some men, like the great Elector, who were among the most famous princes of their time, founded the royal house of Prussia two centuries ago, and at last in our own day established the mighty German Empire as among the foremost of world powers. We receive this gift now at the hands of the present Emperor, himself a man who has markedly added to the luster of his great house and his great nation, a man who has devoted his life to the welfare of his people, and who, while keeping ever ready to defend the rights of that people, has also made it evident in emphatic fashion that he and they desire peace and friendship with the other nations of the earth.

FREDERICK TRIUMPHED.

It is not my purpose here to discuss at length the career of the mighty King and mighty General whose statue we have just received. In all history no other great commander save only Hannibal fought so long against such terrible odds, and while Hannibal finally failed, Frederick finally triumphed. In almost every battle he fought against great odds, and he almost always won the victory. When defeated he rose to an even greater altitude than when victorious. The memory of the Seven Years' war will last as long as their lives in mankind the love of heroism, and its operations will be studied to the minutest detail as long as the world sees a soldier worthy of the name. It is difficult to know whether to admire most the victories of Leuthen and Prague, Rossbach and Zorndorf, or the heart-breaking campaigns after Kunersdorf, when the great King, after having been beaten to the ground by the banded might of Europe, yet rose again and by an exhibition of skill, tenacity, energy, and daring such as had never before been seen united in one person, finally wrested triumph from defeat. Not only must the military scholar always turn to the career of Frederick the Great for lessons in strategy and tactics; not only must the military administrator always turn to his career for lessons in organizing success; not only will the lover of heroism read the tales of his mighty feats as long as mankind cares for heroic deeds; but even those who are not attracted by the valor of the soldier must yet, for the sake of the greatness of the man, ponder and admire the lessons taught by his undaunted resolution, his inflexible tenacity of purpose, his farsighted grasp of lofty possibilities, and his unflinching, unyielding determination in following the path he had marked out. It is eminently fitting that the statue of this iron soldier, this born leader of men, should find a place in this War College; for when soldierly genius and heroism reach the highest point of achievement the man in whom they are displayed grows to belong not merely to the nation from which he sprang, but to all nations capable of showing, and therefore capable of appreciating, the virile and masterful virtues which alone make victors in those dread struggles where resort is at last had to the arbitrament of arms.

SYMBOL OF FRIENDSHIP.

But, Mr. Ambassador, in accepting the statue given us today through you from the German emperor, I accept it not merely because it is the statue of a mighty and terrible soldier, but I accept it as a symbol of the ties of friendship and good will which I trust as the years go on will bind ever closer together the American and the German peoples. There is kinship of blood between the two nations. We of the United States are of mixed stock. In our veins runs the blood of almost all the peoples of middle, northern and western Europe. We already have a history of which we feel that we have the right to be legitimately proud, and yet our nationality is still in the formative period. Nearly three centuries have elapsed since the landing of the English at Jamestown marked the beginning of what has since grown into the United States.

During these three centuries streams of newcomers from many different countries abroad have in each generation contributed to swell the increase of our people. Soon after the English settled in Virginia and New England, the Hollander settled at the mouth of the Hudson and the Swede at the mouth of the Delaware. Even in colonial days the German element had become very strong among our people in various parts of this country; the Irish element was predominant in the foothills of the Alleghenies; French Huguenots were numerous. By the time of the Declaration of Independence that process of fusion which has gone on ever since was well under way. From the beginning of our national history men of German origin or German parentage played a distinguished part in the affairs of both of peace and of war.

EXPESSES THANKS.

In closing, let me thank you, and through you the German emperor and the German people, for this statue, which I accept in the name of the American people; a people claiming blood kinship with your own; a people owing much to Germany; a people which, though with a national history far shorter than that of your people, nevertheless, like your people, is proud of the great deeds of its past, and is confident in the majesty of its future. I most earnestly pray that in the coming years these two great nations shall move on toward their several destinies knit together by ties of the heartiest friendship and good will.

Led by the president the assemblage arose and with uncovered heads remained standing throughout the playing of "America" by the Marine band.

The next address on the program was by special request of the president who desired that Lieutenant General Chaffee, chief of staff, should speak at the unveiling.

Charlemagne Tower, the American ambassador to Germany, was presented, after the playing of "Hail Columbia," and made a few remarks.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Paul A. Menzel, pastor of Concordia Lutheran church.

Again the assemblage stood uncovered while the band rendered "The Star Spangled Banner," which closed the official ceremony.

After congratulating the German ambassadress and shaking hands with the foreign ambassadors, the president and his party left the esplanade followed by the German ambassador and his party and Lieutenant General Loewenfeld and his party. In the inverse order in which they came, the presidential cavalcade leading, the official procession was reformed and left the Washington barracks, while the field batteries were firing the second presidential salute of twenty-one guns.

FOR RECIPROCITY

BOSTON MERCHANTS WILL CALL ON PRESIDENT.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—The officials of the Boston chamber of commerce are considering a plan under which it is proposed to send a delegation to Washington to urge President Roosevelt to do what he can towards bringing about reciprocity with other countries, particularly with Canada. The size of the delegation has not been determined but it is expected a representative of each leading industry will be included.

It is understood the advocates of reciprocity in Massachusetts are to conduct a vigorous campaign during the winter.

THREE DROWNED

First Skating Accident of the Season in Lynn

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 19.—Lynn's first skating accident came this noon when three school boys of the Tower Hill district were drowned in a Holyoke street clay pit.

Edward Carey, 13 years old, son of W. J. Carey; Geo. Stiles, 15 years old, son of Joseph S. Stiles; and Albert Hawkes, 15 years old, son of Arthur Hawkes, were skating on the pit's surface. Without warning half the surface went under with the lads, who sank immediately in the deep water. Fred Phillipps, passing, saw the accident. He hurried to the pond and jumped in, catching Carey and pulling him to the shore. The boy was dead however. Phillipps tried to get the other boys but was unsuccessful. In response to his cries, people from the neighborhood appeared and with poles the other two bodies were taken out. Four doctors worked for an hour over the boys but could not resuscitate them.

MORE TESTIMONY

"Tech" Students Say They Were Clubbed

BOSTON, Nov. 19—What will probably be the last session of the board of police hearing on the Technology riot which will be devoted to the institute witnesses was held today. At the opening of the session counsel for the institute presented a series of 20 photographs of the injuries of Technology students which he wished to enter as evidence.

M. B. Hall, 1908 of St. Louis, Mo., was the first witness. He said he saw a mounted policeman run into a woman, strike her with a club and knock her into the street. He saw later a policeman brandish a revolver in front of the Brunswick while people shouted to him, "Why don you shoot."

George W. Tread, a graduate of the institute, testified that he saw several students struck by the police and saw blood flowing from the head of one of the boys. He also said that a student was hurt by an officer's horse falling on him and that during the encounter in front of the Rogers building one of the officers lost his helmet. The witness was struck by an officer and in retaliation he said he hit the policeman. Several other students gave evidence concerning the fighting between the students and police.

OUT ON STRIKE

Operatives Object to Wage Reduction

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 19.—Fifty men and 15 girls, employed by the Eastern Kid company, mostly as stakers, refused to work today when they found a new piece price list posted that they claim makes a general reduction of 20 percent. Supt. Haddock replaced several striking bower blankers but failed to settle matters at a conference with the stakers.

ANCIENT ENGINE

TAKES THE PLACE OF ONE BEING REPAIRED.

A new addition to the fire apparatus arrived at the central station the other day in the form of an engine to take the place of engine 3 which has been sent to the factory at Amoskeag to be overhauled.

The new engine is of the very ancient type, and it is hinted that Noah brought it over in the ark. At any rate it is one of the oldest steam engines now used by any fire department in the country. The engine was built at the Amoskeag factory about 1862, and was first used as a hand engine, that is it was pulled by call men who drew the cumbersome machine by aid of long ropes. The engineer stood on the rear step of the engine and started the fire while the engine was being hauled to the fire. The brake on the rear wheels is a slight reminder of the old times.

A number of years ago the machine was sent back to the factory and it was equipped with a pole and horses drew it. It is now used by the factory to be sent to different cities when engines are taken to be repaired. It is a very odd looking machine and has attracted no end of attention, but it can do good work nevertheless.

Engine 2 is to receive a new boiler and undergo a general overhauling, no repairs of any consequence having been made on it since its purchase, 15 years ago.

RAILROAD NOTES.

As stated in yesterday's Sun the Boston and Northern railroad has called in all the passes of employes. The local employes will start to turn their passes in Tuesday and all are expected to be in by November 30. The motormen and conductors pay the railroad $10 for these tickets, the money to be returned when the tickets are given up, therefore the railroad will have to turn back considerable money to its employes.

Owing to the work being done on the Billings street sewer people residing in Drawl Centre have to change cars at the corner of Billings and Bridge streets.

Residents of Chelmsford Centre who use the electric road have to change cars at Golden Cove owing to the fact that the highway commission is laying a new culvert under the tracks at the cove.

MARRIAGE TIES

Married Couple Cannot Divorce Themselves

"Nor am I convinced that it is within the power of married couples to divorce themselves in this commonwealth by instruments of writing, or otherwise; or that by means of agreements entered into, either between themselves, or by the intervention of third persons, they may avoid the legal responsibilities with which they are charged by their marriage contract."

The above is the finding of Judge McIntire of the Middlesex probate court in the case of Ida S. Dillon of this city, who sued her husband, William, an expert accountant, of Newton, for separate support. He orders the husband to pay $125 forthwith, and $8 a week to the support of his wife.

In July, 1903, the couple, then living in Roxbury, agreed to separate, and in consideration of the wife's promise not to make further claim upon him for support, the husband paid $500 to James A. Bailey, acting as trustee, who was empowered to pay over that amount to Mrs. Dillon. She received the first instalment, $100, which was all that was left of $500 after the trustee's expenses were deducted, and has made no effort since to collect the remainder.

A petition, brought by the wife in the Suffolk probate court, was dismissed by Judge McKim, but when the husband took up his abode in Newton proceedings were brought in Middlesex county.

The husband set up as a defence the agreement mentioned above. The wife repudiated the agreement, and claimed that she did not know the import of the instrument which she had signed.

Judge McIntire found that she made the agreement in good faith, and, although the husband may avail himself of the agreement as a bar to separate support proceedings in the probate court, as effectually as in an equity proceeding in the supreme court, yet the $500 remaining in the hands of the trustee is insufficient and inadequate for the support of the wife. The payments ordered will be paid out of the trust fund until exhausted.

Mrs. Dillon claimed that the lawyers had taken advantage of her, and accused her former counsel.

The boy, Schuyler, who figured in so many kidnappings, will remain in the father's custody. Some time ago Mrs. Dillon drove to the school in Roxbury when the boy attended, and at recess time, with the aid of a hack driver, seized the boy and took him to the House of the Angel Guardian, where the father got him in turn.

HAMM IS DEAD

AS RESULT OF A HUNTING ACCIDENT.

ST. JOHN, N. B., Nov. 19.—Thos. E. Hamm, a member of the Fairville fire department, is dead as the result of a hunting accident. Hamm, while with a shooting party on the marshes several miles from the city, apparently stumbled, and his gun was discharged. A heavy load of buckshot struck him in the head blowing part of his face away and causing instant death.

Hamm was 37 years old and leaves a widow and four children.

WENT ASHORE

CREW FORCED TO ABANDON VESSEL.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Nov. 19.—The three-masted schooner Charles Luling, while attempting to enter this harbor during the night, went ashore near the western jetty, well inside the shoals. Her decks are awash and the crew have abandoned the vessel with their dunnage. The schooner is laden with coal. The captain says he was coming in without a pilot and claims that the lamps on the jetties were not lighted. He states that he mistook the cliff beacons for the harbor entrance and took a wrong course.

The captain and crew remained aboard until it was evident that the schooner was leaking so badly that it was impossible to keep her afloat then they came ashore in their own boats. The vessel lies in an easy position but has filled with water. The weather is clear and the sea is calm. It is expected a tug and lighter will be sent her from Vineyard Haven to make an attempt to raise the vessel. The Charles Luling was of 185 tons net, 123 feet wide, and 9 feet deep.

SECRETARY TAFT WILL SPEAK.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 19.—Secretary of War Taft and party reached here today. They were received by a committee of prominent citizens, members of the governor's staff and a military detail of regulars and members of the state guard. Secretary Taft will speak on "The president and the army" at a banquet tonight.

FREEDOM OF ELECTION.

ODESSA, Russia, Nov. 19.—A majority of the city councillors have petitioned the government to restore the freedom of municipal elections and debates as guaranteed under the law of 1870 and also to suspend the state of siege.

ANOTHER DELAY

Patterson Jurors Ask to be Excused

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Further delay in the trial of Nan Patterson, the show girl, who is charged with causing the death of Caesar Young, a wealthy horseman, was indicated by rumors which were prevalent around the criminal court building today. Ellwood Hendricks, the foreman, asked the court yesterday to excuse him from duty on the ground that a member of his family was seriously ill. It was said that several other jurors had asked to be dismissed for private reasons. These requests will be considered by the court when the trial is resumed Monday. The members of the special panel of talesmen who have not already been examined have been notified to be present at that time.

DEATHS

LYNCH—George Lynch died yesterday at state hospital, Tewksbury. The remains were taken to the funeral chapel of J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

FUNERALS

CONSTERDINE—The funeral of the late Odra A. Consterdine took place this afternoon from her home, 135 West street, Centralville. Services were held at two o'clock, Rev. Mr. Pickles officiating. The bearers were Messrs. James and William Harding, Robert Hollingsworth and Amos A. Cudworth. The interment was in the Edson cemetery and was under the direction of Funeral Director Charles H. Molloy.

THOMPSON—The remains of the late Thomas Thompson, who was killed at Kitson's machine shop yesterday morning, have been removed to his home, 17 Little street, by Undertaker Charles H. Molloy.

KENNEDY—The funeral of the late Maria Kennedy took place this morning at 8.30 o'clock from her late home, 712 Gorham street, and was largely attended by relatives and friends of the deceased. The funeral cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church where a high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock by Rev. Fr. McDermod. The choir was in attendance and sang the Gregorian mass and during the service appropriate selections were rendered by the members of the choir.

The bearers were Messrs. John Cunningham, Edward O'Hare, Michael Currane, John Lyons, John Judge and Michael Monahan. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. McDermod. The funeral was under the direction of Funeral Directors J. J. O'Connell & Co.

CARROLL—The funeral of Mary Carroll took place this morning from the home of John Ewing, 125 D street. A requiem mass was celebrated at St. Peter's church by Rev. Hugh McDermod. The choir was in attendance and sang the Gregorian mass and during the service appropriate selections were rendered by members of the choir.

The bearers were Messrs. John Ewing, George Marshall, Thomas Morrissey, Charles Curley. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. McDermod. The funeral was under the direction of Funeral Director John F. Rogers.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS

SUBJECT TO AILMENT RESEMBLING SOFTENING OF THE BRAIN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19—Football players, according to Jere Delaney, trainer of the North Western University eleven are subject to an ailment similar to softening of the brain which leads not only to the making of peculiar statements but causes strange actions which sometimes are amusing.

The exact cause of the trouble, Trainer Delaney said, he is unable to fathom. He declared, however, that it results more from the long continued physical and nervous strain to which the men are subjected during the three months of rigid training which they are forced to undergo than from the blows, kicks and bumps they receive on their skulls during games.

"It is known," said Delaney, "That every player of the game fights his games over and over again in his dreams, but only by the men who are in closest touch with the players is it recognized that they are given to day dreaming during which they make strange motions as if struggling with an imaginary opponent."

According to Delaney the athletes are given to almost childish methods of play when at rest. An instance related by the trainer was of a man who during more than an hour perch over a map of the United States, drawing lines with his index finger and imagining he was travelling over the country which his finger crossed.

CROWDS ANGERED

DEMONSTRATIONS IN FRONT OF PALACE OF GRAND DUKE.

MOSCOW, Nov. 19—Demonstrations occurred here today owing to the refusal of the authorities to authorize an official meeting of the zemstvos representatives at St. Petersburg. Crowds in the streets in front of the palace of Grand Duke Sergius, governor general of Moscow shouted "Down with the Moscow Gazette" the only newspaper in Russia which is directly opposed to the zemstvos. Later the crowds voluntarily dispersed.

The zemstvo supporters here telegraphed to M Shipoff, president of the Moscow zemstvo to make a final effort to induce the government to allow the meeting to be held under official auspices.

BOTH WERE DEAD

Couple Asphyxiated in Haverhill Hotel

HAVERHILL, Mass., Nov. 19.—Arthur Nichols and Mrs. Mollie Crosier, both of Kingston, N. H., were found dead from gas asphyxiation in a room in the Aetna house early today. The couple registered last night as Dr. Johnson and wife of Exeter, N. H.

Early today, Landlord Gordon noted a smell of gas and tracing it to their room, broke open the door and found them lying on the bed dead. There were evidences that they had been drinking, and as there were no reasons to believe suicide had been planned, the case was adjudged an accident. Nichols had been employed in a hotel in Kingston as a hostler for the year past and had made the acquaintance of Mrs. Crosier, who was employed there as a laundress. He had claimed to belong in Vermont but no one knows anything of his relatives. Wm. Crosier, husband of the dead woman, was communicated with but refused to have anything to do with the body and it will probably be buried by the city.

NAVAL BURIAL

GIVEN THE BODY OF HENRY MITCHELL.

NICE, France, Nov. 19.—A detachment of officers and men from the U. S. warships now at Villefranche gave a naval burial today to the body of Henry Mitchell, the blue jacket who was found dead under suspicious circumstances last August.

The American consul, Mr. Van Buro, Surgeon Evans of the cruiser Cleveland, and a detachment of blue jackets under Midshipman Howard of the Cleveland, assisted at the interment, which took place in the special plot intended for American sailors dying abroad. A triple volley was fired over the grave.

UNDER ARREST

FOUR MEN ARE CHARGED WITH MURDER.

WILLIAMSBURG, Ky., Nov. 19.—Andrew Meaders, Joshua Cumming, Lee and Edward Hollsomback are under arrest charged with the murder of Geo. Curd and Emma Upham, near Cumberland Falls, Thursday.

SENT TO PRISON

ELTZ WAS CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 19.—In the criminal session of the supreme court today, before Judge Wilbur, George F. Eltz of this city, pleaded nolo contendere to an indictment charging him with the manslaughter of James E. Tandy and was sentenced to serve a term of seven years in state prison. Tandy was shot as he was sitting in a milk wagon before his place of employment on March 26, 1904. The trouble between the two men was caused over Eltz's wife, Tandy died ten minutes after he was shot.

JOHN MORLEY

PAID A VISIT TO HARVARD COLLEGE.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Rt. Hon. John Morley, English litterateur and a leader of the liberal party in England, paid a visit to Harvard university today. He is making a few days' stay in Boston as the guest of the historian, James Ford Rhodes.

MRS. DAMROSCH DEAD.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—After a short illness, lasting but two days, Mrs. Leopold Damrosch, widow of the well-known composer and musician, and mother of Walter and Frank Damrosch is dead. Mrs. Damrosch, previous to her marriage, was Helen Von Heimburg, well known as an opera singer. She was a native of Oldenburg, Germany, and was 69 years old.

MRS. CHENEY DEAD.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Mrs. Ednah Dow Cheney, one of the foremost women in this city in work of a philanthropic character, died at her home in Jamaica Plain today in her 81st year.

Mrs. Cheney was born in Boston in 1824. She was active in the Freedmen's aid movement; had been vice president of the New England Women's club; president of the Mass. School Suffrage association; secretary from 1862 to 1887 of the New England hospital for women and children and later its president. She also had been prominent in numerous other societies. Mrs. Cheney had done much literary work and was the author of numerous volumes. She was married to Seth W. Cheney, an artist, in 1853.

DEMOCRAT WINS.

BUTTE, Mont., Nov. 19. The official canvass of votes in Silver Bow county apparently show the election of Miles Romney, democrat, to the office of secretary of state by a plurality of 16. On unofficial figures the republicans have claimed all state offices but those of governor and lieutenant governor.

STRUCK BY SHOT

VESSEL FIRED ON BY BRITISH GUNBOAT.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The Carron line steamer Grange arrived in the Thames today and reported having had an exciting experience in the North sea, off Inchkieth, Nov. 17, the vessel being struck by shots from a British gunboat. The latter was practicing with her guns in hazy weather and the shots fell all around the Grange, which was twice struck but not seriously injured. The fire only ceased after a continuous shrieking of the Grange's siren.

TURKEYS ARE HIGH

Scarcity of Festive Bird is Threatened

Now that Thanksgiving day is approaching interest as to what will be the price of poultry is being manifested among the Lowell householders, as well as among the householders all over New England. A tour among the wholesalers here revealed the fact that while there is some difference of opinion as to the price that will prevail all are agreed that the fat turkeys will be pretty scarce this year.

One cause of the shortage can be assigned to President Roosevelt, for his proclamation giving the date for Thanksgiving brings that day something like a week earlier this year than it was last.

Another reason is that in most of the turkey raising states the spring was late and wet and the young birds were not hatched until some ten days later than is usually the case.

Then again the present fall has been late and warm and turkeys have not been restricted in their range and fed grain to fatten them.

To those who are acquainted with the habits of the turkey it is a well known fact that these birds to do well must have a wide range and that when turkeys are bred to become prime birds for market a wide range and choice of feed with good water is a necessity. A turkey deprived of his liberty, no matter how well fed, will not do so well as those not under restraint with less feed, and the present fall having been warm and open the birds have kept their range and grown to bone and muscle. Had the weather been cold and stormy so that they would have been led to seek shelter of their own volition, in the fence corners and coverts about the farm house, they would have sought their feed in the grain usually scattered for fattening fowls when they remain about their hatching houses. By so doing all feeling of the restraint is done away with and the bird picks up more grain and, not ranging wide, lays on more fat. Bad weather is about the only restraint that will work well with a turkey and as the weather has been good the turkeys have not been kept about the farm buildings where they could obtain the corn and other grains they need to fatten them for market.

Chickens and fowls are much different in their habits and the prospect for an adequate supply of this class of poultry is good, though on account of the scarcity of turkeys prices will go high.

The Lowell poultry dealers as wholesalers go back a good many years and some of the oldest of them expressed the opinion to a reporter that good poultry would be had as usual though turkeys are scarce and will come high. Their advices indicate that there will be very light shipments from the West, if any, and that Kentucky is about the only state that will ship turkeys East for this season's Thanksgiving trade, and that prices will range as high or higher than ever before known in this city for Thanksgiving turkeys.

There is little known as yet as to what the East will show in the way of turkey shipments and the wholesale price of birds here, it is predicted, will reach 30 cents per pound and may go to 32.

The outlook for Christmas Turkeys is better, because the winter weather will drive the turkeys to depend on house feed and as they will seek shelter they will lay on fat, instead of building bone and muscle, and be in condition for market.

The local supply of turkeys is nothing practically, but a good stock of fowls and chickens is in the hands of growers being fitted to kill for the Thanksgiving trade.

FOURTEEN DEAD

Miners Killed by Explosion of Gas

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 19.—A Fernie, B. C., despatch to the Pioneer Press says fourteen miners were killed at the Carbonado mines near Morrissey yesterday afternoon as a result of a terrific explosion of coal gas. The disaster occurred in No. 1 mine, ten miles west of Fernie. The work of rescue was kept up all the afternoon and all the bodies have been recovered.

The dead:

Mr. Jenkins, Louis Carter, Peter Kenny, Albert Johnson, Patrick Boyle, William Platt, Michael Gustrick, Anton Prebenick, Venesia Venecka, Martin Tomzacky, Anton and John Prondve, two brothers, Joseph Suchy and James Greenman.

TYNGSBORO GRANGE

HELD ITS FIRST ANNUAL FAIR LAST NIGHT.

The Tyngsboro grange held its first annual fair last evening, and the affair was a success. The attendance was large, the entertainment good and the tables were well patronized. The following committee had charge of the fair: Otis L. Wright, chairman; William J. Collins, and Mrs. Annie W. Wood.

The entertainment was in charge of Miss C. Josephine Colburn and the tableaux included: "Abou Ben Adem," "Rock of Ages," "The Flower of the Family," and "The Child's Evening Prayer." In the first named, Mr. H. H. Upton personated "Abou," the Abraian chief, and Miss Grace Collins was the vision in white. The story itself was delivered by Miss Colburn. In the "Flower of the Family," the first scene showed a flour barrel on the stage, and the following one displayed both the flour and the flower, for a little girl was in the barrel then. Miss Mattie Worcester appeared in this tableau. In the "Child's Evening Prayer," Mrs. Charles Worcester and Miss Mattie Worcester were the characters. Miss Grace E. Matthews and Miss Lottie Upton appeared in the "Rock of Ages."

The program:

Piano solo, Miss Bertha Danforth; recitation, Miss Grace E. Matthews; piano solo, Mrs. Fred O. Noyes; reading, Mrs. Annie R. Harlow; song, Duncan Campbell; piano solo, Miss Maude Marshall; graphophone selections.

The following committees were on duty at tables:

Five and ten cent table—Mrs. Jeannette P. Strong, chairman; Mrs. W. J. Collins, assistant.

Fancy table—Mrs. Enlo A. Perham, chairman; Miss Carrie Flint.

Candy table—Mrs. Perry A. Flint, chairman; Miss Alice Dickinson.

Domestic table—Mrs. P. B. Lawrence, chairman; Miss Sarah Slack, assistant.

Donation table (farmers' supplies, vegetables, etc.)—Lucien C. McLoon, chairman.

Mystery table—Mrs. Annie E. Wood, chairman.

Supper was served from 6 until 8 o'clock and the tables in the dining hall was attractively arranged. The committee in charge: Otis L. Wright, chairman; William J. Collins, Mrs. Annie E. Wood, Benjamin B. Lawrence. A number of the young women assisted in serving.

There were visitors present from Dracut, Tewksbury, Chelmsford and Lowell.

Cake sale and bean supper, Knights of Columbus' hall, Saturday, Nov. 19.

ICE TOO THIN

AMESBURY BOY BROKE THROUGH AND WAS DROWNED.

AMESBURY, Nov. 19.—Arthur Page, aged about 10 years, was drowned at Clark's pond yesterday afternoon. Young Page, who is an adopted son of Mrs. Amanda Page, was walking out upon the ice with a playmate, Benny Coughlin, when both lads went through the ice into several feet of water.

The Coughlin boy was rescued insensible. It is expected that he will recover.

The body of young Page was recovered by Conrad Peterson and Frank W. Pierce, who put out in a boat. Yesterday noon another boy broke through the ice near where these boys went in but he was rescued at once.

BUST OF MORGAN

WILL BE PLACED IN PALACE AT ASCOLI.

ROME, Nov. 19.—The municipality of Ascoli has, by acclamation, conferred honorary citizenship upon J. Pierpont Morgan in recognition of his action in restoring to the city the famous Ascoli cope. It was also decided to place a bust of Mr. Morgan in the city palace, together with a marble tablet recording his generous action and to bestow his name upon one of the principal streets of the city.

$20,000 LOSS

LORETTO ACADEMY IN CAIRO DESTROYED.

CAIRO, Ills., Nov. 19.—Fire last night destroyed all the buildings of the Loretto academy, located in this city, with their contents, causing a loss of $20,000. The academy was one of the oldest educational institutions in this section, having been established by the Loretto sisters during the war and conducted by them until last year when it came under the control of the Benedictine sisters.

SCHWAB'S PLANS

FOR HIS SHOP IN BETHLEHEM, PA.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Herald today prints an interview with Chas. M. Schwab, former president of the United States Steel corporation in which Mr. Schwab is quoted as saying that he intends to make in his Bethlehem (Pa.) plant, all sorts of guns, gun forgings, tools, etc., which require the highest workmanship. Mr. Schwab's plans according to the interview are to put the plant on a par with the Krupp works in Germany and those of Vickers Sons and Makim company of England.

STEAMER DAMAGED.

SAN JUAN, P. R., Nov. 19.—The Red D line steamer Caracas, Captain Woodrick, from New York for La Guayra arrived here late yesterday with eight of her staterooms wrecked. The Caracas encountered a hurricane off Cape May on November 13 and for thirty-six hours the ship was flooded. Three men passengers were nearly drowned. Captain Woodrick says it was the worst storm he had experienced in thirty-six years. The passengers are all well.

FOUNDERS ASSOCIATION.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 19—The National Founders association which has been in session here since Wednesday, last night issued an "outline of policy," which has been adopted by the convention to be pursued in the factories of the association.

Employes will be paid by the hourly rate, premium system, piece work or contract, as the employers may elect. It is the privilege of the workman to leave when he sees fit and the privilege of the employer to discharge a man when he sees fit.

Disapproving absolutely of strikes and lockouts, the members of the association will not arbitrate any questions with men on strike. Neither will the association countenance a lockout on any arbitrable question, unless arbitration has failed.

In case of disagreement concerning matters not covered by the foregoing, announcement, members are advised to meet their employes either individually or collectively and endeavor to adjust the difficulty on a fixed and equivalent bases.

The operation of piece work, premium plan or contract system now in force, to be extended or established in the future, the association will not countenance any conditions of wages which are not just, or which will not allow a workman of average efficiency to earn at least fair wages.

JEWELS STOLEN

LOCK ON A TRUNK WAS BROKEN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Holly, of Lexington, Ky., who are in this city, reported that one of their trunks was robbed of jewelry valued at nearly $30,000. Dr. Holly is a prominent southern physician.

Dr. and Mrs. Holly came to this city last Sunday. On inspecting their baggage when it reached the hotel here, it was found that the lock of a trunk had been opened and the jewels were missing. It is not known where the theft occurred.

This is the time to buy coal. See Fred H. Rourke, 984 Gorham street.

To Aid the Fall River Strikers

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—By unanimous vote, the delegates to the American Federation of Labor yesterday decided to aid the striking textile workers of Fall River to the extent of $25,000 per week for three weeks. If by the end of this time it is found that the strike is not broken, the executive council will, if it sees fit, continue the donation. The money for the purpose is to be raised by an assessment of one cent each week levied on each member of every labor organization affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Stirring and impassioned addresses on behalf of the workers of the Fall River district were delivered. Delegate Driscoll of Boston put the motion before the house, which was carried amid the cheers of the entire convention. Many delegates arose in their seats and on behalf of the organizations which they represented, offered then and there, to hand over to Delegate Golden, checks to cover the amount of their respective unions' assessments.

Further than considering few resolutions no other business was transacted by the delegates and an adjournment was taken until today.

PRES. ROOSEVELT

SADDENED BY ATTACKS UPON HIM IN THE SOUTH.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Colonel John S. Mosby received a few months ago a letter from Judge Roulhac of Birmingham, Ala., commenting on the attitude of the southern people toward the president personally.

Colonel Mosby sent the letter to Oyster Bay, as he thought the sentiments expressed in it by a confederate veteran would be gratifying to the president.

He received a reply which he did not publish during the campaign, as he felt that the president's motives in writing the letter would be misconstrued. The letter is as follows:

"Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 10, 1904.

"(Personal.)

"My Dear Col. Mosby—That is a fine letter of Roulhac's and I appreciate it. I have always been saddened rather than angered by the attacks upon me in the south. I am half a southerner myself, and I can say with all possible sincerity that the interests of the south are exactly as dear to me as the interests of the north. Sincerely yours, (Signed) "THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

"Col. John S. Mosby, Department of Justice, Washington."

REPUBLICAN MAJORITY

WILL BE LARGER THAN USUAL.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The official figures show that the republicans will have in the house the largest majority in the history of congress, with one exception, the 64th. They gained 41 members by the late election. Of the 386 members they will have 251 and the democrats 135, a majority of 116.

Gains were made in 17 states as follows: California 3, Delaware 1, Illinois 6, Indiana 2, Iowa 1, Kentucky 1, Massachusetts 1, Michigan 1, Minnesota 1, Missouri 8, Nebraska 1, Nevada 1, New Jersey 2, New York 6, North Carolina 1, Ohio 3 and Pennsylvania 2.

In the 54th congress there were 246 republicans and 104 democrats, a republican majority of 142.

BISHOP WILSON

ELECTED PRESIDENT OF ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 19—The American Anti-Saloon league adjourned yesterday after electing Bishop Lutheran D. Wilson of Maryland, President, and other officers.

The resolutions adopted declare that the liquor traffic must be regarded and dealt with as a crime; call upon congress to make prohibition a condition of statehood for the Indian Territory, and favor the passage of the so-called Hepburn-Dolliver bill "in such form as shall effectively secure to the states power to control the liquor traffic within their own boundaries from without under the guise of interstate commerce."

With reference to the army canteen the resolutions say:

"We deplore the lack of co-operation of army officers in the establishment of post canteens where the men may congregate and where common necessaries may be purchased and where entertaining recreations may be enjoyed by the men, free from the debauching influence of drink and gambling and for which post exchanges with proper accessories for recreation congress has already appropriated a million and a half dollars.

"Until exchanges without intoxicating liquors have had a full and fair trial, in spirit and effort, during the existence of conditions essential to their success, we will do all in our power to resist the efforts of the liquor interests and their friends to have the law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors on military reservations repealed."

The resolutions call upon the state and territorial legislatures to prohibit traffic in intoxicating liquors within two or more miles of all military reservations, and urge the government to encourage total abstinence among the officers and men of the army.

WILD EXCITEMENT

In the Hungarian Parliament Yesterday

BUDA PEST, Hungary, Nov. 19.—The lower house of the Hungarian parliament yesterday passed Premier Tasza's motion altering for a year the standing orders of the house so as to allow afternoon sittings from 4 to 9 in addition to the ordinary morning sessions with the object of overcoming obstructions and expediting public business. The entire opposition had previously left the house singing the Kossuth hymn, Francis Kossuth having declared that the Hungarian opposition would never agree to such an illegal procedure.

The lower house resumed its sitting at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Count Apponyi, the leader of the opposition, declared that the sitting was illegal and that his party was there under protest merely to exercise control.

The session lasted until 10 o'clock at night with evidences of rising temper, when Premier Tasza, in a speech dealing with obstruction, declared there was no choice between abandoning the nation to its fate or putting an end to this comedy.

President of the Chamber De Perczel, in the midst of increasing disorder, then tried to put to a vote the motion dealing with obstruction, but was met with howls of derision and screams of passionate protestation.

Deputy Rakosi handed the president a paper demanding that the sitting be closed, and on the refusal of the president to accept the paper, Rakosi threatened him with a pair of scissors.

Many members hurried to President De Perczel's assistance. Seats, books and ink pots were hurled at De Perczel and insulting epithets were freely employed. The opposing parties were hardly prevented from indulging in fisticuffs.

Finally the president read the royal rescript proroguing the house and the sitting closed with scenes of the wildest excitement.

PRAISE SERVICE

AND ANNUAL THANK OFFERING AT KIRK STREET CHURCH.

Last night in the vestry of the Kirk street church was held the annual thank offering and praise service, the sum of $212.87 being found in the envelopes.

The boys' choir of the church sang sweetly, and Edward Wirt gave a pleasing rendition of "The Hymn of Praise." A. C. Spalding, the church organist, presided at the piano.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Robert A. Hume, D. D., a missionary of the American board in India, who is enjoying his third vacation in thirty years. His home for the present is in Springfield. Queen Victoria decorated Dr. Hume with the Kaiser I Hind gold medal, in recognition of his distinguished service in connection with the great Indian famine. The speaker referred to his former visit to Kirk street church, when, in 1886, during the pastorate of Dr. Dana he spoke in the local church.

GENERAL FIGHT

Two Sicilians Were Fatally Stabbed

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 19.—John Furani, 35, and Vincenzo Cursi, 30 years of age, both Sicilians, were perhaps fatally stabbed in a general fight in the Federal hill Italian colony last night. The former is at the Rhode Island hospital with his throat cut almost from ear to ear and the latter with his abdomen ripped open and a portion of his entrails protruding. During the fight, the cause of which is unknown, another man is believed to have been shot, but he escaped with four others. Both of the injured men refuse to talk about the fracas and their relatives who mutter revenge against the assailants, refuse to help the police in running down the men who were concerned in the affair.

ANNUAL DANCE

OF THE AMERICAN GLEE CLUB LAST EVENING.

One of the most popular and successful social events of the season was the second annual dance given by the American Glee Club in Prescott Hall last evening.

Excellent music was provided by the Kittredge orchestra and the event was under the general management of Walter W. Maher, assisted by Charles F. Sweeney, Bernard J. O'Hagan acting as floor director, assisted by John T. McCabe.

There were twenty numbers on the programme of dances. The grand march and circle was led by Bernard J. O'Hagan and Miss Amelia Proctor, followed by fully two hundred couples, all of whom heartily enjoyed the pleasures of the evening.

Edward J. Higgins acted as chief aid, assisted by members of the American Glee Club.

The reception committee was composed of Paul Conway, chairman; Miss Mary McCaffrey, Miss Bessie McCaffrey, Miss Amelia Proctor, Miss Ida Boldy, Miss Eva Grooms, Miss Jennie Leahy, Miss Annie Kevil and Miss Winnie Gannon.

BOY DROWNED

HAVERHILL LAD'S SLED WENT THROUGH ICE.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Nov. 19.—Arthur McGlss, 10 years old, was drowned in Little river here yesterday. The boy was coasting down a hill and his sled went onto the river. The ice gave way and the boy was drowned before assistance arrived. The body was recovered about an hour later by the police.

SECOND NIGHT

Carnival of Nations a Great Success

The second night of the Carnival of Nations at the armory in Westford street was as great a success as was the opening night. The attendance was very large and exceptionally appreciative and enthusiastic. The tables were even more liberally patronized than on the night before and everybody was in the best of cheer.

The carnival march, as on the preceding night, was a thing of beauty and a joy forever. The pupils of Miss Blanche Perrin performed delightful evolutions and danced themselves into the hearts of the spectators.

No changes were made in the arrangement of the tables. Cake and ice cream were dispensed at the Scottish table and the Irish table with its myriads of green shamrocks was visited by a large number who made liberal purchases.

The American table was partially hidden from view by the large crowds who gathered to show that they were with "Old Glory" and had the prerequisite with them to make purchases. The French table and the Russian table both came in for their share of attention, as did the "Gloria" booth. The Russian table had a bidding feature—the fortune teller's tent, presided over by Madame Zola. The Chinese table was originally beautiful and the "Chinks" in charge did a land-office business.

The English table was devoted principally to the sale of sweetmeats, and here loving couples were found making frequent visits.

The gaudy and attractive Spanish table with its many attractive articles, and the shooting gallery, and peanut-guessing barrel as additional features, were magnets which drew forth the pocketbooks of those who passed that way.

The Japanese table was a bower of loveliness with its cut flowers, ferns and plants and articles of fancy work.

The German table was rich with beautiful articles which caught the fancy of all.

Following the stage program there was general dancing to the music of the Cadet orchestra.

PLEASANT SOCIAL.

The Sam Walter Foss Literary club held its first social of the season on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Albert French on Parkview avenue, and a delightful afternoon was passed. A musical and literary program was furnished by the hostess, consisting of a piano solo by Mrs. A. E. Kenyon and Mrs. Robert Gilmore; banjo playing by Zoella Swanton and readings and song by little Miss Mildred French. Games and a dainty lunch served by the hostess as chairman, assisted by Mrs. Will H. Howe, Mrs. Arthur French, Mrs. S. A. Pickering and Mrs. Robert Gilmore, filled in the afternoon.

The club is taking up "Current Events" for the next three months' study, Japan being the subject of the next meeting, which is to be held with Mrs. F. J. Spaulding, 32 Grace street.

COMMITTED SUICIDE

DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS INSTITUTED AGAINST MRS. FENNESSY.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 19—Mrs. Grace Morand Fennessy, aged 28 years, the wife of Col. James E. Fennessy, proprietor of Hoacks Opera House in this city and well-known throughout the country as a leading member of the vaudeville theatrical syndicate, committed suicide last night by swallowing carbolic acid. Recently her husband instituted divorce proceedings.

SECRETARY MORTON

TAKEN ILL AT A BANQUET IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Secretary of the Navy Paul Morton was taken ill last evening at the dinner of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers at Delmonico's.

Secretary Morton had been assigned to speak to the toast "The President of the United States," and he represented President Roosevelt at the banquet. He spoke but a short time and then excused himself and left the banquet hall.

Rear Admiral Howles (retired), who presided, told the guests that Secretary Morton was ill and wished him to offer his excuses for leaving them so soon, that he was not seriously sick but did not feel well enough to remain longer at the banquet.

It was said later that Secretary Morton had left for Washington.

SHOT AND KILLED

MEN HAD A DISPUTE OVER POLITICS.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 19—Noah Bailey, a prosperous merchant, was shot and killed on the street at Panther last evening by Roscoe Henderson, who fled to the hills. He is still at large, though being pursued by a party of his victim's friends. Bad blood arising from differences on politics was the cause of the shooting. Bailey and Henderson were friends until a few weeks ago.

FATALLY INJURED

MOTORMAN WAS PINNED UNDER WRECKAGE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—In a rear-end collision on the Kings County elevated road in Brooklyn last night, Isaac Smith, a motorman was fatally injured. Smith was pinned down in the wreckage and it was nearly an hour before the police and fire departments were able to effect his release. In the meantime a physician managed to reach him through the crushed woodwork and gave him hypodermic injections to relieve his sufferings.

SUFFERING IN FALL RIVER.

There must be considerable suffering in Fall River among the operatives out on strike. The city has withdrawn aid from able-bodied men and women who can support themselves by going back to work. This will increase the suffering, unless averted by the $75,000 contribution of the American Federation of Labor.

FOR PRESIDENT OF HARVARD.

President Roosevelt is mentioned as possible successor to President Eliot of Harvard as head of the great university. Prof. Norton of Harvard rises to remark that Roosevelt is ineligible for the place on account of being a pronounced partisan, and second because he is not of New England birth and tradition. The partisan objection we take it is well founded, but the other would tend to broaden the office and the institution rather than the reverse.

LAWYER COTTON'S SCHEME OVERCOME.

The state of Massachusetts is fighting against paying an excessive legal fee to one John R. Cotton, a lawyer of Boston. Congress recently appropriated over $1,500,000 to compensate the state of Massachusetts for fitting out troops during the Civil war, and this Mr. Cotton, who it is alleged, was employed by the then state authorities to look after the claim, says he was to receive ten per cent. of the claim in case he should secure it from the government at Washington.

Cotton had received the check or warrant for the money and refused to pay it over to the state until he received ten per cent. of the amount.

Attorney General Moody has ordered the warrant in Cotton's hands to be cancelled and another made out payable to the state treasurer. Thus Cotton's scheme is frustrated, but no doubt expensive litigation will ensue.

THE LAST OF THE TRADING STAMPS.

The day of the trading stamp is about over in Lowell and we may add in the state. Already the merchants of this city have come to an agreement as to what they will do so that January 1, 1905, will see the business wound up in Lowell and in all probability there will be no reputable business man in this city who will have the hardihood to use trading stamps or any substitute for trading stamps after the date mentioned.

The state of Massachusetts has already passed a law to put an embargo upon the use of trading stamps—this no doubt because of the manner in which they engrafted themselves upon the business of the leading merchants. The companies rent stores and produce nothing except stamps. They furthermore coerce the business men of the city to use stamps in order not to be outdone by rivals while the craze is on, for it must be admitted that the companies working upon the desire of the people to get something for nothing, have been able to influence trade by the use of stamps represented as having a positive financial value. The companies have thus been drawing a regular income from the profits of hard working business men and in many cases they have failed to fulfil their pledges to the merchants and thus the merchants have been blamed.

But the law passed by the Massachusetts legislature to take effect Dec. 1, will probably close up the various shades of stamps, whether blue, green, yellow or pink.

The law provides that hereafter on the first day of January and the first day in July each year, every person, firm or corporation doing a trading stamp business shall make a return to the treasurer of the city or town in which the business is carried on, stating the number of checks, coupons or similar devices sold, given or delivered in connection therewith during the preceding six months. Then the treasurer of such city or town will compute a tax of 3 per cent. on the total receipts of the business on which such stamps, checks or coupons are given and shall direct the collector of taxes to collect the same amount in the same manner as any other tax.

For omission to make such returns a fine of from $5 to $15 per day for the first fifteen days after the date on which the return is required to be made and a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $200 for every day thereafter until the return is made will be imposed.

Already the treasurer is getting ready to call for the returns under the new law. The stamp companies are claiming that the law is unconstitutional, that it will be overturned by the supreme court, but that prophecy may not be fulfilled. Even the law should be overthrown it is pretty certain that the merchants will combine to rid themselves of a nuisance based upon greed, carried out under the delusion that the stamps guarantee the purchaser something for nothing and leave the unscrupulous stamp sharks to be the final arbiters as to what the stamps are worth when the books are filed and the premiums are demanded.

IMMIGRATION ABUSES TO BE REMEDIED.

United States inspectors, who have been investigating the subject of immigration at foreign ports, report a condition of affairs that calls for prompt remedy. At least two countries encourage their subjects to come to this country to earn money and return home to invest it. Hungary and Italy, it is understood, are the countries in question. As a result of investigation a number of immigrants from these countries may be deported. A number of Hebrews come here for the sole purpose of qualifying as citizens and then go to the Holy Land under the protection afforded by our government. It was for an American citizen of this type that the president sent a fleet to Tangiers to demand his release from an outlaw chief.

It is hinted also that there is a bureau in existence in Europe for the manufacture of bogus naturalization papers. This is quite an easy thing as the papers could be easily copied and signatures forged. Were it not profitable it would not be carried on in Europe. Such papers, however, would be of no use in securing the protection of this government in a foreign country. They might be used as a means of securing admission to deceive the immigration officials. Hereafter, however, it is expected there will be greater scrutiny in order to guard against such imposition.

Another thing which this government has in contemplation is the deportation of certain paupers and criminals from European nations, none of whom has any claim upon this country.

The immigration lines are in many cases blamable for laxity in permitting ineligible immigrants to embark. For this they will be held responsible hereafter.

On the other hand it is claimed that on several of the lines the immigrants are subjected to insult and maltreatment at the hands of certain members of the crew. Complaints were made by several immigrants at Boston and by others at New York and this matter has been brought to the attention of trans-Atlantic companies so that they will exercise greater vigilance in the future. There is much need of reform as many women and young girls have been shamefully treated by members of the crew who held positions of some authority.

On the whole, therefore, there are many abuses carried on in connection with the immigration question which will be wiped out as soon as possible.

BUSINESS REVIVAL

20,000 MORE MEN EMPLOYED BY RAILROADS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—A revival of business on the railroads entering the city has, according to statistics gathered by the Herald, resulted within the last six weeks in the re-employment of more than 20,000 men who were dropped from the pay rolls during a period of a few months ending with June 1, last.

In this list the Pennsylvania company, which made the most sweeping reduction, is estimated to have taken back on its many systems, 11,000 men; the New York Central has restored 6000 more; the Reading system, in the neighborhood of 2000, and the Independent lines as many more. At every railroad office in New York and Philadelphia the statement was "running on full time in every department" or "will be running on full time very soon."

In addition to this, the railroads, which were compelled to economize in the purchase of freight cars, during the dull period, have all ordered new equipment. The New York Central has ordered 5000 new freight and 155 new locomotives. The Pennsylvania has ordered 6000 new freight cars besides a number of new locomotives. In the other roads the orders will exceed 4000 new freight cars.

PASTOR SENTENCED

HE MUST SERVE A TERM IN JAIL.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 18.—W. P. Squires, pastor of the First Baptist church, East Brookfield, was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 or serve 30 days in jail by Judge William T. Forbes in the probate court to day for contempt of court. Mr. Squires in his defense said he had no intention of committing contempt, and said that he could not pay the fine. He was removed to the Worcester county jail by Deputy Sheriff W. W. Scott.

The trouble arose over a suit in equity of the First Baptist church against W. Hayward and others to determine what should be done with the Harrington fund for which Mr. Hayward was trustee. Mr. Squires wrote a letter in which he tried to show that three of the four witnesses had perjured themselves. The summons declared that the writer of this letter had used undue and improper influence with the court, while the case was pending.

1200 SPELLBINDERS

WILL HOLD BANQUET AT WALDORF-ASTORIA.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—At the dinner which 1200 of the men who made speeches for the republican candidates in the recent campaign are to give at the Waldorf-Astoria on the night of November 30, President Roosevelt is expected to be the guest of honor. The entire first floor of the hotel has been engaged. Secretary of state John Hay, Senator C. W. Fairbanks, Chairman Cortelyou, Governor Odell, Governor-elect Higgins, and a score of republican statesmen of national fame have been invited.

President Roosevelt has not indicated whether he will attend or not. The affair is to be known as the Roosevelt and Fairbanks jubilee banquet. It will be the biggest political dinner held in this city for many years.

LOWELL COAL CO.

Attached For $35,000 by Boston Creditor

EMBARRASSMENT MAY BE ONLY TEMPORARY

Directors Held Special Meeting Yesterday Afternoon

The Lowell Coal company, the largest coal and wood establishment in this city, has been attached for $35,000 by M. L. Cobb of Boston, dealer in soft coal, and the attachment was served on Wednesday evening by Deputy Sheriff E. W. Clark.

As a result of the attachment a special meeting of the company's directors, local bank men and lawyers, was held in the office of McIntire & Wilson, yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of devising ways and means whereby the Cobb claim could be satisfied and local creditors kept from pressing upon the corporation for the present so that the concern can continue in business.

Present at the meeting were Chas. E. McIntire and William H. Wilson, attorneys for the Lowell Coal company; Norman F. Hesseltine, of Boston, representing the interests of M. L. Cobb; F. E. Dunbar, appearing for the Lowell Gas Light company; John J. Hogan, representative of the Lowell Trust company; James J. Kerwin, appearing for the Old Lowell bank; Charles M. Williams, cashier of the same institution; Walter Moore, general manager of the Lowell Coal company; William E. Livingstone, president and treasurer, and Arthur C. Moore, clerk and director.

The situation was carefully discussed, the meeting covering a period of several hours, and at its conclusion William H. Wilson, counsel for the Lowell Coal company, gave out the following statement to the newspapers:

"The Lowell Coal company is financially embarrassed. That is true. The meeting was to devise ways and means whereby M. L. Cobb, a wholesale soft coal dealer of Boston, may be satisfied. He has an attachment for $35,000 against the company. His actual bill amounts to $27,000. Plans were discussed and were given to Mr. Hesseltine, Mr. Cobb's representative. Until we hear from Mr. Cobb, the course of the corporation will not be known. We should have an answer by Monday. Then, probably, we shall know whether he accepts the offer made. Local creditors were represented and there was a sprinkling of local bank men."

Mr. Wilson said the trouble was the result of selling coal to the people of Lowell under cost.

What the object of such a policy could be he did not state.

Mr. Arthur C. Moore said: "I am not in a position to say anything relative to the attachment. We have a good line of customers and a good trade. I understand that matters can be fixed up all right, and confidently expect that they will be. We have lost money as a result of selling coal at such a low price, I think we have sufficient assets to pay debts all right."

DEAD INDIANS

PETRIFIED ONES USED FOR CIGAR SIGNS.

Joe De Champ, a backwoodsman living in the Three River Falls region, in northern Minnesota, says the Anaconda (Mont.) Standard has lately been engaged in removing the remains of Indians from their graves in the lands soon to be opened to settlement. The bodies he reburies in places outside the ceded lands. Among the stories of his experiences in the former cemetery of the aborigines is one regarding the finding of several perfectly petrified bodies, and the uncanny feeling which one has when he listens to the account is intensified at the end, when it is related that one of the petrified aborigines was used as a hitching post, while another served as a cigar sign. Eight men worked with Joe digging for the bodies of the dead Indians. Joe receives $11.50 for each corpse from the government; therefore he is exceedingly industrious. The moonbeams filtering through the branches of the pines, shone down on Joe one night as he labored with pick and spade. About him the razed fence that had been built about the final resting place of a tribal leader formed a decorative festoon.

Dig, dig, dig, stopping only to wipe the perspiration from his brow, Joe labored on. He heard not the croaking of the frogs in the pond near by, nor paid he any attention to the echoing calls of the animals that roamed abroad in their nocturnal search for food. Encountering what appeared to be a stone, Joe laid aside his shovel, mopped his sweaty face, and then set to work with a pick. Joe is a callous man, used to bodding composedly on grinning skulls and bears of bones, but when he saw there, in the uncertain light, the grim countenance of a red red man, sticking up in the hole he had made, he fled for his assistants, roused them from their sleep and enlisted their services in calming his perturbed mind and in completing the removal of the body. Finally the report reached the Chippewa village, and then there was more trouble for De Champ, who had various heart-to-heart talks with inquiring red people.

The upshot of it all was that the cigar sign and the hitching post have been decently buried—if, indeed, the bodies were ever used for that purpose. The petrified bodies, almost perfectly preserved were removed from the shallow grave with difficulty. Near by another body was encountered in the same condition, and laid aside while the work of removing the other mortal remains progressed. It so happens that De Champ is a great joker, and when the story of the petrified cigar Indian and the aboriginal hitching post got around his friends began to ask about his resurrection operations with mock seriousness. Altogether Joe has taken up 133 Indians. Of the number, 26 were of the Catholic faith and were reburied at the agency. The remainder, who were old-time pagans, were taken across the Beltrami county line for burial. The Catholics, when taken up, were found to be encased in wooden coffins, but those who remained loyal to the old Indian faith were wrapped in pitch bark. Thus far only two petrified bodies have been found.

LITTLE CHILDREN

HOW THEY TRAIN THE PARENTS TO SELF-CONTROL AND KINDNESS.

The children of the family one is apt to look on them as burdens, bothers, and expenses.

When the baby comes, be it ever so welcome, the mother has more work to do.

As it grows into childhood, and on to maturity, it is more and more care, worry, and expense.

And so the little children, those innocent trespassers, are borne with as patiently as possible until they grow to a successful manhood or womanhood.

Few stop to think deeply about this, or it would be plainly seen how erroneous the impression.

The children of the family, instead of being burdens, are burden-bearers; small saviors who are daily means of grace; and who lead the world-worn parents once more into the paths of innocence and peace.

A baby's tiny hand clasped around his mother's finger has stilled heart-throbs of sorrow and of bitter trouble; a baby's arms around his father's neck have brought to the man's weary brain a renewal of that love which is all that makes life livable.

And as the child grows into a toddler, it makes both parents become as little children; once more they tell the little stories and pray the little prayers which they themselves heard so many years ago.

As the child grows larger, we see a great improvement in the minor matters of etiquette or morals; for little Mary must not see her mother petulant and angry; little Charles must not hear profane words from his father nor see him aught but the patron saint which the little fellow thinks he is.

And so as the years go by we find ourselves, for our children's sake, much nearer to that ideal man or woman which so long ago we dreamed about.

The child has done what perhaps religion, education, or precept has failed to do. It has made us into lovable, patient, and humble men and women, for the child's steadfast eyes looking into ours asks, nay demands, the very best in our nature.

There is many a grave and reverend grandfather, well permeated with the odor of sanctity, who owes it all to the little children whom he has loved so dearly; many a gentle grandmother, who has thus developed from a selfish and irritable girlhood simply because sundry small grandchildren, with dancing feet and beckoning hands, have coaxed her along the pathway of patience and of love.

The children, bless their small hearts! Desolate the house without them, cursed and forlorn the home where no little ministers of grace give the daily example of innocent joy and loving-kindness.

If you have no children, friend, beg, borrow or steal some. Take a poor little foundling from his forlorn asylum home, and watch his heart warm, his brain develop, and his sad eyes sparkle as you give him love and comfort and a parent's care.

The experiment, if only for your own sake, is exceedingly worth while.

HOUNDED HIM

SENSATIONAL TESTIMONY IN A PORTLAND CASE.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 19.—Testimony on the contestants' side was introduced yesterday in the probate court hearing on the petition of Miss Mary Adele Stackpole of North Westport, Mass., for administration of the estate of Andrew J. Stackpole, of Westbrook, whose daughter and sole heir she claims to be.

Mrs. Conway, sister of the deceased and the principal contestant, now ill, by deposition admitted that Miss Stackpole had visited him twice and claimed to be his daughter, but Mrs. Conway declared that he was not married in 1872, when Miss Stackpole is alleged to have been born. Mrs. Conway said her brother told her that Miss Stackpole is a daughter of Madame Birchenough, the fortune teller, who came here from North Westport to assist in the prosecution of the petitioner's claim. Madame Birchenough had hounded Stackpole and had written him letters charging him with being the father of her daughter, demanding money and making threats. These letters were received while his wife was living. Shortly before his death Stackpole told his sister that he expected "these two women" would come down from Massachusetts, after he was dead, and "make a raid," but that they were entitled to nothing. He gave his sister a deed of his home.

Henry Birchenough, husband of Mme. Birchenough, came here to assist in opposing her claim. He testified that he is an inmate of the poorhouse at New Bedford, Mass., that he married Mme. Birchenough, then Mrs. Connell, in 1900, and she lived with him three months. She accepted his marriage proposal on condition that before the ceremony he make over to her a deed of half his estate, valued at $3500. He didn't understand a great deal about legal matters, and the deed he signed gave all his property to her. The next tday she had it transferred to Miss Stackpole. After the separation he brought suit against the two women and recovered a half share of the property, but his wife succeeded in causing him to lose the rest, and told him there was nothing for him between her and the poorhouse. He drifted to the poorhouse, the only course left him.

The name is the thing to get the coin.

A PECULIAR LEASE

Held by the City for Huntington Hall

The appraisers have not yet taken up the matter of adjusting the loss on Huntington Hall until the city and the Boston & Maine get together and agree upon their rights in the building. The lease is a most peculiar one and The Sun prints below in full the letter of Ex-City Solicitor Qua to Mayor Bennett in 1898 at the time when Huntington Hall burned down before, explaining the nature of the lease.

It reads as follows:

Lowell, Mass., Jan. 7, 1898.

Office of the city solicitor,

Hon. James W. Bennett, Mayor.

Dear Sir: In accordance with your request I have carefully examined the various contracts and agreements between the city of Lowell and the Boston and Lowell railroad corporation, relative to construction and use of the building at the corner of Merrimack and Shattuck streets which contained Huntington and Jackson halls and the passenger station of said railroad with a view to ascertaining the rights and obligations of the city under such contracts, and what action is required to be taken by the city in view of the recent destruction of a portion of said building by fire.

The building was originally constructed in pursuance of a contract entered into between the city and railroad corporation dated July 1, 1852.

Under said contract said railroad corporation was required to construct, according to certain descriptions, plans and specifications referred to and made part of the contract and the city was required to pay to said corporation all the money that the same actually cost over and above the sum of $25,726.93.

In and by said contract said railroad also demised and conveyed to the city all that portion of the building so erected above the first story together with an entrance to the same on Merrimack street and also on Shattuck street for a term of 999 years unless the term should sooner be determined by virtue of another provision in the contract which is hereinafter mentioned.

This demise and conveyance was upon the expressed conditions that one portion of the second story of the building namely a room 127 feet, 4 inches long and 80 feet, 4 inches wide, should for 30 years from the date of the contract be held and used by the city for a city hall and that the other portion of the demised premises should never be used by the city nor for a period of thirty years by anyone claiming under the city for any business requiring the use of machinery nor for any business which would interfere with the beneficial use of the lower story by the railroad corporation and that the estate and term of the city should not for thirty years be liemted or assigned without the consent in writing of the railroad corporation first obtained.

The railroad corporation also covenanted not to erect any building upon the land between said building and Shattuck street during the whole term of the demise, namely 999 years.

The city covenanted that within six months after the completion of the building by the railroad corporation it would have the room for the city hall of the dimensions stated, finished and the remaining portion of the building above the first story finished into such rooms as it should be deemed fit and proper and to pay the railroad corporation the sum of $350 annually on the first day of January on demand during the continuance of the term.

REPAIRS.

The contract also provided that the lower story of the building from the foundation to the second story should be kept in repair by the railroad corporation at its own expense. That portion between the first story and the roof, including the entrance ways, and the stairways, was to be kept in repair by the city at its own expense and the roof and foundation and covering over the canal at the joint expense of the city and railroad corporations.

TERMINATION OF LEASE BY PURCHASE.

It was also provided that after the expiration of thirty years the railroad company should have the privilege and right of purchasing of the city of Lowell, their successors and assigns the interest and estate of the city and premises, by payment of a sum of money which was to be agreed upon between the railroad and the city or in case of failure to agree to be determined by the award of three disinterested and discreet persons or arbitrators, one to be appointed by the railroad corporation, one by the city and the third by the first two chosen.

The city of Lowell was also given the right after the expiration of said term of thirty years to sell, assign or convey its interest in the property to any other person or corporation subject to the same conditions on which it held the estate except the condition requiring a portion of the building to be used as city hall, which in case of said sale was to be discharged.

Before selling its interest, however, the city was required to offer the same to the railroad corporation and in case such railroad corporation desired to purchase the same, but the parties did not agree upon the price to be paid, such price was to be continued by the arbitrators appointed in a manner heretofore stated.

FIRE.

In case the building should be destroyed by fire during the continuance of the term (999 years, unless the estate had been previously determined in the manner aforesaid) then the foundation, covering over the canal walls and roof were to be forthwith built by the railroad corporation and when so rebuilt to be finished and kept in repair and occupied by the parties, their successors and assigns subject to the same conditions, covenants, provisions and agreements as were made in reference to the building so destroyed; the city to pay one-half of the expense of rebuilding the foundation, covering over canal and the roof and to refinish the inside from the top of the first story to the roof together with the entrance ways and stairways at its own expense.

It is provided, however, that in case of such destruction by fire after thirty years from the date of the contract, the city may by a written notice to that effect abandon the contract and lease and assume no further liability in reference to the same.

SECOND CONTRACT.

By a subsequent contract entered into to Feb. 4, 1863, between said railroad corporation and by city the corporation leased to the city of Lowell the right and privilege of placing and laying water pipes through the station house of said railroad at the corner of Merrimack and Dutton streets in said Lowell and also of running the same across the railroad tracks of said corporation as far as their land extends towards said Dutton street to the sewer in said street, and also the right to pass the soil and water from the privies or privy in Huntington hall through said pipes so far as it extends in their land towards said sewer the same said pipes are now laid and adjusted between the parties hereto.

This right and privilege is, however, by the term of said contract terminable at any time by the railroad corporation upon giving to the city six months' notice in writing thereof.

THIRD CONTRACT.

By another contract between said Boston & Lowell corporation and the city the 31st day of December, 1872, it is provided that the city of Lowell may build an entrance and staircase to Huntington hall at the southwesterly end of said hall and maintain and use the same as a place of ingress and egress to and from city hall, and over the premises of said railroad corporation thereto adjoining from the date thereof, (Dec. 31, 1872) to the end of the thirty-year term and in the original contract between the city and said railroad corporation to said hall, dated July 1, 1852, the city agreeing to maintain and keep in repair such entrance and staircase and to pay for the right and privilege aforesaid the sum of $25 annually, in addition to the sum agreed upon in said original contract, and to protect and save harmless the railroad corporation from any claims for damages or injury to any person, on said premises, approaching to go into said hall or while leaving the same.

FOURTH CONTRACT.

By a fourth contract between said railroad corporation and the city, made on the first day of July, 1882, the period of thirty years mentioned in said original contract is extended to fifty years from July 1, 1882, and all the provisions, covenants and conditions in said first contract to which the term of thirty years from the date thereof was applied were so modified and changed that the term of fifty years should be applicable to them instead of thirty years as mentioned in said first mentioned contract.

From the above statement it will be seen that the railroad corporation is bound to rebuild said building. The city is also bound to pay the railroad corporation one-half the expense of rebuilding the roof of the same (I do not understand that the foundation or covering over the canal has been in any way injured), and also to refinish at its own expense said hall and other rooms in the said building above the first story as well as the entrance ways and staircases.

There can be no essential or material change in the dimensions of said hall or in the uses to which it may be put without a new agreement between the city and the railroad corporation.

It seems to me that it would be desirable for the city to have some more permanent contract with the railroad corporation in reference to the maintenance of its water pipes through the station and across the tracks of the railroad corporation, than that which now exists and also that the provision contained in the contract of 1872 in relation to the building and maintaining of an entrance and staircase at the southwesterly end of Huntington hall should be so changed and extended as to cover the period of fifty years provided for in the contract of 1882.

It will be observed that after the first day of July, 1902, the railroad corporation may, if it chooses to do so, insist upon the purchase of the city's interest in the building at a price to be fixed by arbitration.

Whether, in view of this fact, the city will deem it prudent to endeavor by some arrangement with the railroad corporation to further extend the period during which the city have the absolute right to hold its interest before expending a large sum of money in finishing the hall and rooms, is a question to be considered.

I have drawn the enclosed joint resolution to be submitted to the city council if you deem it proper.

Respectfully submitted.

FRANCIS W. QUA,
City Solicitor.

THE DISCOVERER OF

Seven Barks

A NOTED PHYSICIAN

Who Truthfully Claimed That Bad Stomachs and Torpid Livers Were Responsible for 95 Per Cent of All Disease.

As Dr. Causwein says, "The cause of nearly every disease can be directly traced to clogged and inactive stomachs, livers or intestines. Biliousness, Indigestion, Gout, Rheumatism, Headaches, Insomnia, Kidney and Bladder Troubles and all Liver Complaints emanate from one of the digestive or drainage organs. These organs must be kept constantly in action to insure uninterrupted good health, and there is no remedy or corrective so harmless and so certain as 'Seven Barks.'"

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Mr. Talmon Sneddy, of Midway, Tenn., writes:—

"My mother was troubled with Sick Headache. She tried several medicines with no relief until she used 'Seven Barks,' which completely cured her. Her trouble was of eight or ten years' standing."

Mrs. Emma Pinet, 22 Lewis street, Haverhill, Mass, says:—

"I was troubled with Sick Headaches, Indigestion and Biliousness. I was so nervous I could not rest nights. Since taking 'Seven Barks' my Indigestion has disappeared and I can rest well, and everything I eat tastes so good now."

If anyone with Stomach, Liver or Kidney Troubles will get a bottle of "Seven Barks," take as directed, and if all the benefit one should expect is not derived, no charge will be made. We are not taking chances in making this offer, for we know the character of the remedy and we are satisfied it will do all that is claimed for it.

Comforting Words

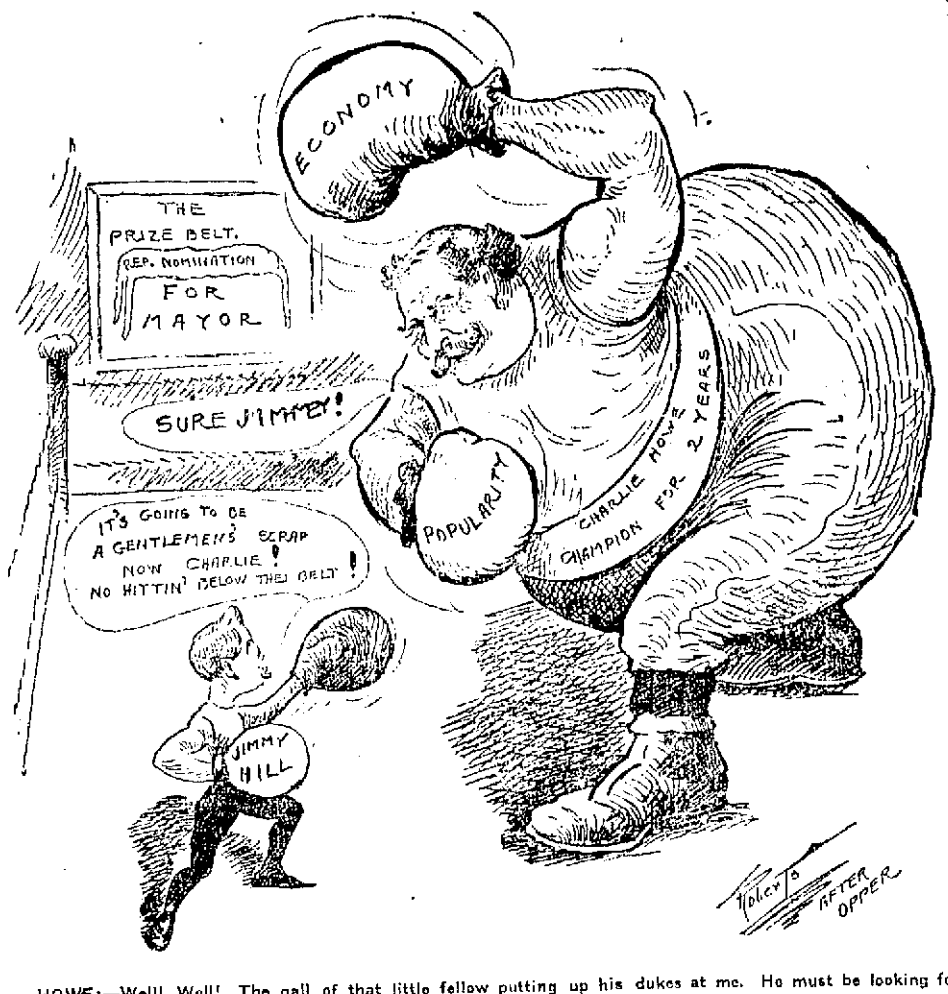

Many a Lowell Household Will Find Them So

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidneys sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Lowell readers:

Mrs. Annie Kelly, of 90 Appleton street, Lowell, says: "To overpraise Doan's Kidney Pills is impossible. Before I used them I suffered greatly from a complication of kidney and bladder troubles. There was constant pain in my back, the secretions of the kidneys were variable, and in addition to being highly colored they contained much sediment. My nerves were unstrung, I could not sleep nights and could not obtain ease while up. Learning about Doan's Kidney Pills I went to Ellingwood & Co.'s drug store and got a box. It helped me so much that I bought half a dozen more. I believe Doan's Kidney Pills will cure any ordinary case of kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

HOWE:—Well! Well! The gall of that little fellow putting up his dukes at me. He must be looking for trouble. Just watch me knock him out with the first swipe.

HILL—Don't be too sure Charlie. Did you ever hear of David and Goliath?

WORLD'S FAIR

TO COMMEMORATE END OF THE CIVIL WAR.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 19.—The first announcement was made yesterday of a formal movement to hold in this city in 1915 a world's fair, to be known as the Semi-Centennial Peace Jubilee exposition, commemorating the end of the Civil war. It is asserted that assurances of aid from the government and various organizations have been secured. The following announcement explaining the nature of the exposition has been issued:

"From 1861 to 1865, there was fought in these United States the greatest Civil war the world has ever seen. Peace between the states was established on April 9, 1865. It is customary to celebrate important periods in our history by holding expositions which demonstrate the progress that has been made. Great expositions of this kind were held at Chicago in 1893 and in St. Louis in 1904, eleven years apart. Eleven years more will bring us to 1915, the year of our semi-centennial peace anniversary.

"Chattanooga is the geographical centre of the scenes of the Civil war. It was the most strategical point and is immediately surrounded by some of the greatest battlefields of that war."

GREENHALGE DEBATERS.

The Frederic T. Greenhalge Debating society, of the Lowell High school, held its first meeting yesterday afternoon in room 20, there being a large attendance. The subject of the debate was "Resolved, That Governor Bates should not have vetoed the overtime bill."

The affirmative was upheld by J. Newcomb Lake and Warren Shaw; Sidney H. Whipple and John Varney taking the negative. The former won the decision.

The judges were Miss Sweetser and Miss O'Connor. President Frank Sullivan was in the chair.

William C. Burke has been appointed sergeant-at-arms.

TO THE POOR

MRS. SARAH TRACEY LEFT HER ESTATE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Rt. Rev. P. J. Donahue, Roman Catholic bishop of Wheeling, W. Va., will receive the major portion of the estate of Sarah C. Tracy, valued at more than $250,000, under the terms of the will filed in the surrogate's office yesterday. The will requests that Bishop Donahue use the estate to erect and maintain an industrial school for unfortunate poor in memory of the testator's grandfather, Keating Rawson, and two orphan asylums in memory of her dead brother, Edward Tracy.

The will bequeaths $1000 to Bishop McDonald of Brooklyn, $5000 to St. John's college for a scholarship, and $1000 to the sisters of St. Francis Xavier church. Bishop Donahue is bequeathed $1000, together with all the books, paintings, horses and carriages owned by the testatrix for his own use. He is to sell her rare laces and jewels and devote the proceeds to charity.

Bishop Donahue is made residuary legatee and the testatrix explains that he is to account to no person. If sufficient funds remain, he will directs that a church is to be erected and dedicated to the "Blessed Virgin, Mother of God.", Should Bishop Donahue die, Archbishop Farley is to carry out the plans.

A TRIP TO NEW YORK.

The story of "New York Day by Day," which will be told on the stage of the Academy of Music this afternoon and evening should interest every one who appreciates and enjoys high class melodrama. The plot deals with the attempts of Richard Blakely, a banker, to defraud Polly, a blind girl, out of the fortune that is hers by right.

The development of the plot is secured by a number of strongly dramatic scenes mingled with a vein of comedy that is at times uproarious. While the dramatic is never sacrificed to the ludicrous, there is a judicious mingling of the gay with the graver side of life that is one of the secrets of the popularity attained by "New York Day by Day."

There are a number of singing and dancing specialties introduced during the action of the play and the scenery is handsome and complete in every detail.

RUNAWAY GIRLS

Visit of Nashua Maidens Interfered With

Alma and Mary Bonin, two pretty girls, who came here from Nashua, to spend time and money, have had their pleasant sojourn interrupted and have been obliged, much to their own and the regret of numerous Lowell friends, to return to their old New Hampshire home.

It seems that the Bonin girls, who have been missing from Nashua, since Wednesday, Nov. 9, supplied themselves with sufficient money to purchase pretty dresses and other things.

Saying nothing of their intentions to their parents they came to this city where they have enjoyed their stolen vacation to the limit.

The distracted parents, in the meantime, communicated with the police, who were baffled for a time in locating the girls because of the change they had made in their wearing apparel. But yesterday afternoon Inspectors Maher and Lafiamme spotted the couple on Central street and took them to the police station.

There the girls admitted their identity. They are the 15 and 16-year-old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bonin, who reside at 11 Arlington street, Nashua. In company with their father and a Nashua officer the runaway maidens returned to their home last night.

TOOK POISON

BOSTON MAN REFUSES TO EXPLAIN ACTION.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Jacob Conviser, 32 years old, married and living at 40 Hale street, West End, while passing through Merrimac street was taken suddenly sick and went into a stable at 135 Merrimac street, from which place he was sent to the City hospital relief station.

Upon examination the doctors found that he had taken carbolic acid, and when asked how it happened, replied that someone had given it to him. He refused to explain further, saying that if he got better he might tell, and if he didn't it would not matter.

After working on him for some time the doctors concluded that he was in a dangerous condition, and his relatives were notified. Conviser is a tailor, with a place of business at 80 Blackstone street.

AT THE CASTO NEXT WEEK.

Woodford's educated ponies, monkeys and baboons and dogs head the program at the Casto Theatre next week, and will present the greatest animal act upon the American stage. Representing the highest type of animal education they perform almost incredible feats with ease and dexterity, and cold type cannot do justice to this act. Among the animals which will be at the Casto next week is the smallest pony in the world which weighs but 17 pounds. The remainder of the program is composed of star comedy acts, and includes Hendings, Lewis and Hendings in their refined musical comedy; interspersed with excellent singing and dancing; Bush, Devere Trio in their original musical specialty; Mooney and Hollein in their grotesque singing and dancing specialty; Nichols and Croix in a high class comedy sketch; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lucier presenting their comedy "A Rustic Romeo," with mirth and music; Harry Brown in his amusing songs, and Emelie Benner, the girl with the underground voice. Reserved seats will be in great demand at the Casto next week, and they should be ordered in advance. This can be done by telephone 815-3, or they may be purchased at the box office which is open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Y. M. C. A. AT CASTO

MEN'S MEETING IN THEATRE TOMORROW AFTERNOON AT 3.30.

The Y. M. C. A. will hold the regular Sunday afternoon meeting for men in the Casto Theatre tomorrow. Rev. W. W. Bustard of Boston will speak on "A Good Grip." The University Male Quartet of Boston will sing "The Homeland," Dow; "Cast Your Care Upon Him," Dow; "The Story of the Day," Mace. There will also be a male chorus under the direction of J. Avison Baker. The Casto is one of our most popular theatres, Mr. Bustard is a gifted speaker, the University Male quartet is composed of talented musicians and Mr. Baker's ability and reputation as a conductor is a guarantee that the chorus work will be first class. With such an array of attractions our men are assured of a good time and present indications point to a big crowd. Doors open 3.10, program 3.30. All men invited.

Doesn't Respect Old Age.

SOMETHING NEW IN MANTLES

Everyone is talking of the guaranteed mantle.

To think that a mantle could be guaranteed for two months is a new idea to most people.

And the Barker Co., who is ever on the watch for the real thing, is pleased that they can put before the people of Lowell an excellent mantle guaranteed to last for two months.

And the fact of the matter is they will last five times two months.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

WITH THE HORSES

Items of Interest Clipped and Gleaned

It is reported that a syndicate of horsemen have opened negotiations for the purchase of the Jewett covered track.

Latest advices from Memphis, Tenn., state that Trainer E. F. Geers is doing well, but may have to remain in the hospital several weeks.

A report is in circulation that Dave McClary has sold his 3-year-old colt, Lord Revelstoke 2.12¾, by Bingen, 2.06¼, for export to Italy at a long price.

Ed Benyon will probably train a public stable next year, as his contract with Walnut Hall farm, that expires Jan. 1, will not be renewed. L. Harkness having decided to discontinue his racing stable, hereafter the colts bred at Walnut Hall farm will be sold at the farm as yearlings and 2-year-olds. Gamaan, 2.07½, will be bred to Moko in 1905, and Fereno, 2.05¾, to Walnut Hall, 2.08¼.

Frank G. Smith writes in the Horse World: "I hear that Col. Dick Arthurs of Brookville and the 'only' Dick Clover of Punxsutawney have invited Vance Nuckols to join them on a hunting trip this week. Mr. Clover has corked up all the rabbit holes in that section of Pennsylvania, and when Mr. Nuckols gets ready to fire there will be a swarm to shoot at. Last year H. Eddleblute, a distinguished member of the party, tied a rabbit to a hitching post so that Vance Nuckols could have the honor of killing one for certain. But alas Vance shot the string in two, and the rabbit was still running at last accounts."

The famous broodmare Estabella, by Alcantara, 2.23, dam Anabel, by George Wilkes, that established a notable family at Village farm, is dead. Estabella produced Prince Regent, 2.16½, and Heir-at-Law, 2.05¾, both successful sires, also Princess Royal, 2-year-old record 2.20, dam of The Earl, 2.17; Princess Chimes, dam of Lady of the Manor, 2.04½; Grace Hamlin, dam of Heir Apparent, 2.25¼, and Vice Regent, sire of Vice Regal 2.14¼, etc. Her roll of honor is not yet completed as some of her younger foals are likely to take records. Estabella was foaled in Kentucky in 1881 and was bought of David Bonner by Mr. Hamlin when a 2-year-old. She was never trained but possessed a great amount of natural speed.

The pedigree of Commodore Kitson, sire of the fast pacing mare Lady May, 2.07½, is very interesting and runs to lines identified with New England. He is by Revenue, 2.22¼, dam Lady Rolfe, 2.23½ trotting, 2.23 pacing, by Tom Rolfe, 2.33½. Revenue, 2.22¼, was by Smuggler, 2.15¼, dam May Morning, 2.30, by Daniel Lambert; grandam May Queen, by Ethan Allen, 2.15½; third dam the old-time pacing queen Pocahontas. Pocahontas was also the dam of Tom Rolfe, the grandsire of Nelson, 2.09, and she was by Iron's Cadmus, and it was Blanco, son of Iron's Cadmus, that sired Smuggler. Lady Rolfe, dam of Commodore Kitson produced Rolfewood, 2.19¼, pacing, and Pacolet, 2.19¼, and was the grandam of Rena Rolfe, 4, 2.19¾, who was also by Revenue. Lady Rolfe was a remarkable mare in that she could be shifted from the trot to the pace merely by the bit and driven miles better than 2.30 at both gaits without being taken off the track between heats.

Although just made public, the death of Hamlin's Almont, Jr., occurred at Village Farm some little time ago. This son of Almont was probably the greatest son of his famous sire. He was foaled in 1872 and remained vigorous almost up to the time of his death. When he was made the premier sire at Village Farm the brood mares owned there were vastly inferior in point of breeding to those owned there later, but from them Almont, Jr., sired speed of high enough class to make him widely known as a most successful sire. Belle Hamlin, 2.12¾, Globe, 2.14½, and Justina, 2.20, by their performances in single and double harness, aroused the interest of the public to an unusual extent. Belle Hamlin and Justina first placed the world's team record at 2.13, and later on Belle Hamlin and Globe reduced it to 2.12, where it remained until last season. The three also established a triple team record of 2.14, which has never been beaten. Almont, Jr., sired 54 standard performers, 16 of which took records of 2.20 or better. Fifteen of his sons are sires of standard performers and his daughters have produced 36 standard performers, including the famous Lord Derby, 2.05½, and four others with records below 2.10. Almont Jr. was a horse of great beauty and beautiful action, both of which qualities he transmitted to his get very uniformly. As a sire of handsome, frame gaited and speed horses he has had no equal in Western New York, and it is maintained by many of his admirers that could he have been mated with some of the best of the matrons which have been seen in Village Farm brood mare ranks for the last few years his rank as a sire would have been greatly advanced before the records of his get were entirely made up. As it is, his family will always occupy a prominent place in the breeding history.

CYCLE NEWS

Frank Waller, who was reported to have died in London some months ago, returned to New York last week with his nine-year-old son, after an absence of nearly two years in Australia and England. He left San Francisco for Australia on November 24, 1902, taking one motor pacing machine with him. In Australia he paced Smythe, "a seventeen stone amateur," as Waller described him, for the amateur paced records. He also competed in motor races there, and paced Major Taylor in his training and in a few short distance paced races.

From Australia Waller went to England, arriving there in April, 1903, after a journey of six weeks by boat. He went on the same steamer as Dicketmann and Robl, who had been racing on the Australian tracks behind motor pace. Robl had made an agreement with Waller for the latter to act as his pacemaker when they arrived in Europe, but Robl left the ship at Naples and did not keep his part of the agreement. As Waller had no written contract with the German pace follower, he remained on the ship until he reached England.

Waller went to London, and, as he had sold his motor pacing machine in Australia to pay his passage, he went to work building motor bicycles. He worked for Arthur A. Chase, the famous English pace follower, in the latter's factory near the Crystal Palace track. His wife and children joined him in London, two of his children having died since he began his trip around the world. Though he is now more than forty-five years old, Waller says he may enter the six-day team race in Madison Square Garden next month.

He says that the English motor bicycles are not to be compared in appearance to American machines like the Indian and others. Most of the British machines are very heavy and cumbersome and have wide treads. The belt drive is used there almost exclusively, though the Humber firm makes a chain-driven model. The majority of the machines are of either 5 or 3½ horsepower. The 5-horsepower models weigh about 145 pounds, and the others fifteen or twenty pounds less. The weight is frequently increased by extra coils, accumulators, band brakes and other fittings. The machines are regularly fitted with mud guards and a frame on the back wheel which can be used as a luggage carrier or to hold the wheel clear of the ground while making repairs.

John S. Prince and Gussie Lawson, well known in Lowell, returned to New York from Europe on the Oceanic on Nov. 9. Prince went over as an emissary of the promoters of the six-day race in Madison Square Garden, and Lawson had been racing behind motor pace in France and Germany. Lawson competed in but three races, in two of which he was defeated, the other resulting in a victory. He attributed his poor showing to the fact that he had not raced for several years, during which he acted as pacemaker for Robert Walthour. He will be with the latter again next season, when Walthour begins racing behind motor pace.

While he was abroad, Prince visited France, Germany and England to investigate the chances for building indoor tracks. He said that the outlook was so good that he would return to England, where he expects to be able to build coliseum tracks in some of the interior cities. If his plans do not miscarry, Prince will have a team of American riders sent over to compete on the tracks after they are finished.

New York's annual six-day team race will be started at 12.05 a. m. on December 5, and will end at 10.05 p. m., on December 10. Six teams of foreign riders who will compete in the long grind will sail from France next week. They will be cared for during the race by a corps of trainers under the direction of John West of Chicago. West handled Fisher and Bowler in last year's contest, and did not intend to take charge of a team again, but was prevailed upon by P. T. Powers to assume the care of the foreign contingent. West had charge of the foreign riders three years ago, and Gougoltz asked that he care for them this time.

Emile Friol, the young French sprinter who surprised nearly every one by winning the professional championship of France this year, will be one of the attractions at the "curtain raiser" meet on the Saturday night before the big race starts. He will ride a match race against Frank L. Kramer, the American champion, that night, and will give exhibitions during the week. Another attraction for the "curtain raiser" meet will be a motor-paced match race between Robert Walthour and James Michael.

SUM OF $15,000

SENT TO IRISH PARLIAMENTARY FUND.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Contributions aggregating $15,000 to the Irish parliamentary fund were forwarded from this city yesterday. The gift was accompanied by the following letter:

"Boston, Nov. 18, 1904.

Right Rev. Patrick O'Donnell, D. D., Bishop of Raphoe; Hon. John E. Redmond, M. P., Chairman Irish Party; Alderman Stephen O'Mara, Limerick; Trustees Irish Parliamentary Fund, Dublin, Ireland:

"Gentlemen: Enclosed please find drafts for two thousand pounds (2000) which together with the one thousand them forwarded a few days ago, makes three thousand pounds (3000) or fifteen thousand dollars forwarded you within a week.

"This I am enabled to do through the splendid remittance of twelve thousand dollars (12,000) from the good people of Philadelphia and the generous contribution of thirteen hundred and seven dollars, fifty-three cents ($1307.53) from the patriotic sympathizers of the home rule movement in Toronto, Canada.

"We are gratified to learn that other sections of our country are preparing to follow the good example set by Philadelphia, Toronto and other places already so creditably heard from. With this disposition of co-operation so manifest, it is reasonable to believe that the amount pledged at the recent convention will be realized within a comparatively short space of time.

"With kind regards, I remain, respectfully yours,

(Signed) "T. B. FITZPATRICK."

JIMMY GARDNER

Knocked Out Rube Smith of Denver

DENVER, Col., Nov. 19—Jimmy Gardner of Lowell, Mass., last night knocked out Rube Smith of Denver in the fifth round of a scheduled ten-round bout. With the exception of the second round in which Smith floored Gardner with a right to the wind, the Lowell boy had the better of the milling. The men fought at 135 pounds.

BENNINGS TRACK

SENSATIONAL FINISH TO ONE RACE.

BENNINGS, D. C., Nov. 19.—An unattractive program was converted into excellent racing yesterday by the sensational finish between Monacodor and Gold Fleur, in the selling race for two year olds and the surprising work of Jane Holly in winning from Palette, a 3 to 5 favorite in the sixth race for mares three years old and upwards. Jane Holly refused to go to the wire and delayed the start fifteen minutes. After she got away she led Palette around the course. Monacodor and Gold Fleur ran almost a dead heat, former winning. Summaries:

First race, selling, for 3-year-olds, seven furlongs; Columbia Course. Brooklynite, 91, Notter, 4 to 1, won; Briar Thorpe, 93, Crimmins, 6 to 1, second; Pantique, 96, Lee, 10 to 1, third. Time—1.28 4-5.

Second race, two year olds; fillies, six furlongs; Columbia course. Sufferance, 105, Redfern, 3 to 5, won; Queen Rose, 109, T. Burns, 6 to 1, second, Bravery, 109, Lee, 13 to 5, third. Time—1.17.

Third race, selling, for 3 year olds and upwards, mile and 40 yards, old course: Andrew Mack, 100, Romanelli, 3 to 1, won: Copelia, 98, Travers, 2½ to 1, second: Charles Elwood, Ill., Wonderly, 7 to 1, third. Time—1.46.

Fourth, race, selling: two year olds, six furlongs: Columbia course. Monacodor, 112, T. Burns, 4 to 1, won; Gold Fleur, 109; Crimmins, 11 to 5 second; Preen, 112, Redfern, 5 to 1, third. Time—1.15 3-5.

Fifth race, for maiden three year olds and upwards, mile and 60 yards, old course. Ben Crockett, 107, Travers, 2 to 1, won; Nuit Blanche, 107, T. Burns, 15 to 1, second; Silver Foot, 110, Redfern, 3½ to 1, third. Time—1.48 1-5.

Sixth race, selling, for mares, 3 years old, and upward, one mile, Columbia course. Jane Holly, 106, Romanelli, 5 to 1, won; Palette, 95, Notter, 3 to 5, second; Cheripe, 95, B. Miller, 7 to 1, third. Time—1.42 3-5.

EASY VICTORIES

NEWBURYPORT AND NATICK ARE WINNERS.

NEWBURYPORT, Nov. 19—Newburyport defeated New Bedford at basketball last night before 600 people, 44 to 33. The passing of the home team was far superior to that of the visitors. The latter team improved during the last part of the game. During intermission two amateur teams played, the Myopias defeating the Columbias, 8 to 6. The summary of the league game:

NEWBURYPORT	NEW BEDFORD
Martens rf	lb Donnelly
Punch lf	rb Healy
W. I. Sheridan c	c Murphy
Reagan, H. Sheridan rb	lf Marshall
Hayes lb	rf Sanger

Score—Newburyport 44, New Bedford 33. Goals from floor, Martens 5, Punch 5, W. I. Sheridan, 4, H. Sheridan 3, Hayes, 5, Healy 5, Sanger 5, Murphy 5, Donnelly 2. Fouls called, on Newburyport 5, on New Bedford 2. Referee—Pickard of Haverhill. Timer—Murphy of New Bedford. Time—three 15m. periods.

NATICK 47, FALL RIVER 30.

NATICK, Nov. 19—Natick defeated Fall River last night at basketball, 47 to 30. The visitors were clearly outclassed, Natick having no difficulty in scoring at will. Hough and Ferral did some clever basket shooting for the home team, and Gebhard and Matthews for the visitors. The summary:

NATICK	FALL RIVER
Ferral rf	lb Gebhard
Hough lf	rb Henschel
Muliner c	c Getzinger
Kincaide rb	lf Matthews
Mayhem lb	rb Haggerty

Score—Natick 47, Fall River 30. Goals scored, by Hough 12, Ferral 5, Mayhem 4, Muliner, Matthews 7, Gebhard 4, Getzinger 2, Henschel. Fouls called, on Natick 5, on Fall River 3. Referee—Davis. Timers—O'Neil and Kelleher. Time—three 15m. periods. Attendance—500.

Well, we face Natick tonight and here's hoping that the Lowell boys will turn the trick.

YALE SCHEDULE.

A more elaborate schedule of games for the Yale University basket ball team has been arranged for the coming winter than in any previous season.

Instead of the usual western trip during the Christmas holidays, this year, a southern trip as far as New Orleans has been planned, and following this, the intercollegiate games will be played.

The schedule of the team includes the following dates:

December 22 at Baltimore; December 23 at Richmond; December 24 at Charleston; December 26 at Savannah; December 27 at Atlanta; December 29, at Mobile; December 30, at New Orleans; January 1 at Birmingham; January 3 at Nashville; January 4 at Cumberland University; January 5 at Cincinnati; January 6 at Allegheny college; January 7, at Syracuse; January 10, at Colgate.

BOWLING NEWS

The Mohairs defeated the Fairmounts on the alleys last night by the margin of 21 pins. The game was close and interesting throughout, the losing team having the better of the argument until the last string when the Mohairs got down to hard work and captured both the string and the game. Abbott of the Fairmounts was high man both in single and three string totals. The score:

COURT ST. ANTOINE C. O. F.

A solemn high mass will be sung at nine o'clock Thanksgiving day at St. Jean Baptiste church for the repose of the souls of the deceased members of Court St. Antoine, C. O. F. The deceased members of the court with the date of their death are as follows:

Dr. Romeo L. Vaillancourt, March, 1900; Alphonse Baron, May, 1900; Hubert Mallon, October, 1901; Joseph Piche, October, 1901; Joseph T. Fontaine, April, 1903; J. B. Deschenes, January, 1904; Wilfrid G. Caisse, January, 1904; Elzear Langlois, April, 1904.

The court will also visit the graves of the dead members tomorrow afternoon at St. Joseph's cemetery. The members are to take part in the memorial Sunday exercises of L'Association Catholique—which, having been postponed from last Sunday, are to take place tomorrow—and once at the cemetery will visit in a body the graves of their own dead. This is the first observance of the kind made by the court, but hereafter a memorial visit to the cemetery will be made every year, as with L'Association Catholique.

CHOPPED HIS THUMB.

While Joseph McCluskey was trying to cut a rope with an axe at the Lowell Waste Co.'s works this morning he chopped off the top of his left thumb. He was taken to the Emergency hospital where his thumb was dressed. McCluskey resides in Butler avenue.

MILLS RUNNING

Very Few Hands Are Working

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 19.—Mills are running this morning about as Friday. Very few hands are working in the center though most engines are turning. The factories are doing no better than in the past few days. In the eastern section the Flint, Wampanoag, Barnard and Stafford mills have closed for the day, but will start up Monday. The other east end factories claim to be running with added hands.

In the south end the Shove, Laurel Lake and Bourne mills are closed down and the others are not running well.

The same conditions prevail in the north end, three plants closed and two running with few operatives.

AT THE HORSESHOW

SOCIETY TURNED OUT IN LARGE NUMBERS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19—The crowds at the horse show yesterday afternoon and last night were the largest of the week. This has been the most successful week in the matter of attendance which the National Horse Show association of America has ever held.

The most picturesque feature of the afternoon was the class in which three members of various hunt clubs competed. They were the Cameron Run Hunt club, from Alexandria, Va., Richmond County Hunt, Westchester Hunt and Essex Hunt of Orange, N. J. The Virginia huntsmen easily carried off the blue ribbon. Their horses were more nearly matched, they fenced better, the uniforms were more distinctive and the riders more of a height, and in general conformation they easily were ahead. The three riders with the mounts were Mr. Evans, on Ripley, Mrs. Howe, on Tip Top, Mr. Smith, on Lucy Sullivan.

What always proves to be the prettiest sight in the horse show was on the program yesterday when a class of Shetland ponies were shown. None of the horses was larger than a good sized dog and they were driven to small wagons by children. Aberdeen and Breezy of Pittsford, owned by M. F. Hawley, were awarded blue and red ribbons, respectively.

RED LETTER DAY

Zemstovs Ask for Voice in Government

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 19.—Today may mark a red letter day in the Russian calendar. About one hundred representatives of provincial zemstovs assembled privately at 2 o'clock this afternoon with the avowed purpose of presenting to Emperor Nicholas through Interior Minister Sviatopolk Mirsky a truthful picture of the internal conditions of Russia coupled with recommendations pointing out in plain terms the necessity for calling a legally empowered constituent assembly to have a direct voice in the government. The word "constitution" however, will be carefully avoided.

The liberals have been greatly excited by the developments of the last few days. The meeting was to be held at the duma, or city hall, but at the last moment official auspices were refused, the emperor withdrawing his consent.

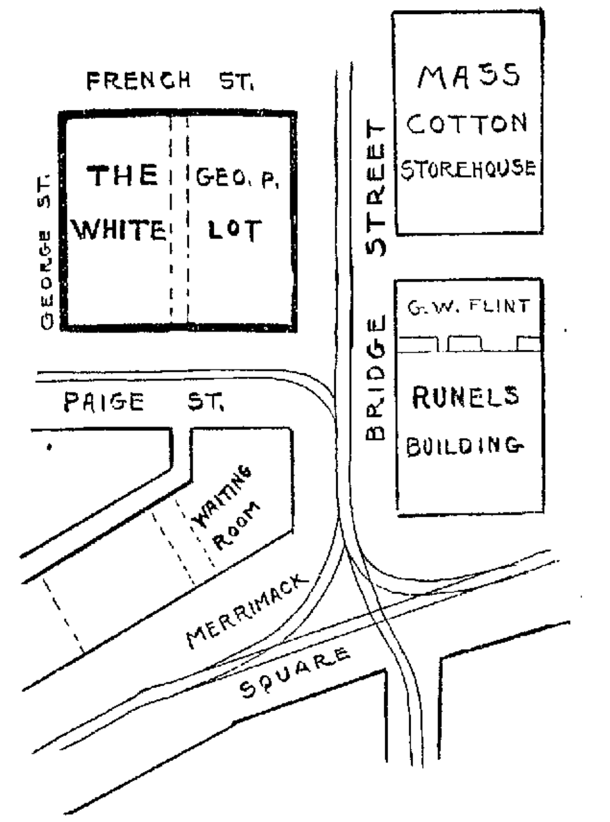

Many of the zemstvos' representatives attribute the emperor's attitude to the influence of Grand Duke Sergius M. Pobedonostseff, the procurer general of the holy synod, and M. Sassonooff, a member of the council of the empire, and indirectly to such reactionaries as Merchersky, Strunner and Suchinsky. The latter two formerly were the late Interior Minister Von Plehve's assistants who were promoted to the council of the empire. When Prince Sviatolpolk Mirsky dispensed with their services, the spectre of a constitution was successfully raised, according to their view.' They are not disposed to criticise Prince Sviatolpolk Mirsky, whose goo dintentions they do not question. They believe he is powerless but nevertheless they express disappointment at the fact that he yielded. Prince Sviatolpolk Mirsky's friends, however, have another side of the story. They insist that he acted in the sincere conviction of what he believed to be the greatest interest of the zemstvos. They explain that when the minister began the negotiations M. Shihoff and Petrunkavich and Prince Ivoff were sent to explain what the meeting proposed to do and the minister found that instead of 34 presidents whom he had invited, about 100 representatives were to be present and that they proposed to go much further than their powers authorized. They were in no sense official representatives chosen by the zemstvos to present a memorial to the government.

When the emperor declined to grant permission however, Prince Sviatolpolk Mirsky informed the representatives that although official sanctation was declined, they could meet privately, police protection being guaranteed. Moreover he himself at once drafted a law for submission to the council of the empire authorizing the zemstvos to elect delegates to sit in a concultative body in connection with the department of rural affairs of his ministry. This law will be immediately promulgated in order that the zemstvos at their approaching meetings in December may choose representatives. Prince Sviatolpolk Mirsky's idea that ill digested, action might wreck the prospects of the future was supported by a number of the zemstvos representatives here but the majority although moderate in their views rejected the advice of their colleagues as being simply a stop to a whale and entered the meeting this afternoon determined to speak plainly. Their program has a negative and a positive side. The first consists in the adoption of a sort of Reductio ad absurdum argument in the form of a memorandum in which they will attempt to show that the existing conditions in the empire with constant unrest and disturbance resulting in an increase in the revolutionary propoganda cannot continue. The course of the story will be traced to show the ebb and flow of imperialism and it will be contended that the liberal tendency of the government which began in the reign of Alexander II. was really checked after the Polish insurrection and only briefly revived in the days of Loris-Melikoff.

The positive memorandum will recommend the calling of a constitution assembly as the means of securing a legal expression of the views of the nation. The radicals and some student organizations had planned sympathetic demonstrations in front of the Duma, in favor of ending the war and calling a national assembly but with the place of meeting of the zemstvos, representatives secret the demonstrations will probably not occur.

HUNTINGTON HALL

And a New Public Market Combined

Plan Showing the Geo. P. White Lot in Merrimack Square the proposed site for a new Huntington Hall and Public Market.

Both Could be Erected on the White Lot in Merrimack Sq.—Location is Convenient and Ideal Every Way—Building Can be Erected Free of Expense to the City—Housekeepers Would Benefit by Getting Provisions at First Cost

The citizens of Lowell need a hall in which to hold public meetings to replace Huntington hall. They want it to be of modern construction, safe and easy of access. They also need what they have needed for many years—a public market. This should also be of modern design and easy of access. They have now a rare opportunity of getting both the public hall and public market under favorable conditions if they will take advantage of the situation and go at the matter in earnest.

THE SITE.

The most desirable site in the city from every point of view is the White lot on Bridge street, near Merrimack square, to which The Sun has made previous reference. The above diagram shows the location of the lot, and no reasonable person will deny that it fulfills every requirement for a hall or combination of halls and a public market. The lot is practically 150 feet square, fronting on four thoroughfares. It is at the junction of all the street railway lines in the city and those approaching the city from suburban districts. The lot is covered with old buildings and can be obtained at a more reasonable price today than if the citizens were to wait until it is covered with modern structures.

A hall on this lot could be made practically fireproof as it would not be endangered by any adjoining risks or exposures to fire. The building need not be more than two stories high and exits could be provided on all sides, so that in case of fire the people could reach any or all of the four surrounding streets in a few minutes. People might go to this new Huntington hall with the full assurance that if a fire should start, which on account of its isolation is quite unlikely, they would still be sure of getting out safely on account of the open areas provided by the public highways on all sides. As this building would not be located over a canal, it would be possible to have a good basement in which a proper heating plant could be installed, and the heating could be done much more economically than it has been done at Huntington hall.

THE MARKET.

With reference to the proposal to utilize the lot for a public market it may be safely said that thoughtful people have recognized the need of such an institution in this city for many years. Experience has proven that the best way to get provisions to the consumer in good condition and at the lowest prices is by means of a public market. Farmers would bring their produce in daily, dispose of it to the occupants of the various stalls at the ruling price, and the dealers would no doubt be glad to be in the same building to dispose of their wares to the numerous purchasers who would come as they do to every public market to buy all their foodstuffs in one place and at the lowest market price. In a public market the goods are turned over so rapidly that they are always in the best condition while the dealers, enjoying the advantage of quick sales are content with smaller profits. No city that enjoys the advantages of a public market would think of parting with it under any consideration. Besides, the occupants of the various market stalls consider them a valuable asset, and in many cities they are handed down from father to son as a rich legacy. The system is profitable to the dealer, economical and advantageous for the purchaser. It is needless to state that the best place for a public market is at the end of the converging street railway lines where people can come and go without the necessity of changing cars.

THE DESIGN.

The design for a market and public halls combined would permit of very wide scope for competing architects, and a beautiful, safe and comfortable structure could be designed for this lot in a way that would insure its erection at a moderate cost. A series of arcades running from Paige street through to French street would provide for all the requirements for a market that would be light and airy in all seasons. The first story need not be more than 15 or 18 feet high. This would permit of easy access to the halls above. The entrance to the halls suggests a wide and majestic approach from Bridge street with rear entrances from George street and emergency exits on all four streets.

THE COST.

The matter of cost to the city of Lowell need not alarm the most econ-

TO REORGANIZE

Plans Made by N. H. Traction Co.

BOSTON, Nov. 19—The affairs of the New Hampshire Traction company which operates a number of lines throughout southeastern New Hampshire and extending over the Massachusetts border are being re-organized. A reorganization committee consisting of Charles F. Ayer of Boston and Alfred B. Foster and Otto T. Barnard, both of New York have submitted a plan which provides for a foreclosure and the formation of a new corporation with $1,000,000, 4 per cent. non cumulative stock and $1,000,000 of common stock.

Bond holders are to receive 60 per cent. of the par value of principal on their bonds in new preferred stock and 60 per cent. in new common stock, while holders of the certificates of indebtedness will receive new common stock to the par value of their certificates. This will leave the new company with no fixed charges. Holders of a majority of the bonds have assented to the plan of re-organization. The New Hampshire Traction company was organized two years ago by the New York Security Trust company to consolidate the so-called Lowell system of railroads in southeastern New Hampshire. Unsatisfactory weather conditions seriously affected it from the time of its organization and last November the company was obliged to fund two years' coupons upon its $7,700,000 bonds into certificates of indebtedness. Last winter the company sustained heavy losses.

SEEKS DIVORCE

SUIT ENTERED BY VANDERBILT'S GRANDDAUGHTER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Cables from Paris announce that the first tribunal of the Seine is hearing the divorce proceedings brought by Countess Czaykowski against Count Czaykowski, better known as Rechid Bey, a Turkish diplomat, now stationed as secretary of the Turkish legation at The Hague.

The proceedings are reported as highly sensational, and a heated controversy is progressing relative to the disposition of the children. Countess Czaykowski holds that the father is unfit to control them.

Countess Czaykowski is better known in this country as Edith Collins, the former ward of Senator Chauncey Depew, to whom she was reported to be engaged some years ago. She is the daughter of Clarence Lyman Collins, and her mother was a daughter of Mrs. R. J. Nivens, third daughter of Commodore Vanderbilt.

Countess Czaykowski's fortune is estimated at about $7,000,000.

AMESBURY MAN HELD UP BY HIGHWAYMAN.

AMESBURY, Nov. 19.—John E. Chesley, a well-known farmer of the Allen's Corner district, was sandbagged last night on his way home. At a lonely spot on the Southampton road he was confronted by a man who ordered him to hold up his hands, and asked if he had any money.

"I haven't, but my brother has," he replied, whereupon the footpad struck at Mr. Chesley with a sandbag. He missed the victim's head but struck his right shoulder, although the blow did not knock Mr. Chesley down.

The highwayman at once ran off and escaped in the woods. His victim gave the police a good description of the fellow, who was about 5 feet, 8 inches tall and smooth faced. The police are confident that a man whom they suspect will prove to be the guilty party.

MASTER PAINTERS

ENTERTAINED THE EXECUTIVE BOARD OF STATE BODY.

The executive board of the Master Painters and Decorators of Massachusetts were the guests last evening of the Master Painters and Decorators of Lowell at their rooms, 40 Central street.

After a short business session of the executive board, called for the purpose of making arrangements for the fourteenth annual convention of the Massachusetts association, which is to be held in the American house in Boston on the 11th and 12th of January. It was stated that the program for the occasion had been duly completed.

After the business meeting was over a fine banquet was served at which the local president, Milo D. Clay, presided and short speeches were delivered by visiting officers and Lowell members.

The attendance of Lowell members was large. Among the guests entertained were: James Muncey, president of the state and also the Boston association; George W. Locke, of South Boston, vice president of the state association; W. E. Wall, of Somerville, secretary and treasurer of the state association and also of the national association; C. F. W. Hanson, Geo. B. Agnew, C. Forsberg, W. H. Naylor, R. Rose, Charles F. Smith and H. O. Goodwin, members of the Boston association; N. G. Edwards, M. A. Foley and J. Leo McDonald, all of Cambridge; E. Hough, J. S. Norris and J. A. Manley of Newton; W. A. Houston, George H. Brawn, John Renaud, Frank Renaud, James Hargraves, A. Blanchette, Walter Blythe and E. L. Kidd of Lawrence.

Mr. Clay is a member of the executive board.

ALEXANDER GERVAIS A MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY.

Alexander Gervais, aged 30 years who until last June lived at the boarding house of George E. De-Bets in Paige street for the past nine years is the unhappy victim of relentless immigration laws. Last June Gervais who is not a naturalized citizen went over to England and becoming "broke" became a stowaway on a vessel bound for this country. Upon arriving here he was held up as a pauper and though he protested that he had lived in Lowell for nine years he was sent back. Since then he has made two more trips over only to be sent back again. Last month he wrote to Lawyer Guillet from Boston but before the attorney's reply reached the Hub Gervais had been shipped again. Since that time, Oct. 9, he has not been heard from. Mr. Guillet is now interested in the case and will attempt to get him a landing if he appears here again. If Gervais could save up $40 and then come over he would be allowed to land, but he appears to be "broke" every time he strikes the country.

STOWELL SHOT

Democratic Candidate for Alderman Victim of Accident

Word was received in this city this forenoon that Frank Stowell, democratic candidate for alderman, was accidentally shot at Biddeford, Me., this morning. Mr. Stowell went to Maine on a hunting trip a few days ago. His partner, C. M. Young, undertaker, when asked relative to the shooting said it was a trivial affair. He said he was not acquainted with the details of it.

BATTLE RAGING

Japanese and Russian Armies in Fierce Combat

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 19.—It is reported that a battle between the two armies below Mukden is in full swing. The war office does not confirm the rumor, though it admits that the activity all along the lines indicates that both armies are ready. The Russians, according to General Kuropatkin's report, are pressing the Japanese left, while a very significant movement of the Japanese is reported at Shihshatin, forty-five miles east of Mukden. A special correspondent, telegraphing under last night's date, says the battle has begun and that the thunder of the guns is unceasing.

GENERAL ATTACK EXPECTED BY RUSSIANS

MUKDEN, Friday, Nov. 18., via Pekin, Nov. 19.—A severe artillery fire was opened on the Russian right commencing at daylight today and lasting for several hours.

There was also intermittent firing during the day. The Russians are expecting a general attack on the part of the Japanese.

HEROIC TEACHER

Rushed Into Icy Pond to Save Pupil

A sad drowning accident occurred at Nabnasset pond in West Chelmsford yesterday afternoon in which the victim was little James Laria, aged eight years, and the son of Joseph Laria who keeps a boarding house at the Fletcher quarry. Miss Emma Holt, a school teacher who was attracted to the scene, made a daring attempt to rescue the youngster as she waded into the icy water at the risk of her own life, but she came too late as when she reached the boy life was extinct.

The lad had just been dismissed from school together with the other pupils, and in company with a playmate, Morick Perkins, aged six years, went down to the pond. The Perkins boy remained on the shore but the little Laria boy went out on the thin ice. He had gone a distance of about twenty-five feet when he started to slide, but either his weight was too much for the ice or else he stepped into an opening, for he went through the ice and into the cold waters of the pond.

The Perkins lad ran to the schoolhouse and told the teacher, Miss Emma Holt, who hastened to the edge of the pond and dashed into the water breaking the ice as she went. On reaching the spot where the boy went down she lifted the body in her arms but alas it was limp and lifeless. She carried the body ashore where by artificial respiration she tried to restore life, but though she worked over him for a long time her efforts were unrewarded.

Dr. Varney of Chelmsford, who was sent for immediately by the teacher, said on his arrival that everything had been done that he himself could have done, and he commended Miss Holt in the highest terms for her bravery and skill.

The boy was carried to the Moore farmhouse, a short distance away, and was later removed to the home of his parents, by Undertaker O'Donnell.

Miss Holt is a daughter of Henry Holt of West Chelmsford, and is but 20 years of age. This is her first term teaching the school.

OFFICER KILLED

He Attempted to Address Mutineers

RIO JANEIRO, Nov. 19.—The battalion of infantry stationed at Bahi mutinied yesterday at the instigation of a sub-lieutenant, according to a telegram received here. The commanding officer attempted to address the men but was shot dead by the ringleader with a revolver. Other troops then charged the mutineers and order was restored.

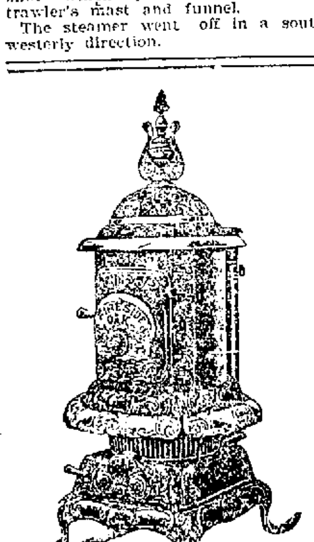

The sub-lieutenant who instigated the mutiny was fatally wounded and has since died.

BRIEF SESSION

HELD BY BOARD OF TRADE COMMISSION.

HULL, Eng., Nov. 19.—In consequence of further arrivals of trawlers from Dogger bank this morning the board of trade commission of inquiry into the North sea incident held a brief session today. The only evidence of any moment was a statement made by the mate of the trawler Kennet to the effect that a 7 o'clock in the morning after the accident a two-masted, two funnelled steamer approached the Kennet and fired a shot which passed between the trawler's mast and funnel.

The steamer went off in a southwesterly direction.

CHILD IS DEAD

Drank Some Liquid From a Bottle

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Nov. 19.—Theresa Fisher, the five-year-old daughter of a resident of Kittery, died today as the result of drinking some liquid from a bottle which she picked up while at play yesterday. Another child which took some of the substance from the bottle also, is alive and will recover.

CANDIDATES HUSTLED

TO GET IN FINAL LICKS THIS AFTERNOON.

The candidates for office who have caucus fights on their hands were out this afternoon getting in their final licks. Constable McManus blossomed forth with a pony carriage driven by a boy, the horses bearing the inscription: "Vote for McManus, the children's friend." James G. Hill had out another team asking the voters to vote for him, but one of the signs read: "James B. Hill."

NATIONAL GRANGE

HAS PROPERTY VALUED AT $80,500.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 19.—The report of the executive committee of the national grange, which is now in session in this city, shows that the affairs of the organization are in a prosperous condition. The property owned by the Grange at present is valued at $80,600, an increase of $9,293.

The executive committee thinks that the powers now conferred upon the interstate commerce committee are not ample enough and the legislation necessary to enlarge its powers, is recommended. The report endorses the parcels posts and condemns the effort being made to repeal the Grout oleomargarine bill. The committee recommends that the Grange adopt resolutions at this session favoring direct election of United States senators. The report closes by re-endorsing Congressman Currier's bill, providing for federal aid in building roads, which is before Congress and in emphatic terms denounces the trusts and urges the endorsement of present laws and the enacting of new ones.

FRIENDS RAISED THE MONEY FOR PASTOR SQUIRES.

BROOKFIELD, Nov. 19—Rev. W. P. Squires, pastor of the First Baptist church of East Brookfield, who was sentenced by Judge Wm. T. Forbes of the Worcester probate court yesterday for contempt of court in writing a letter to the judge discussing a case upon which a decision had not been given is at home again after a three hours' sojourn in jail. Rev. Mr. Squares was fined $50, but on his statement that he was unable to pay it he was committed to jail for 30 days. Friends however, have paid the fine and the pastor is at liberty.

GOVERNOR BATES

SAYS HIS CAMPAIGN COST HIM $650.

BOSTON, Nov. 19—The first expense return on account of the city primary was filed yesterday by John E. Cotter of ward 24-25, republican nominee for the board of aldermen, stating: "Not one single cent." The report was dated Nov. 18.

State election accounts filed Thursday and yesterday show that Governor Bates contributed $500 to the republican state committee, $100 to the republican city committee, and $50 to the Massachusetts republican club; Oliver Stevens, $50 to the democratic committee of Chelsea; William Taylor, nominee for the senate from the 3d Suffolk district, $150 each to wards 2, 6 and 8 democratic committees.

omic or conservative citizen for the entire scheme can be so financed that it will not cost the city of Lowell a cent. A suitable structure can be put upon this lot that would not cost when completed more than $200,000, including the price of the land. But even if something more elaborate is decided upon it would be unnecessary to expend more than $250,000 for the complete structure. The city of Lowell could arrange for the issue of a series of bonds to be known as the Public Buildings Bonds to bear interest at 3½ per cent, and to run for a period of thirty years. An issue of such bonds amounting to $250,000 could be disposed of in the city of Lowell within one week among the various banks and financial institutions of the city. In any event it would be easy to dispose of them outside of the city at par and possibly above par.

The rental from the public market stalls and for the use of the halls when not engaged for public purposes, would easily take care of the bonds and the interest on the same. The sum of about $7,000 could be set aside from the net earnings each year to provide for a sinking fund and $9000 per year would easily take care of the interest account.

This would require a net income of only $16,000 a year from the entire building. This, as any conservative man will allow, is extremely moderate. Indeed, we believe the enterprise would pay an annual profit of ten per cent. to the city, besides taking care of all its obligations, and at the end of thirty years not only would the city receive the benefit of this annual dividend but would be presented with a beautiful structure free of cost, and the citizens of Lowell would meanwhile enjoy the benefits of a grand combination of halls and a public market that would save on an average from 10 to 15 per cent. in the provision bills of every household in the city that may see fit to avail of its advantages.

If there is any objection to the market in connection with the halls, that feature might be dispensed with, and the halls could be made to pay the entire expense. If necessary, stores could be rented on the first floor as was formerly done by the city at old city hall, and a goodly sum could be realized by any of the proposed systems.

NO GRAFT IN IT.

Another feature that should appeal to thinking citizens is the fact that there need be no graft or corruption in this proposition. A commission might be appointed by the mayor to consist of seven reputable, responsible and capable citizens of this city. Seven such men can easily be found who would be glad to give our citizens the benefit of their business talents free of cost. Our past experience with commissions has been most satisfactory. Our city hall commission covered itself with glory and performed a public service that will stand to their credit as long as our city hall and memorial buildings shall endure. The city hall commission served without salary, and it has been said that the structures erected under their charge were built and furnished at about one-half the cost paid for similar buildings in other cities the size of Lowell.

Our library commission is another proof that commissions made up of responsible citizens working without salary are most desirable. The record of the commissioners of the city library is an honorable one. So it is with our park commission, which is giving to the citizens of Lowell more for their money than they ever obtained under previous methods. So it would be in the case of a public building commission. They would see to it that the new hall was erected economically and according to the most modern designs. These commissioners might also be empowered to look after the building, to provide all the necessary supplies and service going with the care of the building. They would also arrange for the renting of the market stalls and in this there would be no possibility of graft or corruption, as it would be a simple matter to have the stalls auctioned off for periods of from two to five years to the highest bidder. With a wideawake auctioneer such as Conant or Keyes to conduct these public competitions there would be no chance for favoritism or trickery of any kind in renting stalls to those who offered most for them and guaranteed to comply with the conditions of their lease.

Property in the vicinity of the proposed building is earning about $1.00 a square foot per year. If the market earned about one-half this rate it would take care of all the bonded obligations without the necessity of deriving a cent's income from the halls on the upper floor. The scheme is feasible from every point of view. The question is, will the people of Lowell seize the opportunity. They have not been as vigilant in such matters in previous years as they might have been. All that is necessary is to arouse a little public spirit, and the movement will be started in a way that will prove satisfactory and beneficial to all the citizens of the city. Mr. White no doubt would sell the property for public use at a reasonable price, and the city could well afford to pay him a liberal price. If he insists on more than a reasonable price the city government would be justified in condemning the lot for public purposes and seizing it by right of eminent domain. This would compel the owner to accept judgment from a sheriff's jury or the courts on a reasonable appraisal of the land and buildings.

ONLY ONE OBJECTION.

Since the subject was first broached we have heard but one objection, and that comes from people who are supposed to be interested in the barroom now located on the north east corner of the lot. As far as the people of Lowell are concerned we do not think it would be a terrible calamity if that barroom were wiped off the face of the earth. The proprietor might move to some other locality, of course, but when we consider some of the sights we have witnessed through the front windows of this same saloon and the more deplorable sights of women running in and out of the rear entrance on French street we do not think there would be any public protest if the saloon were moved a little farther north and relocated in the bottom of the adjoining canal.

There might be some objection from storekeepers who would consider this a competition against stores that are now rented as meat and provision markets, but experience in other cities shows that stores formerly used at the low rate necessary for meat and provision markets are turned to other uses at an increased rental to the owners.

From every point of view, therefore, the proposition is a feasible one, and the location is all that could be desired. The opportunity is a grand one for the city of Lowell if our city officials or our public-spirited citizens only grasp it without delay.

BILL IN EQUITY

Cotton Wants Pay For Services

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—John B. Cotton, the attorney who procured the award of the Massachusetts claim of $1,611,740.85, and now demands ten per cent. of that sum for his services, filed a bill in equity in the supreme court of the District of Columbia this morning, as soon as Attorney-General Moody's opinion was made known. It had been decided that Cotton must turn his warrant over to the state and then go into court for his re-embursement. The bill which Mr. Cotton filed seeks to enjoin the secretary of the treasury from issuing the duplicate draft that Mr. Moody proposed that he should do unless Cotton turned the original over to the state. The court it is believed by lawyers here, would not issue any restraining order on the secretary of the treasury. The form would rather be an order enjoining the claimant from receiving the draft; but many lawyers say that the secretary of the treasury would respect the filing of a bill, out of courtesy to the court, and permit the case to go to trial. This would bring the question directly before the equity judge as to the right of the state of Massachusetts to a duplicate draft. Unless he rendered a decision that was satisfactory to both sides, an appeal could be taken to the court of appeals and then to the supreme court of the United States. This is evidently Mr. Cotton's line of policy, from the action he has taken in this matter.

It has been the custom for years for the secretary of the treasury to turn warrants over to the attorney for the claimant, when he is a man of good standing. It is not only convenient, but it provides reasonable security for the attorney's fees. There was a Lowell, Mass., case some years ago in which a question came up about the delivery of the draft; and questions have arisen, when the attorney had died, as to whether the administrator of his estate at home, or some specially appointed representative here should receive the draft. When Secretary Sherman came in he tried to change this practice of paying drafts to the attorneys, but for some reason the treasury soon went back to the old policy.

LIVES IN PERIL

Many Barely Escaped Runaway Horses

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Four big work horses unhampered by harness of any kind save three short halters which attached them one to the other, dashing madly down crowded sidewalks on Third avenue and Twenty-third street today sent terror to the hearts of hundreds of persons. That no one was injured or any serious damage done by the runaways before their mad career was checked is considered remarkable.

The horses had been taken from a sales stable and were being led down Third avenue when they became frightened by the roar of an elevated train overhead and broke into a wild run. The halter was jerked from the hands of the stableman and without restraint of any kind the fear maddened animals swung onto the crowded sidewalk and dashed down the avenue. Warned by the sounds of iron shod hoofs on the sidewalks, pedestrians fled for their lives and many succeeded in reaching protecting doorways or other places of safety without an instant to spare.

The horses finally were captured before any serious damage had been done.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of James A. Garfield, Women's Relief Corps, No. 33, was held Thursday afternoon, Nov. 17. In the evening the Corps celebrated its 21st anniversary.

The department vice-president, Mrs. Ralph, was present, also Past President Mrs. Proctor of Medway. At seven o'clock Post 120 and invited guests sat down to a bountiful supper, under the direction of Mrs. Crawford, after which an entertainment of much merit was given under the direction of Mrs. Hattie Whitney, which was very much enjoyed. A sketch of the organization and work of the corps for 21 years was given by Mrs. Tuttle and was very interesting. Stirring speeches were given by Mrs. Ralph, Mrs. Louise Blood, Mrs. Elizabeth Bean, the several clergymen, Commander Cragin and Comrade Ripley. The evening was interspersed with fine music and the whole was enjoyable.

At a business meeting of the Molly Varnum chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, the following executive committee was appointed to represent the chapter at the coming U. A. R. bazaar to be held in Boston, Dec. 13, 14 and 15: Miss Abbie Davis, chairman; Mrs. Joshiah French, Mrs. George F. Richardson, Mrs. Charles E. Howe, Mrs. Solon Stevens, Miss Marion Keyes, Mrs. Charles E. Paige, Mrs. John P. Horner, Mrs. Walter Parker, Mrs. H. C. Fuller, Mrs. Charles E. Paige is assistant chairman, Mrs. Solon Stevens treasurer, Mrs. John P. Horner secretary.

Passenconaway tribe's meeting last night was well attended. The committee on banquet reported that all of the great chiefs of the great council of Massachusetts and Deputy Great Sachem John L. Orr, and prominent men of the city will be present. Hibbard's orchestra will furnish music and the menu will be one that will tickle the palate of our Red Brothers. Everything will be done to make the 18th anniversary, Dec. 2, a memorable one.

The degree staff rehearsed the Hunters and Warriors' degree. Other routine business was transacted.

At the close of the council fire a social hour was enjoyed.

LOSS IS $25,000

Disastrous Blaze in Bristol, N. H.

BRISTOL, N. H., Nov. 19.—A disastrous fire which threatened to wipe out the entire business section of this town, destroyed eight buildings yesterday, causing a loss of $25,000, with partial insurance. Franklin sent a steamer, which materially aided in subduing the blaze. The fire was discovered in the large crutch factory of Calley & Currier and spread rapidly. This building, together with an additional building occupied by the same company, the saw mill owned by Charles P. George, and occupied by Homer H. Hutchinson, two tenement houses owned by the Blake heirs, and E. Dearborn, respectively, and a building owned by Albert Blake, were destroyed. The flames leaped across the river and set fire to the machine shop of C. W. Holmes and to the wood working shop of F. E. Wells, both of which were burned to the ground. Calley & Currier carried no insurance on their factory but most of the other losses are partly covered by insurance.

KEAN FOUND DEAD

Was a Character of the Tenderloin

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Thomas Kean, one of the characters of the tenderloin, whose profession was unique, has been found dead in his Sixth avenue office.

Kean was known as "the black eye artist". He made a business of treating damaged optics by painting over the discoloration and had a great following which covered all classes of society.

The police took charge of the office when his body was found and were kept busy sending away callers. First came a rounder who had been on a night's spree and been badly bruised in a fight. Last came an apparently wealthy woman, heavily veiled. She had sustained a blackened eye in an automobile accident and was greatly chagrined because her beauty could not be restored so that she might attend the horse show.

JURY DISAGREED

IN A WILL CASE IN LAWRENCE, MASS.

LAWRENCE, Nov. 19.—The jury reported a disagreement yesterday in the superior court case of Josiah B. Smith against his sister, Mrs. Annie V. Burnham, to compel her to give him the share he would have received of his mother's estate if she had left no will, and the claim that his mother directed Mrs. Burnham to destroy her will and that the latter pretended to do so.

DETAILS OF ORGIES

IN WHICH SOCIETY PEOPLE TOOK PART.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Sensational details of the orgies of alleged Chicago society people during the week-end parties at the fashionable South Bay hotel, just across the Indiana state line, were recounted before a jury yesterday in the Laporte county court. The Indiana Harbor Improvement society, which owns the hotel, is suing Miss Bertha Crittenden for possession, alleging violation of lease.

Testimony of George Echriner and James Slinon supported the allegation of the plaintiffs that the South Bay hotel had become a rendezvous for sporty Chicagoans, desirous of getting away from the city for a "quiet fling". Stories were told of banquets, attended by both sexes, at which the carousals extended over Sunday.

Once a gilded Chicago youth climbed on a table and bathed his feet in champagne. The witnesses told of an alleged minister being brought to the hotel to conduct services, as a result of which he was sent to a drink cure institution. The case is being bitterly contested and is expected to be on trial two weeks.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE OF TWO PIECES OF REALTY. LOT OF LAND CONTAINING ABOUT 5931 SQUARE FEET, ON THE WESTERLY SIDE OF FOSTER STREET; ALSO A DWELLING HOUSE AND ABOUT 3650 SQUARE FEET OF LAND AT NO. 9 WARNOCK STREET, TEWKSBURY.

Pursuant to a power of sale granted me as administrator of this estate, I will absolutely make sale of the above two parcels of realty, in order to make a settlement in the estate.

At 2.30 o'clock

Lot of land situated on the westerly side of Foster street, containing about 5931 square feet. It is a level and dry lot, has fine elevation, is clustered with many beautiful residences, concrete walk and curbing all set in, and it is a very grand, pronounced building site. The frontage on Warnock street is about 57 feet, has all city conveniences leading to same, is but one minute's walk to Westford street electric car line; it is of the right size, and is well adapted for mostly any kind of a building.

TERMS: $100 will be required as a deposit, and must be paid to the auctioneer as soon as the property is struck off.

At 3.30 o'clock

I will make sale under the same conditions, of a dwelling house and about 3650 square feet of land at No. 9 Warnock street. This is a prime, good parcel of realty, as it is in very good condition. It sets on the brow of the hill, on the southerly side of Warnock street, this street running from Billerica street this side of the Salem & Lowell tracks, to Whitehead street. The house contains seven rooms, has been somewhat improved recently, and to a man of moderate means, it would mean a snug, cosy, little mansion. It is surrounded by very good neighbors, who own their own places, and on the whole, is a very pretty and desirable place for a small home. The lot has a frontage of about 45 feet on Warnock street, it is of good size, is all fenced in, and is high and dry. Now, if you have a small amount of capital which you wish to invest, no better small piece of property could you invest in that this I am going to sell you. The sale will be an absolute one, and the highest bidder will purchase the property.

TERMS: $250 must be paid or secured to the auctioneer, as soon as the property is struck off.

POSITIVE SALE OF A FOUR-TENEMENT HOUSE NUMBERING 73 AND 75 SUMMER STREET, HOUSE NUMBERING 47 DAVIS STREET, AND ABOUT 4522 SQUARE FEET OF LAND IN ONE PARCEL.

As two-thirds of my time is spent away from the city, I feel it is an obligation I owe myself to dispose of the above property, thereby relieving my mind of that care and responsibility which certainly confronts any woman who has real estate to look after. Therefore, at the appointed time and place, I have engaged Mr. C. F. Keyes to sell at public auction, in one parcel, these two houses on Davis and Summer streets, situated on the corner lot, containing an area of about 4522 sq. ft., with a frontage on Summer St. of about 65 ft., and on Davis St. of about 82 ft. The house on Summer St. containing four tenements of five rooms each, has the best of sewerage, is well appointed with large rooms and very convenient. It has a very good class of tenants who pay their rents weekly, and it is seldom a tenement is idle; it rents at the present time for about $468 a year. The house on Davis street contains 10 rooms and is rented to one family, who pay $16 per month in advance, making a total rental of the entire property of about $660 a year. This property has paid me handsomely, with the little care I have given it, but it is the constant running up and back that wears on me, and my mind is fully set now, to sell to the highest bidder, regardless of any and all conditions, at the time and day set for sale. The location is all that could be desired for tenement property, as it is in a thickly settled part, close to factories, schools, churches, the city's centre, and has every conceivable want for the class of property that it is.

TERMS: $500 must be paid or secured to the auctioneer, as soon as the property is struck off; other terms will be made known at sale.

THE WELL-KNOWN HILAND FARM ON MAMMOTH ROAD, IN RICHARDSON SQUARE, DRACUT, MASS. THE FIRST PARCEL CONSISTS OF A HOUSE, BARN AND ABOUT 19 ACRES OF LAND. THE SECOND PARCEL, SITUATED OPPOSITE THE HOMESTEAD, WITH A LARGE FRONTAGE ON THE MAMMOTH AND NASHUA ROADS, CONTAINS ABOUT 14 ACRES.

Immediately after selling the real estate, shall sell 8 cows, 1 bull, about 40 hens, 2 small lots of hay, farm wagon, market wagon, one-horse dump cart, open buggy, and all implements used in connection with the farm.

I am about to start into business in the city, and this is my only reason for offering the farm for sale. It has always given me a good living, and it is sure to do the same for the purchaser. I have absolutely pledged it to the auctioneer, to be sold, on the day advertised, regardless of the weather, for the best bid. With the homestead lot is the house, barn and about 18 acres of land. The house is a cosy little cottage of 7 rooms, and is in good repair inside and out. There is also a large woodshed in the rear of the house. The barn has accommodation for 10 head of cattle, 3 horses and plenty of room for the storage of hay and grain. Adjoining the barn are 2 carriage sheds and in the rear a good sized hennery. The lot which contains about 19 acres has a large frontage on the Mammoth road, with abundance of fruit and shade trees and it is divided up into fields by good stone walls. There are parts of it excellent hay land and parts of it well cultivated. I think this an excellent opportunity for some one who is looking for a small farm near the city.

The second parcel which is nearly opposite the homestead contains about 14 acres of land, and has a large frontage on the Mammoth and Nashua roads. There is good pasture with a brook running through. There is a small pine grove, all the front land on the Mammoth road is well cultivated, and in all, it is an excellent piece of land. I have refused two or three very good offers for this lot within the last two years.

The above two parcels are located about two miles from Pawtucket bridge, about half a mile from the Collinsville mills, and about a mile and one-half from Lakeview. The Pelham cars pass the premises every half hour, and it is but a five-cent ride to the city. This property adjoins the well-known Richardson Beaver Brook farm in Richardson square, Dracut, Mass. If you want to locate in the country, this is your opportunity. It will pay intending purchasers to look these premises over, as it may be some time before you get a chance of this kind again.

Terms: Deposits of $300 on the homestead lot and $150 on the 14 acres, will be required, and must be paid or secured to the auctioneer as soon as they are struck off; personal property CASH.

By the order of J. J. HILAND,
JOHN W. McEVOY, Attorney.
